DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECTS UNSCATHED IN N.E.

IT WAS the Republicans' election in Vermont and Connecticut, where President Nixon lent campaign prestige, but Democrat presidential prospects in Maine and Massachusetts went unscathed as final returns dribbled in Wednesday. New England otherwise retained its pre-election balance in governorships and Capitol Hill delegates, although there were a few surprises. The Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., won the 3rd District Congressional seat as an antiwar Democrat in Massachusetts, becoming the first Roman Catholic priest ever to be named to Congress. Another Democrat peace candidate, Gerry Studds, was defeated narrowly by Rep. Hastings Keith in the 12th District Massachusetts race. In Connecticut, the GOP swept out 16 years of Democratic rule by capturing the Senate seat of Democrat Thomas J. Dodd and the governorship. In Vermont, Sen. Winston L. Prouty was easily re-elected to a third term over Democratic former Gov. Philip H. Hoff. The White House virtually ignored the candidacies of Sens. Edmund S. Muskie in Maine and Edward M. Kennedy in Massachusetts, and the returns showed it. Muskie, front runner in the 1972 speculation for the presidential nomination, and Kennedy both rolled up 62 per cent margins over their Republican challengers. Liberal Republican Josiah A. Spaulding complained he received no White House support in his fight to unseat Kennedy, whose post-Chappaquiddick vote margin was seen as leaving his options open in 1972 despite his avowals he will serve a full six-year term. Kennedy's margin, however, failed to carry Boston Mayor Kevin White to victory in his bid to oust Gov. Francis W. Sargent, a Republican. Congressional seats and governorships remained with the former party ownership in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, although a recount was likely in the close win of Maine Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, a Democrat, over Attorney General James S. Erwin. Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., had an easy time defeating his GOP challenger, the Rev. John McLaughlin, a Catholic priest, while Democratic Gov. Frank Litch clung to a narrow lead over GOP contender Herbert DeSimone. Outcome of that Rhode Island race will not be final until the absentee ballots are in. One of the new House faces will be that of Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, a Democrat city councilor who coasted to victory in the 9th District race to succeed retiring House Speaker John W. McCormack. She attained fame in 1967 as an opponent of school busing.

REPUBLICANS, DEMOCRATS BOTH FIND SOMETHING TO CHEER

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS both found something to cheer about Wednesday, but it was clear that the Democrats had thwarted President Nixon's off-year campaign blitz with critical election gains that brightened their hopes for 1972. The key was a dramatic comeback in the governorships, strengthening the Democratic Party's organizational power base for the next presidential election and its influence over redrawing of congressional and state legislative districts for the next 10 years. The President's political strategists claimed victory in holding traditional midterm losses to a minimum and building a workable majority of senators more responsive to White House policies. But Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said this was discounted by "nothing short of a fantastic Democratic gain," particularly among governors where his party regained majority control. The Republicans went into Tuesday's election with a 32-18 edge in governors, and holding seven most populous states except Texas. The Democrats held Texas while ousting the GOP in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Florida, for a net gain of 10 state houses and a narrow lead in Alaska. Republicans took 12 of the 35 governorships at stake and were leading in Michigan and Rhode Island. In the Senate the GOP made a net gain of one seat — six short of majority control — with Indiana's contest still undecided. Democrats increased their grip on the House with a gain of six seats, while races still undecided in Alaska, Kentucky and North Dakota. Chairman O'Brien said: "We have, in short, recaptured the electoral base that is vital to winning the White House in 1972."

NIXON HAILS ELECTION'S EFFECT ON FOREIGN POLICY

PRESIDENT NIXON said Wednesday the results of the Congressional elections have "greatly strengthened" his hand in conducting the nation's foreign policy. "The President can now speak with a stronger voice because he has stronger support in the Senate," Nixon told newsmen gathered outside his Western White House office in San Clemente, Calif. "We now have a working majority in both the Senate and the House for foreign policy and national defense," Nixon said. The President said he now enjoys a majority of four in the Senate. That figure includes lawmakers of both parties who support the administration on foreign policy matters. "I would call this a victory," Nixon said. He conceded that Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien claimed victory as a result of Democratic wins in gubernatorial elections. The President said O'Brien's claim was "with some justification." Nixon said he was "very happy" that the Republicans retained the state house in California and New York, and that the senatorial election results "will not go unnoticed abroad." He did not elaborate, but he apparently meant that Hanoi would realize his position was strengthened.

MAINE RECOUNT OF GUBERNATORIAL VOTE SEEMS INEVITABLE

A RECOUNT of the gubernatorial vote in Maine appeared virtually certain Wednesday as Democratic incumbent Kenneth M. Curtis hung on to a precarious lead. Curtis and his opponent, Republican Attorney General James S. Erwin, returned to their pre-campaign chores to await the final outcome of a vigorous campaign. With 618 of 629 precincts reporting, Curtis held a slim 972 vote lead out of an unofficial gubernatorial vote of 324,388. Secretary of State Joseph T. Edgar met with representatives of opposing camps as reports of voting irregularities and challenges came in from several communities, notably Biddeford. The Attorney General's office was investigating prior to an expected ruling by Edgar on any recount request. Most of the 11 precincts reported missing were in Washington County, but votes from these communities were expected to narrow Curtis' edge even further, adding to the likelihood of a recount.

GEN. ASSEMBLY URGES 90-DAY EXTENSION OF MID-EAST TRUCE

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the United Nations Wednesday recommended a 90-day extension of the Middle East cease-fire and resumption of U.N.-sponsored peace talks. But the wording of the resolution was objected to by the United States and Israel as a "step backward" from peace. The move came just 28 hours before the current 90-day cease-fire was scheduled to expire. Afro-Asian nations in the United Nations sponsored the resolution. The U.S. and Israel opposed it on the ground it did not mention alleged Egyptian violations of the truce by placing Soviet anti-aircraft missiles near the Suez Canal.

Sargent, Kennedy, Fishman Are Top Vote-Getting Trio In City

Drinan To Congress; Guzzi And Malloy, Mann, Mofenson, Buckley Winners Here

Representative Irving Fishman defeated Mayor Monte Basbas by 6293 votes in their battle Tuesday for election as State Senator from the new senatorial district comprising Newton and Watertown.

Paul H. Guzzi of 9 Joseph road and David J. Mofenson of 780 Chestnut street are the two new State Representatives from Newton. In one of the surprises produced by the election day voting, Guzzi, a former Harvard football hero, ran ahead of Representative Paul F. Malloy.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy topped former Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah A. Spaulding by 7098 votes in Newton. Their totals were 20,980 for Ted Kennedy and 13,882 for Spaulding.

But a majority of Newton voters then crossed party lines and backed Governor Francis W. Sargent for a full four-year term in the Governorship, giving him a plurality of 9823 over Boston Mayor Kevin H. White in the city.

Governor Sargent rolled up 23,373 votes in Newton as compared to 13,550 for Mayor White. Mr. Sargent, incidentally, was the high vote-getter in Newton.

Newton was one of the few communities in Massachusetts where the vote favoring an immediate withdrawal of our troops from Vietnam was greater than for the phased withdrawal.

However, the combined total of those advocating that we fight until we achieve a military victory in Vietnam and of those supporting a phased withdrawal was greater in Newton than the vote for an immediate withdrawal.

The Newton vote on the three alternatives listed on the ballot for ending the war in Vietnam was 13,011 for an immediate withdrawal of our forces, 11,457 for a phased withdrawal and 2272 for a military victory.

The 6458-vote plurality given Father Robert F. Drinan in Newton helped him to become the first Catholic priest ever elected to Congress.

Newton gave 19,587 votes to Father Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School; 13,129 to Republican Representative John McGlennon of Concord and 2415 write-in votes to veteran Congressman Philip J. Philbin who was ousted from office by Father Drinan.

Newton voted against a proposed change in the State Constitution which would have permitted industrial, business and residential properties to be placed in different

Ask Further Study On Occupancy Plan

A proposed new ordinance for the city of Newton that would require an occupancy permit before an apartment or home that is vacated could be re-occupied was sent back to the Legislation Rules Committee of the Board of Aldermen for further study on Monday night.

The proposed ordinance, which had received the approval of the Legislation and Rules Committee, stemmed from a resolution submitted by Alderman

Michael Lipof which had asked for a certificate of occupancy on every sub-standard housing unit before it could be re-rented after a vacancy occurred.

However, Legislation and Rules Committee Chairman Eliot Cohen, explained that the City Solicitor regarded this as a possibly arbitrary law, and therefore if it were approved it should apply to all dwelling units in the city

Candle-lighting Ceremony To Mark Library Birthday

Newtonites are making their reservations now via 100 different esoteric modes of travel for the 100th birthday party of the Newton Free Library, to be celebrated at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, on Monday evening, November 9, promptly at 7 p.m.

Via unicycle, bicycle and bime, by horseback, horse and buggy, and by dune buggy, by little red wagon, wagonlit and Conestoga wagon, local residents will gather when Harry Ellis Dickson of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, author of "More, More, Please, Gentlemen," salutes 100 years of good library service in Newton at a candle-lighting ceremony in Chaffin Hall.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has been invited to light the first candle, and he will be joined by 100 representatives of civic societies who will also light candles symbolizing all phases of city government, schools, clubs and societies, neighborhood groups, philanthropic associations local newspapers and radio stations — all organizations which properly come together at the Library, repository of and dispenser of information for the community.

Sargent's Win Over White Rates Him With GOP Greats

The political pundits for some time to come will be offering their reasons for the resounding victory won by Governor Francis W. Sargent and the defeat suffered by Boston Mayor Kevin H. White.

Sargent deserves a place with the State's great Republican vote-getters of modern history. His name belongs with those of John A. Volpe, Christian A. Herter and Eliot L. Richardson, all of whom have won remarkable victories.

No Action On NRA $18,000 Land Bid

An offer by the Newton Redevelopment Authority to purchase a parcel of land in the Newton Lower Falls urban renewal area from the City of Newton for $18,000 was sent back to committee for further study by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night.

The 21,400 square foot parcel of land is part of the federally aided portion of the proposed redevelopment project for Newton Lower Falls.

Edward C. Uehlein, chairman of the aldermanic Finance Committee, told the board that the piece of land is "landlocked" and therefore of no great value for other purposes. It is on this site that apartment housing is planned, "if and when the project gets off the ground," Uehlein said. The hilly site will be terraced, he said.

Alderman William Carmen stated that he understood the need for the proposed use of this land, but he was "deeply concerned" about the price. "The city ought to receive full value for this land based on its projected use, which is for low and moderate income housing," Carmen said.

"However, there is a lot of fill on this land and there is practically no fill left in the city, and we ought to get the value of the land and the value of the fill, Carmen added.

He reported that he was awaiting a report from the city engineer as to the value of the fill on the land and asked that the matter be held by the board until the information is available.

Uehlein noted that the land has been appraised and approved by the federal government. In addition, he said, contracts for building on the land would be under the supervision of Newton's Commissioner of Public Works. The fill would belong to the city

2 Concerts Next Week By Newton Symphony Artists

The Newton Symphony is slated to give two concerts within the coming week. In addition to its concert Sunday evening November 15 at the Meadowbrook Jr. High School, the orchestra has again been asked to perform at Mt. Wachusett Community College by enthusiastic residents of Gardner who have no symphony of their own.

Having a symphony in Newton offers many unique advantages to Newton residents. Cognizant of the nearness to Boston with its fine professional symphony, the Newton Symphony under its music director, Michel Sasson, has set its musical sites very high and has been called a "truly outstanding" group by Boston critic Harry Neville.

Mr. Sasson, with great imagination consistently has programmed concert performances with works of historical significance as well as entertainment value which are not heard everyday in Boston. Just such a work is the Wellington Seig and Victory Symphony of Beethoven.

The work sometimes referred to as the "battle Symphony" enjoyed great popular success during Beethoven's lifetime but is today seldom heard in concert halls. Beethoven himself conducted the work on the same program as his premiere performance of his seventh symphony which Mr. Sasson has also selected for his November 15 presentation.

Another advantage to Newton's concert audience is the nearness to home with elimination of both big city traffic congestion and related parking problems.

Ticket prices are commensurate with the cost of a movie in town yet included in the symphony ticket price is a reception following the concert to which every member of the concert audience is invited.

In the past audiences and members of the orchestra have found this a most pleasant way to exchange thoughts on their common musical interests and to meet soloists in a congenial atmosphere.

The November 15 will be a most outstanding one both in its selections which also include the Beethoven "Romances in F and G" with world famous Denes Zsigmondy the featured violin soloist. Mr. Zsigmondy will also play the Ravel "Tzigane" at the concert.

For ticket information call 244-0011 or 449-0164. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door. Persons wishing to subscribe to the series consisting of three Sunday evening concerts, Nov. 15, Feb. 28 and May 16 at a reduced rate may make arrangements for reserved seats by calling 449-0164. A selection of good reserved seats is still available.

Airman Finishes Texas AFB Course

Airman William R. Haley, of 54 Anthony Circle, Newton, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the technical training course for U.S. Air Force telephone equipment installers.

Airman Haley, an Air National Guardsman, is returning to his Massachusetts ANG unit at Weymouth.

A 1968 graduate of Our Lady's High School, he attended Bentley College, and Newton Junior College.

Stoughton, and First Vice President John N. Sullivan; standing, Richard F. Foley, second vice president; and Fred Gibbons, Newton Kiwanis Club secretary.

G. DAVID NOONAN

Newton Man To Board Of Nat'l Assoc.

G. David Noonan, president of AAA Business Forms and Systems Co., Inc. of Newton, was re-elected to the Board of Directors of the National Business Forms Association during the recent 25th annual convention held in Palm Springs, Calif.

Noonan, who founded AAA Business Forms in 1957, will continue to serve as a director of the association's second in-house telephone equipment installers.

National Business Forms Association is the only non-profit trade association representing independent business forms manufacturing and distributing companies.

Mr. Noonan is a resident of Newton.

Measles Vaccine Is Available

The Newton Board of Health was notified by the State Division of Communicable Diseases that an ample supply of rubella vaccine will be made available to local boards of health for distribution to private physicians from the same depots currently stocking the measles, mumps and Sabin vaccines.

A Federal Grant and a price reduction made it possible for the State Department to buy a sufficient amount of the live, attenuated rubella vaccine, not only to take care of the needs of the School Immunization Program, but also to make the vaccine available to private physicians.

Health Problems And Pets Are Related In Our Times

The relationship between diseases of man and animals has been recognized for several thousand years, according to Dr. Sawyer of the Newton Health Department. Exchange of diseases increased when man began to use animals for food, clothing, shelter, recreation and transportation.

"Many present day health problems are byproducts of civilization. Exchange of bacteria and viruses has increased as populations of the human race and of domestic animals have grown," he said.

"Close contact with animals, long an occupational factor for livestock and meat producers, now has become common among urban dwellers, many of whom treat house pets as members of the immediate family.

"Current emphasis on camping and hunting has brought increasing numbers of people into contact with wildlife, he continued.

"Certain types of polio, echo and coxsackie viruses are found frequently in common animals including cows, dogs, rabbits, horses and goats. A study of dogs has revealed that some test animals harbor well over 100 different viruses," said Dr. Sawyer.

"There currently is a wide assortment of Federal and state codes specifying reporting of disease in domestic animals. These vary from no regulation at all to prosecution for misdemeanor if the owner fails to report a diseased animal.

"The trend to treat house pets as family members will result in more stringent laws and medical responsibilities for pet owners in the future.

"Meanwhile, it is recommended that pets treated as members of the family be accorded medical attention when they are ill — like other members of the family, and that bathing of pets, avoidance of mouth contact with pets, and washing of hands after handling pets should be practiced," Dr. Sawyer concluded.

New Honor Is Accorded Mary Switzer

Miss Mary E. Switzer, a native of Newton Upper Falls, last week was elected to the Board of the American-Korean Foundation in New York City. Miss Switzer is vice president and a member of the Board of the World Rehabilitation Fund, and head of the Fund's Washington, D.C. office. She is responsible for its relationship with the U.S. government.

Formerly administrator of the Social and Rehabilitation Service, Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), Miss Switzer carried on the largest administrative responsibility of any woman in the history of the U.S. government, unifying all the major welfare and rehabilitation programs of HEW.

Miss Switzer has received many awards, the first being the President's Certificate of Merit in 1945, which is the highest wartime award for civilians.

New Location For Curtain-Raiser . . .

Country Players Fall Opener To Be Shown On Pomroy House Stage

The Fall opener, "See How They Run," by The Country Players of Newton will have a new location for the curtain-raiser.

The initial offering of the season, a comedy of errors by Philip King, will be held at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, on consecutive Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 13-14 and Nov. 20-21, at 8:30 p.m.

The wild and woolly farce, directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill and produced by Mrs. Margaret Spicer Annis of Newtonville, will welcome the return of two veterans to the boards and the debut of a new personality to the community.

Blocks of tickets or the entire house with its seating capacity of approximately 150, are available at reduced rates to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising and enjoying the hilarity of the humor-laden free-for-all, with action described as both hectic and frantic.

A familiar face to Newton audiences, Arnold Felton was seen last season as the Chief of Police in "The Balcony," a role he recreated twice (as an entry and finalist) in the New England Theatre Conference Drama Festival at Brandeis University in May.

Other roles he has essayed include Joe Boyd in "Damn Yankees," Matthew Harrison Brady in "Inherit the Wind," J.B. Biggley in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," Inspector Levine in "Catch Me If You Can," Larry Hastings in "Bells Are Ringing" and in the two-character one-act "Dinner for One." He directed "Can Can" for the Players also and is a member of their Board of Trustees.

For the Hull community theatre group, he worked as producer, actor and director with the musical comedies "Guys and Dolls," "Wish You Were Here" and "Damn Yankees" among his credits.

Veteran actor Mort Nesson has appeared with the Players as Rogers in "Ten Little Indians," Father Kelleher in "Catch Me If You Can" and the jailer in "Can Can." Previous credits include his portrayals of Pappy Yokum in "L'il Abner" and the lead role in an original one-act play, "Just Around the Corner."

A newcomer to the Players and the community, Liz Bruce received her B.A. in Theatre Education at Emerson College, where she was featured as lead dancer in "Bells Are Ringing," "Wildcat," "South Pacific" and "Brigadoon," as well as being involved in innumerable workshop productions.

Her background includes 14 years of training in all types of dance and study in accordance and Hammond organ.

Among the productions in which she has served in the dual capacity of choreographer-director are "Bells Are Ringing," "Broadway Medley," "Peter Pan," "Here Comes the Showboat," "Happiness Is," "Patience," "Iolanthe," "Brigadoon," and a number of musical revues.

She has choreographed "Carousel," "Carnival," "Bye Bye Birdie," "Bells Are Ringing" and "Cabaret International," a cutting of five Broadway musicals.

Directorial credits include "Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton," "Peter Pan," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and the one-act plays "Overtones" and "Riders to the Sea."

A member of the Board of Directors of the Southborough Players, Mrs. Bruce assisted in the formation of the Hudson Boys Club Children's Theatre and served as teacher and coach to three Miss Marlboro's and second place winners in Miss Worcester and Little Miss New England contests.

Currently owner and operator of her own dance and drama workshop in Marlboro, she has taught dance extensively during the past decade and will direct the forthcoming production of "The Miracle Worker" for the Southborough Players.

The Players were founded in 1956 to develop, expand and assist theatre activity on community and educational levels in Newton.

Its purpose is to bring together those individuals who are active or interested in any and all phases of community theatre in order to make them aware of theatre activity on these levels; to foster and encourage interest and participation in the many facets of community theatre areas; to provide a medium for the exchange of information and ideas for mutual benefit; and to promote local interest in the dramatic arts.

President of the Players is Mrs. Marilyn Krassin of Newton Highlands. For additional information concerning individual memberships or theatre party sponsorship, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737 or 244-3507.

Open Discussion Tuesday

Civic Leaders Set Drug Meeting Here

A battery of Newton professional and community leaders will participate in an open discussion on "What Are We Doing About For Those of Our Children Who are Using Drugs?" — What Should We Be Doing? — at the November 10th meeting — next Tuesday night — of the Newton Council of PTAs.

The meeting will take place at the Lincoln-Eliot School, 191 Pearl St., Newton, 8:00 p.m. Refreshments and tour of the school will begin at 7:30 p.m.

An all-encompassing pooling of individuals and organizations that are in daily contact with children will bring together representatives from the Public Schools, Mental Health Center, Hot Line, District Court, Police Department, Youth Foundation, City Committee on Drug Abuse and the Aldermanic Committee on Drug Abuse.

The community at large is urged to come hear from, communicate to, and ask the questions which need to be raised and answered by parents, educators and community leaders.

Mr. Peter Scott, president of the Council, announcing the content of this month's meeting to Council members stated, "Mrs. Benjamin Gill, Chairman of the Council's Drug Committee, has brought these individuals together to bring to the attention of the community as much of the knowledge, expertise and resources being developed in the area of drug abuse for and among our young people in Newton.

We should also become aware of how much we are doing — if it is enough — and, of the utmost importance, what does the community need to do to pull together."

Notice of this meeting has been sent to all religious and civic leaders who care to attend and contribute to this forum on drug abuse in Newton.

anyway, according to Uehlein.

City Solicitor Melvin Dangel reported that the Board of Aldermen would retain control over the removal of fill from the land and the Redevelopment Authority would have to obtain permissive use from the board before fill could be removed.

Dangel rendered his opinion after being questioned about whether the Authority would have the right to take down a large portion of the hill on the property.

Alderman Peter Harrington questioned whether the city could sell the land and still retain ownership of the fill on the property.

To secure answers to the several questions still remaining regarding the land sale, the matter was sent back to the Finance Committee by a 15 to 6 vote.

Dedicate New Foxboro Rehabilitation Workshop

The new Foxboro Rehabilitation Workshop, a vocational training facility located on the grounds of the Foxboro State Hospital was dedicated on Oct. 29 with over a hundred prominent community leaders and staff attending the ribbon-cutting ceremonies. The Workshop in which mentally ill patients of the hospital work on sub-contracts from a number of leading industrial firms, was recently opened.

The Norfolk Mental Health Assn., in cooperation with the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission, and the Foxboro State Hospital is the sponsor of the workshop. The Norfolk Mental Health Assn. also operates the Medfield Rehabilitation Workshop.

"It is very important to have the sponsorship of a voluntary citizens organization such as the Norfolk Mental Health

Assn. in the operation of Workshop," said Mr. John Lewis, commissioner of the Mass. Rehabilitation Commission, speaker at the ceremonies. The involvement of the community is an indispensable ingredient in the success of a workshop for the mentally ill. No one else has the necessary dedication to make this kind of program successful. Our Commission would not approve a workshop which did not have the active sponsorship of a community citizens organization behind it."

There are now 22 patients in the Foxboro Workshop who have an opportunity to work on sub-contracts obtained from business and industrial firms. They work under conditions as nearly like those prevailing in regular employment in the community. Patients are paid for their work

Doric Dames Form Morning Discussion

Mrs. Francis W. Sargent, president of the Doric Dames, on Tuesday presented a tie bar of the Doric symbol to Dr. Walter Muir Whitehill in appreciation of his initiation of their newest project, the Morning Discussions series.

Mrs. Henry D. Zellman of West Newton, is chairman of the Morning Discussions, which met at Pier Four.

Dr. Whitehill, noted Boston scholar, art historian and author, spoke to several hundred women about "The Movement up the Hill: The New Statehouse."

The Doric Dames, formed to guide visitors around the State House, learned a host of new material to add to their tour information.

They learned such fascinating facts as that the State House site was purchased for $4000 in 1793. The Commonwealth bought what had been former governor John Hancock's pasture from his heirs, and Charles Bulfinch was chosen as the architect.

The talented Bulfinch designed many of Boston's handsome old buildings, and also served Boston as chairman of the Selectmen, and Superintendent of Police. At the time he held these positions in 1811, he served a month in debtor's prison.

Dr. Whitehill, elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Harvard, is a director of the Museum of Fine Arts, as well as other museums and societies. His two-volume history of the Museum was published last year. His BOSTON: A TOPOGRAPHICAL HISTORY is in its second edition, and remains as the best chronicle of Boston's expansion and buildings.

ALLEN POLLACK

Allen Pollack Speaker Here

Philip Wernick, chairman of the B'nai B'rith Covenant Breakfast to be held November 15, 9:30 a.m., at the Sidney Hill Country Club, Florence Street, Chestnut Hill, announces that the principal speaker for the event will be Allen Pollack.

Mr. Pollack is at present, Assistant Professor of Russian and European History at Yeshiva University in New York City.

Pollack's field of academic specialization concerns the history of the Communist part of the Soviet Union and the role of the Jews in the revolutionary movement of Tsarist Russia. He has traveled extensively throughout the Soviet Union.

Born in 1938 in New York, Dr. Pollack received his B.A. from Columbia, his M.A. from the University of Stockholm in Sweden and his Ph.D. from Princeton in '66. Dr. Pollack has participated in several study missions of the American Professors for Peace in the Middle East.

He was instrumental in establishing the American Professors for Peace in the Middle East, an organization of 10,000 academics on 400 campuses. Dr. Pollack currently serves as Chairman on the National Executive Committee of the organization.

Dr. Pollack is the author of many books, the latest of which is, "The Arabs Need and Want Peace, But..." written in 1968.

Sonar Eyeglasses For Blind Studied Here

The Catholic Guild for All the Blind in Newton will conduct a study of "sonar eyeglasses" which were developed by Dr. Leslie Kay of New Zealand, now a visiting professor at Boston College.

A grant of nearly $30,000 from the Seeing Eye Inc. in Morristown, N.J. has made it possible for some 40 men and women here to be trained in the use of the sonar spectacles. Dr. Kay has also been recipient of a Seeing Eye Grant for evaluation of his sonar glasses.

The Seeing Eye is internationally known for its development of dog guides; the organization also has extensive programs in public education and research in problems of blindness.

"The Kay device is designed to give a blind person a better idea of his surroundings and helps mobility," said Dr. Leo H. Riley, Guild research director.

The entire Ultrasonic Binaural Sensor weighs less than half a pound and is worn like a pair of eyeglasses. High frequency sound waves are sent out by a transmitter and reflected off objects. The sound waves are picked up by

Technion Group Speaker Will Be Eli Bulba

The Women's Division of Technion (Israel Institute of Technology) will hold their Membership Enrollment Luncheon on Tuesday (Nov. 17) at the home of Mrs. Louis J. Orazen of Brookline.

Guest speaker for this event will be Eli Bulba, a consulting and research engineer in the area of environmental pollution who was educated at Technion in Haifa. Technion has a center for urban and regional studies to deal with the problems of Israel's rapidly burgeoning cities.

Mr. Bulba is also a graduate of Harvard University School of Public Health and is now engaged by several large concerns in this country who are seeking answers to the pollution problem.

Mrs. Dexter Degall, President of the Boston Chapter, invites all those interested in joining the Women's Division of Technion to call Mrs. David Brisk, Chairman of Membership at 444-7343.

Ward 7 Demos Meet Nov. 10

The Ward 7 Democratic Committee of Newton will meet Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. Of special election on Dec. 8 to fill the Ward 5 vacancy on the Board of Aldermen-at-Large. All candidates for the special election have been invited to speak before the Ward Committee. Registered voters from the entire city will vote on this election, not just voters from Ward 5.

We'll replace your furnace with a heating system that will make your house feel like a Florida resort all winter.

And we can guarantee the operating cost in writing.

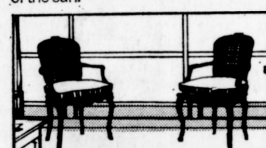

Heat eater. This 24-room house was heated for $15 a week with Radiant Electric Glasheat. It used to cost $24 with oil. No wonder the contractor was glad to guarantee the operating cost.

Thousands of people all over this country and Canada enjoyed Radiant Electric Glasheat in their houses and apartments last winter. Some people have been enjoying this amazingly comfortable, trouble-free heat for over 20 years.

Glasheat is the easiest heating system in the world to install. There are no ducts. No pipes. No tanks.

And Glasheat is direct heat. Unlike other heat systems that only warm the air, Glasheat warms you direct. Glasheat is almost instant heat; seconds after the panel is turned on, your skin begins feeling heat rays like the rays of the sun.

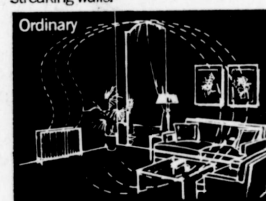

Handsome baseboard installation. Original slab hot-water heat system in this Levitt-built home ruptured. Conversion to Radiant Electric Glasheat was made easily.

Clean heat. This Radiant Electric Glasheat wall panel never deposits a speck of dirt on these lacy curtains. For the first time in years the curtains haven't needed monthly washings.

Ordinary convection heating. Pushes hot air around in a sweeping, circular motion. Pushes dust and dirt too, streaking walls.

Radiant heating with Glasheat. It "broadcasts" heat rays evenly. There's only a 2-degree temperature difference from floor to ceiling. With conventional heating systems, the difference may be as much as 20 degrees.

Since Glasheat is electric heat, there is no burning. So there is no dust or soot. No moving parts either, so there's nothing to break down. And you get a thermostat in each room. If you aren't using a room, turn the heat off and save money.

Why we can afford to guarantee the cost of operating Glasheat.

We expect you to spend less on heating after you install Radiant Electric Glasheat than you're spending right now. For one thing, electric heat is more efficient. No heat goes up the chimney. No heat is wasted in rooms you aren't using. And glass, which is the heart of Glasheat, loses heat more slowly than metal constructions. What's more, if you're in the Boston Edison or Massachusetts Electric area, your power company will give you a special low electric rate and a generous installation allowance. We're glad to tell you how much lower your annual heating bill will be with Glasheat—and guarantee it in writing.

In just a few minutes, without obligation, we can show you how Radiant Electric Glasheat will turn your house into a toasty warm, Florida resort, eliminate heating problems, and cut the cost of heat compared with your present system.

114 Newton Blue Birds In 'Fly Up' to Camp Fire

With one of the largest groups in recent memory participating in the ceremony, 114 fourth grade Newton Blue Birds "flew up" to become Camp Fire Girls last Thursday, Oct. 29, at the Meadowbrook Junior High School gymnasium.

The entire ceremony was conducted by Camp Fire Girls of all ranks. Horizon Club girls (high school age) who acted as Mistresses of Ceremonies were Debra Hirschberg (tom-tom player), Jean MacDonald, Karen O'Hearn, Linda Segal, Barbara Shumsker and Margaret Wiggins.

The traditional candle lighting ceremony was carried out by Leslie Cohen, who lit the candle of Work; Holly Rosenfield, the candle of Health; and Laura Ludwig, the candle of Love. A fourth candle was lit up for the Flying-Up Ceremony, the candle of Things to Come, and this was lit by Carolyn Hall.

After the Blue Birds recited and sung the Blue Bird Wish for the final time, a skit was presented by the 5th grade Camp Fire Girls from the Davis School, whose leader is Mrs. Irving Rubin.

The skit showed the various honor beads the girls will be working for as Camp Fire Girls. Following a display of the ceremonial jackets and gowns worn by Camp Fire Girls, each 4th grade Blue Bird received a certificate, Camp Fire Handbook, and the red Camp Fire tie.

Group leaders presenting these to their girls were: Mrs.

Israel Abrams, Mrs. Paul Slater, Angier School; Mrs. F. Lee Walker for Mrs. Henry Hall, Bowen School; Mrs. Andora Kurzman, Mrs. Harold Garber, Mrs. Mitchell Selig, Countryside School; Mrs. James Ridge, Horace Mann School; Mrs. Clark Sawin, Mrs. Herbert Wallace, Hyde School; Mrs. Moselio Schaechter, Mason Rice School; Mrs. Manuel Flicop, Mrs. Arvey Feigenson, Oak Hill School; and Mrs. Italo Amicanglioli, Williams School.

The high point of the ceremony came when the Blue Birds had their Camp Fire ties placed around their necks and tied by older Camp Fire Girls, who were in an outer circle around the Blue Birds throughout the ceremony.

The Camp Fire Law was then sung, and the candles were extinguished by Caryn Abrams, Jennifer Sawin, Lisa Amicanglioli and Katherine Dunne. Taps were played, and Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls circled round a simulated camp fire in the darkened room, pantomimed the familiar words, "Day is done, gone the sun, from the lakes, from the hills, from the sky..." All Camp Fire Girls recessed, after which the Junior Hi Girls sang the Closing Song.

The Fly-Up ceremony was well attended by family and friends. Sitting together as special spectators were 3rd grade Blue Birds, youngest members of the Camp Fire Organization, and just embarking upon the Camp Fire trail.

Franklin PTA Dance, Supper November 13th

Mr. and Mrs. Kerkor Kasabian, Presidents, announce that plans are now underway for Franklin's 2nd annual Pot Luck Supper & Square Dance meeting on Nov. 13th which is to benefit the current P.T.A. Membership drive.

Parents and Teachers will soon be receiving their personal invitations to attend the fun-filled evening of square dancing plus a "gourmet" buffet of home-cooked specialties.

The price of admission is membership dues for 1970-71; plus a nominal supper registration fee; and, of course, a home-made supper specialty item.

In the spirit of this harvest-time occasion, the P.T.A. will supply free fresh apples and cider.

The planning committee include: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jennings, Chairmen; Mrs. June Ouellette, Mrs. Barbara Murray, Mrs. Ruth White, Mrs. Marjorie Livingston, Mrs. Dot Lanciotti, Mrs. Nancy Emmons, and Mrs. Mary Norton.

Baptist Home Donation Day, Fair on Nov. 12

Mrs. Wallace Morse of Newton Centre is in charge of dinners when representatives of nearly 300 churches across the state take part in the 79th annual Fair and Donation Day of the Baptist Home of Massachusetts at 66 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, Thursday, Nov. 12 from 10 to 4 o'clock.

There will be two sittings for a turkey dinner at noon and 1:15 - more than a dozen tables with unusual items, and tea and fancy cakes for others from noon to 4 o'clock. The annual event is held to raise funds for the many charitable projects of the Auxiliary and its service to the Home.

First Meeting Of Nursery Association

The Newton Nursery Teachers Association held its first meeting of the 1970-71 school year on Tuesday at the First Baptist Church Nursery, 848 Beacon street, Newton Centre.

Presented was a report on the recent legislative hearing on new licensing regulations for nursery schools. Some of the directors of local schools attended the hearing and were able to give information and answer questions.

This year's officers of the Association are: Mrs. Mary Sparks, president; Mrs. Joanne Williams, vice president; Mrs. Lucille Tufts, secretary; Mrs. Barbara Murphy, treasurer; Mrs. Barbara Lane and Mrs. Priscilla Burke, program.

Newton Student Studies Simulated Prison Routine

Two sociology students at Lake Erie College in Painesville, Ohio, turned part of the college Alumnae House into a prison for a week.

Deborah Halliday, a junior from Newton, and Lana Michaels, a senior from Geneva, N.Y., conducted a simulated prison experience with the help of six student inmates and three student guards.

Deborah and Lana spent a summer as interns in correction houses. Deborah worked this past summer at the Correctional Institution for Girls in Framingham; Lana worked at the Long Lane School for Girls in Middletown, Conn. For their study they combined experience to simulate prison environment as closely as possible.

The primary objective of the two students was to observe the reactions of the prisoners and the guards. At Long Lane, Miss Michaels believed the reactions of the inmates and guards resulted from their past experiences.

So far in the study, the student inmates and guards displayed reactions similar to those of real inmates and guards. The actual prison atmosphere seemed to have the major role in the reactions of those involved.

During the week the prisoners were escorted to and from classes, wearing uniforms to signify their status. Otherwise, they were confined to the prison building. Other students were asked to curtail social contacts with them.

Near the end of the test, Thomas Beers, assistant professor of sociology, commented "the students are already taking on the characteristics of real prisoners. The restlessness and apathy response to boredom and restriction are coming out."

The inmates, who entered the study to see what it would be like and how much they could take, were free to leave if the strain and tension became too much.

YOU'RE ON THE ROAD TO SOMEWHERE

The question is, Where? From the covered wagon to Easy Rider, Americans have been on the move. We still are. But the real journey has always been an inner one. Who am I? What does my life mean? What matters? Those are the questions that bother us. They're also the questions a church should help us answer.

THE FIRST UNITARIAN SOCIETY OF NEWTON is a searching church. It's not afraid to ask and be asked tough questions. It doesn't get nervous when it must look new places for the answers.

If you're a questioning, curious person, maybe it's the place for you. Why not visit this Sunday and see?

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

The First Church of Christ, Scientist at 391 Walnut st., Newtonville, will have services this Sunday at 10:45 a.m. to which all are invited.

Spiritual discernment is needed to understand man's essential nature, according to the Lesson - Sermon to be read at Christian Science church services Sunday.

"As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God," a passage to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states.

One of the Scriptural citations in the Lesson - Sermon "Adam and Fallen Man" is from Genesis, "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

MRS. JAMIE C. LADD

Miss Powell-Mr. Ladd Marry at Union Church

Colorful mixed flowers decorated the altar of Union Church, Waban, on Saturday, October 31st, for the marriage of Miss Margaret Thurston Powell to Jamie Collings Ladd.

Dr. and Mrs. Thurston Gates Powell of 82 Windsor road, Waban, and East Orleans, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Leonard Ladd of East Grand Rapids, Mich., are the couple's parents.

Dr. Howard L. Rubendall, president of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., officiated at the four o'clock afternoon service. He was assisted by the Rev. Boyd M. Johnson Jr., of Union Church. A reception was held at Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a jumper styled gown of ivory peau de soie and satin organza styled with jeweled soutache braid at the jewel neckline, empire waistline and cuffs of her long sleeves.

A full length sheer illusion veil was fastened to a Juliet cap made of wax orange blossoms, previously worn by the bride's mother and grandmother. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and sweetheart roses accented with ivy.

Miss Nancy Graham Powell of Waban, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a navy chiffon gown marked with French picot edged ribbon in mauve, gold and navy. Her flowers, arranged in a cascade, were chrysanthemums, sweetheart roses and carnations.

Identically attired, the other attendants were Miss Patti Ladd of London, England, sister of the groom, Mrs. Jeffery David Powell, of Manchester, N.H., sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Peter Johnson of South Hadley.

The best man was Robert Kellogg Goodwillie of Des Moines, Iowa. Jeffrey David Powell of Manchester, N.H., brother of the bride, Andris Petersons of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, Paul W. Ladd of Bowling Green, Ohio, cousin of the groom, and George E. Heck of Chicago, Ill. were the ushers.

The couple left for the Homestead, Hot Springs, West Virginia. They will make their home at 3409 Burton Ridge, East Grand Rapids, Mich.

The bride attended Dana Hall, Bradford Junior College and Western Michigan University. She belongs to the Bradford Club of Boston and is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Leslie Hodgins of Brooklyn, N.Y., and of Mrs. Braxton J. Powell of Wilmington, North Carolina, and the late Mr. Powell.

Dr. Gerber To JDL Post

Rabbi Marvin S. Antelman of Newton, New England Coordinator of the Jewish Defense League (JDL), has announced the appointment of Dr. Sanford N. Gerber as chairman of the newly formed JDL chapter of Worcester.

In commenting on the situation in Worcester at present Rabbi Antelman stated "when radicals cause chaos and pandemonium as in the recent courthouse bombing, and fight violently the established forces of law and justice in a community, then the Jewish community suffers."

Dr. Gerber received his Ph.D. in 1966 from the University of Missouri and although an anthropologist, he is presently Assistant Professor of Social Anthropology and Sociology at Clark University in Worcester. A member of the 1st Marine Division during the Korean War, he earned four battle stars there.

Hospital Aid Association's Party Day Is Huge Success

The 18th Party Day was a huge success, according to the Newton-Wellesley Aid Association.

Party Day was held on October 28 when members of the 1400 strong association opened their homes for a day of bridge, good conversation and indulging in refreshments.

"The results were gratifying," states co-chairman Mrs. Howard Hansen of Wellesley and Mrs. Edwin Hawkrige of Newton. "We really won't have the final tabulation until the first of the year since donations are still pouring in, but we're most optimistic."

Party Day is the once-a-year fund raising event of the Aid. This year's receipts will be used to furnish a brand new coffee shop in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's new wing scheduled to open this winter.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital is a 260-bed general teaching hospital affiliated with Tufts Medical School. The expansion program will bring the capacity to 350 beds upon completion.

The Coffee Shop is one of the Aid's major sources of income during the year and is used by employers and visitors.

Elect Dr. Bresler To Board of Eugenics Group

Dr. Jack B. Bresler of 494 Ward street, Newton, Assistant Provost of Tufts University, is being honored with membership on the Board of Directors of the American Eugenics Society.

His installation as a Board member will take place Nov. 14 at Rockefeller University in New York. The selection was made by a nominating committee of nationally-known and prominent scientists.

Dr. Bresler PhD has been actively working in the area of genetic consequences of ethnic matings. Recently, he was informed that scientific and medical researchers are utilizing many of his methods for similar studies in Israel, Canada, and England. He is well-known in the field of man-made environmental factors and their impact on health and has two well-known books on Human Ecology to his credit.

The American Eugenics Society has in its membership individuals primarily trained in the medical sciences, anthropology, sociology and psychology who feel that interdisciplinary research and teaching are necessary for the proper study of human interactions and the biological and social consequences of them. Recently, the society announced the formation of an ancillary organization entitled Behavioral Genetics Association.

Dr. Bresler is in charge of Federal-University relations for Tufts.

Beauty Care Today

By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

(Hair Electricity)

Has electricity ever caused your hair to "stand on end"? It occurs for most people now and then. To some, though, it is a regular and annoying problem.

It is termed as "static electricity," however, it won't hurt you even if you're generating sparks!

What's the solution? To a degree hair spray keeps things under control. So do cream rinses after shampoos. Natural-bristle brushes will quiet flying hair more than synthetic bristles.

If electricity becomes a constant plague, investigate a genuine tortoise-shell horn, or wood comb. Use this instead of nylon, hard rubber or steel.

The best calmer may be your two hands. Caress your hair for a couple of minutes. Usually the body heat and moisture of your palms will settle electrified hair.

South Cross-Country Team Bows To Wayland

Charley Pottley raced to his sixth victory and fourth second-place in eleven tries, but Newton South's cross-country squad succumbed to second-place Wayland, 19-44, and Bedford, 22-33.

The Lions are 0-12 in the Dual County League, solidly entrenched in the basement of the league standings. South has two meets remaining on its schedule—Lynnfield and Weston.

Powerful, 9-2-1 Wayland, bombed the Lions as Rich Salazar claimed a 13-second 12:34-12:37 win over Pottley just two seconds above teammate Lloyd Keyes course standard. Keyes, practically unbeatable all year, finished seventh, in 13:06, far above his best for the 2.3 mile route.

South did not place another man in the top ten as the Warriors had nine men within 1:12 of each other.

Pottley sprinted to an easy 20-second 13:41 to 14:01 decision at Bedford and found more help in the offing, but too late, as South placed five men in the top ten for the first time this season.

Captain Mike LeBlanc scored fifth in 14:40, Matt Williams was eighth in 15:17, Howie Frutkoff, ninth in 15:23 and Steve Burgess, tenth in 15:35.

Newton South's junior varsity finished third in its annual triangular meet with the Newton High jvs and the Newton Junior High all-stars (who won) 29-37-65.

Junior Howie Frutkoff placed second in the meet in 15:23, over Newton High's tough 2.6 mile course.

Ralph Gott, of Bigelow Junior High was an easy winner in 14:56 in a new meet record, one second better than Peter Wrenns standard. Wrenn is now running second man on the Newton High varsity.

The Tigers Dave Fray was awarded the same time as Frutkoff in third and was followed by Carl Hubel, Warren Junior High, 15:29 and Jeff Garden, Newton, 15:34.

NAA Lions In Romp Over Needham Gridders 38-0

The Newton Athletic Association Lions secured a third place finish by defeating the Needham Rockets by a score of 38-0 at Newton Highlands Playground Sunday.

Kevin Hoban scored 18 points and became the first Lion player in history to score over 100 points. Newton took the opening kickoff and started a drive at their own 30 and advanced the ball to the Needham 30 where a fumble stalled the drive. Newton forced Needham to punt on the ensuing series and took over at the Needham 41. Highlighted by fullback Matt Sabetti's power running the Lions moved for their first score. Quarterback Bob Kinsella hit halfback John Vizakis with a 15 yd. scoring pass and a 6-0 Newton lead. The points failed.

In the second period Newton moved the ball well and controlled the clock, but scored only one touchdown. This time Kinsella hit Kevin Hoban with a 15 yard pass for the score and the same combo clicked for the conversation and a 14-0 half-time lead.

In the third period fullback Jim Vizakis slashed over from the two. Kinsella hit Hoban with the conversion points and a 22-0 Newton lead. On the ensuing kickoff the Lion defense forced Needham backwards with a second and fifteen from the 30. Rick Paglia picked off a fumble in mid-air and raced for a touchdown. Fullback Matt Sabetti rushed the conversion and Newton led 30-0. With time running out and Needham at the Newton 30, Needham attempted to pass. Kevin Hoban stepped in front of the intended receiver and raced 70 yards for a touchdown and for Kevin's 102nd point. Kinsella hit Kevin for the conversation to cap the scoring.

Newton's offensive line was superb all day against a big Needham team. They were Kevin Brooks, center; Greg Moan and Dennis Cameron, guards; Ron Collins and Dave Prince, tackles; Jack Ryan and Ken Shulman, ends. End Alan Flynn was unable to play because of a congested chest.

This Sunday marks the first meeting ever between the Jr. Midget Mustangs and Tigers. The game will be played at Newton Highlands playground and will start at 1 p.m.

In the Midget contest, the Lions will host the Waltham Recreation Department Giants at 2:30 p.m.

Other Scores This Week

Nicholas Baldi, Killed In Crash

Funeral services were held Saturday for Nicholas A. Baldi of 23 Smith Court, West Newton, and a senior at Newton High School, who was fatally injured Wednesday afternoon (Oct. 28) when the car he was driving struck a utility pole on Abundant avenue, West Newton. He was 17 years of age.

A passenger in the car, James R. Fulton, also 17, of 15 Shirley street, West Newton, suffered minor injuries.

Baldi was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario G. Baldi, who survive, along with a brother, Mario Baldi Jr.; five sisters, Donna M., Deborah Lee, Pamela Jean, Kimberly Ann, and Sandra Leigh; also his grandmother, Mrs. Elvira Baldi of Watertown, and maternal grandfather, Anthony Caruso of Newton.

A solemn requiem Mass was offered Saturday at 9 a.m. in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Newton Harriers Take Tie For 3rd As Brockton Wins

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Brockton High easily defended its Suburban League cross-country title by placing five men in the top ten to clobber second-place Arlington by 73 points over the Shoe Citizens' home 2.4 mile course.

Junior Brockton harrier Don McCarthy covered the route in 11:46 to just fast-closing Dave Baldwin of Arlington, caught in 11:47 and Cambridge Latin's star Bill Durrette, 11:51.

Newton's top harrier Jay Sidman, who had beaten two of the top three, excluding Durrette, in dual meets, was a trifle further back in 11:58.

The Tigers, perennial league champs before Brockton came into the league last fall, captured a tie for third, just behind Arlington with surprising Weymouth South. Both schools accumulated 106 points.

Newton's other placers were sophomore Peter Wrenn, 19th in 12:54, Steve Caggiano, 23rd, Ken Gorfinkle, 26th, and Ed Coan, 34th.

In addition to McCarthy's individual triumph, Brockton copped the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth spots behind

Gene Haywood, a Steve Silverman, Tom Kron, and Bob Boen.

The other positions in the top ten went to Rindge's Paul

White, fifth in 12:07 and

Weymouth North's Bob

Lion JVs In 20-14 Margin Over Wayland

Quarterback Pat Pattison, starting his first game in that role since junior high, engineered Newton South's JV to a 20-14 come-from-behind triumph over Wayland.

With Pattison at the controls the Lions bounced back from a 14-6 halftime deficit to tally two second-half touchdowns.

Halfback Paul Nissen collected the first score on a four-yard run and added the last two points on a conversion run.

In-between John Gordon went over from two yards out and Pattison found Paul Dunne with a 7-yard TD pass.

South's winning drive was set up by a fumble recovery by Jim Caruso.

Newton South is 3-1 on the year.

Pack 227 Off To Great Start

Cub Scouts of Pack 227, under the guidance of Cubmaster Melvin Clayton, are starting the new season on a happy note. Accompanied by their dads, the Cubs hit the trail at the Nobscot Reservation for a hike, picnic and nature collection. The boys returned home with leaves and insect specimens to study.

This week, along with the Campfire Girls, Pack 227 Cubs will begin their anti-litter beautifying campaign by raking leaves and planting bulbs around Countryside School. As spring comes to Newton Highlands, the boys will enjoy the fruits of the work when Countryside should be a rainbow of bright colors.

The next Pack meeting will be held at Countryside School on Thursday evening, Nov. 12 at 7:15 o'clock.

College Prof. Post Given To Resident Here

Neil Center Churchill, of Newton, an authority on accounting and computer-based systems of control, has been named Royal Little Professor of Business Administration at Harvard University.

His appointment is announced by Lawrence E. Fouraker, Dean of the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration.

The Royal Little Professorship was established in 1966, when friends and associates of Mr. Little endowed a chair as a birthday tribute to a "brilliant and courageous leader."

The founder of Textron, Inc., Mr. Little is a director of Arthur D. Little, Inc., and of Amtel, Inc., and is chairman of the board of the Narragansett Capital Corporation. He is an officer of several charitable trusts and past chairman of the board of Indian Head Inc.

Professor Churchill is the second incumbent of the Little Professorship, succeeding Charles A. Bliss, who in September retired as Royal Little Professor, Emeritus, after 33 years as a distinguished member of the Harvard faculty.

Professor Churchill went to Harvard in 1966 as Visiting Associate Professor of Business Administration, and was elected Professor a year later.

This year at the Business School he is head of the first-year Control course, which introduces students to the varied business uses of accounting and other information systems.

He is chairman of the Business School committee on use of the computer, and coordinator for the Control area of the Doctoral Program.

A native of Bismark, North Dakota, he served two years in the U.S. Navy before entering

Newton's Aerial and Ground Play Crushes Medford 27-7

By BOB WORDEN

Newton High's well oiled offensive machine went into action Saturday afternoon, combining a highly successful passing attack with a powerful running game, to roll over Medford 27-7.

The Tiger defense yielded their first touchdown in four contests late in the fourth quarter, when Medford's powerful half back Warren Mottery, sprinted seven yards off tackle. The td. raised their points against average to a mere 7 points a game.

Senior Jim Doolin, returning to action at the QB slot, after being relegated to bench duty last week, drove the team 43 yards in the first quarter, with Fullback Kevin Carver smashing through from one yard out at 5:48, to finish out the polished drive. Ken Haywood booted one of his three extra points through the uprights.

Doolin once again took control. He led the Black and Orange 53 yards, working well with split end "triky" Rick Hayes and using the awesome power running of Mark Lennon and Carver. Senior Frank DeRubeis, behind a crunching block by Guard Charlie Vitti, charged in from 8 yards out, to boost the Tiger margin to a 14-0 advantage.

Newton's defense was outstanding throughout the ball game. Medford's QB Kevin Cunoff, will have night-mares of Newton pass rushers coming at him. Linebacker John Murphy and Center George Gardner played their usual great games and if they don't make All Scholastic, Bobby Orr won't make the All Star team.

Doolin's great track speed was once again called upon at 3:03 of the second stanza, making one of his typical runs, he galloped 15 yards around left end, to give the Tigers a comfortable 21-0 cushion at half time.

Newton Coach Jim Ronayne, had the opportunity in the second half, to use his second unit, but there was more scoring to be done.

With the clock shining 2:11, Doolin took the snap and started around left end, he was met by a contingent of Medford tacklers, before he was squashed. Jim pitched to Lennon and he went 14 yards untouched for the score. The final score, Newton 27 Medford 7.

Sideline Comments: The Newton victory boosted their record to a 4-1 slate and the countdown to the Brookline game is two. The loss left Medford with a 1-5 tally. Their only win came at the expense of Somerville High with a 20-7 verdict. In their other four contests Boston Latin bombed them 27-0, Everett powered out a 22-8 victory, North Quincy and Chelsea edged them with identical 14-6 scores.

This Saturday's confrontation with Rindge has been rescheduled to Friday at 1:45 due to S.A.T. college examinations. The game is the first of two road games to follow for the Tigers, as they will travel to Waltham on the 14 of Nov.

Dan Borden who received a knee injury in the seasons opener, was back in the starting lineup. Jim Fay is expected to be at full speed for Friday's encounter with Pingdo.

South High Gridders Return To Win Column By A Decisive 26-8

After a two-game slump the Newton South Lion football squad returned to the win column with a satisfying 26-8 thumping of Acton-Boxboro, last Saturday, at Acton.

Forced into a starting role quarterback, Ron Izen responded by hurling three touchdown strikes and a two point conversion pass to account for 20 Lion points by air.

Izen, who opened the season at the controls had begun sharing the signal-calling duties with Rich Lerner in recent games and was gradually receding into the background. However, Lerner fractured his leg in the first quarter versus Wayland, last week, and sophomore Ned Moan broke his nose leaving the job and the pressure to Izen.

With a versatile, speedy powerful backfield South's prime offensive weapon this year has been the run, but Izen probed the Acton secondary early and found its weaknesses and the Lions walked off the field at half-time on the good end of a 14-0 score.

After a scoreless first quarter sprinter Howie Haines hauled in Izen's first scoring aerial on a 15-yard swing pattern for his seventh touchdown of the campaign. Izen then flipped to end Bob Levine for the extra points and came back to hit him for an 8-yard six pointer later in the period.

The Izen to Levine combination raised the score to 20-0 in the third stanza on a 10-yard pass.

Senior halfback Dave Leyton burst off-tackle for an 11-yard scoring scamper to round out South's scoring in the last period before Acton averted a shut-out.

South's second appearance against a Dual County League opponent was slightly more impressive than last week's 38-8 debacle against Wayland.

Acton's only previous loss had been to Bedford, 24-20, and its 4-2 mark includes an opening day 6-0 upset of Wayland.

South is 4-2. Despite its two losses Newton is the sixth ranked team in Class C.

Coach George Winkler gained some added satisfaction from the victory. Coach of the losing Acton eleven is Ed Leary who played under Winkler at Boston University when the latter was an assistant coach.

Halfback Haines is the Lions leading point-getter through the first six games with 42 on seven TDs. Next in line is back Dave Lelehook with 30 points on four touchdowns and six two-point conversions. Both are juniors.

Cocaptain Bob Staulo is third with 18 points on three six-pointers.

classifications for tax assessment purposes.

But Garden City voters favored a reduction in the voting age from 21 to 19, a change in the voting residency requirement from one year to six months and the establishment of 240 single House districts throughout Massachusetts. The vote totals on these questions are contained in the figures published in this edition of the Graphic on the city's election returns.

Newton voted wet on all four liquor questions.

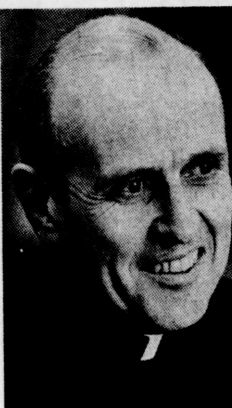

A total of 38,831 Newton voters went to their polling places to participate in Tuesday's election. This represented about 80 per cent of the city's 48,910 registered and eligible voters.

Representative Fishman swept to his victory over Mayor Basbas in their home city of Newton. Only 337 votes separated the two on the Watertown returns. Mayor Basbas obviously was hurt badly by the issue that he would be holding two jobs next year if elected State Senator.

Representative Fishman gained a 596-vote advantage over Mayor Basbas in Newton. Their totals in the city were 20,974 for Fishman and 15,018 for Basbas.

In Watertown the vote totals were 7730 for Fishman and 7393 for Basbas, a plurality of 337 for Fishman. This made their grand totals 28,704 for Fishman and 22,411 for Basbas, giving Fishman a victory by a 6293-vote plurality.

Paul F. Guzzi won the seat in the House from the 12th Middlesex district left vacant by the death of the late Representative H. Shea, Jr. Representative Malloy also won reelection from that district.

ROBERT DRINAN

The vote totals in that contest were 9538 for Guzzi, 8085 for Malloy, 6197 for Robert Gaynor, 4530 for Marshall D. Glen and 430 for Alan G. MacNeil. Guzzi and Malloy were the Democrats, Gaynor and Glen the Republicans, and MacNeil ran as an Independent.

David J. Mofenson gained the seat in the House of Representatives which Representative Fishman vacated in order to stand for promotion to the State Senate.

The vote totals in that 13th Middlesex House district were 9984 for Representative Theodore D. Mann who won reelection; 9092 for Mofenson, 8117 for Robert Cohen, 7399 for Police Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley and 2856 for Lois G. Pines, an independent candidate. Mann and Feeley were the Republicans, Mofenson and Cohen the Democrats. The voters in that district elected one Republican and one Democrat.

Republican Sheriff John J. Buckley received a remarkable 10,531 plurality over Democrat John F. Dever, Jr., in Newton, helping him to achieve his upset victory over Dever. The Newton vote totals were 21,604 for Buckley and 11,073 for Dever.

Attorney General Robert H. Quinn rolled up a 7420-vote plurality in Newton over former Assistant Attorney General Donald L. Conn as he swept to an impressive victory.

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane and State Auditor Thaddeus Buczek both received substantial pluralities in Newton.

The only Republican in the lower portion of the GOP State ticket who managed to run ahead in Newton was Representative Mary Newman. She received 20,503 votes as compared to 12,603 for Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren.

City To Pay County Tax Under Protest

Mayor Monte G. Basbas announced this week that the City of Newton will pay its Middlesex County assessment for 1970, but under protest.

Mayor Basbas emphasized that the assessment is the best evidence of the plight of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth under the present county system.

When the Department of Corporations and Taxation issued its "Cherry Sheet" in early March, which is the statement of distribution to the cities and towns of their share of the state income tax and the statement of the charges that will be made against it, the County Budget had not been prepared.

The Department of Corporations and Taxation therefore estimated Newton's share of County costs at $1,798,152.81.

The County Commissioners prepared their budget, submitted it to the Legislature for its approval, which approval was given over the strenuous but unavailing protests of Mayor Basbas, and from the approved budget the County Commissioners levied their assessments against each city and town in the county on September 1, 1970.

Newton's actual County assessment is $2,073,672.01 or $275,520.20 higher than the estimate, the Mayor pointed out. Since all of the cities and towns had set their tax rates by September 1, and all their tax rates were predicated on the estimate, all now have to find an additional sum of money.

"In our case," said Mayor Basbas, "it will have to come from an already depleted surplus. Other cities and towns may have to borrow this additional money. I have been advised by my Law Department that the County Commissioners have the right under law to levy this assessment and to charge interest at the rate of 10 per cent if not paid by November 1."

"For that reason I am authorizing the City Treasurer to pay the assessment but I am sending a strong letter of protest to the County Commissioners and the leaders of the legislature."

The Mayor indicated that he will submit legislation to give the cities and towns the power to review and approve county budgets. "If this power had existed this year," he said, "this sudden increase over the estimate of county costs would not have hit us at this late date. I will continue my efforts to bring about a substantial reorganization or even the abolition of county government," said Basbas.

The Mayor said he felt it is most important for the residents of Middlesex County to realize that they are in fact subjected to taxation without representation under the present system.

"While the cities and towns pay the bill," he said "the money for it comes out of the property tax. The Legislature has failed the taxpayer in this area and the cities and towns are powerless. The system must be changed."

Easy blue cheese dressing contains just four ingredients. Serve it with summer salads. Mix ¼ cup each of mayonnaise, french dressing and a dash of dry mustard until well blended. Lightly stir in ¼ cup, or about 1½ ounces, of blue cheese, crumbled. Makes ¾ cup.

Three Newton Youngsters In Live Theatre

Three Newton youngsters have been selected as members of the cast for the production of "Rumpelstiltskin" by the Boston Children's Theatre in which youngsters from 10 to 15 perform for children.

The Children's Theatre now in its 20th season has included creative dramatic classes, a season of plays at New England Life Hall, the yearly summer Stagemobile and this year a touring company available weekends to bring live theatre. The company already has been booked in various Greater Boston communities and as far away as Keene, N.H.

Their first production is "Rumpelstiltskin" based on a favorite fairy tale. Local members of the Cast are Edward Singer, Carol Abramowitz and Joan Arbetter, all of Newton.

In the fairy tale, a miller boasts that his daughter can spin straw into gold. The king of a poor country offers to marry her if she can prove her ability.

A strange little man appears and spins straw into gold for her, making her promise that she will give him her first-born child as a reward. When he appears to claim the baby Grizel pleads with him, and the little man agrees to let her keep the baby if she can guess his name.

Like all true fairy tales, all ends happily when she guesses - "Rumpelstiltskin."

whether they be rented apartments or owner occupied homes.

What the new law would mean, simply, is that when a tenant moves from an apartment or when a home is sold, it would have to be inspected to be certain the premises meet minimum state sanitary codes before the dwelling unit could be occupied by new people.

No strenuous objections to the proposed new law were voiced at Monday night's meeting, but a series of questions about how it would be implemented and whether the wording of the ordinance carried out the intent of the law, caused it to be sent back to committee for further work.

Alderman William Carmen noted that some 2500 families move into Newton annually. He expressed doubts that the present staff of building inspectors could handle the task.

Cohen responded that in the case of most homes and apartments the necessary approval would be routine. "We are only concerned with minimum standards," he commented.

According to the ordinance as now written, if the dwelling unit failed to pass inspection, electricity and water would be turned off until the necessary repairs were made. Boston Edison Co. has agreed to cooperate, Cohen said.

"If inspection is not made within 48 hours, then public utilities may be turned on temporarily upon written request of the owner filed with the Commissioner of Health, pending inspection," the proposed ordinance states.

Alderman Alan Barkin expressed concern that "people buying a house will have to turn into some bureaucrat."

Cohen said he didn't believe the turnoff of electricity would apply to half a dozen dwellings a year.

"The proposed law is a device to protect the rentpayer and future homeowner against people who don't keep their property up," Alderman Richard Bullwinkle declared.

'Auby' Winner Directing 'The Voice of the Turtle'

Stage veteran Russell MacClure of 5 Chaske Road, Auburndale, is directing the Auburndale Players' production of "The Voice of the Turtle," scheduled for four performances, Friday and Saturday, November 6, 7 and 13, 14 at 8:30 p.m., at the Auburndale Club, 283 Melrose Street, Auburndale.

Russ, who is President of the Circle Oil Company in Auburndale, brings an extremely impressive list of credits to this latest Auburndale production.

He performed in Maine summer stock for five years, at Deertrees Theatre and the Boothbay Playhouse. With the Auburndale Players as an actor, Russ has had leading roles in "Tender Trap," "Born Yesterday," "Anniversary Waltz," the original Auburndale production of "The Voice of the Turtle" approximately ten years ago; and in his most recent acting role won a well-deserved AUBY as Mr. DePinna in "You Can't Take It With You." (The AUBY is the Auburndale equivalent of Broadway's "TONY" award.)

Oak Hill PTA Meets Monday

A general meeting of the Oak Hill School P.T.A. will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday (Nov. 9) at the school. Representative of each class along with their teachers and some parents will demonstrate how to use new equipment and materials in math, science, language, arts, reading, music, physical ed., art and the library.

The meeting will be informal and parents are invited to move from one activity to another to see the variety of tools now available in the classrooms. This important event should not be missed by any parent.

UNICEF Cards, Gifts, On Sale at Peace Center

UNICEF 1971 greeting cards, calendars and gift items are on sale at the Newton Community Peace Center, located in the Eliot Church at 474 Centre street, Newton Corner, according to Mrs. Melvin Cohen, Peace Center UNICEF greeting card chairman.

There will be another sales outlet at the Star Market later in the month.

The United Nations this year again has produced a distinctive holiday greeting card assortment with 18 different designs, each contributed by respected artists from countries around the world.

Also available are birthday cards, with one designed by Newton resident, Mrs. Rosalind Smith. Note cards, UNICEF calendars for 1971, and children's games and books are excellent choices for holiday gifts.

Mrs. Cohen said purchases may be made at the Peace Center office on Monday through Friday from 9 to 2 and at the Star Market in Newtonville, (Nov. 23, 24 and 26) from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The Star Market also will make space available Dec. 7 through 12.

Volunteers are needed to assist for a couple of hours in the sale of UNICEF cards, and this may be done by calling 968-7900. Consignment selling by church and civic groups also can be arranged.

All proceeds from the sale of these products go to UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, to be allocated by specific national programs for children in the fields of health, nutrition, education and social welfare.

The assisted country actually invests about 2½ times as much as UNICEF (and some times more) in each project—usually in form of locally available

Attain Dean's List at Tufts And Jackson

Thirteen students from Newton have attained the Dean's List for the past semester either at Tufts University or its affiliate Jackson College.

From Newton Centre are David E. Nizel of 537 Parker street; Marhsa Tanger of 35 Fox Lane, Jill Davidson of 7 Sunhill Lane, Beverly Greenwood of 56 Warren street and Bonnie Belson of 1 Rosalie road.

From Newton: Philip DiGasbarro of 1088 Chestnut street; David Epstein of 80 Olde Field road, Robert B. Rosenberg of 139 Brackett road; Faye Yanofsky of 81 Montrose street, Susan Shrand of 283 Country Club road, Brenda Schwab of 16 Converse avenue, Colette Feldstein of 21 Travis drive and Katherine May of 57 Bellevue street.

Local Educator Aids Planning For Nat. Parley

Miss Harriet Berger of West Newton, met recently with the steering committee for the annual conference of the National Association for the Education of Young Children to be held in Boston, Nov. 18-21.

At a buffet supper hosted by Mrs. Geraldine O'Sullivan of Watertown, conference chairman, plans were finalized for an outstanding program which is expected to attract about 5,000 teachers, administrators, parents and specialists in related fields.

Miss Berger, associate professor at Wheelock College, will coordinate the Creative Art Exhibit for the conference.

With a membership of 14,000 and a nationwide network of 90 affiliate groups, this organizations speak with an informal and respected voice on the national level, addressing itself to the needs of young children.

A major goal of the association is to better the lives of children everywhere through vigilance and concerted action.

Hunnewell Hill Civic Group Elects Officers

Fred Whoriskey was elected president for the 1970-71 year at the annual meeting of the Hunnewell Hill Civic Association, held recently at the Grace Church parlors.

Other officers were: Max Miller and Bill Cadwell, vice presidents; Pat Misasi, corresponding secretary; Enola White, recording secretary; and Katie Thomas, treasurer.

Outgoing vice president Paul Fair presided at the meeting, which was spent mainly in the election of officers and discussions of activities for the coming year.

LUNCHEON PLANNERS — Mrs. Pauline Hoffman (left) Luncheon President and Mrs. Harold White, Section President, were among those who made arrangements for the annual luncheon by the Boston Section National Council of Jewish Women which was held Tuesday noon at the Sidney Hill Country Club. Title of this year's luncheon was "Up, Up and Away."

playwright. He received both his Bachelor and Law degrees from Harvard.

Avram J. Goldberg of Brookline, is a member of the bars of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Supreme Court of the United States, and Court of Military Appeals, as well as the Trustee of many local corporations.

He has been with the Stop and Shop Companies, Inc., since 1948 and presently serves as the Executive Vice President. Mr. Goldberg is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

Howard Rubin of Newton Centre, holds varied memberships and offices in several community and national organizations. A graduate of Harvard College and Law School, he is a partner in the law firm of Guterman, Hervitz, Rubin, Rudman & Katz of Boston.

A presidential theme will dominate the program as the Association honors Irving W. Rabb, Hospital President, who retires from office after three terms, and elects his successor.

A highlight of the program will be the multiphase color-slide presentation on the Hospital's new and ultra-modern Radiation Therapy Unit.

Dr. Samuel Hellman, Beth Israel Staff Radiotherapist and Director of the Joint Center of Radiation Therapy will, by varied photographic techniques, take the audience on a voyage through the world of ruby lasers into the mysteries of radiation and medicine.

The tour will begin with a case study of a typical patient, showing along each step of his illness, the miracles of medicine and the supporting personnel and facilities that make what was unheard of generations ago a life-saving reality today.

Other activities scheduled for the Meeting are: a special tribute to the late Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, Executive Director of the Hospital from 1928-1953; the election of a new slate of officers to serve with the incoming President; and reports by Dr. Mitchell T. Rabkin, General Director and by Mrs. David Weintraub, President of the Women's Auxiliary.

Guests will also have the opportunity to salute four staff physicians who, together, have a total of 150 years service to the Hospital — Drs. David Ayman, Jacob Fine, David B. Stearns and David Weintraub.

tightrope and tortoise and treadmill, citizens will hurry to enjoy coffee and a giant birthday cake baked by the Friends of the Newton Free Library.

City Librarian Virginia A. Tashjian and President of Library Trustees John B. G. Palen welcome Newton citizens to the birthday party as the Newton Free Library embarks on its second century of good service to the community.

By trolley and tramway, by parachute and piggy back, by snowshoes and submarine, via skis, sailboats, stilts and even on a shoestring, Friends of the Library and other ticketholders will be making their way to the Main Library on Saturday evening, December 5, for another hundredth birthday observance, the Friends' first Bookworm Ball.

Tickets for the Ball, which is open to the public and which the Friends hope will become an annual affair, may be ordered through Post Office Box Four, Auburndale, 02166, or from Friends president George Michaels at 195 Islington Road, Auburndale.

Proceeds of the Bookworm Ball will benefit special book funds supported by the Friends and other city groups.

Family Counseling Service Schedules 'Drop-in' Eve

The Family Counseling Service (Region West) Inc., is holding a Drop-in Night in the Newton office at 74 Walnut Park on Monday, Nov. 9 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. The invitation to "come as you are" is extended especially to persons who have not found need for the other services of the agency.

Family Counseling Service (Region West) is a member agency of United Community Services, supported by the United Fund and a fully accredited member agency of the Family Service Association of America.

It is the counseling agency's belief that in crisis-ridden times like these even persons who can handle their major problems without outside help may be glad for an opportunity to sit down with others like themselves and, over coffee, thrash out common worries and find solutions.

Informality will be in order. Rooms will be designated for those discussion topics expected to be popular. Guests may drift in and out of these groups until they find where they want to be, or they may

The Biggest Roast Beef in Boston

You'd better believe it.

We've hired us a carver with strong wrists, a sharp knife, and an honest eye. And here's what keeps him honest. If he ever once carves you a slice of roast beef that weighs less than a pound and a half, you get a second slice free. And he's in deep trouble.

So he makes sure every juicy, succulent slice completely covers the big, oversize platter it's served on.

Here's what comes with your roast beef: a nice big salad, ice cold and crisp. A nice big baked potato with sour cream. Your choice of vegetables. And a golden Yorkshire popover swimming in butter. It's not so much a dinner as a challenge. A roast beef lover's Everest. Meet that challenge tonight, why not? Just because it's there.

Call Frederick for reservations.

FLASH — EXTRA FLASH GREAT NEWS

The area is buzzing about the buffet presented the past couple of weekends by Chef Fran Raimier at the cuddly Castle Keep Restaurant, located at the Waltham Motor Inn in Waltham. Chances are if the guy next to you isn't buzzing, it's because he was there. It's awful hard to buzz when you're bursting with goodies, can you imagine a buffet where you are turned loose with silverware and china on an assortment of treats, such as steamed round of beef, honey cured ham, 6 huge golden brown turkey, seafood newburgh, chicken paprika, aspic, molds, relishes, melons, fruits, desserts, homemade cobblers, and I just can't go on. You have to see it to believe it. You can eat as much as you want for five ecstatic hours, 6:00 P.M. till 11:00 P.M. That one is on Saturday evenings, preferred by lovers, secret agents, rogues, tigers, and all ravenously hungry humans. Ah, then there is the Sunday thing, that's the family day buffet, where Mom gets to relax and can turn her pack loose on already shell shocked Fran. It's basically the same, except the nude bone which formerly supported a 85 pound round of beef has been removed, and replaced with swinging cotton pickin', finger lickin', Fran's maple fried chicken. This one is served from noon till 3:00 P.M. Preferred by families, librarians, Girl Scouts, Merv Griffin and Kool Aid fans. Saturday's buffet is only a partial loss at $4.50 per person, Sunday you can commit grand larceny for $3.95 per person. Children $1.55. What's the difference? Fran says... 55 cents.

Two Newtonites Attend Franklin Pierce College

Two Newton students are attending Franklin Pierce College in Rindge, N.H., one of the fastest growing private colleges in the east.

They are Janet D. Garfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas D. Garfield of 95 Dudley street, Newton Centre, and Jerold Goldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Goldman of 22 Park drive, Newton.

Enrollment at Franklin Pierce has burgeoned from 97 students in 1963 to over 1,000 for the 1970-71 academic year.

He studied at City College of New York and at the University of Chicago, and took his Ph.D. at the Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning in Philadelphia, concentrated in such areas as Ancient Near Eastern Languages and Literatures, Babylonian and Hebrew Law, Talmudic Literature and Comparative Religion.

Articles by Dr. Neiman have appeared in the Journal of Biblical Literature, the Journal of Near Eastern Studies and in the publication of the Lown Institute of Advanced Judaic Studies.

His topic at the breakfast meeting will be "The Jews and Revolution: Acts and Consequences," a survey of the roles of the Jews in Modern revolutionary movements, and the effects of the revolutions on the Jew and his future.

William Nathanson, president, will preside. Chairman of the Day is Stanley Robbins. Hospitality Chairman is Leo Shufin. Ticket and Reservation Chairman is Gerald Popkin. Warren Wald is publicity chairman.

Open House At Workmen's Circle Center

William Winter of Newton is a member of the Arrangements Committee for an Open House on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8 to mark the 70th anniversary of the founding of the Workmen's Circle, the nation's largest Jewish fraternal order.

Greater Boston members will host guests at their center, 1762 Beacon street from 2 to 7 p.m.

Joining in the celebration with them will be delegations from Providence and Worcester City Committee of the Workmen's Circle. When founded, the group played a key role in acclimating Jewish immigrants to America at the turn of the century, and in providing them with then unavailable mutual aid benefits.

"The Price," Arthur Miller's successful Broadway drama of 1968, will have a video version on NBC Feb. 3 as one of the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" series. George C. Scott, Barry Sullivan, David Burns and Colleen Dewhurst will play the four characters.

CASTLE KEEP RESTAURANT

Located in the
WALTHAM MOTOR INN
Winter St. at Rte. 128 899-8700

Dateline Waltham: The fabulous Castle Keep Restaurant located in Waltham, in keeping with their policy of providing the best possible foods for their patrons, has resorted to science. To make sure our up coming Thanksgiving Day buffet will leave you ecstatic, six of the area's leading psychiatrists screened 20 turkeys out of a possible 1000. They were judged on: lovability, appearance, disposition, emotional stability, morals, patriotism and gracefulness. Bathing suits were excluded. (We're talking about the turkeys, not the psychiatrists.) Lawrence Welk has been engaged to play for this select group around the clock. Tunes such as Chicken Reel, When It's Raining It's Pouring, and So on, etc. It's an established fact that a happy bird tastes and tastes better.

The gun goes off at noon Thanksgiving Day. Every dining room in the place will be open and swinging. Festivities will begin by tapping a barrel of cider, and from there on in you are on your own. Listen to this: roast turkeys with every kind of stuffing imaginable, baked sugar cured ham, seafood newburgh, rice pilaf, creamed onions, candied yams, turnips, squash, whipped potatoes, vegetables, gravies, sauces, relishes, salads, soups, pumpkin pies, mince pies, apple pies, with cheese, mints... oh, I could go on and on, but if you have been here, need I say more? Make it a day for Mom too, we'll do the work, you sit back and dine away. Price for all this? $4.95 for the adults, $2.95 for children 12 or under, toddlers free. To insure a bountiful supply for all, reservations will be most appreciated. I personally assure you I will do my utmost to make this day of dining a pleasurable one for you.

By the way, remember our regular week-end buffets Friday nights seafoodarama in loving color. Saturdays lump of rump night. All day Sundays blast for the entire family. I thank you all most sincerely for your past support, and am looking forward to seeing you and all your friends soon... till then... I remain

Holiday Inn In Newton Has One Of Top Keepers

Frances G. Fletcher, Innkeeper of the Holiday Inn of Newton has been named in the top 8 percent of all Innkeepers in the system of 1,250 Holiday Inns located throughout the U.S., Canada, Europe, the Caribbean, Africa and Latin America.

The announcement was made at the conference of the International Association of Holiday Inns held in Memphis, Tennessee, recently.

The Innkeepers in the top 8 percent were cited for their civic contributions, as well as being exemplary Innkeepers. Among the standards used to judge their achievements were the ratings from the company inspectors who make quarterly reports on all the Inns.

Mrs. Fletcher, a Natick resident, is one of a select group of women who hold the position of Innkeeper. Prior to assuming the top management position at the Holiday Inn of Newton, she was Innkeeper of that chain's operation in Framingham.

Oak Hill Club Scouts Have 1st Meeting

Any boy interested in becoming a "Bear or Weble" Cub Scout is invited to the next Pack meeting to be held on Tuesday (Nov. 10) at 7:30 p.m. in the Oak Hill Auditorium.

The Norumbega Council Pack 272 held its opening meeting October 13th at the School. Mr. Martin Schrieblman, Scout Master, presented a film entitled "Methods of Scouting" which served as a fine introduction to boys and their families who are new to the scouting program.

Registration is still in progress and open to boys between the ages of 8 and 10 (grades 3-5).

Events planned for this year are a pinewood derby, father and son trips, and of course, the annual Blue and Gold Dinner.

Statistic of the Week

Guns have killed more persons in Boston this year than autos.

NEWTONITE ELECTED PRESIDENT—New honors were conferred on S. Lawrence Schlager, center, of Bonnybrook Rd., Newton, when he was elected President of the Men's Associates of the nationally famed Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged. Congratulating him, left, is Milton Berger, President of the Board of Trustees. At right is Executive Director Maurice I. May, formerly of Newton.

Franklin J. Schaffner will direct "Nicholas and Alexandra" for producer Sam Spiegel and Columbia Pictures.

Baptists To Ordain Local Woman Nov. 22

Miss Veronica H. Lanier of Auburndale, will be ordained at the First Baptist Church in Medford on Sunday, Nov. 22, the second black woman to be ordained by an American Baptist church in Massachusetts within the last four years.

Miss Lanier is the seventh woman to be ordained by American Baptists since 1963.

She also becomes the only ordained black woman within the major denomination in the state. The first black woman, Dr. Olivia Pearl Stokes, now holds a position with the National Council of Churches in New York City.

Miss Lanier has been associated with the American Baptist Churches of Massachusetts since 1965 and is currently director of Children's Work in the Department of Lay Ministries. She is a member of the First Baptist Church in Medford, where her ordination will be held.

She is a graduate of Gordon College in Wenham where she received her BS degree in 1954, and Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre, where she was awarded her master's degree in Religious Education, Class of 1969.

Before coming to Massachusetts, Miss Lanier was commissioned by the American Baptist Home Mission Societies and served as program director at the Denver Christian Center in Colorado, the United Christian Centers in Sacramento, Calif., and the Woodlawn Baptist Church of Chicago, as church missionary.

Fourteen Baptist clergymen will participate in the ceremonies which will be held at 4 o'clock at the First Baptist Church in Medford.

The ordination sermon will be given by Rev. Dr. John H. Seamon, Professor of Old Testament and Hebrew at the Andover Newton Theological School.

The invocation will be offered by Rev. Wesner Fallow of Newton Centre. Miss Lanier will offer the benediction.

Dr. Turner To Dental Event

Dr. Harold Turner of Newton has been named an official delegate of the Massachusetts Society of Dentistry for Children to the 1970 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Dentistry for Children Nov. 6-8 in the Sands Hotel, Las Vegas, Nevada.

The dentist's application of current advances in dental research is the theme of the meeting, at which outstanding lecturers will discuss the most recent findings in dentistry for children and their ultimate effect on the improvement of children's dental health.

Apples will absorb odors, so store them away from potatoes and onions.

Annual Antique Show By Woman's Club On Nov. 9

Mrs. William E. Bailey of 77 Allerton Rd. in Newton Centre is again the Antique Show Chairman of the Newton Centre Club. This annual show is anticipated by all, and will be held at the Clubhouse at 1280 Centre St. on Nov. 9, 10 and 11 from one to 10 p.m. daily.

Mr. George Wheaton of "The Wheatons" in Newton Highlands is running the show, so as to speak, with dealers from many states involved from Maine to New Jersey. Cape exhibitors are very popular at this show.

Mr. Wheaton knows his business as an exhibitor in the Annual Ellis Memorial Show.

The dealers will have many beautiful antiques to display in the many shops set up in the Club building which will be brilliantly lighted adding to the beauty of the auditorium.

The Antique Show Committee includes Mrs. William E. Bailey, Chairman; Mrs. Stanford D. Blitzer, Publicity; Mrs. Stanton J. Ten Broeck, Jr., Ticket Distribution; Mrs. William R. Martineau, Treasurer; Mrs. C. Hassler Capron (President), Hostess.

Mrs. Bailey has announced the Snack Bar Committee leaders which will include Mrs. William E. Conners, Mrs. Stanton J. Ten Broeck, Jr. and Mrs. Ross L. Trenholm for the three days of the show with food served from the opening to the evening's closing donated and run by the Newton Centre Woman's Club.

Again our Snack Bar will be serving hearty sandwiches, chowders, and soups, homemade pies and cakes. Guests and members are invited, as is the public, to visit with us for lunch, or tea in the afternoon and a good supper in the evening.

Because of the Antique Show's involving the building, the regular monthly bridge, scheduled for the second Tuesday has been cancelled for this month with the Antique Show and Weight - watchers, etc. using the entire building.

4 Area Students At Lake Forest

Four Newton area students have enrolled for the Fall term at Lake Forest College, Ill., a coeducational, liberal arts college located 30 miles north of Chicago.

Enrolled are Suzana Barros, daughter of Mrs. Cecilia Ferraz of 1318 Walnut St. Newton; Betsy B. Hockberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Hockberg of 51 Prospect Ave., Newtonville; Mark L. Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Houghton, 152 Chestnut street, Newton; and Judith E. Tolnick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Tolnick, 65 Redwood road, Newton Centre.

Newline Club Meets Nov. 12

The Newline Club of Wheelock College (Newton and Brookline Alumnae) announces its Fall 1970 Meeting for Thursday evening (Nov. 12) at the home of Mrs. Robert Sperber in Brookline.

A coffee hour will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the meeting will convene at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be Mrs. Lazenby of the Women's Liberation Organization, N.O.W. Her topic will be "Women's Liberation."

All Wheelock Alumnae of Greater Boston are cordially invited.

Waste problem in Alaska wilds
Problems of wastewater disposal reach to the North Slope of Alaska, where exploitation of the rich oilfields is underway. In an area where temperatures may dip to minus 65, and alternate thawing and freezing of the tundra have made conventional wastewater treatment effective, work camps must provide their men with showers, toilets and laundry facilities for their basic needs.

Working with state and federal regulatory agencies, Met-Pro Water Treatment Corp. of Lansdale, Pa. has designed, built and shipped two skid mounted wastewater treatment systems, each with a daily capacity of 24,000 gallons. These physical-chemical systems utilize chemical coagulation, clarification and filtering to produce a safe effluent.

HEARING NOTICE

FROM OFFICE OF CITY CLERK

NEWTON, MASS.

WHEREAS, petitions have been filed with the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton as attached hereto under the "Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 25," as amended, it is ORDERED, That a hearing be had on Monday, November 23, 1970, at 7:45 P.M. at City Hall in said City of Newton, before the committee on Land Use of the Board of Aldermen, at which time and place all parties interested therein will be heard.

ORDERED, That notice of said hearing be given publication in the News-Tribune, The Newton Villager and Newton Graphic on Thursday, November 5, 1970 and Thursday, November 12, 1970.

#883-70 Zenith Products Company petition for change of zone from Private Residence to Business A District of land at 424-428 Cherry Street, Ward 3, Section 33, Block 11, Part of Lot 2, containing 5,925 square feet.

#761-70 (2) Planning Department and Land Use Committee recommending amendments to Zoning Ordinances for low and moderate income housing.

The following zoning amendments have been recommended by the Planning Department and Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen. Two alternative forms are offered for consideration—Alternative A which provides permissive use power for the construction of low-moderate income housing in residential zones, and Alternative B which creates a new zone for the same purpose.

Alternative A Permissive Use Amendments
Amendments 1 and 2 Modification to the definition of "attached dwellings" and addition of a new definition of "subsidized housing." (Section 25-1)

Amendment 3 Addition of provisions to allow subsidized two-family housing and attached dwelling by special permission of the Board of Aldermen in single-family zones, subject to certain conditions. (Section 25-5)

Amendments 4 and 5 Addition of provision to allow non-profit institutional uses by special permission of the Board of Aldermen in single-family zones, subject to certain conditions. (Section 25-5(b))

Amendment 6 Modification of garden apartment provisions in Residence D and E districts to provide land area requirements on the basis of bedroom distribution. (Section 25-6)

Amendment 7 Modification of provisions applying to subsidized attached dwellings in Private Residence, Residence D and E districts in conformance with Amendment 3. (Section 25-6 (e))

Amendment 8 Modification of lot area and lot width requirements for single and two-family subsidized housing. (Section 25-13 (a))

Amendment 9 Modification of setback, side yard and rear yard requirements for subsidized single and two-family housing. (Section 25-14 (a))

Amendment 10 Addition to parking requirements to provide for landscape screening. (Section 25-20 (g) (2))

Alternative B Community Residence Zone
Amendments 1 and 2 Modification to the definition of "attached dwellings" and addition of definition of "subsidized housing."

Amendments 3 and 4 Creation of new district known as "Community Residence."

Amendment 5 Establishment of certain permitted and permissive uses in Community Residence districts subject to certain conditions.

Amendment 6 Modification of garden apartment provisions in Residence D and E districts to provide land area requirements on the basis of bedroom distribution. (Section 25-6)

Amendment 7 Modification of provisions applying to subsidized attached dwellings in Private Residence, Residence D and E districts in conformance with Amendment 3. (Section 25-6 (e))

Amendment 8 Modification of lot area and lot width requirements for single and two-family subsidized housing. (Section 25-13 (a))

Amendment 9 Addition to parking requirements to provide for landscape screening. (Section 25-20 (g) (2))

Full and complete Texts of the above proposed Ordinances are on file in the office of the City Clerk as a public record.

ATTEST:
Joseph H. Karlin
City Clerk

Notice is hereby given by the Planning Board that it will hold public hearing on the above Petitions as described in the foregoing notice and at the same time and place.

ATTEST:
U. M. Schiavone
City Engineer, Clerk
Planning Board

Under the Zoning Ordinances of the City of Newton, an objector to a petition can best serve his purpose by filing with the City Clerk at or before the first hearing, his signed opposition in writing stating his reasons for objecting.

The above described land is subject to a Taking by the City of Newton of easement for laying out Joseph Road with right to slope and Assessment, Document 349971.

New Chairman For Red Cross Are Announced

At the Board of Directors' Meeting of the Newton Chapter American Red Cross, Robert Nickerson, Chapter Chairman, announced the newly appointed chairmen for the year 1979 - 1981.

For the office of Volunteers, Chairman is Mrs. Kenneth W. Rogers, and her vice chairman is Mrs. Albert R. Beisel, Jr. For chairman of the Blood Program, John M. Sullivan will serve. Disaster Services will have Parker Wahn as its chairman.

Gilbert Champagne will be chairman of Safety Services. Taking over as chairman of Nursing Services, is Mrs. Morton Smith-Peterson. Chairman of Personnel is Philip L. Miller. Mrs. Morris N. Adler will serve as chairman of Public Information.

T. Arnold Ferguson will be Chairman of Red Cross Youth, and Morris H. Newman is chairman of Service to Military Families.

Mr. Nickerson feels that he has a good working group to assist him in the year to come. Some of these people have served Red Cross for many years, some as much as 25 years — some are new to Red Cross.

Together they will be able to have Red Cross serve the community to its fullest capacity.

Salute To Champs At Marriott Hotel . . .

Entire Bruins Team Here For Kiddie Kamp Aid December 17

If there were a "Good Guys" cup, the Stanley Cup winning Bruins would be entitled to that one also. All the Boston Bruins players, the coach, the broadcaster and the telecaster, are going all out to help underprivileged, needy and deserving boys at a "Salute The Bruins" dinner to be held at the Marriott Hotel in Newton on Thursday, December 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Every member of the Boston Bruins will be present at a "Meet the Bruins" in person dinner. An immediate sellout is expected. Hockey fans are assured of a most enjoyable evening. All proceeds go to Horizons for Youth, an affiliate of Kiddie Kamp.

Horizons for Youth has served over 32,000 underprivileged boys at their 300 acre wooded facility on Lake Massapoag in Sharon.

Don Earle, the Bruins' telecaster and Fred Cusick, the Bruins' broadcaster, will act as co-toastmasters and will provide guests an opportunity to ask questions of their favorite players from the floor.

Dinner tickets are available at $25 each. Those desiring tickets should send a check and a self-addressed envelope to Horizons for Youth, 419 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass. 02116, or telephone 266-1130 for further information. Tables of 10 are available at $250.

At a meeting of the Dinner Committee at the Algonquin Club yesterday, Stephen Hopkins, chairman, and Lloyd Waring, president of Horizons for Youth, paid high compliments to the Bruins players and management for their interest in helping underprivileged youth of the Commonwealth.

President, Lloyd Waring stated, "At a time when the youth from middle class and upper middle class are having problems in this rapidly changing world the plight of a boy, who through no fault of his own, finds himself living under impoverished conditions so difficult with which to cope, is certainly a difficult one." "I wish to pay tribute to the Boston Bruins players for their willingness in helping make possible the betterment of youth of the Commonwealth."

Other committee members are: Monte Basbas, Mayor of Newton; Robert Cheyne, Herald Traveler; Eugene Clapp, Financier; Max Coffman, Mammoth Mart; Quintin Cristy, Cristy Dry Gas; George Doran, Narragansett, Boston, Inc.;

Also Stephen Karp, State Properties of New England; C. Charles Marran, Spencer Shoe Co.; Charles Morin, Gadsby & Hannah; Richard Morse, Morse Shoe Co.; Jerome O'Leary, Jerry O'Leary Associates; Richard S. Robie, Sr. Robie Enterprises; Jack Satter, Colonial Provisions;

Also Milt Schmidt, General Manager, Boston Bruins; George Seybolt, William Underwood Co.; Sidney T. Small, Sidmar Enterprises; Frederick Solomon, Apex; Julius Stone, Chairman, Board of Directors, Kiddie Kamp; Bert Tackeff, Nepe; Lloyd B. Waring, Kidder Peabody.

Rev. Moriarty Is Speaker At Newton Church

Rev. John J. Moriarty, executive secretary of the Society of St. James The Apostle, spoke on the subject of "Latin America" last Sunday, November 1, 1978, at 7 p.m. at the Newtonville United Methodist Church. The talk was preceded by a coffee hour at 6:30 p.m.

This meeting was sponsored by the Mission Action Committee of the Central Congregational Church and the Commission on Missions of the Newtonville Methodist Church.

Father Moriarty served in Ecuador as a supervisor of an elementary school and as a professor of American Literature at the University in Ecuador before coming to his present position.

The meeting was conducted by Rev. Baldwin Callahan, former Massachusetts Conference Minister of Missions and Stewardship for the United Church of Christ.

Sacred Heart Observes Day Of Mourning

Sacred Heart Church in Newton will observe a day of mourning for Cardinal Cushing on Friday (Nov. 6).

At one time, before becoming Archbishop of Boston, he was pastor of that parish for several years and is still remembered as a devoted pastor by many of the parishioners.

There will be a Mass at 10 a.m. for all the children of the Parish, both parochial and public school students and at 7:30 p.m. there will be a Mass for all the adults of the parish.

Temple Emeth Adult Education Lecture Series

Dr. David Neiman, professor of theology at Boston College, will give his second lecture at Temple Emeth, South and Grove streets, Chestnut Hill, in the combined adult education series on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 9 p.m.

His subject is "Judaism and Christianity: Their Historical Synthesis." — a survey of Jewish Christian inter-relationships from the rise of Christianity to the present.

Plan Combined Choir Festival On Nov. 22nd

The combined choirs of the United Churches of Christ in Newton will present a music festival at the Central Congregational Church, 218 Walnut street, Newtonville at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 22. The public is invited.

The program will include a wide range of sacred music extending from the 16th to the 20th centuries, sung by a group of over 100 men and women.

As was the case with a similar initial concert last year, the festival has been organized by the music directors and music committee chairmen of the several churches. All the directors will participate in the program.

Participating churches are: Auburndale Congregational Church, Central Congregational Church of Newton, Newton Highlands Congregational, Union Church in Waban, United Parish of Newton, Eliot Church of Newton, the First Church in Newton, the Second Church in Newton.

Aldermen Vote 15 to 7 . . . Table Resolution On Non-Violent Dissent

A resolution "exhorting all those who would seek change, to do so within the legal, political and traditional American non-violent guidelines in order to insure freedom for all" was tabled by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night.

The resolution as amended by Alderman William Carmen was a considerable revised version of one originally presented by Alderman Robert Tennant some time ago.

Tennant's original resolution had asked the board to express its conviction that "it is essential for the preservation and maintenance of the principles of the way of life upon which this nation was founded and has continued in its noble existence for nearly two hundred years, that all efforts be made to oppose and eventually eliminate the unlawful instigation of force and violence as a means of protest or dissent in the institutions and campuses across the nation, and to encourage and stimulate through education for all citizens, but especially the young, to resort only to lawful means in their expression of dissent for whatever cause or reason, and inspire through and by example and rhetoric a renewed and abiding respect for the constitution and laws and glorious flag of this country, and to impress in no lesser degree on all citizens the sacred duty to protect and defend their beloved country from all destructive forces from within or without, and all to the end that this nation may remain a land of the free and continue to serve mankind in its quest for freedom from oppression from whatever source and to achieve a more perfect peace throughout the world . . ."

Tennant's resolution had been sent to the Legislation and Rules Committee for study and a sub-committee composed of Aldermen William Wolf and Richard Bullwinkle had recommended a revised version essentially the same but slightly reworded by Carmen.

However, most of the aldermen appeared to agree with Alderman Edward Uehlein who said "I don't understand why the Board of Aldermen has to take up its time with this kind of innocuous resolution. This is what is killing this board."

Carmen's amendments to the resolution were approved by the aldermen. However, the board then voted 15 to 7 to lay the entire resolution on the table indefinitely.

N-V Woman's Club Meeting

The regular meeting of the Newtonville Women's Club was held at St. John's Church in Newtonville on Monday afternoon and opened under the gavel of Mrs. Samuel J. Melick, president.

A veterans collection was taken and reservations made for the November 16th informal dessert bridge party and food sale being planned. The speaker, Betty Nelson, spoke on "The Lost Art of Reading for Fun" after her introduction by Program Chairman Mrs. William E. Bell.

Coffee was served prior to the meeting by Hospitality Chairman Mrs. Warren W. Oliver and her committee. Pourers were Mrs. Walter N. Keene and Mrs. John F. Farrington.

Washable scraps of fabric are easy to fashion into dribble bibs for babies. Bind edges with bias tape or leftover length of lace. Milk or cream stains should be sponged with clear water then washed with soap and water.

Carved African Ivory On Display At Local Library

African ivories carved in Ghana, Nigeria and the Congo, part of the collection of Chelsea City Librarian Nicholas J. Minadakis, are the November exhibit at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

The pieces on view vary from a sophisticated work like an ivory antelope fashioned in Nigeria, to an elongated pelican, its shape defined by the shape of the tusk from which it was carved.

A standing bird and several alligators, ceremonial stools and a lion, elephant bookends and elephant jewelry, complement a selection of ivory pieces which include a necklace, earrings and a bracelet of small carved masks.

The piece de resistance, says Mr. Minadakis, is a big tusk made into a lamp, decorated with elephants and a palm tree, symbols of the colony of Gold Coast, the area which is now the independent nation of Ghana.

Hand carved objects in ebony, walnut, silver and leather complete the exhibit of African artifacts, which is enhanced by a Newton Free Library book display plus some books on Africa belonging to Mr. Minadakis, formerly director of the Cotsidas - Tonna Library of the Holy Cross Greek Orthodox Theological School, Brookline.

Mr. Minadakis made his collection during 1951-1952 when he was in the area with the United Africa Company, a British concern.

The exhibit will be on view through mid-November. Library hours are 9 to 9 daily, 9 to 6 Saturday, closed Sunday.

18 Girl Scout Councils Hold 3-Day Conferences

Girl Scout adults of Bay Path Colonial Council join 400 others from 18 Councils in New England for a 3-day conference at the Holiday Inn in Peabody on November 3-5.

The keynote speaker is Robert Lamphere, Vice President of John Hancock Life Insurance Company, on the subject — "Are You Listening to what the 70's are Telling You?"

Following this presentation, Mrs. H. Edmund Lunken, first Vice President of Girl Scouts of U.S.A., explained what the 70's are saying about the Girl Scout program.

In the evening there were Symposiums on camping trends in the 70's. Members of the panel included Waldo E. Stone, Director of Camp Union and National Board Member of the American Camping Association; Gilbert Bailey, Director of Curriculum in Lynnfield Schools; Dr. J. Bernard Everett, Assistant Superintendent of School in Newton.

On Wednesday, November 4, Dr. C. H. W. Foster, formerly Commissioner of Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources spoke on "Pollution — Any Solution?"

There were workshops featuring eight different aspects of the Scouting program. The session on Public Relations was handled by the Public Relations Committee of Bay Path Colonial Council under the chairmanship of Jason Korell, Concord.

Other members include: Mrs. Donald Dacier of Hudson, William Patton of Natick, Vincent Tusch of Newtonville, Mrs. Ralph Werman of Newton, Mrs. William J. Wilson, Jr. of Lexington.

Mrs. David Kendall of Newton will participate in the evening program on wider opportunities for girls and adults through National and International Events.

The closing program today, November 5, will feature a speech by Geoffrey Goddard of the Christian Science Monitor.

Volunteer responsibilities for conference traffic and information were handled by Mrs. Ralph Werman and Mrs. George H. Todd, Jr. of Hopkinton.

Newton Schools In New Teacher Training Course

Three Newton schools are participating in a new teacher education program developed by Lesley College.

Twenty-five Lesley students are spending one day a week at the Carr, Mason Rice and Hamilton Schools in an attempt to "bridge the gap" between theories learned on campus and actual practice in the classroom.

The students observe the children's behavior and learning processes, assist the teacher with various duties and teach short enrichment lessons.

Known as the "Core curriculum," Lesley's program provides prospective teachers with 12 one-day-a-week field experiences during each of their first three years and a full eight weeks of student teaching during the senior year. Application of coursework to classroom situations is encouraged.

Each student receives instruction in educational theory and methods from a team of two Lesley faculty members and two senior teaching fellows.

Mrs. Lucy Ulman of 166 Summer St., Newton Centre is a member of the team supervising students who are doing field work in Newton schools. Mrs. Ulman is an assistant professor of education at the college.

Andover Newton Student Named To Morgan Post

Steven E. Wilkerson of Wellesley, who has served churches in Foxboro and Walpole, has been appointed to the Chaplaincy - Rehabilitation program at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries in Boston.

Wilkerson, who is currently a student at Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Center, studying in the areas of clinical pastoral education and psychology of religion, will participate in a 15-hour a week special program at Morgan Memorial designed to broaden the experience of future clergymen by serving people with special needs.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, now celebrating its 75th birthday in 1979, is the largest voluntary non-profit and non-sectarian agency in New England serving handicapped and disadvantaged people.

In this unique setting at Goodwill's Boston headquarters, in which nearly 700 people are provided job training and rehabilitation daily, Wilkerson will be part of a chaplaincy - rehabilitation therapeutic team devoted to case study, counseling and rehabilitation.

He will work closely with Reverend Guy Steele, Chaplain of Morgan Memorial.

PEOPLE OF FRANCE FLOCK TO DE GAULLE FUNERAL VILLAGE
SUMMONED by their grief, the people of France Wednesday flocked to Colombey-Les-Deux by the thousands in an impromptu pilgrimage to see the body of Charles de Gaulle committed to the soil of France. At breakfast time, the streets of the village in the champagne district were bare. By noon, 10,000 persons had appeared. By dusk, 20,000 had arrived, and police predicted one million were coming to say farewell to the statesman-soldier when he is buried today in a quiet corner of a simple church cemetery. President Georges Pompidou had tried to obey his old chief's wish for a farewell without pomp and circumstance. But Pompidou submitted to his grief Wednesday afternoon. With Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas he flew in a helicopter to Colombey, 110 miles east of Paris, and spent 16 minutes beside the $63 oak coffin which held De Gaulle's body in the parlor of his home. In the streets outside, children stood in silence. Women wept. Raul Marniquet, a soldier in De Gaulle's Free French forces in the dark days of World War II when France was under Hitler's heel, told why he drove with his family from Charente, a distance of 400 miles. "I believe it's my duty to come to render him this modest but last homage," Marniquet said.

LULL SETTLES OVER INDOCHINA BATTLEFIELDS
A LULL settled over Indochina battlefields Wednesday and for the fourth time in six weeks communiques reported no American combat deaths. But U.S. Air Force B52s continued a blitz of the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos, now in its 35th day. In Cambodia, government commanders sent reinforcements and supplies toward Cambodian units under Communist pressure 40 miles northwest of Phnom Penh where heavy fighting was reported.

GM CORP. AND UAW REACH TENTATIVE AGREEMENT
GENERAL MOTORS CORP. and the striking United Auto Workers reached tentative agreement Wednesday on a three-year contract expected to cost the company about $2 billion and termed inflationary by the company's top negotiator. Details of the new pact, reached after a 25-hour bargaining session on the 58th day of the strike against GM, were kept secret. But it was learned the contract provides for a 51-cent an hour wage increase in the first year, including a 26-cent-an-hour carryover from the previous contract. It also includes an unlimited cost-of-living allowance, figured annually, and a step-rate retirement program allowing a worker to retire on a $500-a-month pension after 30 years' service at age 58 in the first year of the contract. The retirement age will drop one year in each of the succeeding years of the pact. Earl Bramblett, GM's chief negotiator said the increases amounted to a definition, a general definition, of inflation. UAW Pres. Leonard Woodcock refused to say whether he would recommend acceptance of the contract be approved by the International Executive Board and the UAW-GM Council.

LOUIS WOLFSON WINS REVERSAL OF 1968 CONVICTION
LOUIS E. WOLFSON, the financial wizard who parlayed a $5,000 investment into a multi-million dollar empire, Wednesday won a reversal of his perjury conviction in connection with stock dealings. Wolfson, 58, whose family foundation once had former Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas on the payroll, was found guilty in August, 1968, of conspiracy to obstruct justice and Exchange Commission regarding dealings, perjury and filing false statements with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The split decision Wednesday by the U.S. Court of Appeals reversed Wolfson's conviction on all counts. The reversal also applies to Wolfson's three co-defendants and entitles all four men to new trials. The government, thus far, has not indicated whether it will again try the four men. A principal witness had died.

3 MORE RAIL UNIONS REJECT PANEL'S RECOMMENDATIONS
THREE MORE RAILROAD unions rejected the contract recommendations of a White House panel Wednesday, but declined at this time to join a fourth union in threatening a nationwide strike for Dec. 11. "We're keeping an option open," Pres. Harold S. Crotty of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees said. "We feel it's premature at this time to say whether we will strike or not." However, Crotty made it clear that the other three unions now in a contract dispute with the nation's railroads would honor any picket lines set up by members of the fourth union, the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. BRAC Pres. C. L. Dennis said Tuesday his members would strike Dec. 11 unless there was an agreement or prospects of a settlement before then.

SUICIDE YOUTH PENS WARNING ABOUT DRUG ABUSE
PERCY PATRICK "PAT" PILON JR., 18, of Joliet, Ill., told his mother he wanted to write a letter to help somebody. He did. Then he sat down with his grandfather's shotgun pointed at his heart and pulled the trigger to end the life he said had been made "hell" by drugs. That was Saturday. Wednesday his parents released the open letter he wrote to fellow teenagers, which stated, in part: "I have used all types of drugs from hash, pot and acid to hard stuff. It's all a bad scene. The people who push it don't use it because they know it's bad stuff. They can see what it does to you. All you are doing is ruining your life and let people make money through you. . . . Man, if you are on to the stuff, please — for your sake — get off it. If you can't fight it by yourself, then get help from someone. It may be rough trying to straighten yourself out, but it's never to late. Man, at least try. . . . you don't know me, but I want to help because I needed help. . . ."

FIREBOMBS RUIN WOBURN SCHOOL, DAMAGE ANOTHER
FIREBOMBS exploded in two schools in Woburn early Wednesday, gutting one and causing minor damage to another. Arson was also blamed for a fire in a school in neighboring Wilmington, which gutted a classroom. Officials in Woburn said the Count Rumford Primary School was heavily damaged, while only minor damage was reported at adjacent Andrew R. Linscott Elementary School. Fire officials said six firebombs were planted in the West Intermediate School in Wilmington, but only one exploded, causing extensive damage to a classroom. One school committee member said damage to the Rumford School would reach $100,000 — or far more if it is necessary to replace the 95-year-old building. The committee was to meet in emergency session Wednesday night to decide where room could be found for the 175 Rumford pupils. About $2,000 damage was done to the school in Wilmington, with the damage centered around the Guidance Dept. office.

Study Projects Future School Enrollment

Report Recommends End Of $22,500 Demographic Plan

By SHIRLEY GOLDWYN

The discontinuance of the methods of projecting future school population used in the $22,500 demographic study completed last spring was recommended in a report to the Newton School Committee on Monday night by Dr. Vincent Silluzio, director of research and evaluation for the Newton School Department.

Dr. Silluzio said "it would take a considerable amount of work to make the projection model developed by the General Learning Corporation (the organization that performed the study) operational and more accurate."

However, he added, the analyses of space and facilities and the recommendations pertaining to those things in the GLC report "are apparently proving to be of considerable use to Newton planners."

In his own report on current enrollment figures and projections through 1974 Dr. Silluzio said he used the methods of NESDEC (New England School Development Council). They involve an analysis of the ratios of the enrollment in a given grade and year compared to the number of students who enroll in the next grade the following year.

80 Teen Girls Get Course In Nursery

The Newton School Committee on Monday night was given a report on a nursery school being run at Newton South High School that is giving some 80 girls an opportunity to observe first hand and participate in the child development they have been reading about in text books.

Newton South High Principal William D. Geer and Mrs. Alice Shaw, head teacher in the home economics department, told the School Committee that the school has operated a nursery school for a short time each year since 1961. However, the school for the first time this year, is being conducted each morning on a full-time basis.

Fifteen three and four year old children, at little or no cost in the laboratory school.

Sophomore girls who are taking a course in Biology and Human Development as well as junior and senior girls involved in a course in Child Growth and Development help to run the nursery school during their study or other free periods. In addition, girls involved in a child development work study program also aid in the efforts with the small children.

The school is run five mornings a week in the home economics section of the high school under the guidance of Mrs. Sahw and Mrs. Paul Mealy, a home economics teacher with background in early childhood education.

Call For Pollution Control For Drains

Alderman William Carmen, Ward 7 and Peter F. Harrington, Ward 2, Alderman-at-Large, today filed a proposal that will require the City of Newton to install anti-pollution devices in Newton's storm drain system.

In a joint release the Aldermen said, "we believe that this is the first time a city of substantial size (90,000) has attempted to introduce pollution control into an open storm drain system.

"Our proposal is designed to stop the City from contributing to the pollution of the Charles River with storm drain water containing residue from ice control chemicals; fertilizer; pesticide and herbicide compounding oil and gasoline discharges; street litter; and dust and dirt con-

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Who Will Be Dem. Candidate Against Sen. Brooks In '72

Soon to become a hot political question will be the selection of the Democratic candidate who will stand against Senator Edward W. Brooke in 1972.

Brooke probably will be a favorite to gain a second term, and he certainly would be a tough contender to oust from office.

But a Presidential election will be held that year, and it could generate a political tide which would affect Brooke's campaign.

Former Boston Mayor John F. Collins, who sought the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator in 1966, might be persuaded to carry his party's banner against Brooke, but it is unlikely he would involve himself in a primary fight if there were any other Democratic contestants.

Symphony Concert Sunday Combines With Art Show

The concert this Sunday evening, Nov. 15 of the Newton Symphony promises to be one of great interest and entertainment. The musical program will consist mainly of the work of Ludwig van Beethoven. Denes Zsigmondy, violinist, will be the featured soloist for the evening.

Before the concert and at intermission time the audience will have the opportunity to view the art work of the students of the Meadowbrook Junior High School where the concert is to take place.

William Robinson of the Art Department has prepared the art show of about 50 works of gifted students in grades seven through nine.

Three-dimensional paper masks which will be on display were the result of the students' studies of Japanese theater masks and African ceremonial masks. Block prints in various media, ink, tempera and crayon also will be shown.

Collages showing the artistic use of various materials which might otherwise be considered only utilitarian will be viewed as well as line contour figure studies.

A "Pope Concert" booth will be set up for the convenience of the audience who may wish to select seats for the Arthur Fiedler pops on Dec. 13 at Boston College which the Newton Symphony is planning to help sustain its musical activity throughout the season.

Records of the orchestra's Mozart world premieres of last season will be available.

The concert will include the Beethoven Symphony No. 7, Beethoven "Battle Symphony," Beethoven Romances for Violin and Orchestra as well as the gypsy piece, "Tzigane" by Maurice Ravel. At the conclusion the audience will be invited to a reception at the school.

Tickets will be sold at the door the evening of the concert. Reserved tickets may be ordered by calling 449-0164 or 244-0011, and they will be held at the door until just prior to the concert.

CRENNA GUESTS

Richard Crenna will play a guest role on the new Don Knotts television show in addition to producing "Make Room for Granddaddy" starring Danny Thomas.

Newton Girl Tells Of Study In India

Cynthia Ullman, Newton high school senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Ullman of Algonquin road, Newton Centre was one of sixty American Field Service Americans Abroad students spending their summer program in India.

Cindy lived in Bombay with Dr. and Mrs. K.C. Vyas and their daughters Anila 18, Shyama 14, and Bina 12. Dr. Vyas, who this year is on a UNESCO fellowship trip throughout the world studying different educational systems, is principal of the New Era school and his wife a teacher.

Learning to play the sitar, taking yoga lessons and attending classes in her "father's" school and at college as well as traveling in different sections of India occupied part of Cindy's time.

Vacations in schools in India are one month in the spring and fall.

The AFS student feels that the only field of education which seems to stress creativity is art. Most classes are devoted to a lecture with answers given to questions by the teacher from lecture or textbook sources. There are no classroom discussions or other chances to challenge ideas presented.

A meeting with the Prime Minister, visits to New Delhi and the Taj Mahal attending a Bengal wedding which lasted two days, trips through the country side as well as speaking to local Rotary clubs and Lions groups all added to Cindy's understanding of Indian life.

AFS exchange programs have helped students and their host families as well as all the friends made to achieve closer understanding of different cultures and national characteristics.

Cindy feels it was a growing, educational and maturing experience. New joys and insights were developed and a different perspective of looking at ones self and country as well as tolerance of other people was obtained.

A slide lecture will be given by Cindy November 18, 8 p.m. at St. Pauls Episcopal Church 1135 Walnut street Newton Highlands. All are welcomed.

Mr. Jacobs has attended the Berkeley Divinity School since 1966 and has served as seminarian assistant at Trinity Episcopal Church, Bristol, Connecticut and at Christ Church, New Haven. He also taught history and English at the Hamden High School in Hamden, Connecticut.

Mr. Jacobs was presented for ordination by the Rev. Edwin S.S. Sunderland, Rector of St. John's Church, preached the sermon.

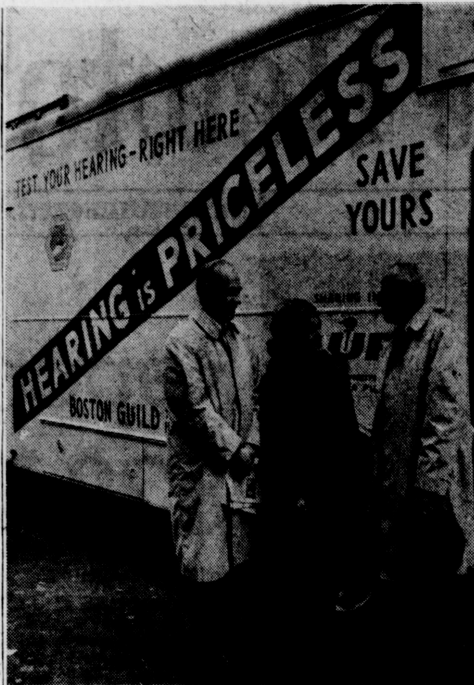

The Litany for Ordinations was read by the Rev. David P. Sprunk, Curate at St. Paul's Church, Wallingford, Connecticut. Dr. John A. Jensen of Boston College was Epistoler. The newly ordained deacon read the Gospel. The Eucharist was celebrated by the Bishop. The ordination's brother, Eric Jacobs, served as acolyte.

The Rev. Mr. Jacobs and his family were feted at a luncheon reception given by the parishioners of St. John's Church in the Parish Hall immediately after the service.

Mr. Jacobs is expected to be graduated from Berkeley

Hearing Mobile Unit To Make Local Visit

The new hearing test mobile unit, sponsored by the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, will be in Newton during the coming week.

The 35-foot mobile unit will provide screening tests for hearing of adults and pre-school children in Newton in co-operation with the Board of Health.

The Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing is a non-profit agency, a member of the United Community Services and The Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

Its responsibility is to aid in the rehabilitation of persons with hearing difficulties, through education, evaluation and guidance.

the faculty and custodians, brothers and sisters of students and several were chosen by random selection from the Emerson School District in Newton Upper Falls with the aid of the principal of that school, Donald Welch.

The high school participants spend the usual amount of time in their regular classes, but about six at a time, on a rotating basis, donate free periods to help plan activities for and run the pre-school program.

The teenagers range in abilities and goals from those who hope to go to the top colleges to those who are not college bound, Mrs. Shaw said.

They are made aware of speech development, muscular coordination, growth of socialization and other aspects of child growth and are able to see for themselves the things they learn about in theory in their classrooms.

Though it has only been in operation for seven weeks it has already helped to develop the high school student's ego identity and sense of responsibility. It also serves as a means of exploring new possibilities for future occupation, Mrs. Shaw said.

Geer stated that the program is having an impact on a number of students in the school. "I have seen a complete change in attitude in some of the girls in terms of grades and involvement," he said.

One-Man Show of Cape Ann Paintings Library Feature

"I've been painting since I was 15 years old," says 32-year-old Bob Nally of Gloucester, whose one-man show, "All Seasons of Cape Ann," opens at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, on Monday, November 24.

"My studio is the out-of-doors," and I've painted in weather so windy I've had to weight my easel with rocks till it fell over. I've worked when the temperature fell to 10 degrees below zero, and I've painted with snow cascading down on me from overhanging trees."

Nally says he seldom has a definite spot in mind when he starts out on a painting trip. He just drives until he finds something that's pleasing, sets up, starts out with a turpentine wash, and establishes what he is going to do — the picture's composition, arrangement. The if the weather should worsen and send him indoors, he can keep working on the canvas.

Since his early painting days at Gloucester High School, Nally has been working with the well-known North Shore artist, Ken Gore, who says of him:

"Bob Nally has been my painting companion since he was in high school. We have shared painting trips to most parts of New England, and, on occasion, on an extended trip to Mexico. It has been my privilege to watch his art efforts grow and mature to a high degree of artistic skill. This has all come about through lots of hard work and his love of the out-of-door world of painting materials."

Of the 30 pieces in the Library show, most are landscapes and seascapes of the Cape Ann area: Rockport, Manchester, Ipswich, Hamilton, Gloucester, and Wingersheek, on sunny days and cloudy, snowy winter days and bright spring ones. The largest painting, a 40 x 50 seascape, is "Early Morning at Bass Rocks."

Nally, whose wife is the former Diane Martell of Gloucester, has one daughter, Nallisa, 4, named for a boat owned by a favorite uncle. Nally is a member of the Rockport Art Association, the North Shore Art Association, and of Academic Artists, Springfield, Massachusetts. The one-man show, preceded by a private preview at the home of Nally's long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shattuck, Newton, will be exhibited at the Main Library from November 23 through December 11.

Fr. Drinan In Strong Bid For Israel Support

The Rev. Robert F. Drinan, elected to Congress in the Massachusetts Third District, gave wholehearted endorsement to a U.S. policy of strong support for the State of Israel in the current Mid-East crisis.

This endorsement was made at a recent meeting of the Special Committee on Israel, sponsored by the N. E. Regional American Jewish Congress, held Sunday, Oct. 18 at Boston University Hillel Foundation. Attorney Sumner Z. Kaplan of Brookline is chairman of the Special Committee. Sol Baker of Newton is president of the region.

Among other comments, Father Drinan said: "There is a duty not only of the U.S. but of the whole western world to defend Israel. . . . This is a unique nation. Disappearance of its people would be genocide and the elimination of a religion. There is a legal and moral obligation to the existence of Israel. . . . The United States also has an obligation to defend Israel because it is a democracy."

Father Drinan also maintained that "The Big Four should not decide the fate of the area. The people should settle their own differences. . . . Only Israel has the right to decide what happens to Jerusalem."

Local Artist's One-Man Show Opens Nov. 22

A collection of 30 to 40 paintings, collages and graphics by Gladys Winn comprise the "one-man" show featured by Galleri III on Route 20, Sudbury, in a pre-holiday exhibit, the first comprehensive showing of the local artist's work.

Mrs. Winn, of 92 Deborah road, Newton, studied with many well-known Boston artists after attending the Museum Art School, Vesper George School of Art and the Massachusetts College of Art.

Her work, which won an award in 1969 at the Cambridge Art Association, has previously been shown at the Brookline Art Center, Fuller Memorial, Symphony Hall, Galleri III, Jordan's Annual Art Show, the Boston Arts Festival and at a special show at the home of Mrs. Frederick Krupp.

The Gladys Winn exhibit which will run from November 22nd to December 6th, will have an invitational opening on November 22nd from 2 to 5 p.m. Galleri III hours are regularly 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Closed Mondays.

RECORD

Taxpayer's Assoc. Elect New Officers This Week

Election of officers for the coming year was the main event of the annual meeting of the Newton Taxpayer's Association.

Re-elected President of the Association was Nissie Grossman, president of L. Grossman Sons, Inc.; Willard G. Bodge, Donald P. Frail and Stewart G. Orr were re-elected vice-president, treasurer and clerk respectively.

Four new directors joined the board: Herbert Alpert, Ralph L. LeBlanc, Alan Jay Rosenstein and Keith G. Willoughby.

Silp, a practicing attorney, former vice-president of the New Haven railroad and builder of the Logan International Hotel at the airport in Boston, has recently acquired the former Charter House Motel on Route 9, now renamed the Chestnut Hill Hotel. He also built, owns and operates the Friendship International Hotel at Baltimore, Md. airport.

LeBlanc, sole principal in the firm of Ralph Louis LeBlanc Associates, has been responsible for many structures recently and currently being built in New England. He was a member of the Advisory Committee of the Town of Brookline before moving to Newton Center.

Rosenstein, a partner in the firm of Gray & Gray, certified public accountants, is immediate past president of Temple Beth David of Canton, Mass. and is treasurer and a director of the Cerebral Association of the South Shore. He lives in Newton Highlands.

Willoughby is vice-president and investment officer of the

Puppet Party At Library Fri., Nov. 20

All Newton moppets are cordially invited to come to a puppet party on Friday, (Nov. 20), at 3:30 p.m. at Newton Lower Falls branch of the Newton Free Library.

The party, a Children's Book Week feature of the Newton Free Library, honors the publication of "How to be a Puppeteer" (The McCall Publishing Company), a new book by Eleanor Boylan, the puppet lady of Newton.

Mrs. Boylan, a past president of the New England Guild of Puppetry, is a favorite of local children, has demonstrated her special skills in all Newton elementary schools, and has made magic with her imaginative puppet actors all over the East. She also holds summer workshops at which children create their puppets, develop their own stories, and stage performances.

Lower Falls branch librarian Clara Hutchins urges area children to bring their own puppets and share a puppet parade with Mrs. Boylan at the November 20 party in her honor, where simple refreshments will be served.

8 Camp Fire Girls Earn Money for UF

Eight 6th grade Camp Fire Girls from the Angier School have recently completed a project which involved learning about the United Fund. Several meetings were spent discussing the agencies supported by the fund, of which Camp Fire is one, and how these agencies help the community.

The girls learned what "Fair Share" giving is, and why it is important. From these discussions evolved a plan whereby the group could give their Fair Share; and on Sunday, November 1st, a fund-raising carnival was held in one of the girl's back yard.

Decorated booths housed a fortune teller, a jelly bean guessing contest, a bake sale and other money making ideas.

A gift of over $15 was sent to the United Fund as a result.

The Camp Fire Girls were: April Bloom, Maxine Effenson, Debbie Fine, Ellen Freedman, Cathy Parnes, Holly Rosenfield, Nancy Slotnick and Suzy Sudikoff. Their Camp Fire Guardian is Mrs. Manuel Rosenfield, assisted by Mrs. Bernard Sudikoff.

However, since 10.5 new teacher positions were included in this year's budget, there are actually a few more teachers in the school system this year than there were last year.

Dr. Laurits also noted that by next year, according to present predictions, "we will have reduced kindergartens by nine sessions."

School Committeeman Alvin Mandell said he regarded Dr. Sullizio's report as "far superior" to the General Learning Corp. study.

Mandell also stresses that future space needs should be based on Newton students only, and not on non-residents in the schools. He said there are 127 Metco students in all the schools and 146 non-resident students at Newton Technical High School.

Dangerous Fund

A five-year-old Detroit boy died after eating candy spiked with heroin which was given him when he was making his trick or treat rounds with two older brothers on Halloween night.

A nine-year-old Dedham boy was given a candy bar containing a razor blade under similar circumstances.

He could have suffered ghastly cuts if he had bitten into the side of the chocolate bar in which the sharp edge of a single-edge razor blade was concealed. Fortunately, the youngster's shocked mother discovered the blade as her son was preparing to take the candy bar to school to eat.

Only people with sick minds could perpetrate this sort of act on unsuspecting children. Unfortunately, there are too many people with sick minds, and once this sort of tragic thing starts it is likely to continue.

Parents should give the most careful thought to the implications contained in these two widely separated instances, and the implications are that there are dangers involved for an innocent child who engages in trick or treat fun on Halloween.

For the protection of the children themselves it may be that the sensible step would be to discontinue the trick or treat custom and let the youngsters enjoy Halloween festivities within the safety of their own homes. Apart from the possible dangers from people with twisted minds, some boys and girls are injured every Halloween.

It does not seem the Halloween trick or treat fun is worth the possible price in terms of potential dangers to the small boy or girl.

Assault on Free Speech

David Frost came over from England to become an almost instant success as a TV personality with his own program and a consistently high rating for drawing the attention of viewers.

His guests have been far from nobodies. High government officials, leaders in the arts and sciences as well as top stars in the entertainment world have been on his program.

He's a good headline-watcher, too, and sometimes his choice of guests has been from among those whose claim to fame is little more than a bit of adverse notoriety.

Such a one was Jerry Rubin whose insane exhortations to violence and slimey-worded denunciations of the U.S. have become so old hat that he now has trouble getting listeners beyond his own crazed circle.

Doing a show in England over BBC, Frost came up with Rubin as a guest. His appearance before the TV mikes and cameras wasn't long for Rubin. When Frost didn't go along with Rubin's proffer of a marijuana cigarette, Rubin gave a pre-arranged signal to self-styled yuppies in the audience.

The hirsute stooges took over the program shouting obscenities and driving Rubin's host off the stage. After order had been restored Frost opined that the episode had given the English TV viewers an idea of the kind of people Rubin and his followers actually were.

Frost fell into the same trap used by Rubin in a TV program on this side of the Atlantic when he opened his coat to display to the camera and the audience an American flag he was wearing as a shirt.

Under the guise of free speech, both TV and radio have made their facilities available to men and women whose philosophies are openly dedicated to the destruction of the American Constitution and with it free speech for everyone but themselves.

When things go wrong, the stations and networks can blame themselves.

Deserters' Plight

Sweden is becoming less than the picturesque, charmingly friendly, altogether idyllic refuge military deserters from the United States pictured only a couple of years back.

Many Swedish nationals have become cool to the exiles. Police are often hostile, especially to those running afoul of the law. A dozen are serving long sentences for selling drugs. A 15-year-old girl who foiled a holdup attempt in a bank by an American armed with a toy pistol was hailed as a heroine.

It is estimated there are between 400 and 500 deserters and draft resisters in Sweden today, most of them living in the major cities of Stockholm and Malmö. About four deserters a month are slipping into the country, principally from U.S. Army units in Germany.

However, the Scandinavian government has put some qualifications around its welcome mat. It is now turning back GIs fleeing their units if they cannot show that they are ticketed for service in Vietnam.

Not all the American exiles have turned to crime but in addition to cultural differences, the language barrier and the food to which they are not accustomed, most deserters are experiencing difficulties in finding jobs with adequate incomes.

Some complain they are abandoned by parents and families in this country and cite letters they send home which bring no answers. Some, able to go to school, can earn as high as $130 a month in exchange for long hours as dishwashers, janitors or garbage collectors.

FREEDOM'S LIGHT

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

Incensed At Citizens Caucus

Editor of The Graphic:

As the citizens of Newton come out of post-election hangover and prepare for the next election (December 8 — special election to fill vacancy on the Board of Aldermen caused by Franklin Flaschner's elevation to the bench), we will hear a great deal about the November 5 "Citizens' Caucus" at the Hyde School. The Caucus "nominated" a newcomer to the city, Michael Malec, to be the candidate endorsed by Newton's Fair Housing, Americans for Democratic Action and Coalition for New Politics for the aldermanic spot, and the Caucus attempted to extort a commitment from all persons present to support him.

I attended the caucus and am so shocked and disgusted at the political lust for power represented there that I believe all the citizens of Newton should know about the meeting in detail.

"Each person who attended was required to pay $1.00 as a condition to being allowed to vote. The rationalization for this 'poll tax' collected on city-owned property was that it was the best way to meet expenses and start a campaign fund for the winner."

"Any person who paid $1.00 was entitled to vote, whether or not he or she was a member of one of the sponsoring organizations (FH, ADA, NCNP) and whether or not he or she was a resident of Newton. Friends of mine recognized a number of residents of Cambridge, Lexington and Weston present and voting."

"Only three of the eight active candidates for the aldermanic vacancy were permitted on the speakers' platform. One additional candidate, Mr. Packer, was allowed to speak briefly after the audience itself became disgusted at the strong-arm gavel tactics of the moderator, Mr. Guberman, but the audience was not permitted to question him or vote for him. It was explained by one of the organizers (the wife of the Newton A.D.A. President) that 'The Committee' had interviewed all eight candidates but would only let the audience consider the three who agreed, if elected, to vote for the compromise NCDF package without any changes."

"There were and are significant differences between the three candidates who spoke and answered questions: Malec, Harold Band and Robert Sandman. These differences relate to talent, competence, knowledge of the City and its problems, intelligence, social concern and experience. All felt, as I do, that Newton has a moral and practical obligation to do its part to provide low-income housing. Malec is a graduate of an elite city but in an explosive metropolitan area; but only two of the candidates saw genuine merit in the compromise NCDF package which gives first preference to poor people who are already residents of Newton. The third candidate, Mr. Malec, said he would like to see the entire Inner City of Boston moved out to Newton."

"After the candidates had spoken and answered questions they left and members of the audience spoke. The comments were illuminating. It became apparent that there were two objectives: (1) getting the 18th vote for N.C.D.F. and (2) getting Democratic Party control of the Board of Aldermen. We were told by the President of A.D.A. in Newton: "This is no time to be idealistic. We've got to be realistic." Another strong spokesman on the critical importance of electing a Democrat was a man who introduced himself as a member of the State Democratic Committee. From the comments and looking around it became increasingly obvious that the meeting was packed with Democrats (i.e. most of the Democrats who are now members of the Board of Aldermen were resent but only two Republican aldermen were there). The one official (the chairman of the War Five Democratic Committee) who protested this partisan outlook toward elections which the City Charter declares to be non-partisan was greeted with stony silence.

"When the first vote was taken the Republican (an M.I.T. graduate and an engineer) received the smallest number of votes and was eliminated. On the runoff ballot, the young (29) sociology professor (a Loyola and Purdue graduate) was picked as the candidate. Prior to balloting, one person declared as a speech in support of his candidacy: 'He turns me on.' Quare whether this is what A.D.A. and its affiliates want for Newton?"

Mayor Kevin H. White is another possibility if he wins a second term next November as chief executive of the capital city. White says he has reached no decision yet as to whether he will seek reelection.

Attorney General Robert H. Quinn might see his sights on the Senate although it's generally expected he will serve out his term as Attorney General and seek the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1974.

The election of an overwhelmingly Democratic Legislature pointed out the fact that Massachusetts is basically and fundamentally a Democratic State and that no Republican involved in a state-wide election contest can take anything for granted.

The election of a State Senate that is 3-1 Democratic and a House of Representatives where the Democrats will hold nearly a 3-1 advantage makes Governor Sargent's victory over Mayor White all the more remarkable but at the same time forecasts trouble for the Governor.

In the light of the political makeup of the Legislature which will serve for the next two years, it seems almost incredible that Republicans have held the Governorship for eight of the past 10 years and that Mr. Sargent's upcoming term in his own right will extend the GOP rule of the Governor's office to 12 out of 14 years.

Governor Sargent probably will be obliged to abandon his running fight over a reduction in the size of the House of Representatives if he hopes to get any kind of program through the Legislature.

In the clear light of hindsight, however, it would appear that the Legislature made two big contributions to the election victory achieved by the Governor.

One came in 1969 when Democratic members of the House threw out Mr. Sargent's tax program and substituted one of their own. The other was when the Legislature blocked the move to place the question of cutting the House on the ballot.

Actually, a slash in the size of the House would not be the great reform claimed by Governor Sargent and the League of Women Voters, but many people have been brain-washed on the matter.

Incidentally, several political columnists have reported that no candidate for Governor ever has won election after failing to get the endorsement of his party's State Convention. That is not the fact. James M. Curley was defeated at the 1934 Democratic State Convention but then came back to win both the primary and the election and served two stormy years as Governor.

Curley in his prime would have been quite a performer in a debate such as that staged by Governor Sargent and Mayor White.

Spectacular Run by Philbin Probably Helped Fr. Drinan

Congressman Philip J. Philbin made a sensational showing in rolling up 45,734 sticker votes, but in the process of his tremendous fight he probably elected Father Robert F. Drinan and defeated Republican Representative John McGlennon of Concord.

That is the judgment of most political experts who have studied the returns in a close race which saw Father Drinan nose out McGlennon by only 3587 votes.

They believe that more of Philbin's disappointed supporters would have voted for McGlennon than for Father Drinan. That, of course, is a question which will be argued in political circles for a long time to come.

With no intention to reflect on Father Drinan or his victory, the departure of Congressman Philbin from the public scene less than two months from now but that means only the barest of existence.

About 50 of the exiles have returned to the United States to "face the music," most of the rest cautiously voice bitterness about the operations of Swedish welfare and police bureaucracies.

They weren't forced to take the road they chose. That choice was freely made. Many in the number have willingly seized the opportunity to denounce the land of their birth to become the momentary tools of anti-American propagandists.

They are learning the way of the turncoat has been historically difficult . . . and they are learning it the hard way.

will be a cause of regret. During his 14 terms and 28 years on Capitol Hill he accomplished a great deal for his district and for the State.

A number of readers have written in to ask if Father Drinan can be both a Congressman and a priest. The answer is that he can. Father Drinan, incidentally, plans to live at a Jesuit community at Georgetown University while he is in Washington.

Ted Facing Fight To Hold Asst. Majority Leader Post

Indications are that Senator Edward M. Kennedy will face a hard fight at the start of next year when he stands for reelection to his position as assistant majority leader in the U.S. Senate.

Ted, who took the post away from Senator Russell B. Long of Louisiana two years ago, will be challenged by Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. He sought the job in 1969 only after unsuccessfully trying to persuade Senator Edmund Muskie to stand for the position.

The lineups of Senators for and against Ted Kennedy have not yet taken clear form, but generally it will be a fight between a liberal and conservative Senator, and most observers on Capitol Hill expect Ted will ride out the challenge and gain another term.

Four of the Senators who supported Ted Kennedy against Russell Long at the start of the 1969 session — Albert Gore of Tennessee, Joseph Tydings of Maryland, Ralph Yarborough of Texas and Stephen Young of Ohio — will be missing when the Senate reconvenes in January.

Gore, Tydings and Young will be replaced by Republicans who will not be involved in the Kennedy-Byrd battle. Yarborough's successor, Senator-elect Lloyd M. Bentsen, is a conservative Democrat and probably would vote for Byrd. That represents a net gain of one vote for Byrd.

Three of the Senators who voted for Long in 1969 also will not be returning to the Senate in 1971. They are Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut and Cecil Holland of Florida.

McCarthy will be succeeded by Hubert H. Humphrey who is more likely to vote for Ted Kennedy than for Byrd. Dodd will be replaced by a Republican, and Holland's place will be taken by Senator-elect Lawton Chiles, a moderate Democrat. How Chiles will vote is uncertain.

Senator Byrd is a conservative Democrat who has supported most of President Nixon's policies and has opposed some Democratic programs. This will help him get southern backing but will hurt him in the north.

The outcome of the clash probably will depend on Ted's ability to hold some of the Senators who voted for him in 1969 when Ted defeated Russell Long 31 to 26. It promises to be a highly interesting fight.

Sarge Hints Job Offer For Sen. Pres. Maurice Donahue

Governor Sargent hinted the other day that he may offer retiring State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue a high position in the educational field.

This would be applauded by a great many persons who consider Donahue a man of outstanding ability.

His talents, however, are not limited to the area of education. Donahue probably knows as much about the state government as any living person.

But he was a school teacher before entering politics, has demonstrated outstanding qualities of leadership and would make an excellent president for one of the state colleges or universities.

The Governor was asked about the possibility of appointing Donahue to a state position when he was being interviewed by a panel of newsmen on a television show on Channel 56.

He replied that although Donahue was a member of the opposing party and had run for Governor, he "should not be lost to the state government."

"Anywhere in the education field he'd be most qualified," Mr. Sargent added. He also said he has not yet talked with Donahue.

His remarks were construed to mean that he intends to talk with the Senate president, who lost to Mayor Kevin H. White in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, and will offer him a major position in the educational field. Donahue is a Holy Cross graduate.

No Real Likelihood Exists That Ted Will Be Drafted

A reader asks whether there is any real likelihood that Senator Edward M. Kennedy will be drafted as the Democratic candidate for President in 1972 in view of his repeated statements that he will not seek his party's Presidential nomination.

The chances of a legitimate draft of Ted Kennedy or, for that matter, anyone else, for the Presidency are so remote as to be virtually non-existent.

Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine has stopped just short of announcing his candidacy for President, and the guessing is that Ted Kennedy will wind up supporting Muskie. He tried two years ago to persuade the Maine Senator to stand for a position of Assistant Majority Leader before seeking that post himself.

Except under such rare circumstances as developed in the late spring of 1968 when Ted's brother Bobby was murdered in a Los Angeles hotel after winning the California Presidential Primary, Ted could get the Democratic Presidential nomination only if he established his right to it by winning the Presidential Primaries in key states.

That was how his late, great brother John F. Kennedy put together the basis of his strength at the 1960 Democratic national convention where he prevailed over Lyndon Johnson.

JFK won every Presidential Primary in which he contested, and he gained the support of other State delegations by informing Governors that he would oppose them in their primaries unless they clambered onto his bandwagon.

A non-candidate could not wage the kind of hard-nosed fight John Kennedy made in 1960. Realistically, the fight for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972 would be all over before any draft could be contrived.

Nixon Must Know Something The Rest of Us Don't Know

If President Nixon is correct in his forecast that the war in Vietnam will be over by 1972 and that the United States will be prosperous by the next Presidential election, he almost certainly will be residing at the White House through 1976.

According to Time Magazine, Mr. Nixon also prophesied that the upward trend of crime in the nation would be reversed before he stands again for the Presidency.

That these things would be good for the United States and its citizens is, of course, more important than the fact that they would virtually assure President Nixon's re-election.

The trouble is that some observers believe that Mr. Nixon may be a bit over-optimistic in his predictions. They express some doubt that his politicians will produce prosperity within the next two years.

And if President Nixon is in a position to forecast the end of the war in Vietnam next year, he must know something the rest of us don't know. That, of course, is completely within the realm of possibility.

New York Sen-Elect Buckley Is Resident of Connecticut

James L. Buckley, the newly elected conservative Senator from New York State, is actually a resident of Connecticut but maintains a voting address in New York City.

Buckley lives with his wife and their six children in Sharon, Conn. As far as this writer can ascertain, he intends to continue living there and has no plans for moving his family into New York State which he will represent as a U.S. Senator.

There was a time when the issue of non-residency was enough to defeat a candidate for public office. It wasn't even an issue in Buckley's contest.

Incidentally, Buckley was quoted in a news dispatch as declaring the politicians he admires most are Ronald Reagan, George Bush and John Tower. What about Spiro? ?

Sandman Enters Campaign To Be Local Alderman

Robert L. Sandman of Waban, has announced his candidacy for Alderman-at-large in Ward 5.

He has resided in Newton for the past thirty-one years, is a professional engineer and is president of Sandman Electric Company, Inc., in Boston.

Active in civic affairs, including the Newton Community Council, Boy Scouts of America, Massachusetts Citizens Committee for Dental Health and Newton Citizens for Dental Health, Newton Safety Committee, Parent-Teachers Association, Community Fund, he also has many professional affiliations and is a member of Temple Shalom in Newton.

Bob Sandman graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and served in the U.S. Naval Air Force during World War II. He is married to the former Guitelle Hurvitz. They have four teenage children, Mark, Martha, Jonathan and Roger.

The office of Alderman-at-large in Ward 5, will be filled at a special election on December 8, in Newton. This election is necessary because of Judge Franklin Flachsen's resignation, following his appointment to the Newton District Court earlier this year.

Temple Emeth
To Present First
Of 2 Lectures

Dr. Marshall Sklare, Professor of American Jewish Studies at Brandeis University will give the first of a two part lecture for the Combined Adult Education Institute at Temple Emeth on Tuesday evening, November 17. His subject is "The New American Jew."

(The follow-up lecture will be on "The New American Jewish Community").

Dr. Sklare also taught at Yeshiva University and at the Hebrew University, and has been Director of the Scientific Research Division of the American Jewish Committee. He is the author of "Jewish Identity on the Suburban Frontier: A Study of Group Survival in the Open Society" and of "Conservative Judaism: An American Religious Movement."

Dr. Sklare says the following regarding his first lecture: "While the problem of the generation gap is a familiar one, there is an even more striking cleavage in Jewish life: the emergence of the 'new American Jew.' The new American Jew need not be someone of college age; he may be the parent of a college student. The new American Jew need not be someone who is alienated; he may be very much part of the establishment."

"The distinctiveness of the new American Jew resides in the fact that his pattern of Jewish identity — and the difficulty he finds in achieving a viable pattern of identity — differs in fundamental respects from that of previous generations of Jews."

Conservators Plan Walk Sunday
To Visit Norumbega Park Ghosts

For its fourth and final walk this fall, Newton Conservators, Inc. will take a trip on Sunday, November 15 through privately owned Norumbega Trust land as well as the small MDC holding there.

The old Norumbega Park ghosts remain in the form of stone foundations, paved walks leading nowhere, and a clutter of metal and wooden debris representing the last mortal remains of amusement rides.

The Charles River shoreline is accessible via River Path, a city easement leading from Islington Road. Access to the MDC easement along the river is cut off by a fence which extends to the water's edge. With permission from the Norumbega Trustees, the Conservators will gain access to Trust land through a hole in the fence.

The MDC easement meets the Trust land half way up a steep slope, and the difficulties in maneuvering this public area will be very evident to those on Sunday's walk.

The Conservators emphasize that no responsibility for personal safety is assumed by the owners of Norumbega Trust land.

The third Conservator walk on November 1 found about 30 people exploring some of the more obscure reaches of Cold Spring. Director John B. Penney described some of the Recreation Department plans under consideration, and the Conservators gave a capsule history of land use since the 17th century days of the old Alcock Swamp.

Because of difficulties of access into the swamp itself the participants formed three groups, and each group in turn was able to walk through the wooded pond area, the newly acquired Coletti parcel, and the bank of Cold Spring Brook.

Second Church
Exhibits Patole
Art Nov. 15-22

Lemuel Patole of Bombay, India, who exhibited his paintings and etchings at Second Church in West Newton in 1965, will again be exhibiting there this month.

A graduate of American Mission schools in Bombay, Mr. Patole came to the United States in 1962, and studied art at Hope College, Michigan, and the New York School of Visual Arts.

In 1964 and 1969 he was the winner of the Lit-Lit International Christmas card contest. His painting, "Pentecost," was included in "The Bible Around the World" published by Friendship Press.

In 1967, he founded and developed a Christian Art Studio in Bombay.

This exhibition, entitled "The Gospel Through Eastern Eyes," will be held in the Parish House of the Second Church in Newton, Chestnut and Highland Streets, West Newton, November 15-22, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Art Committee of Second Church invites the public to share in the enjoyment of this unusual exhibit.

Conservator directors Thelma Fleishman, Helen Heyn, and Rita Barron led the groups. The walk on Sunday, November 15, will start at 2 p.m. and will take about an hour. Starting point will be at the River Path end of Islington Road, which is reached off Commonwealth Avenue, east of Marriott.

There is ample parking along the road, and the Conservators request that cars be taken not to drive onto the grassy oval, which is a small city park. In case of inclement weather, this particular walk schedule will be cancelled. For information, please call Conservator Information chairman Mrs. Rita Barron (527-5214).

Philharmonia Lists Concerts
Starting Nov. 22

Three Newton residents are members of the Boston Philharmonia which will present a series of four Sunday evening concerts in its 1970-71 season, all at Sander's Theatre in Cambridge, starting at 7 o'clock.

Local members are Mrs. Dorothy Alpert of 123 Walnut Hill road, Newton Highlands; Mrs. Charlotte Marty of 28 Roundwood road, Newton Upper Falls, and Mrs. Kay Knudsen of 43 Halcyon road, Newton.

On Nov. 22, Alexander Schneider will open the series with Corelli's Concerto Grosso Opus 6, No. 1 in D Major; Stravinsky's Dumbarton Oaks Concerto, and two Mozart works: the Clarinet Concerto in A Major, K. 622, Harold Wright, clarinetist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, soloist; and the Early G. Minor Symphony, K. 183.

NOTE OF THANKS

I wish to acknowledge with sincere appreciation the work of the many devoted men and women of our community who assisted me so ably in the recent election.

My sincere appreciation is also extended to the voters of Newton for reelecting me as their Representative in the State Legislature.

My every effort will be to merit the continuing confidence of my friends and neighbors and to give my constituents responsible and responsive representation.

Sincerely,
THEODORE D. MANN

Papal Blessing Bestowed at Conway-Struck Wedding

St. Bernard's Church, Wickford, R.I., was the scene recently of the marriage of Miss Ruthmarie Struck to Dr. James Francis Conway Jr. of Depew, N.Y.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Struck of Saunderton, R.I. Dr. and Mrs. James F. Conway of Chestnut Hill, formerly of Rosindale, are the groom's parents.

The Rev. Richard C. Conway, brother of the groom, celebrated the 3 o'clock nuptial mass. A reception was held at the Datum Officers Club in Newport, R.I.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an ivory silk gown made with an empire bodice and long sleeves of Chantilly lace, en traine.

A crown of matching lace appliques held in place her illusion mantilla. She carried a prayer book topped with orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. John J. O'Rourke was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a gown made of navy blue India silk. Identically costumed, the maid of honor was Miss Mildred Struck, another sister of the bride and Miss Mary E. Dowd was bridesmaid. Young Maureen O'Rourke was her aunt's flower girl. She wore a white dotted Swiss frock.

Michael G. Conway served as his brother's best man. Another brother, Stephen T.

Glass Blowing At Joint Meeting Of Woman's Clubs

The Woman's Club of Newton Highlands will meet at the Workshop on Columbus street for a joint meeting with the Newton Federation of Woman's Clubs on Wednesday, Nov. 18. There will be a petit luncheon at 12:30 followed by the business meeting at 1:45 o'clock.

Hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. Donald C. Root, chairman, Mrs. Russell Monto and Miss Clara West. A special guest will be Mrs. Frederic J. Christiansen, 12th District Director.

The Art Corner features the Far East with a display managed by Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Harry Walen.

The program of the afternoon will feature Leigh B. Howell, who has devoted a lifetime to the art of glass blowing, as did his people before him.

Mr. Howell has taught the art to young people — many of whom have the mistaken idea they can learn all there is to know about glass blowing in a few lessons. This of course is far from true, as there is virtually no end to its development.

Lecture Friday At Parish Hall

The second World Affairs Lectures by Geoffrey Godsell, Foreign Affairs Editor for The Christian Science Monitor, will be presented this Friday, November 13 at the First Unitarian Society Parish Hall, West Newton Square.

Mr. Godsell is being presented by the Newton Branch Alliance of the Society for an enlightening analyses of current world situations.

Tickets are available at the door. Baby sitting service free on request — phone Mrs. Henry Whitmore, Jr., 527-3181.

Conway, William J. Struck, brother of the bride, Anthony V. O'Malley Jr., and Dr. Edward F. Eagan were ushers. After a trip to Bermuda, Dr. and Mrs. Conway plan to live in Depew, N.Y.

The bride, a graduate of Salve Regina College, served in the Army Nurse Corps in Vietnam.

Dr. Conway was graduated from Boston College High School, Boston College and Tufts University School of Medicine. Having served with the Army Medical Corps in Vietnam, he is now a resident in urology at the University of Buffalo.

Seated within the sanctuary during the mass were the Rt. Rev. Harry Struck of Connecticut, the Very Rev. John Struck of Providence, R.I., uncles of the bride; the Rev. Michael A. Campbell C.P., of St. Gabriel's Monastery, Brighton, uncle of the groom; the Very Rev. Brendan Breen C.P., rector of St. Gabriel's Monastery; the Rev. John McConnell of Providence; the Rev. Philip Moriarty S.J., of Xavier School, Concord; and the Rev. Robert E. Ferrick S.J. of Boston College. (photo by D.A. Gunning)

MRS. PAUL DOUGLAS HURLEY

Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Gibbons, Mr. Hurley

Bermuda was the honeymoon destination of Mr. Paul Douglas Hurley and his bride, the former Ann Marie (Nancy) Gibbons, who were married at a recent afternoon ceremony in St. Mary's Church, Dedham.

Rev. John P. Haran, cousin of the bride, officiated at the three o'clock, double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass which followed.

Moseley's on - the - Charles was the scene of the reception. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gibbons of 131 Walnut street, Dedham. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hurley of 22 Kerna road, West Roxbury.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length empire gown of white sateen fashioned with a smocked bodice, a high neckline, full bishop sleeves and a cathedral length train. Venise lace trimmed the neckline, bodice and sleeves of the gown.

Her four - tiered silk illusion bouffant veil was caught to a Juliette cap of matching Venise lace, and she carried a bouquet of orchids, chrysanthemums and roses in blue and white, with gold wheat and fern. Miss Suellen Gibbons of Dedham, as her sister's maid

Art Assoc. Demonstration By Freniere

Well known lecturer, demonstrator, former gallery owner, and artist Richard Freniere, will give a demonstration for the Newton Art Association, Thursday (November 19th) at 7:30 p.m. at the Mason-Rice School in Newton Centre.

Freniere, who has been a professional since 1944, teaches private classes at his studio in Concord, where he now resides.

At the meeting he will work in acrylics although he is well versed in all medias, traditional and contemporary. Much of his work is of a commercial nature so he is able to incorporate his fine art into the commercial field.

At present he is exhibiting some of his work at the "Amazing Split" in Central Square, Cambridge.

Mr. Freniere is noted for his spontaneous, exciting demonstrations which never fail to please and delight the audience.

Medical Group Meets on Tuesday

The American Association of Medical Assistants, Norfolk County Chapter, will meet on Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Plymouth Room of Norwood Hospital.

Speaker will be Mrs. Phyllis Scampini, chief medical record librarian of Norwood Hospital who will take the troop on a tour of the Medical Records Department, and show movies about the hospital.

The president, Miss Christine Vartanian of South Weymouth, will preside at a brief business meeting. Guests are invited, and refreshments will be served.

Two sisters of the bride, Therese Gibbons and Beth Gibbons, both of Dedham, were junior bridesmaid and flower girl, respectively. They wore pale blue and royal blue gowns of chiffon and panne velvet and carried baskets of blue and gold fall flowers.

Serving as best man was Mr. Joseph F. Manning of Dedham, and ushers included Mr. Larry Gibbons, also of Dedham; Mr. Robert Hill of Marlborough; Mr. James Hill of West Roxbury, and Mr. Paul Smetana of Norwood.

The newlyweds will make their home in Newtonville. (Photo by Picturesque Studios)

Miss Borghetti-Mr. Carnese Married at Nuptial Mass

At a nuptial mass in Saint Ignatius Church, Chestnut Hill, Miss Marie Teresa Borghetti recently became the bride of Michael John Carnese.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony F. Borghetti of 52 Algonquin road, Chestnut Hill, are the bride's parents. The groom is the son of Mrs. Michael J. Carnese of Kingston, Pa., and the late Mr. Carnese.

Two rings were exchanged at the 2:30 o'clock nuptials ceremony at which the Rev. Lawrence M. Ryan, S.J., officiated. A reception took place at Alumni Hall, Boston College.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory silk organza gown designed with a lace yoke and misted with matching appliques. Her smartly styled skirt terminated in a cathedral train.

She wore an heirloom pointed d'esprit lace mantilla and carried a bouquet of white daisy chrysanthemums with ivory.

Miss Katherine A. Borghetti of Chestnut Hill was her sister's honor maid, while another sister, Miss Anne Borghetti of Chestnut Hill was bridesmaid.

Frank L. Borghetti of Kingston, Pa., was best man for his brother. David Pomietter of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., cousin of the groom, and John A. Borghetti of Chestnut Hill, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following an automobile trip through the Adirondacks, Mr. and Mrs. Carnese will live in Stamford, Ct.

The bride, a graduate of Regis College, attended the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, Wis.

Mr. Carnese was graduated from Kings College, Pa.

One of the passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states: "This scientific sense of being, forsaking matter for Spirit, by no means suggests man's absorption into Deity and the loss of his identity, but confers upon man enlarged individuality, a wider sphere of thought and action, a more expansive love, a higher and more permanent peace."

Peace and love are actually available to everyone. This is a theme of the Lesson - Sermon, "Mortals and Immortals" to be read Sunday at Christian Science churches.

"If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new," the Golden Text from II Corinthians states.

Beauty Care Today By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

(THE REDHEAD)

What type of redhead are you?

A "strawberry blonde" has red hair full of golden highlights. Her eyes are usually light gray, green or blue.

The "carrottop" has light, bright red hair. Her complexion is often quite pale with a pinkish tone. Her eyes are usually blue, sometimes green.

A vivid, intense hue marks the "coppery" redhead.

The fourth type covers everything from deep Auburn to nearly brown mahogany. Complexions in these last two types range from pale with freckles to an average medium tone.

Want to be a redhead? Here is a word of caution: Check with an expert to make sure you have the natural coloring for it.

Morgan Memorial Has Newton Head

Richard D. Driscoll of Chestnut Hill, Vice-President of the New England Merchants National Bank, and President of Morgan Memorial is serving as Chairman of the "Thanks-for-Giving" Committee of Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, Boston, which will extend appreciation during November to many thousands who have donated materials during the past year and maintained the job-training and rehabilitation program for handicapped and disadvantaged people.

The official announcement from Morgan Memorial said, "one Thanksgiving Day is not enough to express appreciation to those who have donated materials and keep the wheels of Goodwill turning, so the entire month will be observed as "Thanks-for-Giving."

More than a half-million people have donated usable clothing, appliances, furniture

Newton residents hold numerous official positions with the Tufts Medical Faculty as wives who will host medical students' wives at a Chinese dinner prepared by women who belong to the Chinese Christian Benevolent Society Church.

The manager of the little City Hall in Boston, Mrs. Gene Chang, and Rev. Dr. Peter Y. Shih will make comments and give recipes.

The dinner will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 6:30 p.m. at the faculty dining room.

and other articles which have provided jobs and rehabilitation for handicapped and disadvantaged people.

During the month, a special appeal for $150,000 will be launched to finance an extensive Thanksgiving program for handicapped and disadvantaged people and to also help overcome 1970 operating deficit.

Officials said inflation and rising costs were creating critical financial problems in providing evaluation studies, job training, counseling, medical assistance, and other services for handicapped people.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital Starts New Nurse Program

The Newton - Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing has become the first in the Commonwealth to offer a two - academic - year diploma for those seeking to become registered nurses. The new program was approved recently by the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing.

The Newton - Wellesley School of Nursing, founded in 1886, graduates nearly 50 students each year. It is accredited by the National League for Nursing.

Effective in 1971, the challenging new program will consist of two 16-week terms and one eight - week term each year, maintaining the optimum balance between classroom learning and clinical experience.

All courses will be taught by the faculty of the school. Clinical experience for medical surgical and maternity nursing courses will continue to be received at the hospital.

Nursing students will continue to commute to Metropolitan State Hospital in Waltham for their psychiatric nursing, and will begin to travel to Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston, for the nursing of children.

Newton - Wellesley Hospital, a progressive suburban teaching hospital, at present is nearing the completion of the largest expansion program in its history. A new six - addition, expected to open early in 1971, will boost the hospital's bed capacity from 260 to nearly 350. The hospital is a formal teaching affiliate of Tufts University.

Kaufman Speaker For Temple Beth Avodah

Temple Beth Avodah will hold the first of a series of monthly Adult Education Sabbath study evenings (Nov. 13) at 8:15 p.m. This year's topic for discussion will be "The Middle East."

Following the Worship Service, the congregants will hear guest speaker Myron Kaufmann, author of the best selling novel Remember Me To God and Thy Daughter's Nakedness. Mr. Kaufmann will discuss "Israel in Crisis" with a discussion period to follow.

A native of Belmont, now residing in Carver, Kaufmann is a cum laude graduate of Harvard. He served for many years as a reporter with the Associated Press. He has met and interviewed the foremost political figures of our time, both in this country and abroad, and has traveled extensively.

AJC Chapter Meets Nov. 18

Mrs. George Rossyn, former national vice president of Hadassah, will be the featured speaker at the next meeting of the Emma Lazarus Chapter of the American Jewish Congress to be held Wednesday, Nov. 18 at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Leonard Kogos, 11 Firrell Crescent, Newton.

She is a past book editor of Hadassah magazine and a member of the National Hadassah Association Board for more than 15 years. Mrs. Rossyn will speak on political assessment of women in politics. A general discussion will follow.

Also to be presented will be a summary of the informative October Israeli Institute. Mrs. Norman Shapiro of Needham is program co-ordinator. President is Mrs. Harold Lewis of Newton.

Marjorie Barnet Now Manages Liberty House

Mrs. Marjorie Barnet of 10 Prospect Terrace, Newtonville has recently become the volunteer manager of Liberty House of Cambridge. Liberty House, located at 944 Massachusetts Ave., half way between Harvard and Central Squares, is a retail outlet for hand-crafted articles produced by poor peoples cooperatives.

It strives to increase the economic power of the poor by selling unusual and finely-made items from cooperatives in Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina and elsewhere. According to Mrs. Barnet, the store is brimming with patchwork animals, rag dolls, wooden toys, hand puppets, "work sock monkeys," "Crushuck people," quilts, rugs, suede bags, clothing, jewelry and accessories. In the majority of cases the producers are poor people and the products are hand crafted.

The purpose of Liberty House, Mrs. Barnet says, is to serve a group of producers' cooperatives located in the South, mainly in Mississippi. Currently, some Appalachian poor whites are finding in the cooperative movement an escape from their own oppressive economy and are linking their craft groups with those of the black South. With the help of outlets like Liberty House, thousands of artisans, black and white, now have a marketplace for their work.

According to Mrs. Barnet, Liberty House offers a unique opportunity to select from a wide range of quality, hand-made items while helping to support cooperative businesses. If America's poorest peoples are to begin to build an economy of their own, Mrs. Barnet believes sympathetic Northerners must now act on their sympathies.

Scholarship Ball Friday To Aid NAACP Fund

The Community Parents Organization of Newton will hold its annual scholarship dance tomorrow evening (Friday, Nov. 13) at the Hibernian Hall in Watertown. Music will be furnished by Johnny Chase and his organ combo with a guest vocalist. There will be a free cocktail hour from 8 to 9 p.m.

Robert Haywood is chairman of the dance and his committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hatton, Mrs. Robert Haywood, Mrs. Walter Haywood, Mrs. Walter Hill, Mrs. Howard Hunter and Mrs. Matthew Jefferson.

The proceeds from the dance will go into the Myrtle Baptist Church Scholarship Fund. In previous years this scholarship had been administered through the South Middlesex Branch NAACP. Through the years many high school seniors and college students have won the scholarships. The club is planning other money raising functions throughout the year to help increase the monies available to students who wish to further their education. The Community Parents Organization is involved in civic as well as social affairs in Newton.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the club or by calling Mr. Haywood at 244-8910 or Mrs. Howard Hunter at 244-0567. Tickets will be sold at the door also.

caucus was the fact that intelligent and effective individuals were cowed into submission to the choice of the caucus. Instead of campaigning for the candidate of their personal choice, they will now write position papers or give coffee for M. Malec because they have been convinced that to do otherwise is to hand the aldermanic vacancy to "the Stiller organization." Maybe so, but I would like to believe that the citizens of Newton have enough common sense to reject the New Right as well as the New Left and to elect the one candidate who is the best qualified to be an Alderman. In any case, there are worse things possible than the defeat of N.C.D.F. — VIZ. the polarization of Newton into a battleground between pro and anti N.C.D.F. forces while the city itself deteriorates in every significant indicator of quality.

For myself, I refuse to be bound by the Diktat of this caucus. I hope that no one who was not present will be fooled into thinking it was anything other than a perversion of the democratic process designed to pave the way toward Democratic Party control of Newton. Although I happen at the moment to be registered as a Democrat, I would not sell my heritage for a mess of pottage. The ends do not justify any means.

Sincerely,
ROBERT H. JOOST

Kudos for Kiddies

Editor of The Graphic:
Loud kudos for the children of Newton! This is one time I felt compelled to write to the Newton Graphic to commend the many children who came to our door on Halloween.

Never in the past have I encountered more polite or more thoughtful boys and girls! Parents of these children can take pride in the manner in which their children all conducted themselves.

It was truly heartwarming and reassuring.

Urges Return to Paper Ballots

Editor,
The Graphic:
The long lines at the voting booths in Newton on Nov. 3rd were a great inconvenience to many and quite unnecessary.

They seem to be caused by the voting machines which were installed a couple of years ago. These machines are hard to use; moreover they are clumsy mechanical contraptions much more suited to the Victorian age than to our electronically oriented society. Moreover they were expensive to buy and are expensive to maintain.

Senator Hart, when interviewed on Tuesday night, expressed his preference for

PHILIP CUMMINGS

Cent. Woman's Club to Meet November 13

The regular monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will be held at the Clubhouse, 1280 Centre St., at 1 p.m. on Friday (Nov. 13). Mrs. Whelan Vinnecombe, chairman of hospitality, and her committee, Mrs. Leonard Binns and Mrs. Arthur W. Johnson will serve dessert and coffee.

Decorations will be by Mrs. Albert J. Rochette of the Garden Committee and Mrs. George J. Pfannenstiel and Mrs. Cornelius J. Mohnihan, of Newton Centre will be on reception for the afternoon.

The business meeting will convene at 2 p.m. under the gavel of Mrs. C. Hassler Capron, president, who commutes from the Cape. Mrs. Capron was a longtime resident of Newton and retains many interests here.

Program Chairman Mrs. Rene J. Marcou has arranged for a return engagement of Mr. Phillip Cummings, well-known economist and lecturer, who will speak on "The American Exposure."

Mr. Cummings, who comes from Vermont, will speak through the courtesy of the Newton - Waltham Bank and Trust Company and the Club members of the Newton Centre Club.

Newton Family M.D. Completes Refresher Study

Dr. Arthur Sumner Newman of Newton has been re-elected to active membership in the American Academy of General Practice, the national association of family doctors, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

Re-election signifies that the physician has completed 150 hours of accredited postgraduate medical study in the last three years.

John McGlennon Thanks Backers

Rep. John McGlennon, the Republican candidate, congratulated Father Drinan and issued the following statement:

"Although it is apparent that none of the candidates in the Third Congressional district received a clear majority, I would like to offer my sincere congratulations to Father Robert Drinan for his victory.

"It was exciting to have the opportunity to participate in such a spirited campaign. I am honored by the commitment that so many people have made to my candidacy. Our bond of friendship and respect shall be a lasting one. I would also like to express my appreciation to all the voters who expressed their confidence in me.

"I intend to continue a career in public service. I shall keep in close contact with the people of the Third District to provide yet another link between our government and the citizens it serves. I shall speak out on the issues as they develop both nationally and in our district. We must all work together towards solutions to the problems that were so thoroughly debated during the course of this campaign."

the paper ballot. Without bankrupting the town, the number of tables to sit at in order to mark the ballot, can be made enough to reduce the lines to zero length.

A spoiled ballot is simpler to replace and write-in votes — these great indicators of participatory democracy — are easier.

I believe that the press was in favor of the voting machines in the hope that the results would be out more quickly. I noticed no such effect on Tuesday night, and in any case the press should be any case the press should pay and not the Newton Taxpayer.

I suggest a return to the paper ballot; I hope that pen and paper will never be out of date.

Attorney Pike To Seek Alderman-at-large Post

Announcement has been made by Attorney Burton M. Pike, of Waban, that is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Newton.

The special election, to fill the vacancy presently existing in Ward 5 will be on December 8. All registered voters within the City are eligible to vote, and all polling stations will be open.

Mr. Pike has lived in Newton for over ten years, and has been a practicing attorney in the State and Federal Courts for 17 years. He is counsel for numerous Massachusetts corporations, and his clients have included public and municipal authorities.

His membership in fraternal, civic, religious and professional organizations include — Massachusetts Bar Association; Massachusetts Trial Lawyers' Association; American Bar Association; Chelsea-Revere Bar Association; Rental Housing Authority; Freedom Lodge AF&AM; King Solomon Lodge IOOF; Chelsea Lodge of Elks; Credit and Finance Lodge B'nai B'rith; New Century Club; Brookline, Brighton, Newton Jewish Community Center; Temple Reyim and Brotherhood; Big Brother Association; Salvation Army (Past Chairman of Relief Fund).

When asked why he has chosen to run for Alderman-at-Large, Mr. Pike enthusiastically relates that "no longer can we sit by the wayside, involved only in our own businesses and professions, merely expressing our displeasures on one hand, but giving nothing but lip service on the other."

"Now, more than ever, the time has come to take an active role in the administration of the City. The varied problems and grievances of the vast number of so-called 'unimportant' citizens, of which I consider myself to be a part, have become swallowed like so much lubricating oil for the political machines."

Being a firm believer in the old adage of when you want something done properly, you must do it yourself, he decided that there was no other alternative but to do just that.

BURTON M. PIKE

Mr. Pike takes firm stands on many significant issues facing us today within the City; for, as he put it, "fence riding can only result in many, uncomfortable-placed splinters for the driver as well as the passengers."

In concluding, Mr. Pike urges all who are interested in joining with him in his campaign for better City government, to contact him at his home or office. "The time is now," he stated emphatically, "for the 'voiceless' concerned to come forward and be counted."

First Pushkin Prize Won By Jocelyn Greene

Miss Jocelyn A. Greene, of Newton, a freshman at Pembroke College, has been awarded the Brown University First Pushkin Prize in Russian by the Department of Slavic Languages. A monetary remuneration of $100 accompanies the award.

Heart Research Women's Aid To Hold Style Show

The Women's Aid for Heart Research will hold an informal style show November 14, at Tallino's Restaurant on Route 9, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Fashions from Monet will be featured, and cocktail and luncheon proceeds will be donated by Tallino's to the organization for its continued support of numerous heart research fellowships.

Mrs. Albert Levine, chairman of this annual fund-raising event, stated that Women's Aid for Heart Research, now celebrating its 14th anniversary, has been responsible for the placement of pacemakers in numerous hospitals throughout the city, in addition to the establishment and continuance of the Hermann L. Blumgart Research Fellowship at Beth Israel Hospital, among others. This women's organization is also responsible for substantial donations to the Heart Research Clinic at Peter Bent Brigham, under the direction of Dr. Richard Gorin, Mrs. Levine said.

Rex Trailer To Open Seasons 4 Yule Showcase

The familiar sound of "Boontown, Boontown" will be heard 'round Lexington town on November 20, when WBZ-TV's Rex Trailer appears in person at The Seasons Four Christmas Showcase, at 4 p.m. If the weather is inclement the show will be held the following Saturday.

Rex Trailer will officially open the Christmas season by lighting the huge Seasons Four Christmas tree, which has been decorated with more than a thousand ornaments. Highlight of the afternoon will be the presentation of Rex Trailer's Holiday Show. Rex and his Boontown pals with his horse Goldrush being no exception, will present the Show from the mobile stage just outside the Seasons Four showroom.

Rex will greet every boy and girl and pass out autographed pictures. Youngsters also will enjoy the menagerie of live Christmas animals, which will be on exhibit during the entire Christmas season.

Open seven days a week, The Seasons Four is a year 'round leisure living center, which has transformed its more than 7,000 sq. foot interior showroom into an incredible, new one-stop Christmas wonderland of trees and decorations.

Scores of artificial trees of every description, hundreds of colorful ornaments, Christmas candles, wreaths and do-it-yourself materials are available.

Gong. Philbin Gives Statement

Congressman Philip J. Philbin, defeated incumbent, issued the following post-election statement this week: "I want to take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation to all those who have encouraged and stood with me so loyally in this election, and throughout the many years I have had the honor of serving the Third District."

"I have given my utmost in terms of faithful, effective service and have always done my best to represent the interests of the people in a really dedicated manner, and to stand courageously for a strong, peaceful, prosperous, forward-moving nation."

"I especially would like to thank the many friends who worked so hard, so devotedly and with such whole-hearted support in my campaign for re-election, including the many young teenagers and students, and so very many who gave of themselves and their personal means to assist my campaign."

"With grateful appreciation to all of you for your inspiration and help and the faith and strength you have given me, I thank you from the bottom of my heart, and will always remember your kindness and loyalty."

Events-

After a brief explanation of the Day's format by Mr. Robert A. Carleo of Saint Bernard's Parish, those present will attend one of the four panel discussions on the agenda.

The first panel will take up the topic: "Are Increasing Welfare Rolls to be a Part of American Life?" The experts on this panel are Mr. Daniel I. Cronin, head of Boston Public Welfare; and Dr. Robert Perlman, Associate Professor of Social Welfare in the Florence Heller School of Brandeis University. The moderator is Dr. Francis W. Drinan, Chairman of the Christian Service Commission of Sacred Heart Parish.

The second panel will examine the problem: "Is There Any Solution to the Housing Shortage?"

The experts included on this panel are Mr. Robert E. McKay, Executive Director of the Citizens Housing and Planning Association of Metropolitan Boston; and Mr. James A. Miller, former head of Newton City Planning, and now Assistant Director of the Metropolitan Area Planning Commission. Moderating will be Dr. Edward L. Hirsch of Boston College.

The third panel, on "Black vs. White or Black and White," will include the Reverend Harold Pulley, the Pastor of the Myrtle Baptist Church; and Dr. Richard W. Rowland, Social Worker and Past President of the Boston Catholic Interracial Council. Moderating will be Newton Alderman Matthew Jefferson.

The fourth panel will study the problem of "Equalizing Tax Burdens," and will contain Mr. Robert T. Capeless, the former State Tax Commissioner and a present member of the Governor's Commission on the Master Tax Plan; also Mr. Frank Zeo, the Executive Vice President of the Massachusetts Taxpayers' Foundation. Moderating will be Mr. Henry R. Beaudet of Saint Bernard's CSC.

After approximately twenty minutes of discussion by the panel experts, there will be a half hour dialogue with those on the floor. Following this each group will form a number of small planning workshops to seek workable actions in response to the issues which have been raised.

Next will come an informal "walk around" buffet lunch, scheduled for 12:30. Then there will be a general meeting which will feature reports on the different panel presentations as well as recommendations from the various planning workshops. With a summary and a "call to action" by Mr. Carleo, the Conference will end at approximately 2:30.

"We are very encouraged by the response which we are

Countryside PTA Meeting To Stress Ecology Theme

On Thursday evening, November 19, the Countryside School PTA will hold its first general meeting of the year, featuring three well known speakers on the subject of ecology. The meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. and the public is invited. Parents are welcome to bring children in the fifth grade and over.

The first speaker of the evening will be Melvin Furst, S.B., S.M., S.D., Associate Professor of Environmental Health Engineering at the Harvard University School of Public Health, and chairman of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Advisory Commission on Environmental Health. Dr. Furst will speak on "Air and Water Pollution."

The next speaker will be Peter H. Stowe, Education Associate of the Museum of Science. Mr. Stowe will speak on "The Characteristics and Laws of Wildlife Populations and How They Apply to Man as a Population."

The third speaker will be Michael Rosenfeld of the Harvard Graduate School of Design and creator of the popular cartoon "Ecologic." Mr. Rosenfeld will discuss the creation of his cartoons.

receiving from the other Churches and Temples," stated Mr. James McGourty of Saint Bernard's.

"Certainly," added Mrs. Nora Howley of Corpus Christi CSC, "whatever else this Day accomplishes, it should serve to draw together those, whether Catholic or Protestant or Jewish, who are especially committed to the difficult task of meeting human needs and facing the grave social issues of our day."

Commented Mr. Thomas Fitzgibbon: "Such unity of understanding and purpose could well provide the basis for increasing cooperation between the Churches. We are all aware that the fundamental causes of the problems which face our Community and Nation today, problems such as racism and poverty, often far exceed our individual parish resources. Unity of action, if it can be achieved, could well provide us with the 'clout' which we need in facing such profound and far-reaching issues."

Concluded Mr. Alan McCormack, CSC Chairman of Saint Jean's Parish: "Our own Christian Service Commission is still struggling to get on its feet. I am looking forward to finding out what those in other Churches and Temples have to say about the problems which face us. I have great hopes that something important will come out of this Day. At the very least, it should prove to be a significant, and long overdue, step in the right direction."

Robert Baker Photos Now On Library View

Robert H. Baker puts it all together in his photographs of beautiful living things on view now through November in a one-man show at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Some of the most beautiful living things photographed by Mr. Baker are young children at Project Follow Through, a federally-funded project bringing the latest educational knowledge to children of low-income families.

Bob spent two weeks in the classrooms with the youngsters, and caught them building with blocks and shaping clay, fingerpainting, drawing, playing a numbers game, reading, jumping rope. He has woven the photographs together with his own text to make a pamphlet describing the project, and copies of it are on view with the show.

He has included black and white as well as color photos in the Library show, and the large color prints he processed himself in a dye transfer process, one he considers most subtle and permanent. Other pictures in the exhibit are of people in the park, plants on a staircase, ferns, milkweed, a starkly silhouetted tree.

Robert Baker, a Westboro native, now free lance and teaches photography at the Art Institute of Boston. An M.I.T. graduate in humanit., he studied photography with M.I.T.'s Minor White.

The photographs on display at the Newton Free Library were all taken with a Nikon, using available light.

N-W Hospital Fried Lecture Series Resume

The Fried Medical Lecture series at Newton - Wellesley Hospital will resume Monday, Nov. 16 at 8:30 p.m. when Dr. Kurt Bloch, associate professor at Harvard Medical School, delivers a presentation on "Plasma Cells Multiple Myeloma and Related Disorders."

The Fried Lecture series is open to physicians, medical students and all others in the medical profession. The lectures are held in Usen Auditorium.

Horns, noisemakers, balloons and streamers will be provided for the festivity of the guests with music provided by Bobby Marcus and his orchestra. Cocktail snacks, set-ups and a late supper have been planned this year in order to reduce the price. As in the past, this party promises to be a sell-out so reservations will be accepted in the order they are received and will, of course, be limited.

Chairmen of this "14 carat gold" dinner dance are Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Goldstein and in charge of reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ente.

Also working towards the success of the evening are Mr. and Mrs. Phil Goren and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Glickman, gifts and favors, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Margolin, menu and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Norris, publicity.

Beethoven PTA Book Fair Due November 16, 17

The Beethoven School P.T.A. will sponsor a paperback Book Fair on Monday, November 16 and Tuesday, November 17 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The event will be in conjunction with grade level meetings which will be held at the Beethoven School.

Parents of children in grades kindergarten through third will meet with their child's teacher on November 16 at 8 p.m. and parents of children in grades four through 6th grade will do the same on Tuesday, November 17 at 8 p.m.

After the grade level meetings on each evening, the parents will have an opportunity to examine and purchase from the large selection of varied books including cookbooks, biographies, reference books and many, many fiction books for all ages.

Dr. Barnard Guest Speaker For Sinai Hospital Dinner

A special reception to Dr. Christiaan Barnard by members of the Greater Boston medical community is being planned in connection with the famed surgeon's appearance as guest speaker at the 3rd annual dinner of New England Sinai Hospital on Sunday, November 22 at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Two Newton doctors have been named to head the special medical planning committee. Dr. Jack D. Cohen, co-chairman, is Chief of Staff at New England Sinai Hospital, Chief of Medicine at the Long Island Hospital, the chronic division of Boston City Hospital, and also affiliated with the Beth Israel, Brookline, Mount Auburn and Brooks Hospitals.

He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and the American College of Chest Physicians. Also co-chairman is Dr. Irving Madoff, who is chairman of the Executive Committee of the New England States Chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians. He is Associate Clinical Professor of Surgery at Boston University School of Medicine and Visiting Thoracic Surgeon at University Hospital.

Dr. Barnard, who will be journeying from Capetown, South Africa with his wife, especially for this appearance, was catapulted into international prominence when he successfully completed the first human heart transplant.

His successive heart transplant operations have made him one of the most respected and most controversial figures in medical circles all over the world.

In his book "One Life", an autobiography written in collaboration with Curtis Bill Pepper and published by Macmillan Company, Dr. Barnard recalls the years of hardship, experiment and burning ambition that brought him to the pinnacle of his profession.

The book makes frequent allusions to friends Dr. Barnard cultivated while studying and working in the States, and according to the medical committee planning the pre-dinner reception to Dr. and Mrs. Barnard, the event will provide an opportunity for several reunions.

The dinner, according to Rubin Epstein, dinner chairman, is an educational event designed to keep the community informed of progress in the development of New England's newest hospital for the care and treatment of the most difficult chronic cases. There will be no solicitation of funds at this affair.

USA Program Director To Speak Here Sunday

Robert L. Woodson, director of U.S.A. programs for the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, Inc., which has its international headquarters in Boston will speak at The First Unitarian Society in Newton at 1326 Washington street, West Newton Square on Sunday, November 15th.

Mr. Woodson will meet with the Adult Discussion Group from 10 to 11 a.m. and address the congregation at the 11 a.m. service.

UUSC is a world-wide nondenominational social service agency, with projects operating abroad and in various cities of the United States.

Most recently Woodson was director of the Media Fellowship House in Greater Philadelphia. He has also taught black history and directed the field training at the Martin Luther King School in Chester, Pa. He was a consultant to the United Church Board for Home and Ministries, United Church of Christ, and is chairman of the U.S. Projects Planning Committee of the American Friends Service Committee.

Woodson's varied background also includes lecturing at churches, schools and before community groups as well as appearances on radio and TV panel shows.

His new role as project director, U.S.A., Woodson is developing programs throughout the country which will reflect the wishes and needs of indigenous groups in many ghetto communities.

Two new programs have been implemented for Chester, Pa. and Greater Philadelphia. In Chester, a program designed to secure legal protection and information for poor residents, has already secured the release of several people.

A companion program for Greater Philadelphia seeks the most effective way for white middle class suburbanites to relate to the Chester project, and is developing techniques for combating white racism and secure white liberation.

Other programs have opened in Black and Chicano communities in Houston, Texas, and a leadership training program has been developed in conjunction with the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee in Delona, California.

Ongoing U.S.A. projects under Woodson's general supervision are in Chicago, Illinois, and Los Angeles, California. In Chicago the Neighborhood Commons Corp., owned and operated by local residents, has purchased and rehabilitated several buildings and hopefully will soon break ground on a six million dollar new low income housing complex. Project Los Angeles is a community corporation that is often called upon as one of the first groups to participate in vital community coalitions.

Woodson is a graduate of Cheyney State College of Pennsylvania, and has an advanced degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

Newton Native Is New Bishop Of Fall River

The Most Rev. Daniel A. Cronin says he expects to be installed before Christmas as the new bishop for the Roman Catholic diocese of Fall River.

Bishop Cronin, auxiliary bishop of Boston since September, 1968, was named to the new post Tuesday by Pope Paul VI, succeeding Bishop James L. Connolly, who will be 76 Sunday.

Bishop Cronin, a native of Newton, will celebrate his 43rd birthday Saturday.

Bishop Connolly, a Fall River native, was resigning "for reasons of health and age," it was announced. He will be given the honorary title of titular bishop of Tribuzabeto.

Bishop Cronin, who holds a doctorate in sacred theology, was born in Newton and raised in Cambridge. He was ordained in 1952 and served as a curate in parishes in Salisbury, Lynn and Waltham before undertaking advanced studies during 1954-56 and then being assigned to the apostolic nunciature in Ethiopia in 1957.

In 1961 he was assigned to the secretariate of state in the Vatican. He remained there until September, 1968, when he was named auxiliary bishop of Boston and pastor of St. Raphael's Church in West Medford.

In a brief news conference at St. Raphael's Convent, Bishop Cronin said no date had been set for his installation but he expected it would be before Christmas.

Bishop Cronin also said he would see Bishop Connolly in Washington next week at a bishop's conference and they

Demonstration Of Yule Trims Making Nov. 19

The Pine Barrens of New Jersey have been famous in the annals of botany for as long as two centuries, but it is Mrs. Elizabeth Woodford, "Pine Barrens lady", who has made the Barrens famous in Boston in circles not strictly botanical.

On Thursday, November 19, Mrs. Woodford will return to the Women's Educational and Industrial Union - where two earlier lectures have made her a great favorite - with "Merry Christmas from the Pine Barrens", a demonstration-lecture.

Mrs. Woodford will show how to fashion handsome Christmas decorations from the lovely green and dried materials that abound in the Barrens - as they do in our New England woods and meadows as well.

Wreaths, swags, and sprays; centerpieces, wall decorations, and table displays; gift wrappings, velvet roses and bows, short cuts to party decorations are some of the things that Mrs. Woodford will demonstrate in the expert style and delightful way that are peculiarly her own.

Among those who plan to be in Mrs. Woodford's audience are Mrs. Rutherford Bingham of Boston, Miss Elizabeth Butler of Brookline, Mrs. Edgar Crocker of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Sewall H. Fessenden of Sherborn, Mrs. Harold E. Fitzgibbons of Duxbury, Miss Gladys G. Hannah and Mrs. Robert G. Henderson, both of Cambridge, Mrs. George T. Keyes of East Pepperell, Mrs. William J. Macdonald of Boston, Mrs. Louis E. Phaneuf and Mrs. Augustus H. Vogel, both of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Brayton F. Wilson of Cambridge, Mrs. David B. Wray of Chestnut Hill.

Coffee will be served at 10:30; the lecture will begin promptly at 11:00. The Union welcomes members, friends of members, and non-members at its lectures and other events. For reservations please call the Administrative Office, 536-5651.

Zionist Leader To Be Speaker Here Nov. 18th

Mrs. George Rossyn, distinguished Hadassah and Zionist leader, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Emma Lazarus Chapter, American Jewish Congress, Wednesday, November 18, at 8:15 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Leonard Kogos, 11 Tirrell Crescent, Chestnut Hill. Mrs. Harold Lewis is chapter president.

Mrs. Rossyn will talk on the subject "A Political Assessment of Women in Politics." She is a former national vice-president of Hadassah and book editor of the Hadassah Association, an honor that comes with fifteen years service on the national board.

At the meeting there will be a report on the recent all-day Israel Institute conducted by the Suburban Region, American Jewish Congress, of which the chapter is an affiliate.

Additional reports will be made on the national A.J. Congress Women's Division Convention to be held in Boston, March 28-31, 1971, with Mrs. S. Robert Wolf of Newton as Arrangements Chairman; on the Family Art-in program to be held Sunday afternoon Dec. 13 at Pannoy House, Newton; and the Paid-up Membership Dinner Wednesday, January 13, at the home of Mrs. Daniel D. Levenson.

Let Us Be Thankful

It is good to give thanks unto the Lord.

Psalms 92:1

... And I am thankful for my dog friend, too. Amen.

LIVING at a bewildering pace, afflicted with a fevered restlessness and subject to an alarming sense of impending world upheaval, we are fast developing a cynical outlook on life and rapidly becoming devoid of faith and hope. We have largely lost our moral bearings and are adrift on an uncharted course. Our age is one of unexampled spiritual deterioration. At such a time, the return of Thanksgiving Day has a message of peculiar urgency. It serves to divert our thoughts from the tormenting problems that living in such an era raises and with which we are struggling, and to direct our thoughts to a discerning realization of the manifold blessings that God has provided us.

How few of us, even in our worst hours of low spirits when the burden of living seems almost unbearable, can really and truly say, after sober reflection and intelligent appraisal, that life is not essentially good when rightly lived. Let us give thought therefore, to the exclusion of all else, to those things in life which should make for our well-being, peace and happiness—thought to the blessings which God has showered upon us. Surely they cannot fail in their aggregate impressiveness to fill us with a feeling of deep thankfulness to the Giver.

Yes, indeed, on the day set apart for the worshipful observance, let us take to heart the words of the psalmist: "It is good to give thanks unto the Lord." But let our thanksgiving be not confined to this one day of the year. May it be more than a cut-flower thanksgiving like rootless blossoms that flourish for a day and then wither and perish. Rather, let it be as the efflorescence of a growing plant, deep rooted in the nourishing soil of spiritual understanding and a worshipful attitude toward God.

On account of the special mission and major objective of our Society, one of God's provisions for human welfare and happiness might appropriately be singled out for particular thankfulness—the animals with which He has peopled our world. What life would have been, what it would be today, without them is beyond the power of human imagination to conceive. They have served man in countless ways since his first appearance on earth and have no doubt in early days played no minor part in his actual survival. Our lives and theirs are inextricably blended with the elements of God's infinite design. To them we owe an inextinguishable debt of gratitude to be repaid in thoughtfulness, kindness and compassion. Yet what a monstrous reproach it is that we are paying this debt by allowing uncounted millions of them to be sacrificed each year in the grim laboratories of merciless experimenters.

STEPHEN VERHAULT

Verhault New Resident Mgr. For Marriott

Two executive promotions at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Newton, were announced yesterday by William R. Tietel, general manager.

Stephen Verhault of Sudbury has been promoted to resident manager of the Hotel. Formerly director of the Food and Beverage Department, Mr. Verhault succeeds Jerry Best of Wellesley, who has been moved to Chicago as general manager.

Olof Arnheim, also of Sudbury, was moved from the Marriott in Saddle Brook, N.J., to take over the post of director of Food and Beverage from Mr. Verhault. Arnheim held a similar position at the Saddle Brook Marriott.

With the Marriott Company for 14 years, Mr. Verhault has served in every operating division of the firm, except fast food. He was with Marriott In-Flight Catering from 1958-1960 and later served as district manager of Food and Beverage Director. Among other assignment was similar responsibility at the Marriott, Twin Bridges Hotel in Washington. He is married to Elizabeth MacIsaac, formerly of Winchester.

Mr. Arnheim joined Marriott in 1962 and has worked in Marriott hotels in Washington, Dallas, Philadelphia, and Saddle Brook. At Saddle Brook he served as manager of the Fairfield Inn, the Sirloin and Saddle Restaurant and then was promoted to Food and Beverage director.

Born in Sweden, he came to the United States in 1949 and was graduated from the University of Denver in 1962. Upon graduation, he joined Marriott as a management trainee.

The first post office in Newton was established in 1820 when Newton Village was still known as "Angier's Corner." Village watchmaker Charles Eames was the first postmaster.

Strikes Hold Up Work On 2 Local Schools

Work on the construction of two new school buildings in Newton—the new High School in Newtonville and the Day Junior High School—is about a month behind schedule as a result of two strikes. Responsible for slowing down progress on the two schools were the strike by the cement truck drivers which lasted for 13 weeks and the four-week strike by the plumbers and steam-fitters.

taining fall-out of automobile exhaust and other air pollution particulates." The resolution is a result of many weeks of research which started "after a conversation we had concerning city pollution of the Charles River," stated Alderman Carmen. He added, "Peter drafted the resolution and researched the storm drain system and pollution problem. I studied the various methods of pollution control; from leaching fields to the intercept system."

Alderman Harrington said, "I think Bill has come up with a practical and relatively inexpensive system. Our first idea, a leaching field, would probably be the best pollution filtration system, but the cost is prohibitive."

Concerning the magnitude of the problem of filtering the water run-off from Newton's 18 square miles the Resolution states, "The City of Newton's storm drain system . . . is composed of 1) approximately 12 present or former brooks . . . and 2) approximately 60 storm drains into the Charles River" and another 16 drains entering Waltham, Brookline and Boston.

Landlord Given Probation To Correct 20 Violations

Judge Franklin N. Flaschner in Newton District Court has given landlord Abraham Ginsburg of Newton Upper Falls 30 days in which to correct 20 violations of the state sanitary code, or else be liable to fines of $8,200.

Judge Flaschner found Ginsburg guilty on the 20 counts, out of an original 78 violations as alleged in the action brought by the City. The court suspended the fines and placed the landlord on probation for 30 days, when if the violations are corrected, all charges will be dropped.

In his 14-page decision, Judge Flaschner said the aim of the state sanitary code is to "prevent violations rather than punish past violations. The money which would have been used to pay the fines had better be used to remedy the violations."

The court indicated that of Ginsburg was making a serious effort to remedy the violations by Dec. 4 but needed additional time, it was possible that the probation would be extended.

Originally Ginsburg was charged with 78 violations on his property in the Upper Falls area. After a probable cause hearing before Judge Francis J. Larkin, this was reduced to 32 complaints. Judge Flaschner dismissed 12 during the trial, as the violations were corrected.

The 20 complaints on which the landlord was found guilty, concerned property at 1020 Chestnut street, 38 Ellis street, 43 Cottage street, 69 Cottage street, 24 Mechanic street, 22-24 Mechanic street, 48-50 High street and 1012, 1012A and 1018 Chestnut street.

Judge Flaschner in his decision called for the fines to be suspended "on the conditions that the violations set forth in the complaint of such case shall have been remedied to the satisfaction of the city and court within 30 days in which event the probation as to that case shall be terminated and the defendant discharged."

Another condition of the suspension of the fines was that the case not be appealed, and Ginsburg's counsel said in court that no appeal was contemplated.

Countryside PTA Book Fair Opens Nov. 15 for Week

During the week of November 15, Countryside Elementary School will be celebrating National Book Week with a paperback book fair and related events, organized by Mrs. Arlene Butters and Mrs. Elaine Silberman.

Robert Lasson, Newton resident and author, will be speaking to the upper grades. The younger classes will be entertained by the Newton Library Players, dramatizing scenes from "Winnie the Pooh." Several literature-oriented films will also be shown.

The book fair will take place Wednesday through Friday, November 18, 19, and 20. There will be on sale over twelve hundred paperback books, and many other unique items such as giant coloring books and Peter Max calendars. The book fair will be open to the public on Wednesday from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., on Thursday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., and Thursday evening from 7:15 to 10 p.m.

As an added attraction, on November 19, the Countryside P.T.A. will be having its first general meeting, "Ecology Night" featuring several noted speakers on the subject of ecology. The meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. and the public is welcome.

Guild For Blind Opposes Bells as Aid To Trainees

The Newton Traffic Commission has voted to recommend against a proposal to install bells at the intersection of Commonwealth Avenue and Centre street to coordinate with pedestrian lights.

Further, the Commission voted to recommend that the recently approved ordinance providing for such bells in Newtonville Square be rescinded.

These actions were taken following receipt of a letter from Frederick Picard III, executive director of the Catholic Guild for the Blind, requesting that no special provisions be made to aid blind people.

"Since the Guild is primarily interested in teaching its trainees maximum mobility and independence in the world at large," Mr. Picard said in a letter to the Commission, "it would not be helpful to have special arrangements for them near the Guild."

"If every traffic intersection in every neighborhood where blind people live had bells, then it might be useful.

"But because this is not the normal situation, we would prefer that they learn how to cope with traffic problems as they are going to find when they leave the Guild," the director's letter said.

The Traffic Commission said the State DPW has denied the city's requests for stop signs at Albemarle road, Newtonville; Langdon street, Newton and Sargent street, Newton.

GBARC Meeting Next Thursdays

A morning coffee meeting will be held by the Newton Chapter of the Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children at the home of the chairman Mrs. Harvey Chansky, 259 Jackson st., Newton Centre, next Thursday morning (Nov. 19).

The meeting will begin at 9:30 and conclude at 11:30 a.m. A discussion will be based on questions, problems and ideas brought up by members of the group. Through mutual exploration, new ways of dealing with problems, and differing points of view will be brought to light, in an attempt to broaden understanding and the capacity to deal with the effects of retardation in the family.

All interested persons are invited to attend. Those planning to come are requested to call Mrs. Chansky at BI 4-7310 or Mrs. M. Schaechter, vice-chairman, at 969-5692 no later than Monday, November 9th.

Tough Maryland Rebels Here Saturday To Meet NAA Lions

The Glen Burnie Rebels of Maryland will prove a worthy opponent for the N.A.A. Lions when they clash this Saturday at Dickinson Stadium at 11:00 a.m.

The Rebels finished second, for the second year in a row, in the Northern County Division of Maryland with a 5-2-1 record.

The Rebels scored a total of 180 points offensively and allowed only 40 against.

The Lions offensive team accounted for 196 points and allowed 50 against in posting a 6-2 record good for a third place finish.

The Rebels will have an added incentive when they take the field this Saturday morning. Last season a relatively weak Lion team scored a major upset by tying the Rebels in their state 8-8.

It would be fitting for the Marylanders to repay the favor by defeating Newton in its home state. The Rebels main offensive weapon is halfback Larry Holbrook who will wear jersey No. 15.

The Lions counter Holbrook with Kevin Hoban who amassed 104 points in league competition.

Adding to the festivities will be a motorcade by both Maryland and Newton.

A Pee Wee bowl game between the Norwood White Raiders and the Highland Huskies starting at 9:30 a.m. The Post 440 Color Guard and the Newton High School Band will add to the halftime entertainment.

The Maryland players will stay at the homes of the Newton players, and they will be treated to dinner Saturday evening by the Association.

The Maryland team and cheerleaders will be departing from Newton City Hall Sunday, November 15 at 11:30 a.m.

South High Soccer Squad Slumps With 2 Shut-Outs

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

After its best start in history the Newton South soccer team has slumped to a 4-6-2 record with two shutout losses, 1-0 and 4-0 at the hands of Wayland and Lincoln-Sudbury, respectively, last week.

Goalie Dave Cohen was brilliant, as usual, but his offense is regressing back to last year's habits of not scoring and not pressing the opposition netminder.

South did show some semblance of offense against tough (8-4-1) Wayland, peppering Jeff Ryder with 17 shots. However, Ryder was perfect, while Cohen was only near perfect, missing one shot in 14 attempts.

John Bucci booted a penalty kick past Cohen at 10:40 of the third period for the contests only goal.

Undefeated superpowerful Lincoln-Sudbury (13-0-1) blanked the Lions in their other game, but that was nothing new Lincoln netminder Mark Beaton registered his 12th whitewash of the season and the LS defense made sure it was not a tough one, permitting South only two shots on net.

Chuck Swan, twice, and Ted Barnicle and Steve Sargent beat Cohen, but he prevented 23 more attempts from going past in another sterling effort.

South Harriers Make It With Win Over Lynnfield

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

It was a long time coming, and some pessimists felt it would never happen, but last week, in its 13th attempt of the fall, the Newton South cross-country team won a meet.

The Lions victim was Lynnfield, 22-23, who toppled South by that same score the first time around. However, that was without Lion ace Chuck Pottay, who last week claimed his long-sought after school record on the 2.6 mile home Mt. Ida Junior College course.

Pottay completely dominated the race, coming home first in 13:19, three seconds better than Dave Whitneys 1967 standard of 13:22.4.

For the first time this year Pottay had help and lots of it as the team was sky-high for the meet, feeling it was their best shot all season for a win.

Captain Mike LeBlanc came across second in 14:50, only two seconds off his previous best performance and then South erupted, capturing four more spots in the top ten.

Juniors Matt Williams, fourth in 14:47, and Howie Frutkoff, seventh in 15:00, and sophomore Steve Burgess, eighth in 15:01, all established personal records on the home course by impressive chunks.

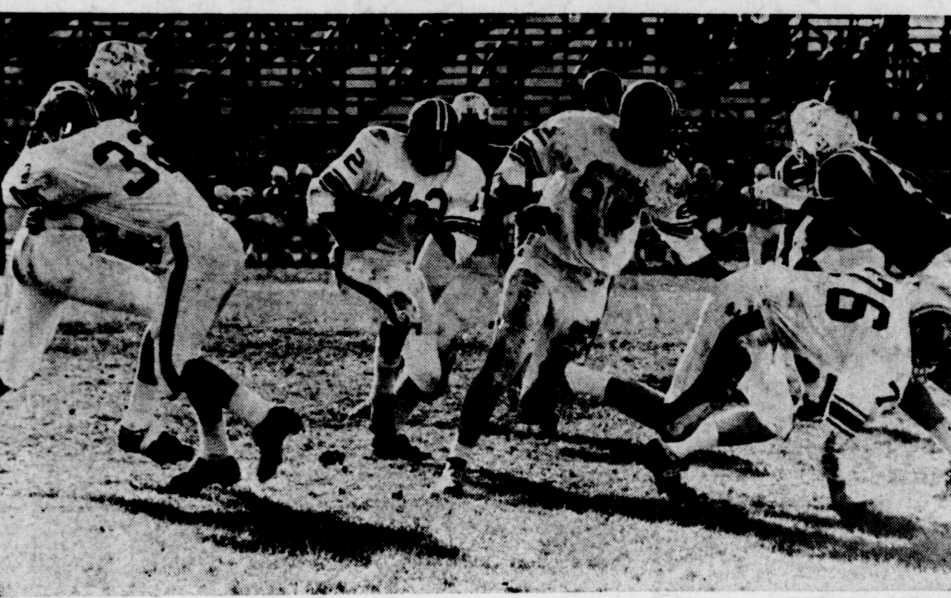

Williams clipped nine seconds from his best, Frutkoff, 20 and Burgess, 30.

Sophomore John Mason was the sixth Lion finisher in tenth at 15:14, two seconds off his fastest clocking.

The season should have ended Tuesday. Unfortunately, it did not and the defeated South harriers suffered through their 13th loss of the year in Dual County League action.

It was cold and rainy, Thursday, and the mostly grass course was extremely slippery. As a result, none of the Lions approached their times of two days before.

Pottay was beaten, 13:38 to 13:49 by Weston soph Tom

School Board Resolution Honors Coach

A resolution paying tribute to Howard L. Ferguson who is resigning as head baseball coach at Newton High School this year was adopted by the Newton School Committee on Monday night.

The resolution, introduced by School Committeeman Richard Douglas, stated:

The Newton School Committee wants to pay tribute and express its gratitude to Howard L. Ferguson for his extraordinary career as a baseball coach for 37 years, and for his unsurpassed record as head coach for 23. We salute him not simply for his unmatched record of games won, but no less for his skill as a teacher of baseball and for his human qualities as a coach. We find it appropriate that the field to which he and his teams brought so much honor has been retired during the year of his resignation as head coach. We honor and salute Howard Ferguson for the lustre which he added so brilliantly to that diamond.

Mrs. Harris Is Red Cross Youth Local Director

The Newton Chapter American Red Cross announces the recent appointment of Mrs. Linda Harris as director of Red Cross Youth.

The former Linda Braverman came to New England from Utica, New York, and is a graduate of Rider College in Lawrenceville, New Jersey, where she received her degree in sociology.

Her most recent work has been as assistant director of Red Cross Youth, for the Boston Chapter, American Red Cross. She also served as a disaster case worker when Hurricane Camille hit the south last fall.

She has set high goals for herself as well as the Newton Red Cross Youth. She hopes to have them participate in community activities, over and beyond what they have done to date.

Tae Kwon Do Class At 'Y' On Tuesdays

The art of unarmed self defense — Korean style — called Tae Kwon Do is being taught at the Newton YMCA on Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9:30.

This is an on-going course, for both men and women, fifteen years of older. Newcomers will be welcome to being any Tuesday evening this month at their convenience. Eight lessons will comprise a series, and participants are encouraged to continue throughout the year by re-registering at a reduced rate. One need not be a member of the "Y" for the first series of eight lessons. Residents outside Newton are also invited.

The course is coached by Mr. Dongpil Kim, Master Instructor, in this art. He conducted a very popular and successful series of lessons throughout last year, also at the Newton Y.M.C.A.

For further information, an application or registration, please contact the Physical Education Department of the "Y", 276 Church Street, Newton Corner, or telephone 244-6050.

in the city of Newton where the young people can perform meaningful service. Through these activities she hopes to bridge the gap between Red Cross Youth and the adult Red Cross volunteers, by having both groups work together.

Mrs. Harris recently married Jeffrey Harris, formerly of Natick. He is a graduate of the B.U. School of Business and he did graduate work at the University of Alaska.

He is a service representative of the Boston Chapter American Red Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are presently living in Waltham.

Lion Gridders Bow Out As 'C' Class Hopefuls

Not too long ago the unbeaten 3-0 Newton South football team was being touted as the Class C champion. Since that time the Lions have gone 1-3.

Barely over .500 now at 4-3 South has disappeared altogether from the Class of C rankings.

The latest disaster to befall South is an 18-2 shellacking by Lynnfield.

It is difficult to pinpoint what happened. The vaunted Lion defense lasted one quarter and the powerful running game and good passing attack never showed up.

The defense wasn't terrible and did account for the two points on a safety in the first quarter, but was also penetrated for three touchdowns, two by fullback Bruce Rothman.

LI in all it was just a bad, bad day for Newton South football.

The season that started out on such a high note ends this week with a road game versus Westwood.

Bruins Night Here To Aid Kiddie Kamp

An evening with each and every player of the Stanley Cup winning Boston Bruins is possible for those who attend the "Salute To The Boston Bruins" dinner on Thursday, December 17, 1970 at the Marriott Hotel in Newton, Mass.

Don Earle, the Bruins' telecaster and Fred Cusick, the Bruins' radio broadcaster as Toastmasters of the event, will enable hockey fans to have one of the most enjoyable evenings of a lifetime, including answers to their questions from the players.

The management and players of the Bruins are participating in the interest of needy and deserving, underprivileged boys from the inner-city. All proceeds go to Horizons for Youth, an affiliate of Kiddie Kamp, that has served over 32,000 boys at their 300 acre facility on Lake Massapoag in Sharon, Mass.

Tickets are available by sending a self-addressed envelope to Horizons for Youth, Suite 203, 419 Boylston street, Boston, Mass. 02116, or call 266-1130 for further information.

This marks the first time in the history of professional sports that all the players, coach and management of a team will have participated in a benefit dinner.

Langstaff Sing-in At Library Next Tuesday

John Langstaff, Lexington concert singer and author, will lead a family folk sing at the Newton Free Library's Book Week Sing-In on Tuesday evening, November 17, at 7:00 p.m. at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner.

Mr. Langstaff's recitals and appearances as soloist with major orchestras and choruses have made him one of the leading American concert artists today, recognized on both sides of the Atlantic.

The City of Newton is honored by John Langstaff's appearance at the Library to celebrate Children's Book Week, 1970. City Librarian Virginia A. Tashjian urges parents to come to the Main Library, with their children, for the family folk-sing.

Recording artist, television performer, concert soloist, and artist-lecturer, John Langstaff has entertained and instructed thousands of children, university students and other adults with his folk-music lore.

Langstaff, now head of the music department at Shady Hill School, Cambridge, is co-editor, with his wife Nancy, of a newly published collection, "Jin Along Josie" (Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich).

His program will include some songs from earlier books, "Hi! Ho! the Rattlin' Bog," and "Frog Went A-Courtin'," illustrated by Feodor Rojankovsky, the Caldecott Medal winner in 1956. Mr. Langstaff will talk about variants in which folk songs exist, and will discuss children's chants, singing games and street cries, all sources of some folk songs.

Roland McCann of Newton, whose wife Sue is Cataloguer for the Newton Free Library, will be guitar accompanist for

The hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Newton Hosts AFS Families This Weekend

The Newton Chapter, American Field Service, will host a Suburban West AFS Weekend on Nov. 14 and 15.

Twenty four AFS foreign students with their host "brothers" and "sisters" will come from Wellesley, West Roxbury, Westwood, Cohasset, Concord, Dedham, Lexington, Natick, Needham, Norwood, Wollaston, North Scituate, Framingham, Hingham, Medfield and Milton and will stay with Newton families.

On Saturday morning, Nov. 14, three meetings will be held at Newton South High School. AFS students will meet each other, then participate in a meeting with host parents, and another with American "brothers" and "sisters."

Games and talk will be the afternoon activity.

After dinner with their host families, there will be a square dance at Meadowbrook Junior High School which is open to all the Newton school pupils.

The guests and their "brothers" and "sisters" will return to their respective towns after a Sunday morning spent with their host families.

Mr. Langstaff during some of the program, which will also include a traditional ballad, a ghost song, and a sea chantey.

A companion feature of the evening is an exhibit of Mr. Langstaff's books plus a display of dulcimers, traditional folk instruments, made by George F. Brewer of Auburndale. Mr. Brewer is well known in the Boston area as a builder and restorer of stringed instruments.

Rabbi Rothman Attends Board Meeting in Ohio

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, has returned from an important meeting of the Board of Governors of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rabbi Rothman, an elected member of the governing board of America's oldest Jewish theological seminary, serves on the Centenary Planning Committee which is planning the one hundredth anniversary celebration of the institution founded in 1875 with Rabbi Isaac Mayer Wise as its first president. Its current president is Dr. Nelson Glueck, famed Rabbi, author and archaeologist.

Players Streamline Comedy Opening Show This W'kend

Streamlined by the deletion of superfluous dialogue, spiced by the addition of songs and music, and innovated by a new thrust stage and contour seats for audience pleasure, the hectic comedy of errors, "See How They Run," will raise the curtain on The Country Players of Newton's fifteenth season of community theatre activity.

The perfect fare for the entire family, the humor-laden free-for-all, authored by Philip King, will be presented for four performances only, on consecutive Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 13-14 and Nov. 20-21, at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, at 8:30 p.m.

Upon its opening, Theatre World reported, "An apt title for an excellent farce of the most involved variety... Nor is there any offense anywhere in this admirably written play which deserves a long run for its rollicking good humor."

Directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill and produced by Mrs. Margaret Spicer Annis of Newtonville, the wild and woolly play will feature Ruth Boynick in the comedy lead, ably assisted by Michael Purcell and John Vitello.

Ruth Boynick's portrayal in "See How They Run" will mark her seventh appearance under the Players' banner. She essayed the roles of a housewife in "Inherit the Wind" and a nun in "Can Can" before being featured as Agatha in "Guys and Dolls," Doris in "Damn Yankees," Miss Jones in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and Sue in "Bells Are Ringing."

Behind the scenes, she has worked as costume designer, choral director and props chief. A seven-year veteran with the group and a mainstay on the Players' Board of Trustees, Mrs. Boynick recently embarked on her eighth season as choral director at Temple Beth Avodah, Newton Centre.

Michael Purcell made his stage debut last winter, portraying the Bishop in the Players' production of "The Balcony," a role he recreated twice (as an entry and a finalist) in the New England Theatre Conference Drama Festival at Brandeis University in May. With the MIT Community Players, he did readings and publicity and produced one stage vehicle.

A recipient of both B.A. and M.A. degrees in English from the University of Illinois, he is currently teaching at the Swampscott Junior High School.

The chemistry of working behind the scenes for three years, on props, set construction and as a stagehand, proved the catalytic agent necessary to prompt John Vitello's acting debut. A graduate of State University of New York, he received his degree in, coincidentally, Chemistry.

All three play comic relief roles in the hilarious romp about which the Denver critic reported, "It was a positive riot! In all my fifty years in the theatre I've never heard such laughter! The audience didn't just laugh, they screamed and howled!"

Seats are unreserved and may be purchased at the door. For additional information, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737 or 244-3507. President of the Players is Mrs. Marilyn Krassin of Newton Highlands.

The Players were founded in 1956 to develop, expand and assist theatre activity on community and educational levels in Newton. Its purpose is to bring together those individuals who are active or interested in any and all phases of community theatre in order to make them aware of theatre activity on these levels; to foster and encourage interest and participation in the many facets of community theatre areas; to provide a medium for the exchange of information and ideas for mutual benefit; and to promote local interest in the dramatic arts.

Dr. Kurt J. Isselbacher of Newton, Professor of Medicine at Harvard, delivered the Sir Arthur Hurst Memorial Lecture last Friday at the 31st annual meeting of the British Society of Gastroenterology.

The lecture, given at the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in London, was titled: "Intestinal Absorption — Structural and Functional Aspects."

Dr. Isselbacher is Chief of the Gastrointestinal Unit at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Under the auspices of the Newton PTA Council, some 200 citizens representing eight different agencies in the city, conferred Tuesday evening in the gymnasium of the Lincoln-Eliot School to formulate plans to combat what speakers described as "an epidemic of drug abuse" in Newton.

PTA Council President Peter Scott offered the service of the Council as a co-ordinating body, pending such time as the various groups can organize to prevent duplication of efforts.

Mrs. Benjamin Gill is chairman of the PTA Council Drug Committee, and arranged the meeting.

Lt. Thomas M. Dargan, representing the Police Department, said the police are involved in enforcement, education and prevention. He said the police are available as "a resource agency" to schools and to parent and civic groups to explore the legal aspects of drug abuse.

He said more and more officers are attending state and federal schools to learn about drugs.

Irwin L. Hoogheem, chairman of the drug education program, represented the School Department, and described the many-faceted programs to provide teachers with the materials and workshop materials they need.

He said the schools are concerned with children who have emotional problems, with or without drug abuse, and with arranging psychiatric help for them.

Dr. William Waterman represented the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He said the Newton-Wellesley area board of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health has appointed Rev. David C. Parachini of the Grace Episcopal Church as fulltime co-ordinator of area efforts to organize a drug program.

Rev. Parachini will be based at the psychiatry clinic of the hospital and at the Mental Center, jointly. There is an emergency room for acute problems, and there is psychiatric consultation and when required, hospitalization.

Pres. Richard Weisman of the Newton Youth Foundation, described it as "an umbrella organization" attempting to find projects for youth.

He rejected the idea of placing responsibility on the school system, contending that "the municipal government itself has fallen down." He said he felt the city has the responsibility of providing funds for the educational programs, and a treatment center.

The Newton Youth Center program, presented by Mrs. Karen Wright, was described as "a program for a variety of kids at a variety of locations."

She said the centers, in addition to providing places for the kids to go, also serve as informal counselling centers.

Alderman William Carmen is chairman of the Drug Committee of the Board of Aldermen, and said his committee was designed to serve as a catalyst, not as an activist, to bring together the resources and strength and moral support as well as financial support.

Other groups represented at the meeting included the Newton Mental Health Center, represented by James Elkind, psychiatric social worker and a member of the City of Newton Committee on Drug Abuse; also the Newton Hot Line, represented by Mrs. Sandra Kuten, its professional advisor and social worker at the Newton District Court Clinic.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Clark Sr., of 670 Grove street, Newton, and is a 1967 graduate of Newton High School.

Fifty-five SAC aircraft and crews, along with three Royal Air Force (Great Britain) teams, will be competing in the "world series of bombing and navigation."

SAC's newest bomber — the General Dynamics FB-111 — is making its debut in the competition. Two of the supersonic bombers and two-man crews will match their bombing and navigation skill against 24 B-52, 29 KC-135 Stratotanker and three British delta-wing Vulcan bomber crews.

Each bomber team will fly two scored missions and will be judged on navigation, coupled with simulated bombing from both low and high altitudes. Tanker crews will fly one mission, vying only for navigation honors.

The crew with the highest point total in combined bombing and navigation will win the coveted Fairchild Trophy. The Saunders Trophy will go to the tanker team compiling the most points in navigation. "Bombing targets" for the bombers will be located near Wheatley, Ark., and Arcadia, La., and accuracy of simulated bomb releases will be computed by mobile radar scoring units.

Mount Alvernia Club Holds Its Annual Harvest Bazaar

The annual Harvest Bazaar is to be held at Mount Alvernia Academy on Manet road in Chestnut Hill on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Mrs. Louis P. Lemay of Waban Hill road, chairman, announces that the following Newtonites will be assisting her, Mrs. John B. McNamara, Mrs. Stephen Healey, Mrs. Ned Scatrito, Mrs. Paul Waters, Mrs. James H. Walsh and Mrs. Andrew McGurran.

All the old favorites will be back: the white elephant, treasure chest, parcel post, knitwear, pastry shop, and many others. New this year will be an import-export table and a boutique cravat.

Dinner will be served in the Cafe Assisi on Friday evening and guests will enjoy the music of the Joe Pulsifer School of Music, featuring Tony Stefanelli on the accordion.

Mrs. Alexander S. Blinstub of Lombard street is president of the Mount Alvernia Club.

Attends Ohio Event
A Newton resident, Arnold Greene, President of the Arnold Greene Testing Laboratories Inc., in Natick, attended the 33rd annual meeting of the American Council of Independent Laboratories which was held recently in Cleveland, Ohio.

Following the service a coffee hour will be held during which questions about the church's programs will be answered. Those attending will be asked to indicate their financial pledge to the church for 1971.

Visitors will call in the homes of those not attending this Sunday, November 15th. The chairman of the financial canvass is Albert French.

The theme is "Share and Care." This Sunday Mr. Harry Brookins will give a brief talk on "What the Church Means To Me." All members have been urged to attend the service. A training meeting for canvass visitors will be held tonight, Thursday, at 8:00 p.m.

Newton AF Sgt. Chosen for Elite Combat Drills
U.S. Air Force Sgt. Ernest S. Clark Jr., of Newton has been selected to participate in the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) elite combat competition at McCoy AFB, Florida, Nov. 15-20.

Sgt. Clark is an aircraft mechanic on the hand-picked team that will support the B-52 Stratofortress bomber crew from the 42nd Bombardment Wing at Loring AFB, Maine. He was selected on the basis of his technical skill, proficiency and outstanding performance.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Clark Sr., of 670 Grove street, Newton, and is a 1967 graduate of Newton High School.

FLASH — EXTRA FLASH GREAT NEWS
The area is buzzing about the buffet presented the past couple of weekends by Chef Fran Raimier at the cuddly Castle Keep Restaurant, located at the Waltham Motor Inn in Waltham. Chances are if the guy next to you isn't buzzing, it's because he was there. It's awful hard to buzz when you're bursting with goodies, can you imagine a buffet where you are turned loose with silverware and china on an assortment of treats such as steamship round of beef, honey cured ham, 6 huge golden brown turkeys, seafood newburgh, chicken paprika, aspics, molds, relishes, melons, fruits, desserts, homemade cobblers, and I just can't go on, you have to see it to believe it. You can eat as much as you want for five ecstatic hours, 6:00 P.M. till 11:00 P.M. That one is on Saturday evenings, preferred by lovers, secret agents, rogues, tigers, and all ravenously hungry humans. Ah, then there is the Sunday thing, that's the family day buffet, where Mom gets to relax and can turn her back loose on already shell-shocked Fran. It's basically the same, except the nude bone which formerly supported a 85 pound round of beef has been removed, and replaced with swinging cotton pickin', finger lickin', Fran's maple fried chicken. This one is served from noon till 3:00 P.M. Preferred by families, librarians, Girl Scouts, Merv Griffin and Kool Aid fans. Saturdays buffet is only a partial loss at $4.50 per person, Sunday you can commit grand larceny for $3.95 per person. Children $1.55. What's the difference? Fran says... 55 cents.

You can eat as much as you want for five ecstatic hours, 6:00 P.M. till 11:00 P.M. That one is on Saturday evenings, preferred by lovers, secret agents, rogues, tigers, and all ravenously hungry humans. Ah, then there is the Sunday thing, that's the family day buffet, where Mom gets to relax and can turn her back loose on already shell-shocked Fran. It's basically the same, except the nude bone which formerly supported a 85 pound round of beef has been removed, and replaced with swinging cotton pickin', finger lickin', Fran's maple fried chicken. This one is served from noon till 3:00 P.M. Preferred by families, librarians, Girl Scouts, Merv Griffin and Kool Aid fans. Saturdays buffet is only a partial loss at $4.50 per person, Sunday you can commit grand larceny for $3.95 per person. Children $1.55. What's the difference? Fran says... 55 cents.

Tumult Dies In 3rd District . . .

Winner And Losers Issue Post-Election Statements

Congressman-elect Robert F. Drinan issued the following statement to the citizens of the 3rd congressional district:

"The results of this election mean that the voters of the 3rd district have registered their disapproval with three things: the war policies of President Nixon, the economic policies of the Republican Party, and the campaign tactics of smear and fear followed by candidates in this race and across the country.

The results of this election on November 3, reaffirm what the voters already said in the primary on September 15: stop the War!

"This victory means that there is one more person in the Congress of the United States who will wage war on war.

"During the past 22 months President Nixon has reverted to repressive and outdated economic policies which have brought near stagnation to the economy, especially here in the 3rd District.

"This election means that the voters know that we can have a healthy economy.

"My intense desire is for all citizens and especially young persons to work within the system. I sincerely hope that the tactics, the indefensible policies of the Republican Party, and the campaign tactics of smear and fear followed by those who have worked in this campaign will not deter, but rather, will intensify further political involvement on the part of everyone associated with this campaign.

"The politics of courage must triumph over the politics of fear.

"The politics of love must transcend the politics of hatred.

"November 3 brought victory to the countless people behind this campaign who believe passionately that all of us are our brother's keeper.

"I have been honored in this campaign to have been the recipient of so much respect, confidence, trust, and love.

"This pilgrimage which we have made together has been one of the happiest and most rewarding periods of my entire life.

"Because of all the things which we love and cherish together we will, I know, remain as pilgrims on the same road for a long time to come. Our pilgrimage together will almost certainly be a long and lovely journey of a thousand miles. We rejoice because together we have taken the first step on that immense journey."

Rummage Sale Helps Cystic Fibrosis Fund

A rummage sale for the benefit of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation will be held on Thursday, November 19, at the Newton Centre Women's Club, 1280 Centre street, Newton Centre.

New and used clothing, household articles and bric-a-brac will be on sale at the club from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate articles to the sale or volunteer their time during the day may contact Mrs. Shirley Gray at 469-0682 or the Cystic Fibrosis Office at 325-4400.

Primary beneficiary of the proceeds of the sale will be the internationally famed Cystic Fibrosis Care, Teaching and Research Center at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston. The C/F Center is under the direction of Dr. Harry Shwachman, world renowned for his work in seeking a cure for C/F, which afflicts one in eight hundred babies born annually in the Commonwealth.

Over a year ago, the center also began concentration on research into children's lung diseases, including Cystic Fibrosis, asthma with lung damage, chronic bronchitis, emphysema and bronchiectasis, all of which were added under the broadened research programs of the Foundation.

Cystic Fibrosis, which rivals all forms of cancer as a killer of babies and children, is the most serious chronic disease affecting children's lungs and digestion. No cure is yet known.

Pickup of donations will be made by calling one of the following: Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Miriam Bloomfield, 734-2357, or Mrs. Ruth Hecht, 969-8077. For further information, call chairmen Mrs. Lila Tye, 332-3899; Mrs. Lorraine Kadet, 244-0602, or Mrs. Marilyn Bernard, 469-9575.

DISCUSS COLLEGE PROGRAM — Mrs. Malcolm Green, West Newton, and Mrs. Herman Smoller, Newton Centre, participants in the Continuing Education Program at Wellesley College, discuss the program with Meredith Davis '71, at right, of New Canaan, Conn.

Mothers, Grandmothers Return To Wellesley College Under New Plan

Mothers, grandmothers and other women of all ages have gone back to college under the new Continuing Education Program begun at Wellesley College this fall.

Designed for women whose academic careers have been interrupted, the program offers them chance to continue work toward the B.A. degree, to take graduate work, in preparation for a career change, or to retort for more intensive work toward a higher degree.

Some women are participating simply for self-enrichment; others to sharpen their professional capabilities. Candidates for the Continuing Education may begin in either semester.

Mrs. Wesley W. Marple, Jr., director of the Continuing Education Program, has announced that registration for the spring semester closes December 1. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Marple at the Continuing Education Office, Sage Hall, on the Wellesley College campus, Mondays through Fridays, before 3 p.m.

Area women who are participating in the Continuing Education Program, has announced that registration for the spring semester closes December 1. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Marple at the Continuing Education Office, Sage Hall, on the Wellesley College campus, Mondays through Fridays, before 3 p.m.

Area women who are participating in the Continuing Education Program at Wellesley are:

From Newton: Mrs. Malcolm Green, 272 Highland Avenue, West Newton, is working toward the B.A. in political science. She previously attended Wellesley College and Simmons College. The wife of an engineer at Tyco Bystrex, Inc., Mrs. Green is the mother of three children and has been active in the League of Women Voters, serving on the Board of Directors from 1967 to 1969.

Mrs. Edward M. Kaitz, 77 Beaumont Avenue, Newtonville, is working toward the B.A. in history. She previously attended Northeastern University and Simmons College. The mother of two children, she is vice-president of the PTA at Emerson School. She also is a member and soloist in the Mayflower Chorus.

Mrs. Herman Smoller, 42 Hamlin Road, Newton Centre, is working toward the B.A. in English. She earned her Secretarial Diploma from Boston Clerical and has recently earned her A.A. from Newton Junior College. The mother of three children, she is on the board of directors of the Speech and Hearing Foundation.

From Chestnut Hill: Mrs. Howard Richter, 140 Pond Brook Road, is doing graduate work in art. She earned the A.B. degree from Goucher College and has since attended

Radcliffe Institute and Newton College of the Sacred Heart. She has spent time with the Baltimore City Department of Public Welfare as a social caseworker. Her husband is a Neurosurgical Resident at Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. and Mrs. Richie have two children.

From Wellesley Hills: Mrs. Kenneth Brown, 30 Wynnewood Road, is working to complete her Bachelor of Arts degree in English. She attended Mount Holyoke for three years and the University of Connecticut for a summer. The mother of four children, she has been active in the Massachusetts Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, serving as chairman of the Board of Directors in 1969-70 and as president and founder of the Wellesley Chapter. Her husband is Executive Vice President of the Massachusetts Safety Council.

Mrs. Allen K. Gibbs, 25 Tenynson Road, is also working for her B.A. in English. She has studied at Boston University for three years. Mrs. Gibbs has been an active member of the League of Women Voters and a driver for the Head Start program. Her husband is in advertising-marketing for Gillette Company in South Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs are the parents of three children.

Mrs. Peter D. Hansen, 59 Fiske Road, is doing graduate work in black studies. She was awarded her B.A. and M.A. by the University of Rochester. She has been active in the League of Women Voters and was a member of the first group of volunteer tutors to go into Boston from Wellesley under the Massachusetts Council for Public Schools. Her husband is an engineer at Foxboro Company. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen have two children.

Mrs. Loring Lincoln, 49 Fiske Road, was awarded her A.B. by Smith College in 1970. She was a guest senior at Wellesley in 1969-70 and is now working to complete her pre-medical requirements.

From Wellesley: Mrs. Robert Leet, 23 Bernard Road, is doing graduate work in psychology. She received the A.B. degree from Radcliffe and the M.Ed. from the Harvard Graduate School of Education before teaching at the Niskayuna Public Schools in Schenectady, New York. Her husband is a physician at Bunker Hill Health Center of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. Dr. and Mrs. Leet have three children.

Mrs. Oliver Leland, of 5 Westwood Road, earned her A.A. at Pueblo Junior College in Colorado. She is now working towards her B.A. in chemistry. Her husband is director of cardiology at New England Deaconess Hospital. Dr. and Mrs. Leland are the parents of three children.

Mrs. Abram London, 11 Colgate Road, is doing pre-M.A. work in art history. She holds a B.A. from Radcliffe College and the M.Ed. from Harvard. Her husband is a physician. Dr. and Mrs. London have two children.

From Needham: Mrs. Seymour Sacks, 101 Garden Street, is working toward the B.A. degree in sociology. She attended Hunter College for two years. The wife of a Needham physician and mother of three children, Mrs. Sacks has served as president of the League of Women Voters of Needham.

With what can only be called monumental effort, Mrs. Bennett garnered the support of leading citizens of Newton who believed that a symphony in Newton would be an enrichment of community life.

She contacted countless agencies outside of Newton as well as some of which were able to offer substantial financial support for the first stage of development of the organization.

Since the founding stage, however, much of the assistance from sources outside of Newton is no longer available, necessitating increased support through private donations of individual citizens and businesses of Newton.

With the 1970 season, the symphony's fifth, about to begin with its first local concert on Sunday evening, November 15, Mr. Budd has been bending his energies toward encouraging increased community support to sustain the symphony in its efforts to present diversified music programs and offer series of concerts with the finest in guest artists.

Mark Budd New President Of Newton Symphony Bd.

RECEIVES BY-LAWS

Mark Budd has been elected president of the Board of the Newton Symphony Orchestra. He succeeds Mrs. Alan Bennett who held the post since the founding of the orchestra in 1967.

In addition to his quiet charm and dedication, Mr. Budd brings to his new task a lifelong interest in music, as well as the credentials of a successful business administrator.

He enjoyed a career as a professional violinist and teacher for about twenty years, and later became choir director of Temple Ohabei Shalom in Brookline which post he held until 1943.

In 1938 Mr. Budd became very interested in recreational camping. He founded and has directed Camp Alpine on Cape Cod since 1940.

Nan Bennett, retiring president, in conjunction with the symphony's music director Michel Sasson, was the prime mover in forming what is today one of Newton's proudest cultural assets.

Homes Inc., has filed one appeal for a variance of lot frontage to allow the town house construction at 40 Highland Avenue, Newtonville. The same firm seeks a variance on the rear lot line and permission to construct parking spaces within the required setback distance at 154 Lowell Avenue, also in Newtonville.

Allen D. Robinson of 42 Clifton Road, Newton Centre, seeks a side line variance to build a cabana, in the third petition to the Board, which consists of Chairman William P. Ripley, and members David B. Cooper, Chame A. Fisher and Maurice A. Reidy Jr.

Seek Variance For Newtonville Town Houses

The Newton Zoning Board of Appeals had scheduled a public hearing on Tuesday, Nov. 24 at 7:45 p.m. on three petitions for a variance, one of which would allow construction of six town houses.

RECEIVES BY-LAWS — Mark Budd, new president of the Newton Symphony Orchestra board of directors, receives a copy of the by-laws from Mrs. Alan Bennett, retiring president.

Major Problems Confront Cities In Crime Control

Massachusetts cities and towns are beginning to find new ways to fight spiraling crime rates, thanks in part to newly available federal funds and the stimulus provided by the state's Committee on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Criminal Justice.

But they still face serious restraints on their ability to overhaul existing procedures and organizations to combat the growing complexities of crime control.

That is the picture that evolved from an interview with Sheldon Krantz, of Newton, former director of the Governor's Committee and now an associate professor of law at Boston University.

Krantz says, in an article in the current issue of the BU Law Review, that cities that try to deal with increasing crime rates by pumping more money into their police departments alone are likely to find that they have made little impact on the incidence of crime.

What is needed instead, he says in the article, is a concerted drive to find new ways to bring all crime prevention and control facilities to bear on specific crime problems.

So far few major cities in Boston is a notable exception. Boston has developed the organizational framework or had the money or personnel to devote to such a campaign, the Newton man stated.

Krantz has viewed the problem from several perspectives. After graduating from the University of Nebraska law school in 1962, he served for several years as a prosecutor with the Justice Department's organized crime division.

He was on the staff of the President's Crime Commission, seeking ways to improve police departments, and became head of the Massachusetts Governor's Committee in 1967, first planning for and then administering federal anti-crime funds. He went to BU this year.

A critical first step in dealing with crime, he says, is establishment of a local criminal justice planning unit to re-evaluate present procedures, recommend new programs and assist the community's chief executive in implementing new approaches.

Boston established a Coordinating Committee for the Administration of Justice in 1969 and prepared a comprehensive justice plan this year.

Several cities and some regional groups have attempted to set up such offices but face many of the same restraints as the nation's major cities.

Money is a major problem. Few communities have the resources to establish new planning offices, and many find the pressures to meet their immediate problems demand that they put most of their resources into agencies, such as police departments, that seem to promise the quickest results.

While the federal Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 included planning funds in its first year, the increasing emphasis now is on action programs.

The shortage of funds could be met in part by financial aid from the state, which has a broader tax base than the cities and towns.

But a bill that would have created a state funding agency, written last year, was never introduced at the State House.

Local city planning agencies have shown little interest in becoming involved in such programs, Krantz says, although they could be a valuable resource to their communities.

Another problem is the lack of qualified personnel. An effective investigation of new crime control techniques requires people with a variety of skills to help pull the criminal justice system together.

As a result, city executives have had to rely on police department staffs "or on some very questionable consulting organizations," he says.

Krantz suggests that the state's colleges and universities lend more help with criminal justice planning, training personnel or assisting in research and evaluation projects, or through Criminal Justice Centers such as those at Boston University and at Harvard.

The multi-level structure of the criminal justice system also discourages city executives from working to pull the parts together.

Local communities maintain police departments, but the courts, prisons and rehabilitative programs are at county and state levels.

"Cities are greatly affected by these other agencies," Krantz says, and must make the extra effort to insure that they are well coordinated with them.

Letters between the two families keep both parties in constant touch.

Foster Preents Plan has been in existence since 1937 and has "graduated" some 110,000 Foster Children thanks to more than 600,000 United States and Canadian Foster Parents, including groups. Some of the graduates are professionals, others are industrial or agricultural workers. All are eternally grateful for the support of generous Americans who saved them from sickness, abject poverty, and ignorance and gave them health, education and hope.

For information of Foster Parents Plan, Inc., write in care of 352 Park Avenue South, New York, New York, 10010.

Viet Boy 'Adopted' By Newton Centre Family

Nguyen Van Sang, a ten-year-old Vietnamese boy, has been adopted by the Gochberg Family of Crescent Avenue, Newton Centre, through the Foster Parents Plan, Inc.

Through PLAN, the Gochbergs have assumed a financial, not legal, responsibility for Sang which makes it possible for him to continue in school.

Sang and his brothers and sisters are virtual orphans living with their grandmother and aunt in Phu Nhuan located in Saigon. Their home is a mud-brick shack built on posts over a canal.

The adoption by the Gochbergs affords Sang and his family a monthly cash grant, clothing and other important necessities as well as medical care for the family. Monthly

Welfare Under Scrutiny By Women Voter's League

The League of Women Voters of Newton will spotlight public welfare during their unit meetings on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday (Nov. 18, 19 and 20). Concerned with welfare on which a major portion of the state budget is allocated, the League is considering it as part of a national Human Resources item.

League members will be asked four consensus questions concerning government's responsibility for meeting people's basic needs; what level of government should be responsible; what criteria should be used to determine eligibility, benefit levels, etc.; and what kind of program of supportive services is desirable.

As background, plans which have been proposed as alternatives to the current system — including the Nixon administration's proposal — will be discussed.

Members of the public welfare resource committee of the League of Women Voters of Newton include Mrs. Charles Lipson, Chairman, Mrs. Daniel Brandel, Vice Chairman, Mrs. Jonathan Adler, Mrs. Melvin Darack, Mrs. J. Bernard Everett, Mrs. Jel Leighton, Mrs. Martin Leinwand, and Mrs. Susan Zeeman.

The schedule of unit meetings, which guests are cordially invited, follows: Morning meetings are from 9:30 to 11:30; luncheon meeting is from 11:30 to 2:00; and evening meetings are from 8:00 to 10:00.

Wednesday morning, November 18, at the Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut Street, Newtonville (Please use Highland Avenue entrance), led by Mrs. Ella Lipson. Wednesday luncheon at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox Street, West Newton (Bring a sandwich. Coffee will be provided), led by Mrs. Ernest Picard. Wednesday

Thursday morning, November 19, at the home of Mrs. Asger Agerisson, 151 Albermarle Road, Newtonville led by Mrs. Jerry Bell. Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jerold Young, 44 Brandeis Road, Newton Centre led by Mrs. Maynard Slessinger.

Friday morning, November 20, at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street, Auburndale hosted by Mrs. John J. Gaines and led by Mrs. Joseph Alexander (A babysitter will be in attendance).

Please join this first set of discussion units of this League year. For further information, call Mrs. A. Arthur Lowenthal, Discussion Units Chairman, 332-3008, or Mrs. Jane Montgomery, Vice President in charge of Membership, 527-1253.

Meteorologist Speaker Today

Don Kent, meteorologist, will be the featured speaker and present a colored slide program of New England scenes during the four seasons at the November 12th meeting of the Newton Community Club. The meeting will begin at 1:15 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall, Eliot Church, Miss Mabel K. Chase, president, will preside.

Mrs. Lewis Bird is the social chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Grace Burley, Mrs. Lemuel Mansfield, Miss Flora Hubbard and Mrs. Maurice O'Connell. Poursers will be Mrs. Anna Pedneault and Mrs. Richard Hill.

A food sale will be under the direction of the directors, Mrs. Arthur Wood, Mrs. George Rawson and Mrs. George Strandberg.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

ELECTRONIC MOISTURE SENSOR ALLOWS "NO GUESSWORK" DRYING IN EXTRA LARGE CAPACITY DRYER.

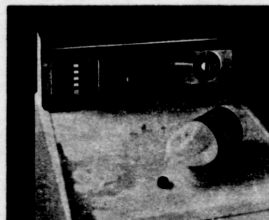

Extra large capacity gives permanent press fabrics the room to tumble, fluff and cool out wrinkles. Electronic moisture sensor actually feels clothes to determine the precise degree of dryness. Prevents underdrying or overdrying, even on mini-load. Features the sanitize cycle that kills a higher percentage of certain bacteria which are resistant to normal drying cycles. Buy the most advanced permanent press dryer, Electric Model DDE9200L, Gas Model DDG9200L. Select your most economical power source.

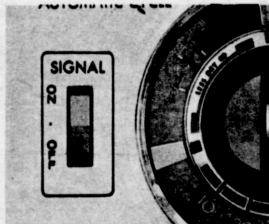

ELECTRONIC MOISTURE SENSOR—determines when clothes are dry the same way you do—by touching them to "feel" how damp they are. Eliminates underdrying or harsh damaging overdrying.

AUTOMATIC PERMANENT PRESS CYCLE—just push a button, turn a dial and permanent press clothes are tumbled in controlled heat, cooled and ready to hang or wear—wrinkle free. All automatically.

PORCELAIN ENAMEL TOP AND DRUM—all GE electric and gas dryers give you the benefit of porcelain enamel. It's easy to clean... the smoothest finish to put next to your clothes and linens.

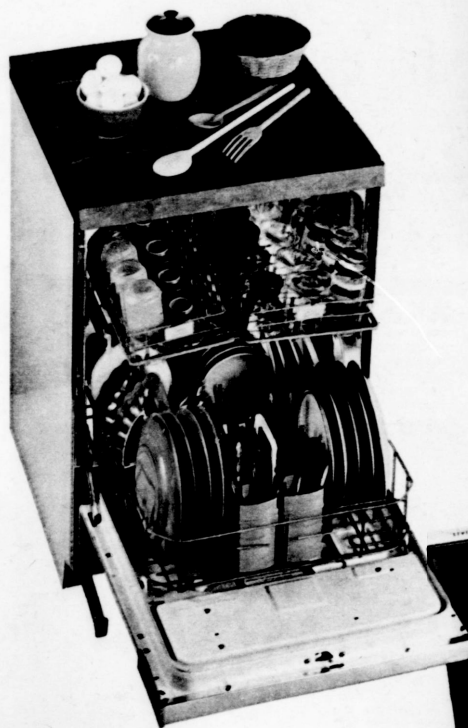

END-OF-CYCLE SIGNAL CONTROL—No need to run back and forth to see if the dryer is stopped—this signal will "tell" you when the cycle is complete. Baby asleep?—just push the control to "off".

LOCKE URGES TUITION HIKE FOR 70,000 STATE STUDENTS
SEN. DAVID H. LOCKE, R-Wellesley, urged Wednesday the 70,000 students in state colleges and universities be required to pay $300 each in higher tuition to lighten the tax load for property owners. Sen. Locke told a special state commission considering tax reforms to lower the cost of government that his proposal to raise tuition at state schools from $200 to $500 a year would raise $35 million. Fears were expressed as the panel opened hearings that the proposed reform package could lead to wasted spending by local governments and might not work at all. The commission proposed earlier this month, after two years of study, that the state pick up the tab for 80 per cent of the cost of local government instead of the 25 per cent it now pays. The proposal would mean a 22 per cent cut in property taxes and would save homeowners and other property owners $400 million a year. The panel recommended boosting personal income taxes, extending the state's 3 per cent sales tax to bottled liquor and bar drinks and perhaps taxing land owned by private schools, churches and "charitable institutions" to help make up for lower property levies. Locke warned, however, that forcing such organizations to give up their tax-exempt status would "sound the death knell for private education and charities in this state." He proposed raising tuition instead. Locke said many students are now getting an education at state-run colleges and universities "at a cost far below what their families are able to pay." The Republican lawmaker also urged the state to tax life insurance payments to heirs, saying it could bring in millions and millions of dollars in revenue.

FREE TRADE BLOC NEARLY SCUTTLES IMPORT QUOTAS MEASURE
FREE TRADE advocates came within an eyelash of scuttling a controversial bill Wednesday that could lead to import quotas on a broad range of foreign products, but they finally lost in a topsy-turvy session. The test of strength came on the procedural question of whether the bill could be amended. After reversing itself in a series of votes, the House decided no amendments could be offered to the measure, which would set up shoe and textile import quotas and give the President authority to establish restrictions on other foreign goods if they hurt domestic industry. For a time, the bill was in serious jeopardy. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and manager of the trade bill, had said he would not allow it to be considered if amendments could be offered to the floor. Passage was expected without a major hitch today, now that opponents made their play and lost. The House first voted 204 to 189 to tentatively block the no-amendment procedure. Then, this decision lost on a second roll call, 201 to 192. Had the bill's opponents succeeded on that vote to open the measure to amendments, it more than likely would have died.

NIXON REQUESTS ADDITIONAL $1.035 BILLION IN FOREIGN AID
PRESIDENT NIXON asked Congress Wednesday for an additional $1.035 billion in foreign aid, chiefly to help Israel offset the Soviet missile buildup in the Suez Canal Zone and to bolster the Communist-threatened Cambodian military. Nixon said the request, coming on top of $2.2 billion previously sought, was required to help the United States "reduce our direct involvement abroad." But it was given little chance of approval this year by the lame duck session of Congress. Leading the supplemental request was $500 million in credits for Israeli purchase of warplanes and other sophisticated military equipment already committed to the Tel Aviv government. Nixon said he would prefer curbing Middle East arms shipments, but that Soviet arms aid forced him to "preserve the delicate military balance" there. He also requested $255 million for Cambodia, with most of the military aid for ammunition and other simple hardware.

UAW LOCALS PASS QUARTER MARK IN RATIFYING GM PACT
UNITED AUTO WORKERS locals passed the one quarter mark in ratifying a new national contract agreement with General Motors Wednesday while the international union warned that benefits being paid to strikers would have to end by Nov. 30. The strike against GM is now in its tenth week even though a national contract was reached one week ago. The local unions have until Friday night to vote on ratification with total results due on Saturday.

SUPPLIES TRICKLE INTO EAST PAKISTAN STRICKEN AREAS
TONS OF RELIEF supplies arrived in Dacca, East Pakistan, Wednesday, but only a trickle reached hungry and homeless survivors of the cyclone-tidal wave disaster that took a huge death toll along the Bay of Bengal. The stricken area was largely inaccessible by road and airporths were impossible. Some locally published reports said the storm last Thursday night may have killed 650,000 persons. One account said 100,000 migrant farm workers may have been swept from a group of 200 small islands which simply disappeared under a wall of water 20 feet high. Three U.S. Air Force C-141 cargo planes — two from Nepal and one from Pope AFB in North Carolina — were en route to Dacca with tents, blankets and helicopters in the first deliveries of $10 million in emergency aid promised by President Nixon. Typhoid and Cholera posed a threat, and some hunger marches were reported among desperate villagers. The disaster area was under water a foot deep in some places, making supply drops by parachute impractical.

BOOBY TRAP KILLS FIVE AMERICANS IN SOUTH VIETNAM
A VIET CONG booby trap killed five Americans in South Vietnam Wednesday, raising to 30 the number of U.S. troops slain by such devices in the past 11 days, military spokesmen said in Saigon. The 30 deaths by booby traps and mines account for more than half the 55 American combat fatalities during the 11-day period, they said. Communist ground offensives dropped to their lowest point in nine months. The spokesmen for the U.S. military command said Communists launched only four shelling attacks during the 24-hour period ended at 8 a.m. Wednesday, the fewest since last Feb. 6, when there were two. They said there were no ground attacks by either Viet Cong or North Vietnamese reported anywhere in South Vietnam during the 24-hour period ended at noon Wednesday.

ISRAEL SEEKS PROMISES OF CONTINUED U.S. MILITARY AID
ISRAEL is seeking promises of continued U.S. military support and a more permanent Suez Canal truce before it will return to Middle East peace talks, diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said Wednesday. The sources said Israel was asking for sophisticated military equipment on easy credit terms in Washington talks Wednesday between Foreign Minister Abba Eban and U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers. They said Israel also wanted more economic assistance as one of the conditions for going into talks under auspices of the U.N. special Middle East envoy, Gunnar V. Jarling. At the U.N. Jarling issued a special appeal to Israel to return to the discussions.

Hit Jaywalkers, Hitchhikers

Traffic Safety Is Local Police Goal

Chief William F. Quinn of the Newton Police Department has asked all educational institutions in the city to cooperate with the effort to create improved safety on Newton streets.

Chief Quinn stated that "hitchhiking and jaywalking" create a tremendous traffic hazard, with added danger in the roadways. Sudden stops by the motorists are dangerous to both motorists and pedestrians during peak traffic hours, with an increased danger after dark.

The Chief went on to say, "Many young people have been walking to and from their junior and senior high schools and colleges in some instances three, four and five abreast. This is a situation that need not be tolerated or allowed to exist. The obvious dangers on damp or leaf-covered roadways are many."

Parents of young people are requested to take an increased interest in the pedestrian habits of their children to improve the safety of these children and the safety of our community in general.

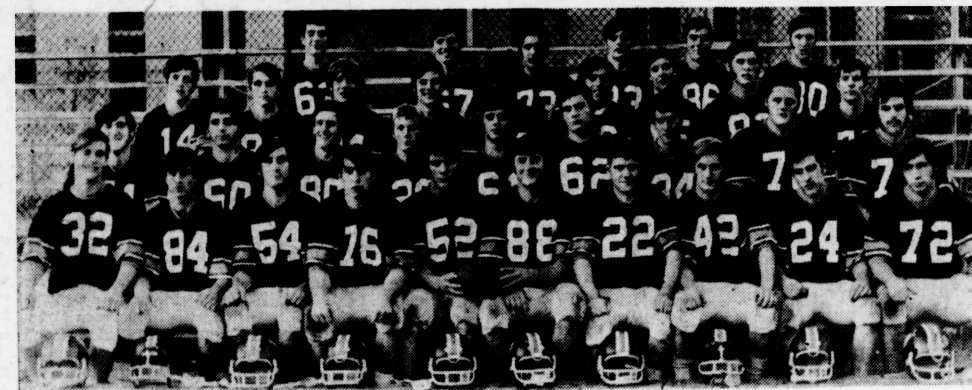

In another vein, the Chief also recounted that an out-of-town motorist was held up by a young female hitchhiker, and that some female thumbs have been victims of criminal assaults.

According to the Chief, either accidents or assaults as a result of these activities are a waste of our human resources, and should be eliminated by institutional, parental, and community effort.

In addition, the Chief forwarded a copy of the revised

Newton Professor Charges

Needs Of Aged Are Ignored Says Lowy

Older people don't necessarily need less money than younger ones to live. They simply have less disposable income, and thus spend less, according to a Boston University authority in gerontology.

$134,179 Is Transferred For Raises

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night approved the transfer of $134,179.61 from the city's budget reserve to cover salary raises for four groups of city employees with whom contract negotiations were just recently completed.

Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein reported to the aldermen on Monday night that the money had been placed in the budget reserve in contemplation of the four settlements.

RAISES—(See Page 23)

Dr. Louis Lowy, of Newton Highlands, professor of social work and author of the nation's first manual for work with the aged, said that the cost of living is no different for older people than for the young.

"Housing and food cost just as much for an older person as they do for any single individual. As for clothes, the chances are that if an older person had more money, he would spend correspondingly more on his dress."

Dr. Lowy said that the average income needed by a single person just to inch over the poverty level is $3800. The most an older person can receive in social security benefits is $2400. "To enable an

17-2 Vote Approves Renewal Land Price

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night approved by a 17 to 2 vote the purchase for $18,000 of a city-owned parcel of land in the Newton Lower Falls urban renewal area.

The matter had been returned to the Finance Committee after the last meeting of the aldermen when questions arose regarding what would happen to the fill and gravel on the hilly site currently flanked by a high stone wall on Washington street.

Finance Committee

Chairman Edward C. Uehlein said the Redevelopment Authority anticipates that most or all of the fill will be used to grade and terrace the site. The Authority, however, has voted that any excess fill will be offered to the city, Uehlein noted.

In addition, he reported, borings on the site indicate that any gravel on the land is about nine feet below the surface.

A report from the city assessors indicates that an offer was made for the land

Newton May Return To Marking Paper Ballots

The future use of voting machines in Newton appeared to be in some doubt this week.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night the city fathers were faced with the decision of whether to spend approximately $373,000 to purchase the 208 voting machines which have been rented since they were introduced into the community a little more than a year ago.

The $25,000 rental fee would be applied toward purchase of the machines, according to the contract with the voting machine company. The Board was asked to appropriate $38,000 and the balance would be paid for by a five year bond issue.

According to the contract the option to purchase the machines and have the $25,000 towards the cost must be exercised by December 15, though there was some discussion about asking for a time extension.

A motion to return the matter to a committee for study for all the alternatives, including return to paper ballots or the other electronic devices now available for voting or counting ballots, was defeated by a 12 to 9 vote of the board. Alderman Joseph McDonnell made the motion to return the item to committee.

Finally, after considerable discussion concerning the pros and cons of the voting machines, Alderman Peter Harrington made a charter objection, which automatically cuts off debate and a vote on a matter until the next meeting.

Harrington said that since he had not been an alderman when the matter came up for study two or three years ago there were further questions to which he wanted answers.

Public Hearing On Vote Method Set For Dec. 2

A public hearing to determine whether voting machines, paper ballots or some other form of equipment should be used in future Newton elections will be held by the city's Election Commission in the Aldermanic Chamber on the night of Wednesday, Dec. 2. It will start at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the Board of Aldermen and League of Women Voters, election officers who have worked at the city's polling places and all other persons with ideas on the matter will be invited to the session.

Donald S. Bishop is chairman of the Newton Election Commission. The other members are Charles J. Doherty, Eugene M. Hirschberg and James P.D. Waters.

Legal Off-Track Betting Would Hurt Organized Crime

When Boston Mayor Kevin H. White advocated during the gubernatorial campaign that off-track betting be legalized in Massachusetts, the idea was not given the serious consideration it deserved.

Governor Francis W. Sargent declared during his debate with the Boston Mayor that White's proposal would produce only $20 million in additional taxes which would be far from enough to solve the state's financial problems or those of its cities and towns.

Whether Mr. Sargent was correct in his estimate or Mr. White was right in forecasting a larger return

Nature's Garden Lecture Subject

"Nature's Gardens at the Edge of the Sea" was the subject of the slide show and lecture presented on Tuesday morning, November 17, to members of the Newton Centre Garden Club and guests. The speaker was Dr. Norton Nickerson, Professor of Biology at Tufts University.

A coffee hour at 9:30 was followed by a business meeting presided over by Mrs. Wilbur S. Roberts, Jr. of Dover, club president. Hostesses were Mrs. Kurt Schorr of Newton Centre and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Cushman of Waban. Pourers were Mrs. Philip A. Ingwersen of Waban and Mrs. Robert T. Capeless of Newton Highlands, first vice-president of the club.

Thanksgiving baskets have been decorated and filled for shut-ins in a nursing home by members of the Garden Therapy Committee, of which the chairmen are Mrs. David W. Skinner and Mrs. George J. Brookhiser, both of Waban.

Headlight and Highlights From Newton South High

BY JANICE E. KAPLAN

This year's drama production, Ondine, opens tonight, November 19. Curtains for the production go up Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings at eight p.m.

The play is a big three-act production. The whimsical plot is both serious and comic. The story revolves around an Ondine, which is a water nymph, who is portrayed by Nanci Glass.

She is being raised by an old fisherman and his wife (Ed Hornsby and Lynnie Greene). Skip Singer plays Hans, a knight who falls in love with Ondine upon which he forgets that he is to marry a princess. The forgotten woman, Bertha, is Kathy Falk.

As Ondine joins the human world she makes a pact with the king of the sea, Rich Levine is the king who agrees that should Hans deceive her, she will die.

Other major roles in the production include Bob Beaser as the Lord Chamberlain, Russell Lyons as Bertram the poet, and Larry Sterne as the King.

The director of Ondine is Mr. Ernest Chamberlain. He feels Ondine is an exciting play to produce because it "affords opportunities for students to exercise their creativity" while being further challenged in the need to remain faithful to the intentions of the author.

Bob Beaser is writing original music for the play. Ondine draws a fine line between the comic and the serious, although the comic aspect underlines the serious.

Mr. Lester Gediman, a new teacher at Newton South, is the technical director. He has co-ordinated the lighting, construction, stage, and sound crews into a successful functioning staff.

A difficult behind the scene job is being fulfilled by production manager Miriam Axelrod. She is aided by Leah Freed. Stage manager is Jeanne Klugman.

After twenty-eight years as part of the Newton school system, Miss Helen Sweeney is leaving. She has been at Newton South since its beginning ten years ago. During that time she has been assistant principal.

Miss Sweeney is retiring from public school teaching in January. She will spend the rest of the year traveling around the United States. In the future she plans to do volunteer work with blind or retarded children.

Miss Sweeney worked with both Dr. Davidson and current principal William D. Geer Jr. She looks back with satisfaction at the "extraordinary parade of people" she has come in contact with. She has "thoroughly enjoyed the people I've known, the classes I've had, and the students I've met."

Miss Sweeney joined the Newton school system in 1942 as an English teacher at Newton High. In 1960 she joined the faculty of Newton South.

She insists the administration and faculty has been "easy to work for and work with." She commended Mr. Geer on his "keen humor and even disposition."

The Newton South Math Team finished fifth out of nine schools in its first meet of the year. Boston Latin took first place.

Students from Newton South participating in this meet were Steven Alexander, Andy Cohen, Debbi Green, Eric Levin, and Andy Sisson. Students wishing to be on the team take a preliminary test with the highest scoring juniors and seniors and the best sophomore comprising the team.

Each year there are four regular math meets. A fifth meet is composed of the best three teams from each league in Massachusetts. Last year South won a trophy as it represented its division in the finals.

A rock concert held November 10 at Newton South proved to be a great success. About four hundred students attended the concert which featured The Fogge.

The concert was sponsored by the sophomore class who made about a two hundred dollar profit. Russ Lyons, Senior advisor to the sophomore class was pleased at the large turnout and is convinced that everyone had a good time.

The Senior Class is currently deciding whether or not to have a Senior Prom. The class does not have officers and has been considering different forms of government. Small groups have been forming to discuss issues such as the prom and class gift.

Waban Square Is 'Spruced Up' and Helpers Thanked

The officers and directors of the Waban Improvement Society in a statement yesterday expressed their thanks to the many volunteers who helped "spruce up" Waban Square on Saturday, Nov. 7. Special thanks went to Mrs. Joseph Clough who organized the affair.

The Society pointed out that those who travel by MBTA will be most appreciative; the users of the library may notice the newly-painted bicycle stand, and the improved parking lot which the city did at the request of Mrs. Clough.

It is hoped to have another clean-up day in the Spring, and the Society is hopeful of seeing a lot of volunteers again.

Prepare For Scouting Program

Shown at recent meeting when plans were formulated for tonight's "School Night for Scouting" are, left to right, Scout Carson Milgroom, Troop 209 in Waban, and Cub Scout Thomas Doherty of Pack 138; Lyle L. Perry, program co-ordinator for local junior high schools; and Paul D. Slater, membership growth chairman for Newton District, Boy Scouts of America.

Food Facts To Be Exploded By Library Kiddies

What's Cooking at the Boys' and Girls' Library, 126 Vernon Street, Newton Corner, on Tuesday, November 24, at 3:00 p.m.?

Boys and girls, that's what. In an afternoon program using storytelling, book talks, cooking quizzes and actual cooking, Newton young people can cook up some magic, some surprises, and something good to eat.

With Librarian Jane Granstrom, boys and girls can explore food in folk tale, and fiction — new and familiar characters to whom food and/or cooking is important in their stories. Charlie and the Chocolate Factory by Dahl; Otto and the Magic Potatoes by DuBois; and Ginnie and the Cooking Contest are three books which will be featured in What's Cooking.

Children who participate will be introduced to plenty of recipes they can try out at home. Apprentice cooks are invited to bring their aprons.

YMCA Offers Korean Style Tae Kwon Do

The Newton YMCA announced yesterday it is offering a class in TAE KWON DO, the art of unarmed self-defense — Korean style. Classes are held Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9:30 o'clock. Strenuous throws are not involved, only clever maneuvers.

This is an on-going course for both men and women, 15 years or older. Newcomers will be welcome to begin any Tuesday evening this month at their convenience.

Eight lessons will comprise a series, and participants are encouraged to continue throughout the year by re-registering at a reduced rate. One need not be a member of the "Y" for the first series of eight lessons. Residents outside Newton also are invited.

The course is coached by Dongpil Kim, master instructor in this art. He conducted a popular and successful series of lessons throughout last year, also at the Newton YMCA.

For further information, an application or registration, please contact the Physical Education Department of the YMCA at 276 Church Street, Newton Corner, or phone 244-6050.

Scouting Night At 5 Schools Tonight

"A tough act to follow" was the comment made by "School Night for Scouting" Chairman Paul D. Slater. He was referring to the enormous turnout the Norumbega Council had when last year's School Night for Scouting saw the City of Newton alone enlist well over 2000 Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts.

Smorgasbord Party Deferred

The Newton Centre Woman's Club recent board meeting voted to cancel the Smorgasbord Party on Dec. 4 because of the crowded holiday season. The affair will be conducted by Mrs. Ross Trenholm, chairman of the Club's Ways and Means Committee, and will be rescheduled early in 1971.

Ballots-

A few aldermen cited the difficulties they experienced and witnessed at the polls during the recent November election.

Alderman David Jackson said the long lines at the polls and conversations with voters indicated to him that many citizens found the process of using the machines confusing.

Jackson maintained that the speed and accuracy of the ballot count did not outweigh the disadvantage of the voter confusion and possible voting errors that may have resulted.

He suggested that speed of the ballot count was not the most important ingredient and proposed a possible return to paper ballots with people being hired to work eight hour regular days after the election until the hand count of the ballots was completed.

Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein, whose committee recommended 5 to 1 (with Board President Wendell Bauckman dissenting) the purchase of the machines, said it was felt that the slowness of the voting process was attributed primarily to the newness of the machine, the complexity of the referenda questions, the use of stickers in one contest, and the heavy voter turnout.

Uehlein reported that Alan Licarie, executive secretary of the Election Commission, speculated that a hand count of paper ballots in the same election would not have been completed until at least 7 a.m. the following day. Results of the recent election were complete in Newton at about 2 a.m.

Licarie told the aldermen that all the cities and towns in the state had waiting lines during this past election. He attributed the delays to the newness of the machines, the complex questions and the general layout of the ballot. "It doesn't see the machine itself as a problem," he said.

Hub Licensing Chief Raps Beatle Rock Concert at BC

There may be a rock concert at Boston College next April featuring Beatle Paul McCartney but not if Boston licensing chief Richard J. Sinnott has anything to say about it.

Sinnott declared that members of the Boston and Newton police forces, as well as residents of the communities, already have objected to the proposed concert.

"I think the authorities who run Boston College should decide immediately," Sinnott said, "if they are going to continue as a tax exempt educational institution or become a rock arena where spectators try to throw the police to the lions."

A previous concert at B.C., Sinnott said, produced "near riot conditions" when it featured the Jefferson Airplane group.

McCartney had asked B.C. organizers of the proposed concert to obtain a permit before any arrangements were made.

Robert Weinberg, special counsel for Mayor Kevin H. White, granted them a letter of intent. Here Sinnott charged the City Law Department "went behind my back" and against his wishes in granting the letter of intent.

However, Assistant Corporation Counsel John Fiske said that while he sympathized with Sinnott's objections to grant a license more than five months in advance, failure to grant a letter of intent at this time would block any chance of the concert.

Annual Fair At Myrtle Baptist On Nov. 20-21

The Daughters of Myrtle will sponsor their annual fair on Friday and Saturday (Nov. 20-21) at the Myrtle Baptist Church, 21 Curve street, West Newton.

The Daughters of Myrtle have come up with some bright ideas for the Christmas Season. On Friday there will be a kick-off dinner beginning at 4 o'clock. The menu is ham, home baked beans, slaw, dessert and coffee (.99) and reservations may be made by calling the chairman, Mrs. Matthew Jefferson at 332-5870 or 332-0810.

The fair will continue until 10 o'clock Friday evening and on Saturday from 10 to 4. There will be a snack bar on Saturday with Mrs. Helen Evans, chairman. The public is invited to attend the dinner and the fair.

Tables: Christmas Decorations — Chairman Mrs. Ada Fontes; Baked Goods — Mrs. Joan Banks; Plants — Mrs. Cora Jones; Hand made articles — Mrs. Lee Hill; White Elephant — Mrs. Emma Oliver.

Party Nov. 24 For Candidate

On Tuesday, November 24th, at 8 p.m. Newton citizens are invited to an open meeting at the Hyde School to meet Michael A. Malec, candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5. There will be a special election for this office on December 8th in which all Newton voters can vote.

The Tuesday night event will provide an opportunity to meet Mr. Malec who is an Asst. Professor of Sociology and Asst. Chairman of the Dept. of Sociology at Boston College. He will address the audience and then take part in a general discussion of the issues. Refreshments will be served.

Open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. they are featuring Greek pastries such as baklava, kourabiettes, koulorakia, finikia, karithopita, rivanli, etc.

Memorial Party Is Huge Success

The Halloween Party at Memorial School in Oak Hill Park was a real treat for the youngsters this year. Many committees were at work providing an evening of fun including refreshments, songs, games and prizes.

The children had an opportunity to greet their costumed classmates in their respective homerooms and enjoy ice cream and cider served by the Room Mothers.

All new games were organized in the gym supervised by the fathers under the direction of Milton Tessel and included a "Bean Bag Toss through the pumpkin's mouth;" "A Hockey Skill Game;" "A Football Toss" and a "Bowling Game" with pumpkin decorated milk bottles. Winners received prizes and pictures were taken to admire at a later date.

Chairman of the evening, Eugene Black, awarded gifts to a boy and a girl for the best costume. The highlight of the evening, a magic show, was held in the auditorium to a spellbound audience.

Many thanks to the parents who co-operated to make this an exciting evening for the children: Cal Perry - advisor; Iris Kingsbury, chairman of Room Mothers; Fathers: Jay Hochberg, Bill Rubin, Stan Rosenzweig, Kevin Collins; Dick Steinberg, Louis Sebok; Mike Klein, Leon Sheinfeld; John Collins, Jay Tonkonogy; Bill Seidman, Ben Wax, Arnold Lezberg and John Davis.

Project Turnabout Espoused By Charles River Group NSJW

The Charles River Section of the National Council of Jewish Women, who are concerned with community problems, have selected as their cause this year the organization known as "Project Turnabout."

Their efforts will be directed toward volunteer work and fund-raising for this organization that is attacking one of society's most dreaded problems - drug addiction - with success. Because of their 60 per cent cure rate, Project Turnabout has merited the support of the Charles River Section, NCJW, whose members live in Newton, Needham, Brookline and Boston.

The first fund-raising event of this year will be a Gourmet Luncheon to be held Dec. 2nd in the home of a Newton member. All the food will be home cooked and of gourmet quality as those who have attended previous such events can testify. Proceeds will, of course, go to Project Turnabout.

Turnabout is staffed by trained ex-addicts, social and volunteers. Their board of directors include many prominent doctors and lawyers. The staff's empathy and knowledge of the drug addicts problem make them fully equipped to help them. Turnabout only takes addicts who sincerely want to help themselves. They are very adept in discerning those who really desire a cure and are willing to work diligently toward it. The staff's salaries vary from week to week according to monies available, which usually is negligible.

The Project Turnabout has three locations at the present time. One is located at 545 Washington St., in Brighton. It functions as an administrative for the project. Here they have a 24 hour hot line, group therapy for community residents and screen applicants. It is staffed 24 hours a day.

On 468-60 Parker St., in Boston, Turnabout has a residential evaluation center. Here they take care of medical and legal problems. The staff is here 24 hours a day supervising the addicts. No one is left unattended or permitted to leave by themselves. Turnabout has use of nearby hospitals for any medical problems that may arise. The addicts remain here for two weeks.

After they leave Parker St., the addicts are sent to 1117 Nantasket Ave., in Hull. Here the addicts have full therapeutic treatment. This center is run by trained people who have successfully worked in Synanon, California, and Daytop, New York. As in the other centers a person designated as night watch stays up all night to man an emergency phone.

Rehabilitation of addicts takes about 2 years. It is felt that after a two year abstinence an addict is considered cured. The Hull center has fifty people in residence and must provide food, clothing, shelter, medical supplies and legal aid.

The staff of Turnabout consists of: Ronald Riccardi - Director; Bill McCue - Administrative Director; Joseph Solomon - Assistant Director; Michael Socino - Hull House Director; and Victor Antos Parker Street House Director.

The Charles River Section of National Council of Jewish Women feels very strongly about Project Turnabout, who are desperately in need of money and volunteers.

Newton Girls Win Prize At Carnival

Seven Newton girls were members of Camp Matoaka's Bunk 14 in Oakland, Me., which won a prize for the most original booth at the 10th annual carnival held recently in Maine.

The Executive Director of the Jimmy Fund, William Koster wrote to the camp saying, "The thoughtfulness of the girls of Camp Matoaka to hold their tenth annual Matoaka Carnival Day and the proceeds to the Jimmy Fund, is one of the nicest things I can conceive of."

The girls of Bunk 14 are: Lauren Bernstein, Newton; Patti Corkin, Chestnut Hill; Andrea Effenson, Waban; Debbie Barron, Waban; Nancy Barron, Waban; Sally Nussbaum, Newton; Cathy Schlager, Newton; Arlene Gramer, Framingham; Pam Zigelbaum, Framingham; Jill Cohen, Swampscott and Beth Roberts, Swampscott.

Their display was a Wishing Well surrounded by stuffed animals, each having a point value when struck by tennis balls. The campers bought tickets and visited other bunk booths to play the games.

True Sisters Luncheon On Monday Aids Crippled Kids

Noemi No. 11 Annual fund-raising luncheon will be held at the Statler Hilton Ballroom, on November 23 at 12 Noon. Early arrivals will find avenues of unusual boutiques.

The afternoon entertainment will feature the Capers, a group of young energetic, talented singers, who perform musical comedy, opera, as well as folk songs. An afternoon with the Capers is unforgettable, for the show is young in spirit and fresh in its approach.

The proceeds of the luncheon will benefit the Children's Medical Center, "Division 71", a new concept of post surgical care, which provides Psychiatric, Physical and Occupational therapy.

The rehabilitation unit orthopedic department will be dedicated to the complete return of children to home and society. The unfortunate child, who has a major handicap, has many unusual needs that cannot be met by braces and surgery alone.

These children require special physical therapy to adjust to their handicaps, and acquire maximum benefit of their normal and abnormal anatomy. Psychiatric therapy will be available, since they require special social consideration in adapting to a society unaccustomed in dealing with their physical needs as well as their difference in appearance.

Special education and training, guided by occupational therapists, will secure their future, in the light of their handicap.

These are the goals that Dr. Arthur Pappas and his able staff are trying to achieve at the Children's Medical Center. To realize the fulfillment of these goals, it will be necessary to have special technical equipment to evaluate the abilities of children, as well as qualified personnel, to educate and train the children to adjust and achieve their maximum potential.

Through the work and generosity of Noemi Sisters, the hope is that "Division 71" will help these children lead a full, productive life.

Xanadu Coffee House Now Reorganized

The Xanadu Coffee House at the Church of the Good Shepherd has reorganized its entire structure, in order to establish a more efficient organization. It is a non-profit organization and will contribute to Newton Mental Health.

Its members have set a goal for themselves and want to continue to improve the coffee house, establish themselves as a community service, and gain the support of the community.

The Coffee House is open on Friday nights from 7:30 until 11 p.m., with live entertainment from Newton and surrounding areas.

The rules from last year proved inadequate; this year the rules have been revised and will be stringently upheld, and should make Xanadu Secretary.

Jewish Music Forum Concert Next Tuesday

Jewish Music Forum patrons from Newton plan to attend a concert by Cantor Seymour Schwartzman, technical equipment to evaluate the abilities of children, as well as qualified personnel, to educate and train the children to adjust and achieve their maximum potential.

The event will open the 13th anniversary season of the New England Jewish Music Forum. Cantor Schwartzman's program will include Cantorial, Hebrew, Yiddish and Musical Comedy numbers in addition to operatic arias.

Newton patrons include Dr. and Mrs. Harold Berk, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bleiwas, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Karf, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lasker, Mrs. Alfred Levy, Dr. and Mrs. Leo V. Levins, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Raphael, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rosenshine.

For subscription and information apply to Mrs. Jacob Seully, 50 Winn street, Belmont, zip 02178 or phone IV 4-9620.

Gas Reserves

Washington—The reserves of natural gas in the U.S. were set at from 70 to 100 trillion cubic feet, according to the national resources planning commission.

Coffee House even more successful.

This year's officers are: Chuck Miller, President; Andy Sanderson, Vice-president; Gary Flood and David White, Treasurers; and Suzi Cahill, Secretary.

Robot and the P.O.

In the lobby of Boston main post office, the district office-in-charge points out, 24-hour service, seven days per week is now available. The out-of-regular-hours service, of course, depends on the patron's willingness to "do-it-yourself."

By proper selection of the right coins, the right machines, the right handles and the right slots, the patron may purchase various stamps and envelopes around the clock. The self-service also includes facilities for weighing and mailing parcel post and even for purchasing minimum parcel post insurance.

Presumably, all the necessary machines will be serviced, properly stocked and kept in change. Of course they've had machines in post office lobbies for a long time, and stamp dispensers even turn up in drug stores. When they work, they're fine. When they don't, they deserve their patrons' consignment to the perdition they too often win for themselves.

There was a day when our postal system was one of the most intimate of all American services. The letter carrier was the closest friend of everyone on his route. He knew when the letter he delivered contained good news and he smiled. He knew, too, when the news was not good and his sympathy always helped.

We are told that in the new conception of the postal service emphasis will be placed in no small measure upon mechanical and electronic developments. Entirely possible will be a day when no human hand will be in contact with a piece of mail from the time it is entrusted to Uncle Sam to the time it is received by the addressee.

It all may be more efficient. But even if it rings twice the sounds will never be quite the same.

Imported Experts

When it found itself beset with stern public criticism following a particularly bad series of subway accidents, breakdowns and delays, the New York City Metropolitan transit authority and its head, Dr. William J. Roman, decided to invite an outside panel to make a study.

The transit experts came from Toronto, Stockholm and London. Three men from those cities recently came up with a report. It wasn't exactly astounding. The visitors noted, among other things, that in basic construction New York subways are safe and their maintenance was about up to standard.

The visitors, however, didn't turn in a whitewash. They found plenty to criticize. It is the sort of criticism that didn't have to be imported from Canada, Sweden and England. It has been offered gratis by home-bred experts every day in the week.

Why New York decided to go abroad for experts is puzzling in the first place. There was a time in the present century when the United States was far and away the leader in all forms of land public transportation. Our railroads and their equipment and maintenance were tops.

Other countries sent representatives to this country to determine how we did it.

In World War I and again in World War II, American railroads provided the vital transportation which permitted our manufacturing capacity and know-how to function.

There's no question today but that our railroads are in bad shape. There's no question either but that the transit systems serving our metropolitan centers need help.

That we should have to look to Canada, Sweden and England for help is a bit on the paradoxical side, but at the same time it must be accepted as another indication of how we've been slipping.

THE NEWTON GRAPHIC

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

Disagrees With Mr. Joost

Editor of The Graphic:

The Graphic has done its readers a service by printing in its entirety Mr. Joost's letter regarding his reaction to the Citizens' Caucus of November 5th from which Mike Malec emerged with the endorsement for the Ward 5 Aldermanic election.

Since I attended the caucus (as a member of NCNP) and was pleasantly surprised by its outcome, my own reaction to the evening was not the same as Mr. Joost's, but I cannot over-emphasize the importance to all of us of the questions he has raised about the organization, events and significance of the caucus.

1. Organization. I am disturbed by Mr. Joost's charge that the caucus was not run fairly. I take it that a caucus of this kind should be an attempt to move the process of candidate selection from smoke-filled rooms to more visible locations. In many ways, the caucus which selected Fr. Drinan last winter was closer to this ideal than this Ward 5 caucus was. As one speaker pointed out, the Drinan caucus was open to all residents who wished to attend, there was no candidate pre-selection, and the caucus took place before campaigning had begun. None of these conditions held at the more recent caucus.

As for who voted at the Ward 5 caucus, everyone that I recognized was from Newton, and if my friends noticed anything different they didn't tell me about it. But I have no reason to believe that Mr. Joost's information is not accurate, and am dismayed to think that tighter control over those present could not have been exercised. Certainly it is important, before the next caucus (they seem to be here to stay) to devise ways to insure just and adequate representation.

But I am willing to defer this important problem until the next caucus, for two reasons. First, no one present at the caucus, during nearly two hours of discussion brought to the assembly any of the points about its organization which Mr. Joost's letter raises. This silence, especially from a group quite conscious and sensitive about its rights, makes me hopeful that Mr. Joost's fears are exaggerated. Second, even if there do turn out to have been weaknesses in its organization, I doubt that the result of the caucus was affected. Mike Malec's victory was totally convincing. The results of the first ballot were Malec 108, Band 68, Sandman 64. In the final ballot, Malec's margin was even greater, though the exact figures I have forgotten. The strong victory suggests, I think, a unanimity of purpose among those present.

2. Mr. Joost has quite accurately set down some of the events and the positions expressed during the course of the meeting. It was a free and open discussion, and a remarkable number of points of view about the candidates election were brought forth. If I were to give my own impression about the major events and sentiments of the caucus, it would be rather different from Mr. Joost's, as you might expect. To my mind, what was most significant was the way in which one of the candidates, Mike Malec, captured the imagination of the audience. During the early going, Mr. Band and Mr. Sandman (either of whom, had the result of the caucus been different, I could now be supporting cheerfully) were acquitting themselves quite well. During a lull I took a straw poll of those seated near me to see who they thought would be eliminated on the first ballot. Nearly all thought it would be Mike Malec. Shortly after this the question was put to the candidates, "Will you support the nominee of this caucus?" Malec said that he would if the others would. The others would not. Then the audience was asked if it would support the caucus choice. Its response was almost unanimously affirmative. Then Malec stated that no matter what the other candidates did, he would support whoever won the caucus endorsement. It seemed to me that this flurry of events turned the meeting in Mike Malec's favor; his replies set off the only spontaneous applause of the evening. Among three very qualified candidates Mike Malec emerged as the overwhelming choice because he alone was willing to place the finding of one single strong candidate above his own personal candidacy. And this, it turned out, is what the group present most wanted to hear, that there might be a chance for the liberal vote in Newton to get behind a single candidate rather than splitting its vote among several, no matter how well-qualified each might be.

3. Mr. Joost's observations about the significance of the meeting are important. Certainly, no one can be pleased by the division in the community which NCDF has revealed. But there it is, I'm afraid, and if the caucus revealed it, it hardly caused it. A more pertinent charge is that those in attendance were cowed into supporting the caucus' choice. I hope not. I know several people who attended the caucus preferring one of the other candidates and who are now working for Mike Malec. None of them, as far as I know, feels that his decision was not freely made.

Certainly, if Mr. Joost feels that the climate of the caucus was oppressive, he must be admired for stating that he does not feel bound by the choice of the caucus. For me, Mr. Joost's letter was helpful because it forced me to reconsider the events of the caucus. I must second Mr. Joost's position that the success of a caucus depends on its adhering to the most completely democratic procedures possible (whatever they might be). Where I differ from Mr. Joost is in my opinion that the size of the Malec victory overshadowed whatever might have been the deficiencies of the organization of the caucus, and that his victory was not "a perversion of the Democratic process" but rather a remarkable example of how a large and diverse body can be brought together. Like Mr. Joost's, my own opinions are limited by my own perspective and prejudices; but I believe that a dialogue on the Ward 5 caucus can lead to our general understanding and profit.

Sincerely yours,

PAUL C. DOHERTY

in taxes, the fact is that the establishment of off-track betting probably would be a constructive step.

There is an understandable tendency to back away from gambling as a means of raising taxes. State lotteries also have not produced the predicted financial bonanzas.

But the creation of legal off-track betting places in Massachusetts would be a blow against organized crime in the Commonwealth.

The lifeblood of the crime syndicate is provided by the returns from the money that is bet illegally on the number pool, on horse and dog races, on football games and other athletic contests.

When the newspapers report the number of points by which Jimmy the Greek predicts one football team will defeat another, that represents the point spread on which the gamblers will handle bets. And there is a tremendous amount of wagering on that basis.

This writer takes a dim view of the suggestion that the State purchase and operate Suffolk Downs. From where we sit it seems preferable that the East Boston race track be left in the hands of private operators.

But only the state could operate off-track betting booths.

It's pretty well established that a great many people are going to engage in off-track betting on the numbers game, on races and athletic events whether it's legal or illegal.

Since that is the situation, it seems the sensible thing to do is legalize off-track betting, put organized crime out of the gambling business to as great an extent as possible and let the State obtain what taxes it can from the operation of its betting places.

New York City in January will open 100 off-track betting offices at which persons will be able to place the same bets as if they were at a track.

Those offices apparently will not handle bets on football games and other athletic contests because of the point spread problem. Mayor Lindsay obviously is not disposed to engage the services of somebody like Jimmy the Greek.

Illegal gambling will still continue in New York, but at least it will be reduced.

Democrats Set Sights On Some GOP Congress Seats

Only four of the 12 Congressmen from Massachusetts are Republicans, and political columnists already are predicting that the overwhelmingly Democratic incoming State Legislature will Gerrymander at least two and possibly three of the four out of office in the 1972 election.

It may be that the ominous forecasts for GOP Congressmen Hastings Keith, Margaret M. Heckler and possibly Bradford Morse will prove accurate and that the Legislature will produce a plan which will turn the three out of office. But it will be quite a stunt to perform.

If Congressman Brad Morse of Lowell should decide to leave Capitol Hill and take another position in the federal government, the Democrats probably would not have too much trouble capturing his seat since his district already has a Democratic complexion.

But Morse is an extremely popular and capable Congressman. He's a tremendous vote-getter. It's doubtful that any other Republican could win in his district, and it would be difficult to legislate him out of office.

It also may not be easy in the case of Congressman Margaret Heckler. She draws Democratic as well as Republican support, and she gives her district good service and active representation, attempting to reflect the will of the people of her district consistent with her own judgment.

Governor Sargent undoubtedly would veto a redistricting plan which was designed to Gerrymander a couple of Republican Congressmen out of office. The voters are disposed to resent any action which is clearly unfair, and a State Senator or Representative who voted for such a measure would be risking the possibility of public displeasure being vented on him.

Some revision will be necessary in the districts of Congressmen Morse, Heckler and Keith before the next election because they are bigger populationwise than those of retiring Speaker John W. McCormack and Congressman Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr.

A few liberal Democrats already are discussing the possibility of strengthening Father Robert F. Drinan in his district. It might be somewhat difficult to do that and at the same time pull the rug from under Congressman Heckler.

The Legislature must, of course, produce congressional districts which are reasonable enough to stand up in court.

Convention System Is Good For GOP But Bad For Dems

The State Convention system of endorsing candidates for state-wide offices has worked well for the Republicans and poorly for the Democrats.

Republican leaders have been able to enforce party discipline so that candidates backed by the GOP State Convention have been unopposed in the party primaries.

Democratic candidates, on the other hand, have paid relatively little attention to the action of their party's State Conventions and have carried their fights on into the primary whenever they have chosen to do so.

The State Convention as it presently operates was revived by the Republicans on an informal basis in 1952 when GOP fortunes in Massachusetts had fallen to a low point.

A free-for-all battle for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1950 had drained off funds so that the GOP was in a weakened condition for the subsequent election which the late Paul A. Dever won easily.

The Republicans and Democrats in minority ethnic groups in 1952 joined forces in the legislature to enact a bill providing for the restoration of the State Convention system of endorsing candidates for state-wide offices. But the then Governor Dever vetoed the measure because of the corruption at the Democratic State Conventions held in the mid-1930s.

However, the Republicans held an informal State Convention at Worcester in 1952, endorsed a slate of candidates headed by the late Christian A. Herter and made the endorsements stick.

Herter was elected Governor in 1952. The Republicans gained control of both branches of the Legislature, and in 1953 the State Convention system of endorsing candidates was officially revived under GOP auspices.

Various attempts have been made by Democratic leaders to wipe out the convention system, but the veto of a Republican Governor usually stood in the path of such efforts.

The late John F. Kennedy, while President in 1961, had a bill filed by the Democratic State Committee Chairman to knock out the Convention, but even with JFK's very substantial influence and power the measure got nowhere on Beacon Hill.

The Democrats will have the voting power in both branches of the Legislature next year so that they could adopt a bill wiping out the State Convention and enact it into law over Governor Sargent's veto.

But some veteran Democratic leaders point out that even if that were done, the Republicans undoubtedly would continue to hold informal conventions, as they did so effectively back in 1952.

House Speaker David Barkley is considering some possible changes in the present system of nominating candidates for the Governorship and other state-wide offices, including that of U.S. Senator. If he proposes and supports the revisions he is weighing, the likelihood is they would be adopted.

Under his tentative plan, which is being discussed in political circles, the State Convention would be retained but would be held in April or May, probably in April. The primary would be held on a Sunday in June instead of a Tuesday in September and would be staged before schools closed for the summer.

This would allow less time between the State Convention and primary and more between the primary and the election, affording a longer period for the wounds left by the primary to heal.

Most political observers believe these changes would be constructive ones. The present system under which the primary usually is held eight days after Labor Day is not a good one since most people pay scant attention to political campaigns during the summer.

Stearns Teaches Jewish History At St. Patrick's

Herbert Stearns, a member of the faculty of Temple Beth Avodah, Newton, is presently teaching a course in Jewish history at St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham.

The study group is held for two hours each Thursday evening, and will extend for a ten week period.

Historically, the course covers material from the birth of Abraham through the destruction of Judea in the year 70 common era.

Rabbi Edward M. Maline of Temple Beth Avodah will deliver the concluding lecture of the season which will cover the Rabbinic period.

Mr. Stearns has written the text which accompanies the lectures, and conducts a question and answer period.

The church members who are taking the class have expressed such interest that the class has doubled in size, and extended to some three hours in length.

A natural teacher, capable of generating excitement in learning, the class is the "brainchild" of Mr. Stearns.

He is delighted with the response, and feels that a study of this nature will foster mutual understanding, respect, and brotherly dialogue.

Planning for this session at St. Patrick's Church were the most cooperative faculty, headed by Father Morris, Sister Francis Loretto, and Miss Elizabeth Walsh of the religious school.

Services for Sukkot at Temple Beth Avodah found these faculty members and students of the sixth and seventh grades sharing in the Harvest Festivities, and joining the Temple congregants in the traditional visit to the sukkah. During the Passover season, the students will participate in a model seder.

This Sunday, Nov. 22, the sixth and seventh grade students of the religious school of the Temple will visit St. Patrick's Church along with their faculty and parents. Following the Mass will be an informative question and answer period so that the flow of understanding will continue . . . dialogue will increase understanding.

The efforts of Mr. Herbert Stearns certainly will enhance the spirit of ecumenism, and will promote religious understanding.

GOP Club Has Good Response To Member Plea

The Newton Republican Club is enjoying an excellent response to its annual call for "membership support," according to Club President Charles E. Aucoin. The Club, one of the largest of its kind in New England, Aucoin pointed out, depends on its membership for funds with which to carry on its activities in the community.

"This season's response argues well for the continuing and effective work of the Club," Aucoin commented. "Judging from current responses, it is obvious that the Club's work is recognized and appreciated."

Aucoin congratulated Norman Buchbinder, Treasurer of the Club for his part in obtaining the favorable results.

The Executive Committee of the Club will meet shortly for the purpose of completing plans for the Twelfth Annual Lincoln Day Dinner of which the Club is principal sponsor, Aucoin added.

In addition to Aucoin, Officers of the Newton Republican Club are: Stephen P. Crosby and Mrs. Whelan Vincincombe, Vice-Presidents; Norman Buchbinder, Treasurer; Mrs. Robert L. Tennant, Recording Secretary; David A. Lurensky, Corresponding Secretary.

Aub. Women Met Yesterday

The Auburndale Woman's Club met on Wednesday, November 18 at 11:15 a.m. in the Auburndale Club, Mrs. Langdon W. Chandler, president, presided. The invocation was given by Mrs. Frederick J. Casey.

Following the business meeting a petit luncheon was served by Mrs. James A. Glaser, hostess assisted by Group 2. A slide talk program was presented by Miss Lillian Birrell on "Lost Cities."

The Day Hostess was Mrs. George E. Smith. There was a Christmas Sale by the Art Committee.

than are newer homes. He contended that revaluation would assess all property at its so-called "Full and Fair" market value.

Once the revaluation by an independent outside firm is completed, Mayor Basbas said Newton's own assessing department could be expanded to keep the valuation at current market values.

The city's chief executive said that the obvious advantage of "full and fair" valuations is that all property owners would pay "a fair share."

The city's tax rate now stands at $113. The tax bills are computed by multiplying the tax rate by the amount of the assessed valuation.

Since virtually no properties in Newton are assessed at "full market value" complete revaluation would significantly lower the tax rate.

Since virtually no properties other municipalities has shown that under it some properties are assessed at a higher rate, some at a lower rate while other valuations remain approximately the same.

An advantage under the revaluation plan, Mayor Basbas said, is that more money is raised under a tax rate when full valuation is in effect.

Budget Sunday At Methodist Church Nov. 22

Big Candidates Night on Dec. 2; Also Clean Air Panel on Nov. 30

Two big meetings are announced by the League of Women Voters of Newton during the coming weeks.

Of importance to all the voters of Newton will be the Candidates' Night on Dec. 2, which will feature all the candidates running for the vacant seat for Ward 5 Alderman-at-Large.

This will be held at the Hyde School Gymnasium, 68 Lincoln Street, Newton Highlands, at 7:45 p.m.

This Candidates' Night will follow the format of previous Candidates nights with each candidate being given a chance to speak and then to answer questions from the audience.

Admission to this event is free, everyone is welcome, refreshments will be served. For additional information on this Candidates Night, contact Mrs. F. Dow Smith, president of the League of Women Voters of Newton at 332-0590.

Of equal importance to everyone in Newton is a Panel Discussion on Clean Air, Necessity or Luxury? to be held on Monday, Nov. 30, at Newton South High, Brandeis Road, Newton at 8 p.m.

This meeting is sponsored by the Leagues of Women Voters of Belmont, Boston, Brookline, Newton and Wellesley. The speakers on this panel are: Dr. James MacKenzie, Research Assistant, Mass. Audubon Society and Visiting Professor, Mass. Institute of Technology; Francis Lee, Asst. to the Director, Public Relations, Boston Edison; Prof. Marshall Goldman, Professor of Economics, Wellesley College; Atty. Paul Brontis, member of the Metropolitan Boston Citizens for Clean Air.

This meeting is also free and everyone is welcome to come. For further information, contact Mrs. William Kahl, 969-5224. Membership information on the League of Women Voters of Newton is available for the asking — call Mrs. John Montgomery, Vice President in charge of Membership — 527-1233.

Needy Youngsters Given Free Lunches in Schools

The Newton School Department this week made public the regulations under which it provides lunches at a reduced price or without charge to students who are unable to pay, in accordance with recent legislation.

Under the program, schools are making every effort to insure that the children do not know who is paying and who is receiving a free meal.

Parents who feel that their children are eligible should apply. Applications are available in each participating school office. If an application is denied, an appeal may be made to John E. Gilleland, assistant superintendent for business services.

Participating in the program are Newton High, Newton South High, Bigelow Junior High, F. A. Day Junior High, Meadowbrook Junior High, Warren Junior High and Weeks Junior High Schools.

The new state legislation provides as follows:

Where one child constitutes the "family," the minimum annual income is $1,920; family of two, $2,832; family of three, $3,507; four, $4,182; five, $4,857; six, $5,534; seven, $6,209; eight, $6,885; nine, $7,559; ten, $8,235. For each person beyond 10 in the family, $675 may be added to the minimum annual income.

Criteria for determining eligibility of children for free or reduced price lunches will be:

a. All children in families wherein the children or children's parents receive public assistance from any federal-state welfare program such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, General Relief, etc. and also children from other families with comparable income levels at or below the established guidelines, shall be eligible automatically or a free meal upon application.

b. Children from families with income above the level of the family size income scale established by the Department of Education will be provided free or reduced price lunches if in the judgment of local school officials the families have special circumstances warranting such action.

c. Other children who in the judgment of appropriate school or health officials have unmet nutritional needs will also be provided a free or reduced meal.

Unusual circumstances such as illness or death in the family, temporary disability and seasonal unemployment are also taken into account when determining eligibility.

Award-

The program included a conference on the aims of church-sponsored Boy Scout groups, led by Rev. Edmund C. Micarelli, Rhode Island Diocesan Scout Chaplain, and a key note address by Richard T. Wales, deputy regional director of the Boy Scouts of America.

Walsh has long been associated with scouting activities at Our Lady's parish, Newton, and has served as District Chairman in this area.

He is Chairman of the Academic Committee of the parish school board. He is a past Commander of Newton Post No. 48 American Legion and is a former Department Vice Chairman on the state level. He is supervising manager in the Mass. Division of Employment Security.

The two Protestants given the award were Carl W. Berg of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Cambridge, and W.R. Speirs of the Sharon Episcopal Church, Sharon.

Hearing-

When they have obtained what they consider an adequate expression of public sentiment on the matter, they will present it to the Board of Aldermen.

They extended an invitation to all Newton residents who desire to express themselves on the question to attend the Dec. 2 meeting.

Mandarin Chinese

Andrew V. Levin of West Newton, a junior at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Me., is one of four students teaching themselves to speak Mandarin Chinese with the aid of tape recorders, texts and the guidance of a native speaker.

Once a week they meet with Bai Juen (John White) of Portland, Me., who helps them with the pronunciation.

Scholarship Memorial Fund By Davis PTA

A scholarship fund and library fund have been started in the name of Nicholas Baldi by the Davis School PTA.

Nicky, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Baldi, of 23 Smith Court, West Newton, was killed in an automobile accident on October 28. He attended the Davis School and was to graduate from Newton High School this June.

Anyone wanting to make a donation should do so through the Davis School office. Please, make checks payable to the Davis School PTA. A note will be sent to the family telling of the gift.

Newtonite Is Inventor Of Welding Process

Thomas E. Salzer, formerly of Newton, a Raytheon Company engineer, is a co-inventor under a recent patent assigned to the company of an improved resistance welder.

The apparatus can provide fast, reliable welds over a wide variety of work material compositions and is particularly applicable to the fabrication of electronic devices and components. The welder can also be used in other fields where rigid control of welding energy levels is important to the welding process.

Mr. Salzer is a senior engineer at Raytheon's Equipment Division, in Wayland. He has held engineering positions at Intronic, Microtek, and Computer Control.

Mr. Salzer received an A.S. degree from Newton Junior College and has taken additional courses at Boston University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Northeastern University. He is a member of the American Welding Society.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Salzer of Newton and his wife is the former Eleanor Paterson of Newton. They now reside in Bedford and have two sons.

Mount Ida Junior College Freshmen

Two graduates of Newton High School are enrolled as freshmen at Mount Ida Junior College in Newton Centre.

Barbara J. Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mildner of 63 Bowen street, Newton Centre, is in the elementary education program. Wendy Weinstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manviel Weinstein of 209 Pleasant street, Newton Centre, enrolled in a program of general studies.

Antonellis Candidate For Alderman-at-Large

MICHAEL J. ANTONELLIS

Attorney Michael J. Antonellis, 49 Lawmarissa Road, Newton, has announced his candidacy for the office of Alderman - At - Large in the city - wide election to be held on Tuesday, December 8, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Franklin Flaschner earlier this year.

In declaring his candidacy for this office, Mr. Antonellis, a practicing attorney for 17 years, and a life - time resident of Newton, feels that his extensive legal experience will serve to provide all citizens of Newton with a qualified voice in the area of city government.

Mr. Antonellis also has been associated with City of Newton government while employed as an Assistant City Solicitor.

Mr. Antonellis offers himself as a candidate, firm in the belief that the interests of the city are best served by a responsible representative who is aware of the public's concern over the present problems of housing, cost of running the City of Newton, increasing environmental problems, and the always present educational questions that face all small and large cities today.

Asked why he has decided to seek this public office, Mr. Antonellis said "It seems today we see city government becoming more complex and therefore more impersonal. I would like to see a return to a more person to person relationship between the Aldermen and the people he represents, and a common sense approach to the problems of city government, with a view towards unity and harmony among the people of our city.

A graduate of Newton schools, Mr. Antonellis served in the U.S. Navy during World War II in the Asiatic - Pacific area, later attended Boston University and graduated from Boston University School of Law as Juris Doctor.

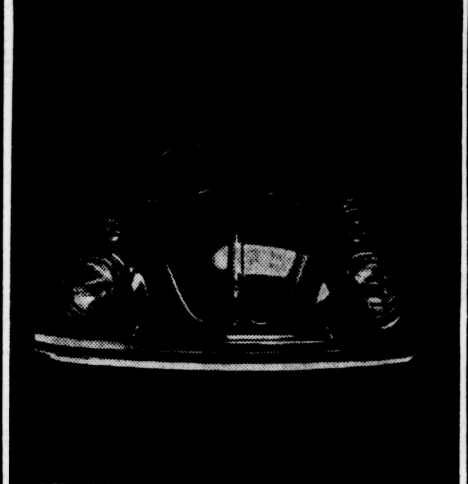

He was a former trial attorney with the Criminal Division, United States Department of Justice, and a former Special Assistant U.S. Attorney, District of Columbia. As has been mentioned, he served as Assistant City Solicitor for the City of Newton.

Mr. Antonellis has been admitted to practice before the Mass. and Federal Bar, is a member of the Mass. Bar Association; Federal Bar Association; Mass. Trial Lawyer's Assn.; Boston University Law School Alumni Association; member of the Justinian Law Society.

Past president of the Newton Technical High School Alumni Association; member of the P.T.A.; Newton Y.M.C.A.; Host of the Garden City Charity Ball for Cerebral Palsy, held at the Marriott Motor Hotel recently; Sons of Italy; Post 440, American Legion; St. Philip Neri Holy Name Society; Boston University National Alumni Council.

Mr. Antonellis is married to the former Janette Train of Newton and is the father of three children, Lauren age 7, Suzette age 5, and Michael Jr. age 3.

Mr. Antonellis wants to emphasize that this election is for the entire city and that all citizens from all eight wards will vote. He feels his experience and background specially qualify him to serve as a representative, cognizant of the interests and feelings of the people of the entire City.

COURTESY OF AMERICA, INC.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements. The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

MRS. JAMES R. PALMER

Miss Susan Ciccariello Bride Of Mr. James Robert Palmer

At a recent nuptial service in the Lutheran Church of the Newton, Miss Susan Ciccariello became the bride of James Robert Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Damiano Ciccariello of Newton Highlands and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn T. Palmer of Lancaster, Ohio, are the couple's parents.

Following the pretty afternoon ceremony a reception took place in the garden at the home of the bride's parents under a colorful yellow and white striped tent.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an original full length gown of Indroni which came from New Mexico. Floral lace trimmed the jewel neckline, front of gown and edge of her full length sleeves.

A fingertip illusion veil which fell over a matching cathedral length veil, was fastened to a becoming headpiece. She carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations and yellow tea roses.

Miss Patricia McCadden of Lynn, the maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. Stephen Ciccariello was best man for his sister's groom. The ushers were two uncles of the bride, Victor Ciccariello and Cosmo Ciccariello.

Following a Canadian honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will live in Clovis, New Mexico.

The bride is a graduate of Newton South High School and the Children's Hospital School of Nursing.

The groom, who attended Ohio University, is serving with the Air Force in Clovis, New Mexico. (photo by Robert L. Newbert)

Newton Girl Cast In Jr. Play At Mount Holyoke

Miss Carol Banner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Bonner of 160 Lake avenue, Newton Centre, is a member of the cast of the Junior Show at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley. During her sophomore year Miss Bonner was head of freshmen at Pearsons Hall.

The show, an annual musical spoof written and produced by members of the junior class, is entitled this year "How to Repeal the Liberty Belle without Really Trying" or "My Fare Lady."

In the production, a Yale student doing a sociological study of Mount Holyoke College students, confronts a Women's Liberation advocate, and comedy ensues.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

The First Church of Christ Scientist at 391 Walnut st., Newtonville, will hold services on Sunday morning at 10:45 a.m. All are invited to hear what the healing ministry of Christ Jesus can mean to today's world to be brought out at this service.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon, "Soul and Body" include an account in Matthew of several healings of Christ Jesus.

One of the accompanying passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states:

"Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

Harold M. Band Candidate In Campaign For Alderman

Harold M. Band noted Newton civic leader announced his candidacy for the Board of Alderman in the special election December 8.

In response to the concern of many citizens in Newton, Mr. Band stated "that the Board of Alderman today is in dire need of quality candidates with leadership ability and the desire to work for excellence in city government in the years ahead."

Noting his 10 years of positive performance as president of The Newton Highlands Improvement Association, Mr. Band has a long list of contributions to civic, philanthropic and legislative activity in the city.

Former president of The Newton Highlands Improvement Association, Mr. Band was also vice - chairman of the All Newton Committee Of Improvement Associations. Appointed by the mayor to the Commission on Urban Beautification, Mr. Band was elected its Vice - Chairman. A former director of the Hyde School PTA Association, Mr. Band was chairman of the Building Committee during the construction of the new Hyde Gymnasium.

Long active in Democratic activity in Newton, Mr. Band has been vice - chairman of the Democratic City Committee for four years, chairman of the Ward Five Democratic Committee for four years, voter registration chairman for the city, and delegate to the Democratic State Convention.

In his long history of philanthropic activity in the city, Mr. Band can note that he has been Newton Highlands and area coordinator for the United Fund, Newton Upper Falls chairman of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Building Fund Drive, Newton Highlands Chairman of the YMCA Building Fund and Marshal for the State of Israel Bond Drive.

In announcing his program for future, Mr. Band emphasizes the need for immediate progressive action in the fields of charter reform, housing, library extension, schools, ecological safeguards, and a total commitment for efficiency in city government.

In entering this contest, Mr. Band has called on the citizens who have worked with him over the years in furthering progressive legislation and communal activity in Newton.

Newton Youth Center Offers Exciting Ideas

The Newton Youth Center is now into its sixth year, the third with staff and program funding.

In commenting on the program for this year, Mrs. William Wright, Youth Coordinator, stated that it will be a continuation of what was established last year and some new and exciting ideas proposed by Newton youth. This year's Student Chairman is Marty Cohen, who resides at 50 Moffat road and is a senior at Newton High School. Officers include: Barbara Zeles, Eric Shamban, and Anne Arbetter. Two vacancies on this student Executive Committee are to be filled at elections coming up this week.

The Youth Center is an organization of students and adults designed to serve the teenage population of Newton. It provides centers and programs throughout the city that vary with the special interests of groups of teenagers. The Youth Center hopes to provide a medium that can serve many needs: that can be a creative outlet, a learning experience, a place to go, a place to communicate, a place to be with other people.

This year the Youth Center is operating six centers within the city of Newton. The Centers vary in activity from coffee houses to drop in lounges to multi-purpose centers sponsoring special trips, activities, movies, etc. The program is student-initiated with the assistance of a local coordinator at each center. Its policy-making body is an advisory board made up of an equal number of students and adults representing each of the areas.

As a means of keeping the community abreast of the developments of the Newton Youth Center, Martin Cohen, has stated that a public relations committee will be established to keep the local news media informed of the ongoing program.

Students and adults within the community interested in working in one of the variety of capacities offered by the Newton Youth Center by phoning 969-5908 Monday-Friday during the hours of 9 to 5.

CHAPTER 12 - SECTION 46 - CLAUSE (c)

Where sidewalks are provided, it shall be unlawful for any pedestrian to walk along and upon adjacent roadway whenever the sidewalk is open to pedestrian use.

CHAPTER 12 - SECTION 49

No person shall on any roadway or highway in NEWTON solicit a ride from the operator of any vehicle without the written permission of the board or officer having control of such roadway or highway.

THE ABOVE ORDINANCES ARE IMPLEMENTED BY THE PROVISIONS OF MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL LAWS - CHAPTER 90 - SECTION 18A WHICH PROVIDES:

1. A police officer on view of any such infraction is empowered to issue an on-the-spot citation.
2. A schedule of one and two dollar fines is provided—usually on the basis of NON-CRIMINAL disposition.
3. Failure to pay the fine can change the violation from NON-CRIMINAL to CRIMINAL violation.
4. Refusal of a violator to give his name and address to a police officer seeking to issue a citation constitutes ground for ARREST without a Warrant. In this case a much larger penalty can be imposed.

Temple Golden Agers Use New Drop-in Center

Members of the Golden Age Clubs of Temple Shalom, Brookline and Temple Kehillath Israel will be using the new Drop-In Lounge of the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center as part of their varied winter program.

The Drop-In Lounge, which features activities planned by and for Senior Citizens opened last month.

According to Mrs. Edith Stein, Center Staff member, transportation to and from the lounge, which is open weekday afternoons from 1-4 p.m., is available. Area senior citizens who need transportation may obtain it by contacting the Center, 734-0800.

Both Temple Golden Age clubs will include a number of interesting activities in their schedule this winter. Mrs. N. Jean Jacobson, a consultant to the Special Legislative Commission on Drug Abuse or Massachusetts - will speak on the problems of drug abuse to Temple Shalom on November 12 and to Temple Kehillath Israel on November 24.

In addition, the members of the club have planned a tour of Brandeis University, a discussion with Attorney Howard Price on rent control,

Aub. Women Hold Annual Art Exhibit

The twenty-fourth Annual Arts and Crafts Exhibit of the Auburndale Woman's Club was held in the clubroom on November 3rd.

Featuring paintings, needlecraft, sculpture and other art work, the exhibition consisted of thirty-three entries by local artists and artisans.

The afternoon tea and evening showing, were attended by approximately 65 guests, and a generous contribution was received for the "Pennies for Art" scholarship fund sponsored by the State Federation of Woman's Clubs.

The Art Committee of the Club, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Charles B. Cossabomb and Miss Lillian Birrell arranged the exhibition. Publicity was carried out by Mrs. Howard D. Wood, Mrs. Walter S. Frost and Mrs. Howard O. Mullock with Mrs. Heinz J. Speier receiving entries. Mrs. Richard V. Keyes was in charge of arrangements for the tea, and table decorations were given by Mrs. Edward B. Gray. Pouring at the tea were Mrs. John R. Draper, Mrs. LeRoy A. Faulkner, Mrs. James I. Glaser and club president, Mrs. Langdon W. Chandler. Miss Jane Myman, in charge of the guest book, greeted guests.

Each year the Auburndale Woman's Club celebrates National Art Week with an exhibit, inviting local artists to participate in helping to make this an interesting, friendly, community event while aiding a worthy student toward a career in art.

Miss Doucette-Mr. Merullo Marry at Nuptial Mass

At a recent nuptial mass in St. Charles Borromeo Church, Waltham, Miss Nancy Jean Doucette became the bride of Lawrence Joseph Merullo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Leo P. Doucette of Waltham. The groom is the son of Mr. Carmine Merullo of 12 Magus avenue, West Newton, and the late Mrs. Jenerosa Merullo.

Following the three o'clock ceremony at which the bride and groom exchanged rings, a reception took place at Holiday Inn, Peabody.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie gown marked with jeweled Venice lace. A matching Camelot cap held in place her pouff illusion veil and she carried a crescent bouquet of mums, carnations and orchids.

Mrs. Lee LeBlanc of Waltham, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Claire Richard and Miss Alberta Pellerin, both of Waltham, and Miss Carol Cardillo of Marlboro.

Neil Taber of West Newton, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were David Zanco of Waltham, Arthur Vallee of Newton and John LeBlanc of Waltham.

Bermude is the honeymoon destination of the couple, who will live in Natick.

The bride is a graduate of Waltham High School.

Mr. Merullo was graduated from Newton High School. Following a two year tour of duty with the Navy, he attended both Franklin Institute and Wentworth Institute. (Elise photo)

Jane Berkowitz, Mr. Carlton Become Engaged

The engagement of Miss Jane Rose Berkowitz to Dennis William Carlton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Carlton of Brighton, is made known by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Berkowitz of Newton Centre.

Miss Berkowitz who is attending Radcliffe College, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Blonder of Hyde Park and Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Berkowitz of Newton.

Mr. Carlton is a student at Harvard College. Mrs. Rose Tigar of Brighton and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cohen of Dorchester are grandparents of the prospective groom.

Harvard Law School Honors Peter Arenella

Peter L. Arenella of 20 Larchmont avenue, Newton, has been invited to membership on the Board of Student Advisors at the Harvard Law School, where he is a second year student. He also is a Voluntary Defender.

He graduated magna cum laude from Wesleyan University in 1968, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. In 1969 he was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow.

The Board of Advisors, composed of 42 high-ranking students, was established in 1910 to administer the Law School's annual series of moot court arguments.

The Advisors write the cases, assist the student attorneys and secure judges - mostly students assisted by faculty members and local attorneys - to hear the arguments.

Return to U.S.

Two Navy Petty Officers third class from Newton are scheduled to return to the United States this month after a six-month tour of duty in the Mediterranean aboard the destroyer USS Shenandoah.

Beauty Care Today
By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

(TRIANGLE AND INVERTED TRIANGLE)
Do you have a wide chin and jaw? Does your face taper up from the cheeks to a narrow forehead? Your face classification is known as "Triangle."
Your hair style should add width at the brow. The style should lift hair at the temples, curve it around the brow in soft, wide arcs. Try an angular part, starting low near the temple and angling up toward the crown.
Avoid full, winging lower sides that exaggerate the jaw's width. Also avoid straight, severe styles.
If you have a broad brow and narrow jaw, your face shape is known as the "Inverted Triangle."
Try fluffy, asymmetrical bangs that cover part of the brow. A little fullness at the jaw area gives a wider, less pointed appearance. Also try a diagonal, off-center part. It is best to avoid middle parts, straight across bangs or behind-the-ear hairdos.

Lucky Break Beats Tigers In Soccer Go

"When you get this far in a tournament, it's the lucky breaks that decide the contests." Those were the words of Newton High Assistant Coach Bernie Flanagan.

In the semi-finals of the Eastern Mass. Soccer Championship, Newton was paired with Braintree and after five overtime periods, Mark Barry, in a traffic jam in front of the net, fired the ball in the lower left side of the net to boost Braintree into the finals with New Bedford.

It took a lucky break to beat the Tigers. Newton found themselves down 1-0 early in the contest as Nick Villi tipped in a Steve Belcher rebound. But, the Tigers came back. In the third period, Tim Tsochanitaris fed ace inside Abe Ors and he scored from about blank range.

Near the end of regulation time, Tiger goalie Dick Chaisson injured his left shoulder and Junior Tom Fentin replaced him. The overtime periods was a battle of the defenses, Braintree completely halting any threats on their goal.

Meanwhile Newton goalie Tom Fentin was tested on four separate occasions and he came through a la George Blanda. These saves were not your normal every day saves, they were spectacular.

In the fifth overtime, a high bouncing Braintree shot came towards the Newton net along with four Braintree players, through a maze of players Barry found the handle and fired it home.

The loss was Newton's first in eleven games. The game being played under the lights at Boston University's astro turf stadium was widely attended. It was a heart break, as loss for the Newton eleven, as they completely dominated the game.

Corner Kicks: The Black and Orange had a penalty kick in the second overtime. Tsochanitaris took the shot and it just rolled wide of the uncovered post. Fentin deserves a lot of credit for his outstanding goal tending. Coming off the bench and making those kind of stops is almost super human. See you next Soccer season.

unnoticed when one glances lost in this annual affair goes through these facts and figures.

In 1963, the confrontation that featured the battle of two super passers in Eric Heltman and Mickey Beard, Newton won any chance the Red and Grey had to capture the Class A Title. In 1968 the Black and Orange carved their names into the same trophy by upending Brookline 12 to 6 who were co-winners of the coveted piece.

Faithful Brookline fans will long remember those Turkey Day contests when the Indians left the field with Class B Championships in 1939, 45, 46 and 47. Along with their 1954 triumph that gained them a share of the Class A trophy with Lowell.

The memories of Newton fans can reflect on the game of 1953 when the Tigers walked off the field as tri-champs of the State.

This years holiday game looks like a great one. Coach Jim Ronayne felt "It looks like a toss-up, our record is better than theirs, but they had much better success against Brookline and Arlington than we did."

Brookline is 4-2-2 on the season, recently tying B.C. High 20-20. In the final seconds of that ball game the Indians had the ball on the two yard line, but couldn't find pay dirt.

The Wealthy Towners basically have an inexperienced defense. They are led by their Co-Captain Mike Travis, who reins from the defensive end slot.

The Indian offense is explosive. Senior Quarterback Rich Patnaude is perhaps the best QB in the state. Wing back Kevin Fleming has excellent speed and a sticky pair

Tigers Take 21-0 Decision Over Waltham; Take 'Doc Cohn' Trophy

By BOB WORDEN

"Overall this has to be our best game of the season," summed up Newton Coach Jim Ronayne after his squad romped over Waltham 21-0. "Our offense moved the ball well and our defense was excellent."

The Tigers sparked by the two touchdown performance of Junior Fullback John Connolly, captured the "Doc Cohn" Trophy (awarded to the winner of the annual Newton-Waltham game) for the third consecutive season.

The Black and Orange moved the ball well in the opening series of plays, but were halted at the 30 yard line by a pesky Hawk defense. Near the end of the first stanza, the Tigers threatened again. Jim Doolin fired a 23 yard pass completion to Chuck Pendergast, which moved the ball to the 12 yard line. Three plays later, Paul Johnson with a man hanging on his back, couldn't hold on to a Doolin pass in the end zone, and another Newton scoring bid went by the boards.

The Tigers faced with a tough 8-3 Waltham defense was forced to the air in the second period. Doolin passed to Connolly for his first tally of the afternoon contest. Ken Haywood's extra point was just short. That was the way the first half ended.

Dan Bordon recovered a fumble on the kickoff at the 20 yard line, to open the second half.

Newton grinded out the necessary yardage with Doolin finishing up, hurdling in from one yard out. Paul Grillo holding the extra point faked the kick and rolled left and hit Pendergast with a bullet, to boost the Tiger margin to a 14-0 advantage.

Co-Captain John Murphy intercepted an errant Hawk pass in the fourth period. A Waltham player piled on Murphy and sparked an eruption at midfield. Nothing became of it, and play continued.

Connolly after making a 15 yard reception, plunged in from the two yard line and Haywood lined the extra point through the uprights to complete the scoring. The final score Newton 21, Waltham 0.

Sideline Comments: The Newton shutout was their sixth of the season. They have allowed only 42 points over eight games. The win boosted their record to 6-1-1 and if they can pull out a Turkey Day victory it will mark the third consecutive campaign the Tigers have lost only one game. For the Brookline game, Newton injuries are almost nil. Mark Lennon who stretched some ligaments in his knee is expected to be at full speed for the Holiday contest.

Below is listed the scores of the first eight games.

Newton Tigers Pile Up 60-0 Win Margin Over Rindge Tech

By BOB WORDEN

Newtons 60 to 0 victory over Rindge Tech could be classified as a bombing, a shellacking, an explosion or almost any cliché pertaining to a 60 to 0 wipe out, whatever you like, it was quite an afternoon for the offensive minded football fan.

The ledger read 12 Tiger runners grinding out 332 yards on the ground, 20 first downs, 49 yards from the aerial attack. The defense gaining their fifth whitewash of the season, while picking off three errant Rindge passes and pouncing on two fumbles.

Newton took the opening kickoff and tallied 21 points before the opposition even touched the ball. Kevin Carver pulled 9 yards en route to the first Black and Orange score. The TD came on a 67 yard drive in eight plays. Ken Haywood drove the first of his six conversions through the uprights.

Mark Herendine recovered a

George Gardner kickoff and the Tigers were in business again. Jim Doolin charged in from the three on a keeper. Then the Technicians fumbled the kickoff, and the Tigers took advantage of the miscue. Doolin found Chuck Pendergast open in the right flat and he fired a bullet to him. Pendergast using his outstanding speed zigged and zagged 50 yards to pay dirt.

Rindge finally had an opportunity to show their wares. Newtons defense responded by limiting them to 13 yards on the ground and a mere 13 via the pass.

Frank DeRubeis returned a punt later in the first period 69 yards. The score was 28-0 and the first quarter was just over.

Doolin registered his second tally of the Friday afternoon contest, as he scampered five yards on a bootleg around left end. John Connolly who led the Newton ground attack, carried six times for 95 yards, boosted the Tiger half time advantage to 40-0 crunching out five yards for the Newton tally.

In the second half Jim Ronayne installed his second and third string units in the game. They were very impressive as they chalked up three more scores. Sophomore Mark Connolly used his playing time to impress Tiger football fans, as he scored two touchdowns. Pete McKay, who was the fifth QB to see playing time for Newton, plunged three yards for the final score. Newton 60-Rindge Tech 0.

Sideline Comments: If Brookline Coach Armond Colombo was coaching the Rindge game, the score would be 100-0, with an onside kick in the final moments of the game.

Newton faces Waltham this Saturday at Waltham. Rumors in Waltham say this could be their coaches last season, Saturday might be save the coaches job day — Newton's win left them with an impressive 5-1-1 slate.

Pottery Stars But South Harriers Register On Cool Side In League

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South High did not enjoy an especially productive cross-country season this fall as the newest addition to the Dual County League, but if it were not for senior Charley Pottery the year would have been even more dismal.

The Lions completed their baptism of fire in the new league a week and a half ago with a 1-13 slate, but none of the fault lay with Pottery, who captured six of the 13 races he of hands, he'll be a real threat to the Newton defense.

Newton is 6-1-1 on the season, losing to Brookline 35-7 and going four quarters in a scoreless duel with Arlington High. The Tigers Jim Doolin is his best when he runs the bootleg. In recent weeks the Black and Orange aerial attack has improved and Ricky Hayes and Fullback John Connolly have added an extra dimension to the Tiger attack.

The Garden City defensive record speaks for itself, as they have allowed only 42 points in eight games, while posting six shutouts.

The stage is set, Newton vs Brookline at Dickinson Stadium, starting time 10:30 a.m.

Brookline High captured their first Suburban League Title last Saturday by beating Arlington 30-0. Soccer style kicking halfback Alky Tsitos scored on a one yard plunge, boosted a 27 yard field goal and put one conversion through the uprights to lead his team to victory.

ran and finished second in six others.

In his three years as a South harrier Pottery has had the distinction of running against three different sets of opposition. The first, in his sophomore year, was the old Suburban League which included Waltham, Newton, Arlington, Revere, Medford, Malden and Everett. The second was the revamped Suburban League in its present state with Newton, Waltham, Arlington, Rindge Tech, Cambridge Latin, Brookline Brookline and Weymouth (South Weymouth North replaced Newton South in the league this year). And this year the Dual County League where it looks like the Lions will settle for a while.

As a sophomore Pottery began the season running on the JV and was not impressive in his first few races. He was first noticed in the third meet of that year when he ran sixth for the Lions against Revere.

The next meet, versus Arlington, he edged his way into the top five, scoring fifth in 15:45 at Mt. Ida. Still, no one really expected what came next. Two days later came the explosion.

Pottery erupted for fourth place against Medford, running second for the team. He stayed second man for the remainder of the season and dipped under the 15:00 mark for the first time against Everett in the last meet of that year with a 14:55 clocking.

Pottery started his junior year off with a then phenomenal 13:59 in one of the greatest individual races at Mt. Ida. Five runners dipped below 14:00. Never before had anyone done it in the first meet of the season. However, he did not go under 14:00 again during the year, although he was in the 14:10 range in most meets.

Chuck improved tremendously on the track last year, too.

Having gained much more speed Pottery started recording some fast track times over shorter distances than 2 1/2 miles. During the winter season he established a new school 2-mile record of 10:41.8 and went under 5:00 in the mile for the first time with a 4:52 timing.

He really came down in both events in the spring, clipping 17 seconds off the two-mile time to 10:24.8 and three seconds from the mile time to 4:49.4.

A week ago Charley Pottery completed the greatest cross-country season by a Newton South harrier in history.

He collected his second school record from the time of 13:19 for 2.6 miles and raced under 14:00 more times than anyone who ever ran the Mt. Ida Junior College course.

In addition to his 13:59 and 13:19, in-between he logged 13:49, 13:35, 13:31 13:26 and 13:24 timings.

A faster, more durable Chuck Pottery approaches the coming indoor season with big goals. He would like to clobber his own 2-mile record, which he should do the first time he steps on a track this winter, and go under ten minutes. And while we're on the subject of school records Pottery's name should appear beside the mile standard (now at 4:45.9) and possibly even the 1000-yard mark (now at 2:27) before the end of the season.

And then on to bigger and better things in the spring, where the records now listed, 9:59 and 4:25.1, are a little tougher to catch, but Charley Pottery is determined to become the best distance runner in Newton South history.

He is well on his way.

GOOD BLOCKING — Newton's David Leichook (No. 25) carries for a good gain through the middle of the opposition as his blockers open a big hole.

South Soccer Squad In 5-1 Closing Victory

Junior Steve Aronson booted two goals to propel the Newton South Lion soccer team past Bedford, 5-1, last week in the final game of its Dual County League season.

South got two more goals from underclassmen with Bob Murphy and Ed Phofsky coming through with scores. The other tally came off the foot of senior Dave Smith.

Goalkeeper Dave Cohen played his usual outstanding game in his last appearance in the Lion nets.

In its first season in the Dual County League the Lions almost recorded the first winning season in school history with a 5-2 mark. After a quick start during which the squad ran up a 4-2 record the team faded and could win only one of its last five games.

Although the goal of a winning year was not realized it was Newton South soccer's closest attempt and was the best mark in school history.

Gott Cracks Own Record In Track Victory

Peter Gott cracked his own 2.6 mile junior high course record at Newton High to earn first place in the Newton Junior High League meet, last week.

Gott, who set the standard of 14:56 two weeks ago in the Newton Junior High all-stars versus Newton and Newton South Jayvees, eclipsed that by seven seconds in 14:49.

The Bigelow ninth grader clobbered all comers with second-placer going to Carl Hubel of Warren who was fourth in the other race. Hubel clipped 11 seconds from his time but was still 29 seconds off the pace in 15:18.

Despite Gott's lofty finish Warren nipped Bigelow 24-34 for the team title taking six of the top ten places. Paul Hightower, 15:26, Byron Ress, 15:43, Bob Freudenberger, 16:02 and Peter Carleo, 16:22, capped places three, four, six and nine for the winners.

Soccer Talk

By PAUL ELDRIDGE

We are coming to the end of the season, so some of you who are new to the game, are probably wondering what you can do in the off season to keep in condition. There are many ways to accomplish this. It is most important to keep your legs in shape. The best method is by doing a good deal of running. Playing basketball will also help to keep your legs and wind up to par. In order to keep your timing and ball control, it would be advisable to take a ball and kick it off of a wall, first with one foot, then the other.

I you can get into a gym with some friends or teammates, try passing and running with a ball. One way to practice your heading, is to play volleyball, with this difference, instead of hitting the ball over the net with your hands, use your head.

While on the subject of heading, some of you may be apprehensive about hitting a ball with your head. If this is so, then get a child's plastic ball about the size of a soccer ball and commence practice in this manner.

Congratulations to the Braintree High Soccer Team on winning the Bay State Soccer title and making the finals in the Eastern Massachusetts Schoolboy Championship!

Did you know that in Winchester they have a soccer program with 250 boys participating in the game.

Newton AA Lions Edge Maryland 6-0 in Pee Wee Bowl Grid Game

The Newton Athletic Association Lions defeated the Glen Burnie "Rebels" of Maryland 6-0 last Saturday at Dickinson Stadium in a Bill Hamill Memorial Fund bowl game.

The game was preceded by a gigantic motorcade throughout Newton. The game was attended by School Committee Members, Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney, Recreation Commission Member and Bill Hamill Fund Representative, Paul Burke.

The Rebels pulled into City Hall Friday at 4:05 p.m. where they were greeted by Mayor Monte G. Basbas who wished them luck, but stated emphatically that he was a "Lion Rooter". The boys were dispersed to homes of the Lion players while the official party and parents from Maryland departed to the Needham Motor Inn where a social was held later that evening.

The game started slightly behind schedule due to the inclement weather. The "Rebels" received the opening kickoff and picked up one first down. Forced to punt from their own 45, the Rebels kicked and recovered a misplayed reception at the Newton 45. The Newton defense checked Maryland's offense after another first down and took another first down and oook over. Newton failed to move the ball and were forced to punt from their own 10. Vizakis. John punt moves on Newton end Jack Ryan was forced from the game early via an injury. Jack snaps the ball back on punts, but was not available in Newton's first punting situation. A high snap resulted and Punter Bob Kinsella had all he could do to get rid of the ball.

The Rebels took over on the Newton 20, but failed to make any progress. Cornerback Rick Paglia had his finest day as a defensive ball player. Rick continually throttled Rebel sweeps and was a demon blitzing on pass plays. Field position was the story in the first half as the Rebels had it all via the kicking game. It wasn't until late in the half that Newton mounted its first offensive thrust. With two minutes left Newton started at its own 35 and featured by running off John Vizakis and Rick Paglia threatened to score. Paglia made two receptions, both for first downs, on the drive. One was a 15 yard screen aided by blocks from Kevin Brooks, Mike Lanciloti and Dave Prince.

Perhaps the finest run of the game came at this point. Newton had a third and six at the Rebel 20 yard line with 12 seconds left in the half and no time outs remaining. Quarterback Bob Kinsella dropped to pass, looked at left end Ken Shulman slanting across the middle and then handed to halfback John Vizakis on the old "statue" play. Fullback Matt Sabetti threw a key block to get John going. From there it was all score and the Highland Huskies were beaten by the Norwood White 18-0. Both of these games were Pee Wee Games.

The game was well appreciated by the hundreds of fans that turned out.

Tackle, Pete Toyias, appeared in his first game since injuring his shoulder several weeks ago.

In the preliminaries the Waban Warriors defeated the Oak Hill Raiders by a 12-6 score and the Highland Huskies were beaten by the Norwood White 18-0. Both of these games were Pee Wee Games.

Bob Staulo Chalks up Three TDs To Pace Lions in 20-6 Final Win

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Co-captain Bob Staulo, a 230 pound fullback, crashed over for three touchdowns to spark the Newton South Lions to a 20-6 victory over Westwood, in the final game of the season last week.

Staulo scored on a seven-yard run in the first half to propel the Lions to a 6-0 in-termission lead and then tallied once in each of the last two periods to clinch the contest.

Halfback Dave Leyton notched a two-point conversion rush after Staulos second TD to make the score 14-6 after three quarters.

The reappearance of the South defense was another key factor. The Big D, so brilliant and crunched in the early games of the season made its comeback at the right time to keep the gridsters over .500 for the year.

The erratic South team, which finished 5-3, looked a lot more like a first-rate football club than it has in recent weeks. After three straight wins at the start of the season the Lions were edged by Boston Latin, 10-8, inexplicably bombed by Wayland, 38-8 and dismantled by Lynnfield, 18-2 in three of their next four games.

For South it was a season of relative glory. After seven consecutive winning years the Lions went into a two-year slump, accumulating a combined 1-15-1 record in 1968 and 1969.

1970 has signaled a rebirth. The Lions are back and racing.

lives in slums and is discriminated against by employers," Huttunen said. "Finland in general is approaching the international housing ratio of one person per room, but Finnish gypsies live 3.4 persons per one room."

Most on Welfare
About 25 per cent of gypsy family heads hold jobs, most of them unskilled and temporary. About 75 per cent of gypsy families are on welfare.

The gypsies came to Finland via Sweden from northwest India. Tehri dark skin and a language and culture derived from Sanskrit makes them Finland's most obvious minority group.

About 15 per cent live in Helsinki, the rest in small towns and the open countryside. They don't have caravans but in habit shanties and huts if established housing is

3 Newtonites Organizers For New Bank

Three Newton residents are among the organizers of the newest bank in eastern Massachusetts, The Colonial National Bank of Danvers. The three - Allan R. Curhan, 76 Drumlin Road, Alan P. Michelson, 56 Clifton Road, and David A. Traister, 14 Juniper Lane - are also incorporators of the bank, which will open in April, 1971, on Federal Street in Danvers, adjacent to the Liberty Tree Mall Shopping Plaza.

Mr. Curhan is president and a director of the bank, which will be a full - service operation. An attorney since 1955, he practices with his own firm, Curhan & Curhan in Boston. He previously had been an associate of Brown, Rudnick, Freed & Gesmer in Boston and a law clerk in the U.S. District Court in Boston to Judge Anthony Julian.

He was a Brookline Town Meeting member and served on the Brookline Democratic Town Committee from 1960 - 1964. A native of Brookline, he was graduated from Brookline High School in 1948. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston University and a law degree (LL.B.) from the Harvard University Law School.

Mr. Curhan is married to the former Dorothy Shelling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shelling of Bayview Drive, Portland, Me. The Curhans have two children.

Mr. Michelson is vice president of the Suburbanite Mop Co., in Brookline, and a director of the Brookline Hospital Associates. In 1968, while serving as vice president and merchandise manager of the Housewares Corporation, a division of Zayre Corporation, he was named "Housewares Merchandiser of the Year."

In Newton he is active in community affairs, serving on the Spaulding School PTA board of directors, in Little League and Pop Warner League affairs.

Mr. Traister is vice president of Sack Theatres Corp., Boston. Previously, he was associated with H. C. Wainwright & Co. in Boston and Salem.

WHICH ONE IS THE VICAR 'ERE?—It's a question of which is which in the madcap comedy "See How They Run," being presented by The Country Players of Newton for its concluding performances Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21, at 8:30 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton. The hilarious force is directed by Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill and features (bottom row, left to right) Morton Nesson, Sis Kramer and Michael Purcell; (top row, left to right) Martin I. Cohen, Arnold Felton and Morton Landy.

Country Players Smash Opener To Be Repeated This Week-end

Near capacity audiences and fine reviews greeted cast and Triumph in the madcap comedy "See How They Run" last weekend, opening the curtain on the fifteenth season of community theatre activity for The Country Players of Newton.

Perfect fare for the entire family, the humor-laden free-for-all, authored by Philip King, will close out its run Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20-21, at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, at 8:30 p.m. With a bristling advance sale for concluding performances of this wild and woolly farce, seating capacity has been increased to 200.

Directing the rollicking romp is Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill, whose efforts have been complimented by producer Margaret Spicer Annis, stage manager Sandy Deming and musical conductor Saul Potter.

Featured in the leading roles are Sis Kramer and Mort Landy, while the conglomerate of comic characterizations are created by Ruth Boynick, Liz Bruce, Arnold Felton, Mort Nesson, Mike Purcell, Martin I. Cohen and John Vitello.

Audiences at the two dress rehearsals and both performances were not only responsive in their acclamation of performers, but also for the technical and creative aspects of the production.

The feverish activity of the production crew was rewarded by the enthusiastic approval voiced by theatre buffs for the beautifully mounted set, the new thrust which doubles the playing area of the Pomroy House stage, the implementation of additional lighting equipment, the spruced-up auditorium and the acquisition of contour seats for audience comfort.

They were equally receptive in their appreciation of the streamlined script, the addition of three musical numbers, and the lively introductory and interlude music, all original innovations for this production.

Among those who enjoyed the hectic goings-on were members of the Newton Junior College student body, who were guests of the Newton Country Players.

Appearing in her seventh production and creating the leading female role is one of the Players' most versatile actresses, Sis Kramer. Previous characterizations with the Newton-based community theatre group include Madam Ernestine Von Lieberdich in "Little Mary Sunshine," Pistache in "Can

Newton Community Service Centers Offer Full Activity

Activities for all ages are being offered by the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc. during the 1970 - 1971 program year.

The Centers, which include membership from the Newton, Wellesley, Weston, Watertown, Needham, Boston and other surrounding communities, offers a wide variety of activity with a desire to meet program needs unmet by other existing organizations in warm and exciting facilities.

A dynamic staff, which includes specialists as well as dedicated and experienced generalists, adds to the atmosphere. In commenting on the program Anthony J. Bibbo, Executive Director of the agency, listed a number of the activities included in the diverse program.

A sampling indicates that the following activities are available to children of the community: Nursery School held at the First Unitarian Society, Newton "Headstart," and the Newton Day Care Center are providing qualitative pre - school learning experiences. Another program for pre - school children in "Kiddie Klub" held at Pomroy House on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons offers special activities geared for this special age group.

For older children - friendship clubs, drama groups, sewing and cooking classes are offered at the Pomroy House facility. The Centers popular Model Making and Manly arts classes will begin today (Thursday, November 19) at Pomroy House. Manly arts offers instruction in the art of self defense, boxing, wrestling and seasonal sports.

Boys nine years of age and up have been receiving excellent instruction in the art of Woodworking. Under the direction of Marty Kennedy,

Newton Community Service Centers Offer Full Activity

The four groups include about 202 police, 25 civil service foremen, from 17 to 19 city engineers and 8 building department inspectors.

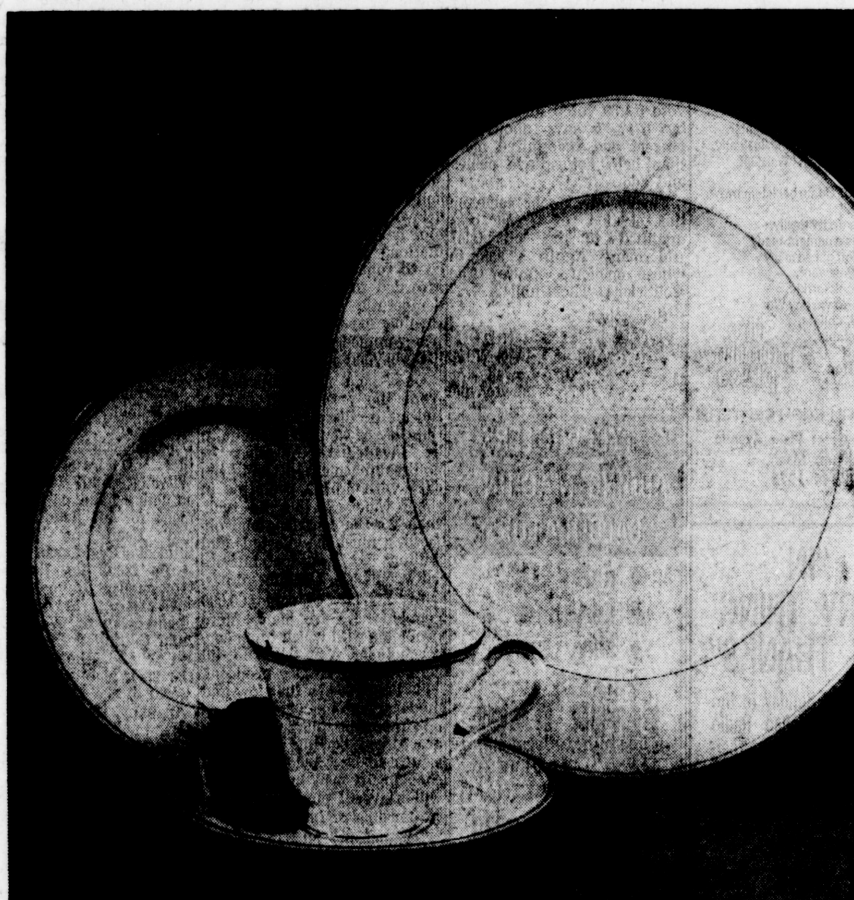

The new one year contract with police calls for a raise on the maximum patrolmen's salary retroactive to May 3, 1970 from $9,050 to $9,650 and a second raise effective Nov. 1, 1970 from the current $9,650 to $10,200.

All other ranks except chief and deputy chief are to be increased by the same percentage. Other provisions include a minimum guarantee for court appearances required by the Police Dept. as of May 3, 1970 from two to three hours.

The three contracts with the other three groups call for three six percent increases, the first retroactive to May 4, 1970, the second as of Nov. 2, 1970 and the third to become effective on May 3, 1971. These are all two year contracts.

'Piccadilly Square' To Be New Retail Area In Newton Centre

Mortgage negotiations have been completed for Piccadilly Square, a project in Newton Centre to restore a block-long section of buildings and turn them into pedestrian-oriented office and retail space.

A $750,000 loan was granted to Brookline-based developer David T. Zussman by the State Street Bank & Trust Company for renovation work on the Square. Upon completion the loan will be redeemed by the Northeast Federal Savings & Loan Association which will hold the mortgage.

The remodeling is taking place on three buildings on Union Street (no's 75-105) and the Gray Block Building which is to the rear.

Basbas Presses For Central Library Site

Reviving a five-year controversy, Mayor Monte G. Basbas has announced he will urge the Library Trustees to submit again to the Board of Aldermen a site at Homer and Walnut streets, across from the City Hall, as the location for a new central library.

The Mayor said the location was acquired by the City 25 years ago, and that it is high time it was put to use. He pointed out that the site is near the center of Newton, both geographically and on the basis of population. Such a building could cost an estimated $2.5 million.

This location has been under scrutiny by the Newton Community Development Corporation, and when reminded of this, Mayor Basbas commented "there are other sites for housing." However no formal move to this effect ever was taken by the NCDC.

Mayor Basbas said he would recommend to the Trustees to ask the Aldermen for $5,000 for the purpose of hiring experts to draw up specifications. The specifications also would require aldermanic approval.

Publisher Is New Board V.P. At Lasell Coll.

Alfred C. Edwards, former chairman of the board and Chief Executive Officer of Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., was appointed vice-president of the Corporation of Lasell Junior College at the recent annual meeting of its Board of Trustees, the College announced today.

Appointed a trustee of Lasell in May 1969, Mr. Edwards was named Chairman of the Board's Long Range Planning Committee earlier this year.

Until his retirement from Holt, Rinehart and Winston in 1969, Mr. Edwards was also vice-president and director of Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc. and its subsidiaries. He now serves as a consultant to both CBS and the publishing firm.

Mr. Edwards was graduated from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and received an honorary doctorate degree from Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont.

He has been a vice-president of the American Book Publishers Council and has served on several committees of the Association of American Publishers.

A resident of New Canaan, Conn., Mr. Edwards is presently a trustee and past president of the New Canaan Library. His daughter, Gail, is a graduate of Lasell.

Michigan State's football team won the national championship in 1955.

Police Probing $3,000 Burglary

Newton police are investigating the theft of six office machines valued at $3,000 which were stolen from Transdella, Inc., at 26 Farwell street, Newtonville. Police were notified that the building had been entered between 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday morning, but how entrance was gained was not immediately determined.

Price-

In 1966, for $6,000, Uehlein declared. In addition, they said that in its present unowned status the current fair market value of the land is about $15,750. Uehlein added, however, the land would obviously be worth more if it were zoned for apartments or business, he also noted.

Uehlein asked that his reference to "cheap talk" about the value of the land be stricken from the record after the wording was objected to by Aldermen William Carmen and Harry Crosby.

Carmen maintained that the matter could be "very expensive" to the city.

Carmen then joined with Redevelopment Authority Director Kenneth Salk regarding the appraisal and value of the land. Carmen maintained that the city was being paid about $5 to 90 cents a square foot for the vacant land, while owners of three adjacent parcels, he claimed, were to be paid $2 to $3 a square foot.

"I can't understand why the city would be shortchanged," Carmen declared.

Salk replied that the price is comparable to what is paid other owners of similar property. This is public unowned property, nearly landlocked and the city, which is a partner of the Redevelopment Authority, will ultimately share one-third of the cost, Salk said.

The federal government will contribute two-thirds of the cost of the urban renewal project. The land in question is slated as a site for low and modern income apartments.

Salk reviewed federally specified appraisal procedures which were followed in determining the purchase price of the 21,400 square foot parcel under discussion.

There were two independent appraisals made, they were reviewed by a real estate expert, then submitted to the Housing and Urban Development office in New York which sent its own appraiser to review the matter, Salk said.

Carmen argued that the price being paid to private owners of the adjacent land should be revealed. "I am suggesting that they pay the city more, not the private owners less," Carmen said.

Salk replied that "on his word of honor" the price offered to the city is the maximum allowed by the federal government. And "we are not paying more than 80 cents a foot for the adjacent land," he added.

However, there are structures on the other parcels and there was no indication of the price being offered for them.

Land Use Committee Chairman Alan Barkin stated that the "top residential property in the city won't go for more than $1 a foot." And since the city will bear one-third of the project cost, a higher price will cost the city more, Barkin added.

When the vote on the land sale finally came, Aldermen Carmen and Peter Harrington dissented.

NATHAN I. GREENE

Nathan Greene Heads Program At Conference

Nathan I. Greene, Chairman of the Board of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company, Waltham, was chairman of the program committee of the Robert Morris Associates' Fall Conference. The conference, which is in its fifty-sixth year, was held at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel in Boston November 8-11. Mr. Greene was also Moderator of one of the panel discussions — "Letter and Other Stock Loans."

A graduate of Bowdoin College, Mr. Greene was formerly with the New York Trust Company and the Canal National Bank, Portland, Maine.

In 1955 he joined Newton-Waltham Bank and was elected president and chairman in 1963. In 1970 Giles E. Mosher, Jr. was elected president while Mr. Greene remains as chairman and chief executive officer.

Mr. Greene is an overseer of his alma mater, trustee of Newton Savings Bank and Waltham Hospital, and a director of the Waltham Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Advisory Committee of Baystate Corporation in Boston. A member of RMA since 1935, Mr. Greene has served on two national committees.

Two-Day Conference Starts Today For School Officials

Newton's Community Relations Commission will host a conference for 24 of the School Department's top administrators, Thursday and Friday, November 19 and 20, at Barst House, Sacred Heart College.

A two-day planning session, the conference is designed specifically to focus on the human relations climate in Newton secondary schools and to consider how administrators can help to improve that climate. Chairman of the CRC project is Sol Kolack, New England regional director of the Anti-Defamation League.

Guest speaker, William Rumsey, principal of Washington D.C.'s largest high school, will describe model programs tried in his own area and elsewhere.

Consideration also will be given to programs already being developed in the Newton Schools.

Mr. Rumsey, who heads McKinley High School, describes himself as primarily interested in youth serving associations. Winner of numerous citations for his work with young people, he instituted the School to Aid Youth (STAY), an evening program to enable dropouts to earn diplomas.

On a two-year leave of absence from the schools, he worked with Senator Kennedy in developing the Washington Action for Youth program. He also helped to draft the Washington poverty program.

A lifelong resident of the Washington area, Mr. Rumsey was educated in the public schools, receiving his B.S. from Howard University. Currently, he is a doctoral candidate at

Open to people of all faiths, the service will be held on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26th at 10:45 a.m. No collections of any kind are to be taken.

Time will be provided for a period of prayer and for the individual expression of gratitude by members of the congregation.

The First Reader, Edmund M. MacCloskey, and Miss Ruth Houghton, the Second Reader, will conduct the service. All are welcome.

Blake Assumes Post Of Trustee Chairman Of Jackson Homestead

In a quiet change of command at the Jackson Homestead, Newton's city-owned museum and historical center, Mrs. Benjamin F. Shattuck stepped down as Chairman of the Board of Trustees after a three year term of outstanding achievement and was succeeded by Henry A. Blake who brings to the position a distinguished record of service to the Homestead in a number of committee assignments.

In her three year tenure as Chairman Mrs. Shattuck made highly significant contributions to the growth and public service of the museum to which she has devoted much of her energy and time.

Mrs. Shattuck, it was noted, contributed to a large degree to the in-depth programming of events, and by her creative efforts helped develop greatly increased public interest in the Homestead and its activities.

She personally taught classes in early American Colonial subjects given for the benefit of the elementary school children of Newton.

Much of the Underground Railway Exhibit of the museum was made possible by her research and effort. In broadening the scope of its programs and its community influence, Mrs. Shattuck promoted increasingly effective relationships of the Homestead with the Newton Public Schools, Newton Public Library, the Cultural Foundation, Council of Arts and Humanities and other related groups.

Several important physical improvements were made in the stately old mansion which houses the museum. An improved heating system for the reconstructed ell under the guidance of George H. Larsen, House Chairman and also a member of the Board of Trustees.

One of the major acquisitions made by the Homestead in recent years was made possible largely through Mrs. Shattuck's efforts in arranging the presentation of the unique 1833 portrait of Maria Louisa Wiswall. This famous portrait of William Jackson's ward was previously owned by the Rev. Charles R. Peck, Vicar Emeritus of the Old North Church who donated the work to the Homestead.

When one discusses these accomplishments with Mrs. Shattuck, she invariably attributes the Homestead's greater effectiveness and public acceptance to the dedicated work of her colleagues who serve as volunteers on the museum's many committees which carry on its activities. She continues serving as a member of the Board of Trustees with undiminished interest and vigor.

Those presently serving on the Jackson Homestead's Board of Trustees with her are: Henry A. Blake, Chairman; Mrs. Nathan D. Bugbee; Mrs. Albert E. Burgess, a past President of the Friends of the Jackson Homestead; Robert Cohen; George H. Larsen; Mrs. Lester A. Steinberg; and Mrs. Shattuck.

The Jackson Homestead which they administer is open daily, from two to four o'clock, Monday through Friday. It is open to the public without charge.

ACE Award To Conigli'ro This Sunday

The Sidney Hill Country Club in Chestnut Hill will be the scene of the B'nai B'rith Automotive Lodge's ninth annual ACE Award breakfast this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. when sportscaster Johnny Pesky will present Tony Conigliaro, former Red Sox outfielder, with this trophy.

The event will mark Conigliaro's first public appearance since the recent announcement that he will play for the California Angels next spring.

Tony, a Nahant native, will receive the Automotive Lodge trophy for having overcome his visual handicap. Making the presentation will be Johnny Pesky, former Red Sox shortstop currently a member of the WHDH Red Sox baseball broadcasting team.

A beaming accident during the 1967 season left Tony Conigliaro visually incapacitated. It was feared that his sight as well as his career would be impaired. But the star athlete fought a winning battle, making a baseball comeback equalled by few in the game's history.

Automotive Lodge President Julius Rubin and ACE Breakfast Chairman Samuel S. Press note that Conigliaro joins other outstanding men in receiving the B'nai B'rith Automotive Lodge ACE tribute. Among them: Former Boston Mayor John F. Collins, Rhode Island Judge William E. Powers, Father Harry Sutcliffe of the Brooklyn Guild for the Blind, Suffolk Downs President Bill Veeck.

In addition to the plaque presentation, B'nai B'rith Automotive Lodge will present the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary with a contribution in Tony's name in honor of the occasion.

Salinger To Be Speaker On Sunday At Unitarian Church

Mrs. Langdon W. Chandler, chairman of the Service Committee of the First Unitarian Society at 1326 Washington Street, West Newton, announces that Warren Salinger, the Director of Development of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, a Boston based international social service organization, will be the guest speaker on Sunday, November 22nd at 7:30 p.m.

The title of Mr. Salinger's talk will be "Alternative to Violence." Preceding Mr. Salinger's address desert and coffee will be served. Members of the Society desiring transportation may call Mrs. Holgate at the Church office.

The Unitarian Universalist Service Committee (UUSC) is a nonsectarian agency which sponsors self-help projects in family planning, community development, social work training, bail reform, legal services, pediatric services, urban rehabilitation and conscientious objector placement in the United States and abroad.

Salinger has spoken throughout the country on the work of the non-denominational Service Committee.

Prior to his appointment as Director of Development, Salinger was Middle Atlantic Region director for UUSC. He moved into social service oriented fund raising after fourteen years in the retail field because of "lack of satisfaction in a business career void of humanitarian goals."

During his business career, Salinger participated heavily for eight years in fund raising projects for the Paint Branch Unitarian Church in suburban Adelphi, Md. He was Chairman of the Board at Paint Branch from 1966-1968. He was also chairman of the individual to do more than merely exist, benefits should be about $6000 a year," he said.

He suggested that income to the elderly come also from a general tax fund rather than being only the result of employer-employee's contributions.

Pointing out that there were more aged poor in our country than in any other segment of our population, Dr. Lowy said, "There is a direct correlation between level of income and zest for living. Many older people are relatively inactive, but not necessarily through choice."

"They now have the time to do things they never could have done while they were raising families, but they don't have the money with which to do them."

Dr. Lowy said that only about 10 percent of the aged are well-off and added that older people with enough money are more likely to have a better self-image to be future oriented and to participate in meaningful activities.

"Old age shouldn't be looked upon as a misfortune, but as a chance in life, when freed of many responsibilities, people can travel, develop earlier interests and hobbies, and even embark on second careers they perhaps couldn't risk trying when they were breadwinners."

The elderly should have more alternatives in their lives than they do now, Dr. Lowy feels. "It has been said that in our country, we neither accept nor reject the elderly. We simply ignore them."

"As a group they are very low on our national priorities list. I suppose this is partly because it is the younger people, particularly middle-aged who in control and establish what priorities will be. I'm afraid the elderly have very little lobbying power."

Contrary to the unflattering stereotype of the older individual as one who has outgrown his usefulness and, in effect, dropped out from society, Dr. Lowy said he felt that elderly people are capable of playing a larger citizen role in our communities.

"I think they could take the years they have lived through and share them with younger people by going into schools at all levels and telling youngsters what it was like to live through the depression and under the New Deal. They could be a form of living history that would expand the perspective of younger people."

He also suggested that undergraduate courses include material on older people to show what they have contributed to society throughout history. "We need to have a change in attitude towards the elderly. Part of it will come through knowing what they have and can accomplish, and part of it would come just through greater contact between older and younger people."

WARREN SALINGER

Greater Washington, D.C. Association of the Unitarian Universalist Churches.

During the Korean War, Salinger spent four years in the U.S. Air Force, during which time he was stationed in Germany with Air Force Intelligence. He was later attached to a U.S. Army Intelligence Platoon. He describes as "extremely interesting" the years spent interrogating returned prisoners of war and defectors of the Soviet Union.

At the age of seven, in 1939, Salinger came to America with his family who fled from what is now West Berlin.

Salinger attended the University of Maryland. He is married, has four children and lives in Marlboro, Massachusetts.

Dr. Perlman Again Heads State Conference

Dr. Robert Perlman of Newton, Associate Professor of Research at the Florence Heller School at Brandeis University, has been re-elected president of the Mass. Conference on Social Welfare for a second one-year term.

In accepting his re-election, Dr. Perlman outlined the expanded program of the state-wide organization, including the launching of a new publication carrying information and analysis on social issues, programs, and legislation in Massachusetts.

Dr. Perlman also announced the organization of year-round working groups for study and action in the major fields of social welfare, and further development of regional activities and "branches" of MCSW.

The election of officers was held at the closing session of the 67th Annual Conference, Nov. 15, at Boston's Statler-Hilton Hotel attended by more than 2,000 social work professionals and volunteers.

New Falmouth To Be Tourist Melting Pot

By BYRON BALFOUR

One of the most ambitious tourism complexes in the Caribbean is unfolding some 25 miles east of Montego Bay in the rolling hills of Jamaica's north coast.

Christened New Falmouth, the complex will include nine miniature villages capturing the flavor of the country each represents, 17 hotels, and a liberal sprinkling of private homes, parks, recreation facilities and shopping center.

The developers, New Falmouth Resorts Ltd., a firm of local and foreign investors, expect to spend more than $240 million on the project over a 10-year period.

The dramatic development is being spun out on 1,700 acres of gently rolling green hills, clustered around three miles of broad, palm-fringed beaches.

The heart of the project, the International Village Communities, was conceived by Emanuel Abraben, a 41-year-old architect from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"On the hills behind the beaches, the emphasis will be on authentically reproducing the architectural spirit of some of the most exciting places in the world," Abraben said.

The villages will be Japanese, Jamaican, English, Polynesian, African, Bavarian, North African, Indian and French; and each will capture, as closely as possible, the spirit of the country it represents, according to architect.

Thus the Japanese village will center around a traditional teahouse complete with geishas, the English village will have its pubs and gardens, and the North African will recreate the mystery and romance of Casablanca and Tangier.

Special activities Once operational, the developers plan to offer special activities typical of each of the countries represented.

New Falmouth will have modern buildings as well: 17 hotels, including two convention hotels, are going up at the resort site.

The hotels will accommodate more than 10,000 persons.

The convention hotels will be the 350-room Trelawney Beach Hotel, being built by Trelawney Hotels Ltd., and the 400-room Jamaica Village Hotel. The latter is being built by Investment Properties International, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Geneva-based Investors Overseas Service, the world's largest financial planning organization.

In addition, some 2,000 villas, bungalows and condominium apartments will be constructed at New Falmouth.

A full complement of sports facilities is also planned, including two international golf courses, a yacht club and marina, beach clubs and lawn tennis courts.

Oyster Bay, shimmering phosphorescent lagoon, will be enhanced by a giant fountain spouting silvery water some 200 feet into the air.

The complex draws its name from the historic old village of Falmouth, which lies some two miles west of its glamorous namesake.

DISTINGUISHED PUBLIC SERVANT — Attorney Robert S. Fuchs of Waban (left) receives the annual Public Services Award by the Citizens for the Advancement of the Public Service at ceremonies following the Award Banquet held last Thursday at the Museum of Science in Boston. President Frederick C. Conley made the presentation.

Robert S. Fuchs Is Honored By CAPS

Attorney Robert S. Fuchs of 140 Oliver St., Waban, was presented the annual C.A.P.S. Public Services Award by the Citizens for the Advancement of the Public Service at an award banquet held last Thursday evening at the Museum of Science.

Nominated by Attorney James Grady as "uniquely qualified" for this honor, Fuchs is a career employee of the Federal Government now serving as the Assistant Regional Attorney of Region I of the National Labor Relations Board at the J. F. Ken-neddy Federal Building. His success and record of accomplishment as settlement officer is well known to the members of the labor bar and generally in labor management circles as well.

He also serves as an advisor to new attorneys in the Regional Office learning the skills of trial practice and under the auspices of A.B.C.D. initiated and carried out a lecture series in Roxbury to acquaint participants with their rights under various federal labor laws, particularly Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act.

Attorney Fuchs is a graduate of Rollins College ('34) and of Boston College Law School ('38). He served on the staff of the Mass. Attorney General prosecuting loan sharks prior to enlisting in the U.S. Army as a private in 1941. He served his country for five years rising to the rank of Lt. Colonel and was officer in charge of India for the criminal investigation of black market operations in that country.

Since 1957, Fuchs has taught a labor law seminar on Saturday mornings at Boston College Law School and an evening course at Suffolk Law School since 1967. He is author of several articles in various law review journals and is serving as Faculty Advisor to the student editors of the B.C. Annual Survey of labor relations.

The son of the late Judge Emil E. Fuchs, he and his wife, Helen, are the parents to two girls, Janis, 21, a senior at American International College, and Carolyn, 18, a freshman at Fairleigh Dickinson College.

In 1967 he was honored by his election to the Presidency of Temple Ohabei Shalom and presently serves as a Trustee of the Temple.

CAPS is a non-profit, partisan, tax-exempt organization affiliated with the National Civil Service League. Among its goals is the public recognition of excellence of performance of federal, state and local civil employees to which this annual Awards Banquet is dedicated.

Jackson Home Friends Meet November 24th

The Directors of the Friends of the Jackson Homestead will hold their fall meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 24, at the Homestead on 527 Washington street. Mrs. Charles S. Butler, President of the group announced today.

Following the business agenda, the Directors will hear a talk by Cyrus Forbes, Curator of Forbes House, Milton, on "Robert Forbes and the China Trade."

Return From Jobs in Guinea For Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Jeanlos of Newton, both working in the Republic of Guinea, will be returning home for a month's vacation on Dec. 17.

Mr. Jeanlos is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Roger W. Jeanlos of 42 Ruthven road, Newton, and is serving as a Peace Corps volunteer in Guinea. He works directly with the Minister of Transport in the construction of various buildings for airport and urban transport use.

Mrs. Jeanlos, the former Miss Donna H. Nordbeck of Waban, works as the bilingual secretary to the World Bank's representative administering the loan for the development of the Boké bauxite deposits in Northern Guinea.

They were married in Guinea last year and plan to return to their posts following their month's vacation in Newton.

Kutin said. "The most important thing is that the child is thinking 'this woman is taking care of me as a real mother would.'"

The children come from all parts of South Vietnam and most of them have brothers and sisters in the village.

Although the SOS village homes are prefabricated, every attempt is made to create a Vietnamese home atmosphere in them.

The Saigon village costs 500,000 piasters (nearly $1900 at the new exchange rate) to run each month. All funds come from donations and subscriptions in other countries. The mothers are paid 5,000 piasters a month (now nearly $20) in addition to their room and board.

Because the Saigon settlement is far from a public school, six of the houses were converted into two school buildings so the children could study in the village.

Orphans Get Feeling Of Home and Family

By BARBARA COOK

185 of them in primary school and 20 in secondary school.

A young Vietnamese woman carrying a chubby baby cad in brown shorts with a matching cap shading his sad eyes entered the director's office and offered to give up her child as an orphan.

The director's Vietnamese assistants listened to the woman's story, took her name, then referred her to other agencies in Saigon which offer help to needy children.

"We get a lot of women who come in off the street with children, saying they have found them and can't take care of them," said Helmut Kutin, director of the SOS Kinderdorf International children's village here. "They don't say the child is theirs, but it usually is."

Kutin's village is a unique concept in raising orphans and he carefully screens the children to ensure they are truly without a family.

"We want them to stay permanently in the village and not have relatives claiming them in a few years before their education is finished," Kutin said.

The SOS (Save Our Souls) Children's villages, now numbering 55 in 36 countries, bring together orphaned and abandoned children to give them a lasting home with the upbringing as close as possible to that of a normal family.

The village idea was born after World War II in Austria. Hermann Gmeiner, the founder, saw a lot of suffering among children in the aftermath of the war and decided to seek support for an orphanage at Imst, Tyrol, Austria.

Gmeiner devised four principles to create a homelike atmosphere. First the children must be given a mother. "Children don't need someone from the hours of 8 to 12 and 3 to 5," Kutin said. But rather someone who will live with them and take care of all of their needs."

Brothers and sisters must be kept together as much as possible, Gmeiner decided. And each little "family of 9 or 10 children should have a house of its own. Finally, 15 to 20 of these houses would constitute a village which would be integrated with the city near it. "The children should go out to school and to church, not study among themselves in the village," Kutin said. "Integration is the most important thing for our village."

Gmeiner came to Vietnam at Christmas, 1966, an decide that a village was needed here. The Vietnamese ministry of health gave him a plot of ground at he outed edge of Saigon. After returning to Europe, he began a fund-raising campaign to give the new village a start.

Natural choice Kutin, 30, and a product of the original SOS village in Tyrol, was the natural choice for director.

In September, 1968, the first families moved in and in November all 41 buildings were completed. The Saigon village now has 251 children, equally divided between boys and girls, with

Schiff Enters Campaign For Alderman-At-Large

Charles M. Schiff of 1550 Centre street, Newton Highlands is actively seeking the post of alderman-at-large in the special city wide election December 8th.

Schiff is a long time resident of Newton and has served on many fund raising drives and on civic and industry boards and committees, including the United Fund, Mass. Mental Health, CJP, Samuel Francis Smith Homestead, and the National Volume Footwear Association.

He has been endorsed by Wendell R. Buckman, the president of the board of aldermen, and several other leading citizens of Newton, including Hirsch Sharf, William P. Ripley, Prof. Ernest Siciliano, Mrs. Worthington L. West and Alexander S. Beal.

Mr. Schiff is married to the former June Pinanski and they have two children attending the Newton School, Jon, 14, and Peter, 9. They have been active in PTA and Cub Scouts and Mrs. Schiff has taught in the Newton schools.

Mr. Schiff has expressed the feeling that he moved to Newton because of its outstanding national reputation for good schools and good government. Now he feels that he is in a position to contribute his

Coalition Holds Meeting: Points To '70 Successes

On Monday evening, November 16, Newton Coalition for New Politics, an independent organization, not part of any political party, reaffirmed its belief in citizen participation and reform liberal politics. Steering Committee Members of Newton Coalition for New Politics state that NCNP is an issue oriented group whose efforts are directed toward legislative, electoral and educational activities.

Organization members are dedicated to the fullest participation of interested citizens in all the operations of politics and government, it was pointed out. This organization has been an active and effective political force in Newton for over two years. Its members consist primarily of business and professional men and women who have been active in civic and community affairs for many years and who are dedicated to good government on the local, state and national levels.

Coalition Members are pleased to note that Newton Coalition for New Politics has been very effective in getting its candidates elected. In the 1970 primary, four of the five candidates endorsed were victorious; of the seven candidates endorsed in the election, six carried Newton. These lists included both Republicans and Democrats.

Newton Coalition for New Politics foresees no limitation of its activities or concerns to a mere list of issues applicable to one year or one administration. According to its by-laws, membership in this non-partisan political organization is open to all Newton residents 18 years of age or above.

Drugs Theme Of Meeting At Ward School Nov. 23

The Drug Experience: Data for Decision-making will be the subject of the Fall meeting of the John Ward School PTA to be held at the school on Monday, November 23rd at 7:45 p.m.

A model discussion and demonstration of materials which will be used in the school during this year to instruct the pupils about drugs will be led by Mrs. Elizabeth Gude, of CSCS Inc., Educational Publishers.

Serving as consultants will be Mr. Irwin Hoogheem of the Pupil Services Department of the Newton Schools and Dr. Harold Beatty, Coordinator of Schools for the north side of the city. Mr. and Mrs. S. Wendell Kravitz are Presidents of the PTA; Mrs. Leon M. Shulman and Mrs. Lester Mendelsohn are Program Chairmen; and Mrs. Ronald Silberstein is Chairman of Hospitality.

Arnold Green Shows Israelis Testing Plant

Three Israeli visitors were shown industrial testing, American style, recently when the Arnold Green Testing Laboratories Inc., of Natick, served as hosts during a tour of its main plant.

Plant president Arnold Green, a resident of Newton, directed the demonstrated use of industrial testing equipment in various technical fields.

Israelis I. Atzmon and A. Blas, metallurgists, and J. Zeldenz, a chief inspector for Israeli Aircraft Industries, are currently in the U.S. to gather technical information for the manufacture of aircraft forgings in their own country, as well as to have some forgings made here.

The visitors expressed their favorable reaction to "the sophistication of industrial techniques" in this country, as well as a desire to duplicate the American methodology in Israel. The tour of the Green plant in Natick was concluded with a photographic display of five other green laboratories in Springfield, Everett and Auburn, West Warwick, R.I., and Puerto Rico.

Olympic progress

The principal construction work for the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich, Germany, has been completed, says the German National Tourist Office. This includes the Olympic Stadium, with 47,000 seats and standing room for 33,000, the Sports Hall, with capacity of 11,000, and the 9,000-seat Swimming Hall.

PROJECT HEADSTART — Mrs. Kenneth Norton and Mrs. Sherman Lampert, of Newton, examine hand-made article for sale at fair to be held November 21st at the Municipal Building, Brighton Center. Fair is being held to raise money for Project Headstart, a drug rehabilitation center in Brookline. Included among items to be offered at the fair are hand-carved wood-work made and donated by students of Newton Technical High School carpentry shop.

Free Diabetes Tests This Week At All Drug Stores

Free tests are available this week at all Newton pharmacies as part of National Diabetes Detection Week (Nov. 15-21) according to Samuel Shriberg, of Newton, Massachusetts Pharmacy Chairman in Diabetes.

The Newton local chairman is Wolfe W. Stockman. Information may be obtained by calling 894-0034 or by visiting any pharmacy and requesting an envelope for the free test.

Any and all results are confidential, and no records are being kept by the pharmacies, Shriberg said. In each instance the results of an individual test are mailed back to the person who submitted the material for the test.

Diabetes is called the "hidden" disease, because an estimated 45,000 persons in Massachusetts have the chronic disorder but do not know about it, probably because recognizable symptoms are not yet present.

Diabetes is ranked as the fifth leading cause of death by disease, and the second leading cause of blindness. Heart attacks are two and a half times more frequent in diabetics than in nondiabetics of the same age.

The U.S. Public Health Service says the general public is not informed or fails to understand the seriousness of the disease, since many diabetics under proper control lead active lives and are gainfully employed; but while complications of the disease are slow and subtle, they ultimately affect most individuals with this disorder.

Striking evidence of the growing incidence of known diabetics was apparent in the years between 1950 and 1965.

Firefighter Is Built-in

The American Security Insurance Co. building here, scheduled for occupancy in December, is the first in this country to embody an old concept: fill the columns with water as a means of saving the frame during a fire.

The $2 million, five-story building, instead of having its steel columns and girders encased in concrete, has them filled with liquid. Should the contents of the building catch fire and expose the frame to fire, heat is conducted from the frame to the water without deforming the metal, according to its designers, Taylor and Collum of Atlanta. The water is heated and rises by convection in the columns, causing the water to circulate, bringing in cooler water from columns outside the fire area.

Though the Atlanta building will be the first, three other similar buildings are under construction; the new 64-story headquarters of the United States Steel Corp. in Pittsburgh; the Michelson Building in Newport Beach, Calif., and the American Reserve Life Insurance Co. building in Boise, Idaho.

The concept of the water-filled column as a means of fire protection was first patented in the United States in 1884, but went unused until now.

in that period, the number of known diabetics approximately doubled.

Health officials state that the number and proportion of known diabetics will continue to rise for these reasons: people are living longer, and older people are particularly prone to diabetes; and modern screening techniques, together with better methods of detection and diagnosis, are adding to the number of early cases detected each year.

Complications occur frequently despite present-day treatment with diet and insulin or oral drugs. Impairment of vision is a frequent complication. The most common complication is hardening of the arteries with subsequent heart attack, stroke of gangrene.

Analysis of the census survey by the National Center for Health Statistics indicated that diabetes "runs in families" but that it may skip a generation or more.

In only one per cent of the diabetic population had diabetes occurred in three successive generations. One out of six had diabetic mothers and one out of twelve had diabetic fathers. One out of four of those with brothers or sisters knew of at least one brother or sister who also had diabetes.

Diabetes is slightly more prevalent in the Northeastern States and slightly less in the West, but average in the North Central and South. It appears that geography has little effect on the prevalence of this disease.

Though it is most common in middle age, diabetes can develop at any time in life. Cases have been known in a nine-day old boy and in a 99-year-old woman. Those who are most likely to have diabetes are relatives of diabetics and people who are overweight or are over 45 years of age.

For these reasons, all are urged to support Diabetes Week and take advantage of the free tests being sponsored by the Mass. Pharmaceutical Association. Check your nearest drug store.

To Post With Central Conn. State College

Lowell D. Lukas, husband of the former Emily Newton of Waban, has been named associate director of athletics in the Division of Physical Education and Athletics at Central Connecticut State College in New Britain.

Central is Connecticut's oldest public institution of higher education with a full-time enrollment of 6,800 students and a night school enrollment of 5,600.

In the new post, Mr. Lukas will report directly to Dr. William Moore, director of the physical education division, and holds responsibility in such areas as the formation of the athletics program, budget and curriculum preparation, maintenance of grounds and equipment, overall planning for athletic contests, personnel and liaison with other offices of the college.

Mr. Lukas began his career at Central in 1965 as athletic trainer, becoming director of intramurals a year later and coordinator in 1968. He also served as golf coach for the past three years.

He holds both a B.S. degree and the master's in education from the University of Missouri. He is a 1956 graduate of Crystal City High School, Crystal City, Mo., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lukas, make their home in Fenton, Mo.

He is a member of the American Assn. of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the National Assn. of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Gold Coaches Assn. of America.

He and his wife, and their two sons reside at 83 Lantern Hill, Newton, Conn.

Spur Red Cross Coordination Of All Activities

Mrs. Albert R. Beisel, vice-chairman of the Office of Volunteers for the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross, recently attended a two-day Red Cross seminar held in Lexington.

As a result, plans are underway to extend Red Cross activity in Newton, so that there will be a total involvement of Red Cross volunteers within the city.

Mrs. Kenneth Rogers, chairman of this service, reported that five new volunteers have completed the Blood Program Aid Course. They are Mrs. Albert R. Beisel, Mrs. Charles Wolpert, Mrs. Elena Vitug, Mrs. Franklin Fluschnner and Mrs. Christine Drumm.

Also announced was that Mrs. Jackie Ford has taken on the chairmanship of Motor Service.

With the plans for increased community involvement, there is and will continue to be a greater need for volunteers at Newton Red Cross.

Mrs. Rogers or Mrs. Beisel will be glad to talk to anyone interested in serving. Call them for an appointment at 527-6000.

Fall Convocation

Mrs. Deborah (Jones) Megrian of Newton, a junior at Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kansas, recently received recognition at the Fall Honors Convocation by attaining the Dean's List for the Spring semester, 1970.

Small Fry Romp In Own Hotel

By ERIK VAN EES

A guest at a Johannesburg hotel threw a tree at another guest who retaliated by hurling a duck at his antagonist.

The exchange was at, of all places, a hotel for children. The Kienderhotel is the first such in South Africa, perhaps the only in the world for the very small fry.

The tree and the duck were educational toy cutouts and the toddlers were firm friends immediately afterward.

A hotel for children was the idea of Dr. and Mrs. Derick Geyer. It is a totally private operation, without government subsidy, and caters to paying guests much the same way any hotel for adults does, on a daily basis or as long as the parents want the children to stay.

Registered with the South African Hotel Board, the Kienderhotel, according to its brochure "has been established to assist parents in case of an emergency, as well as those who plan a holiday or overseas trip."

Catering for guests — whites only — ranging from infants to two and three-year olds, the hotel becomes a creche during the day.

Apart from a single pamphlet, the hotel does not advertise. "We don't cater for lazy mothers" said Mrs. Geyer, the manager. "We don't want people to leave their children simply because they can't be bothered to look after them."

Divided between English, Afrikaans and immigrant guests, she said, "We speak to the children in their own home language."

Everything provided For Seven Rand (approximately $9.73) per day, the guests are provided with everything. "Parents could bring their children in nothing more than the clothes they wear. We supply nappies (diapers), feeding bottles, clothes, towels, everything." Even special formulas and diets are provided.

The diets are based on those prepared by the Department of Health, which

Bank Receives Portrait Of Late Charles Dockser

The Garden City Trust Company has received a portrait in memory of its first president and chairman of the board Charles E. Dockser.

The portrait in oils, commissioned from Edith Laurie Loftus by Mrs. Charles E. Dockser, was presented to Allyn Levy, president, Garden City Trust Co., and John J. Nyhan, chairman of the board, North Atlantic Bancorp. It will hang in the main office of the of the 12-year old Garden City Trust Company, Mr. Dockser was an attorney and a member of the corporation of Northeastern University.

His many civic contributions during his lifetime included serving as Director of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, Director of the 100 Club of Massachusetts, Chairman of Special Gifts to Northeastern University School of Law, and Member of the Planning Board of the City of Newton.

Belgium Has Openings For Robust Spies

If a Belgian has a good stomach and can speak Russian, the state security agency may have a job for him — as a spy.

Those were two of a long and demanding list of conditions published in the official government newspaper, the "Moniteur," in a classified advertisement for foreign agents for the national "Surete" security service.

The advertisement listed 19 openings for "inspectors of the exterior service." The agency avoids the word "spy" but the advertisement indicated pretty clearly that was what the government was looking for.

Among other requirements for candidates, the ad called for men with hearing good enough to pick up conversations at a distance of five meters, 17 feet; They should have unremarkable facial characteristics — for instance not a long nose or big ears; Applicants also should be of a robust build, with good digestion and with the strength to "carry out heavy and sometimes violent tasks running and fighting at irregular times and in all kinds of weather."

Further, interested persons should be men with quick physical reactions, and of a makeup that would keep them calm under all circumstances.

"CELEBRITIES NIGHT" PLANS UNDERWAY — Discussing plans for the big 21st annual Celebrities Night Show in the Music Hall on Sunday, Dec. 13, for benefit of Jewish Memorial Hospital's research and medical care program are, left to right, Murray Fertel, Brookline, hospital's executive director; Mrs. Charles Rubinstein, Randolph, executive secretary to hospital's auxiliaries; George Roberts, Newton, general chairman; Miss Mollye Shuster, Newton; and James Krigman, Chestnut Hill, program book coordinator. The show is sponsored annually by the auxiliaries of the hospital.

Coal Black Lungs Plague To Miners

The lungs of coal miners take a terrible beating.

"Black lung" — a crippling, sometimes fatal respiratory disease caused by inhaling coal dust — is common among coal miners. And last summer the federal government's Environmental Health Service began giving chest X-rays to 90,000 underground coal miners. The program will last a full year.

"The primary purpose of this program will be to warn miners who show X-ray evidence of significant pneumoconiosis (black lung)," says Charles G. Johnson, administrator of the Program. "In such cases, the law provides that affected miners can be transferred from underground work to a less dusty environment to prevent the disease from becoming worse."

A recent study of autopsies of coal miners found a very high incidence of emphysema, another crippling lung disease. The tiny air sacs in the lungs of a person with emphysema lose their elasticity and rupture, and used air cannot be breathed out. This destructive process, the study found, can develop with less than 20 years of underground exposure. The prevalence of both chronic bronchitis and emphysema increases with age in coal miners.

The kind of air we breathe affects our lungs, as the study of coal miners shows so graphically. Most of us breathe polluted air, and smokers pollute their own atmosphere.

Find out more about air pollution and the facts about bronchitis and emphysema. Contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. They know it's a matter of life and breath.

BULLETIN From The Castle Keep Restaurant

Located in the Waltham Motor Inn Winter St. at Rte. 128 899-8700
Dateline Waltham: A recent nationwide survey has shown that a child is born every twenty seconds, a car is stolen every ten seconds, an old lady is mugged in the library every chance she gets, and reservations for the huge Thanksgiving Buffet at The Castle Keep Restaurant, are pouring in at the rate of ten an hour, and that ain't no pinfeathers. The way things are shaping up, we may have to ask the turkeys to cross their legs to get them in the place. Why the terrific response? I feel it's several reasons. One, after checking the local food prices, doing it yourself is for the birds, and I don't mean turkeys. Two, Mom gets a break for a change also, and can be thankful for that. Three, I think by giving you a buffet, creates more of a home-like atmosphere, possibly with even a little more variety. You can have all you want, of exactly what you want. Set your own pace, stay as long as you like, every dining room in the place will be open. The menu... Brother... I get tired just thinking about it, never mind repeating it, but here goes anyway: apple cider by the barrel, soup, salads, relishes, roast tom turkeys with three different stuffings, baked sugar cured natural hams, seafood newburgh creamy and sherried with rice pilaf, candied yams, creamed onions, turnips, squash, whipped potatoes, vegetables, gravies, sauces, pumpkin pies, mince pies, apple pies, mints, and believe me even more... and believe me when I say, the battle I put up to keep the prices down to $4.95 for adults, $2.95 for children under ten, and toddlers free, makes the Battle of Bull Run or Harvard Square look like a tea party. So-o, keep the calls a-comeing will you??? Remember our regular week-end buffets are still humming. Friday night there's the seafood thing from 6 to 11. Saturday is beef eater buffet night, and Sunday we get to feed all the little monsters with our family buffet starting at noon. Hope to see you & the whole gang soon now. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Tushin on a beautiful 25th anniversary. I hope you enjoyed your buffet, and we all wish you the very best. Till then I remain: With Love & Bent Spatula; Chef & Pot Washer Fran Raimier X X X X

Newton Takes Steps to Stop Pollution of Charles River

The approval of the Board of Aldermen and Mayor Monte G. Basbas will be required before the city can install any anti-pollution devices to its storm drainage system.

Aldermen Pater F. Harrington of Ward 2 and Filed a resolution calling for such installation, and pointed out that such pollution is part of the reason why the Charles River today "now contains suckers and sludge."

Both expressed the hope that other municipalities along the Charles would take similar action.

The two Aldermen felt that the installation of an "intercept sediment collection system" was the best to use. Carmen said this "provides for a device to be attached to a storm drain and uses the sedimentation method of pollution filtration."

Wife Takes Her Husband's Post As B.C. Dean

Dr. Mary Griffin will assume duties as Associate Dean of the School of Education at Boston College on December 1, succeeding her husband, Dr. John Schmitt.

The family affair at Boston College will continue as Dr. Schmitt will devote his time to teaching and research duties.

Both educators are widely known for their joint research in educational areas including better enrollment predictions in the nation's schools which have a substantial effect on the future direction and quality of education programs.

Dr. Griffin is the director of the School's division of administration and supervision and a strong advocate of programs for preparing teachers for assignments in ghetto schools.

She has supervised a Boston College program combining graduate work, special courses, internship, and practical experience to prepare teachers for inner-city teaching. For the past few years her efforts have been centered on preparing future school administrators.

A native of Chicago, her bachelor's degree is from Mundelein College and her master's and doctorate are from the University of Chicago. She has been a member of the Boston College faculty since 1965.

Dr. John Schmitt has been associate dean for the past two years. He came to Boston College in 1965 as Director of the Office of Testing Services. His educational research has been in the area of achievement tests, design and execution of curriculum research, evaluation of team teaching in high school science.

He is a graduate of Villanova University and has his doctorate from Cornell University. He taught at the University of Rochester before coming to Boston College.

They reside at 28 Louise Rd., Chestnut Hill.

Fiedler To Conduct Newton Symphony On December 13

Arthur Fiedler, world famous conductor of the Boston Pops Symphony since 1950, is coming to Newton to conduct the Newton Symphony Orchestra in a Benefit Pops Concert on December 13. The concert, which will be held at Boston College, will be the first benefit concert by the orchestra.

Michel Sasson, violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1960, continues his active career as founder and conductor of the Newton Symphony Orchestra, which is beginning its fifth season.

In addition, Mr. Sasson is conductor of the Brockton Symphony Orchestra and the Boston Civic Orchestra. He has received wide acclaim from Boston music critics for his orchestras' performances during last season.

This year, in addition to the regular subscription series of the Newton Symphony, there will also be this benefit Pops Concert. Mr. Sasson is hopeful that the Benefit Concert will aid the Student Scholarship Fund, Youth Symphony con-

Sioux Indian To Be Library Guest Nov. 25

Newton boys and girls will have an opportunity to meet and talk with a real Sioux Indian from South Dakota on Wednesday afternoon, November 25, at 3:30 p.m. at Newton Centre branch of the Newton Free Library when Martin Brokenleg, a student at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, comes to Newton.

Mr. Brokenleg, a full-blooded Sioux Indian from Rosebud Reservation in Mission, South Dakota, the second largest Sioux reservation in the United States, will show slides about reservation life at the special library program for Newton young people.

A graduate of the State University in South Dakota, Mr. Brokenleg will earn his degree in theology in May, when he will return to his reservation to work with his people.

Martin Brokenleg will bring with him moccasins, typical bead work and other examples of handcrafted materials made by the Sioux of the Rosebud Reservation.

Cosponsors of the program here are the Newton Rotary Club and the Newton Health Department. The next phase of the program in Newton will be the testing of pre-school children.

New Courses In Decorating Due At Sidney Hill

For the first time in this area, a concise course in Interior Decorating is being offered, designed to help you to "Be your own Decorator."

Halcyon Interiors, whose principles are Helen Levenson, A.I.D., and Leni Joyce, N.S.I.D., has prepared a lecture-workshop program, taking you through all phases of Interior Design, with your own room problems given individual attention.

This very complete course is enhanced by many exciting visual aids, including color slides, magnetic floor board to show room planning, hundreds of decorator rug and fabric samples to work with in planning color scheme, large scale drawing of furniture and drapery styles.

When you complete the course your portfolio will be filled with many pages of decorating information.

Classes to be given at Sidney Hill Country Club Tuesday morning, 9:30 to 11:30, January 12, 19, 26, and February 2nd, and Tuesday evenings same dates, 9 to 10 p.m.

Chamber's New Council To Apply Personnel Assistance

Victor A. Nicolazzo, President of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce has announced the formation of a new Personnel Council of the Chamber to serve member firms with respect to personnel matters.

Officers for 1970-71 are Weston E. Draper, Norton Company Vacuum Equipment and Metals Div., and Richard F. Kaerwer, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., co-chairmen. Mrs. Barbara MacKinnon, Sherman Div., St. Regis Paper Co., secretary, and Lewis B. Songer, Chamber Executive Vice President, treasurer.

The stated purpose of the Council is to: "create opportunity to exchange ideas on current problems facing personnel executives; to encourage participation in group discussion leading to better personnel methods and improved personnel leadership; to improve industrial relations and encourage the personal development of the executive himself."

Plan Further Study Of Widow Pension Proposal

The Newton Aldermanic Finance Committee plans to confer with Alderman William Carmen of Ward 7 on his proposed pension plan for widows of city employees who retired under the non-contributory plan, because of new complications which came to light.

Carmen's proposal called for city acceptance of a state law which would allow payments up to $2,000 annually for these widows. He estimated the cost to be 30 cents on the tax rate for the next eight years and 10 cents for an additional nine years, or slightly more than $1,000,000.

All city employees who have come to work since 1928 are required to participate in the contributory pension system. Affected by Alderman Carmen's proposal would be widows whose husbands came to work prior to July 1, 1928.

City Comptroller Arthur A. Marr Jr., told the Aldermanic Finance Committee that Alderman Carmen's estimate did not take into consideration widows of employees who died before being pensioned or retired, and he called this figure "impossible to determine."

A study of the proposal was made for the Finance Committee by Alderman Louis J. Egelson of Ward 4. He pointed out that Carmen used figures from the Retirement Board, and that those who died before being pensioned might still have widows who would be eligible.

Egelson reminded the Committee that similar petitions had been made in 1965 and 1967. "These were turned down he said, because it was thought the proposal would be unfair to those employees who joined the contributory pension plan, and because of the difficulty of ascertaining the number of eligible people.

"We might find ourselves giving more money to the non-contributory widows than the contributory widows," Egelson said.

Alderman Egelson told the Committee that city employees now have an option of whether or not to provide for their widows in their pension, or take all the money coming to them when they retire. He said the adoption of Alderman Carmen's proposal would destroy this option.

He expressed the opinion that no employee would elect to provide for his widow, if he knew the city was going to provide a pension.

Egelson said this would cost the city an incalculable, but probably vast amount of money.

Newtonite Is Concert Master At Dec. 9 Event
Virgil Fox, world-renowned organist, will give his second concert on the new Reuter antiphonal organs at the Old South Church in Boston, Copley Square, Wednesday, December 9, at 8 p.m.

Fox will play on both the gallery and chancel consoles of the 5,500-pipe instruments. Alfred Nash Patterson of Newton Centre, organist and director of music at Old South Church, is concert chairman.

A varied program will include Fanfares from the Good Friday Music from Wagner's "Parsifal," two works by Bach; Prelude, Cantata and Scherzando by Piere; Reubke's Sonata in C minor on the 94th Psalm; Ives' Variations on "America;" Libera Me from the "Requiem;" by Faure; and Dieu Parmi Nous from Messiaen's "La Mativite du Seigneur."

Fox was organist of New York City's Riverside Church for 19 years before devoting all of his time to concert work.

Donations for an unreserved seat, or for the reserved section may be sent with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Old South Church, 645 Boylston Street, Boston 02116, before December 1.

Dr. Charles Bonner Is Honored By Federation of Nursing Homes

The coveted Better Life Award of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes will be presented to Dr. Charles D. Bonner, a resident of Newton Centre, director of the Cardinal Cushing Rehabilitation Center and medical director of the Holy Ghost Hospital in Cambridge.

The presentation will be made by Morris Sibulkin Jr., president of the Federation at the 22nd annual luncheon on Tuesday, Dec. 8 at the Sheraton Motor Inn in Lexington. The Federation represents a majority of the 670 nursing homes and extended care facilities in the state, comprising more than 32,000 beds.

The annual award is given in recognition of "outstanding service through unselfish and effective efforts that have resulted in lasting contributions to the improved institutional health care of the aged in the community and the nation."

Dr. Bonner became Director of the Cardinal Cushing

Rehabilitation Center at the Hospital in 1958, and was appointed Medical Director in 1968.

He is a former president of the New England Society of Physical Medicine, former chairman of the Section of Physical Medicine, Massachusetts Medical Society, and former Vice-President of the Staff of the Holy Ghost Hospital.

Widely known in the field of geriatrics, cancer research and rehabilitation services for the aged and chronically ill, Dr. Bonner has presented scientific papers at medical conventions, and on television programs, in all parts of the country, and Puerto Rico.

He is a clinical professor and lecturer at Tufts University Medical School and Boston University School of Medicine. He is also associated with the Cambridge City Hospital, Boston City Hospital, Carney Hospital, Faulkner Hospital, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and the Northampton Veterans Administration Hospital.

Dr. Bonner currently serves in official capacities in many organizations. Among these posts are membership in the Advisory Board of the Massachusetts Council for the Aging; Chairman, Subcommittee, Massachusetts Council for the Aging; Editor, Boston University Medical School Alumni News Letter; Consultant to Legislative Commission on Nursing Homes; and Massachusetts Delegate to the White House Conference on the Aging.

Dr. Bonner received his A.B. from Lincoln University, Pennsylvania; his M.D. from Boston University School of Medicine; and an honorary degree from Lincoln University. He did graduate training at Boston City Hospital, and was a Damon Runyon Fellow at Tufts, in cancer research.

He served with the Army as a battalion surgeon, 1954-46; a battalion surgeon, 1945-4; and the regimental surgeon, Engineers, Korea, 1946-47.

Basbas Flays Newton Jump In MBTA Costs

Mayor Monte G. Basbas was exasperated last week when the MBTA announced that Newton's share of the projected deficit would jump from $517,804 last year to $894,652 for 1971. The transit system's directors have announced an anticipated deficit of $57 million.

Mayor Basbas called Newton's assessment "asinine and ridiculous."

"This will mean a more than $1 increase in the tax rate for no increase in service," the Mayor continued, "for a continuation of the miserable service on the Riverside line."

"I resent being told to pay more for deteriorating service on an obsolete line."

Mayor Basbas said he was in favor of a proposal to eliminate the MBTA directors and replace them with an integrated transportation Department at state level, including a manager for the MBTA.

8 In Contest For Alderman Seat In City

Eight candidates are engaged in a lively contest for election as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5 to fill the vacancy created when former Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner was appointed judge of the Newton district court.

The contenders are: Michael J. Antonellis of 49 Lawmarissa road, Charles M. Schiff, of 1550 Centre street, Richard J. Butler of 95 Longfellow road, Harold M. Band of 167 Woodward road, Robert L. Sandman of 72 Fairlee road, Burton M. Pike of 78 Winslow road, Jerome A. Packer of 31 Puritan road, Michael A. Malec of 53 Margaret road.

All are residents of the Ward 5 section of Newton. The city-wide election will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 8, with the polls open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mental Health Association To Meet Tonight

The annual meeting of the Newton Mental Health Association will be held this evening (Thursday, Nov. 19) at 8 o'clock at 398 Walnut street, Newtonville. The meeting is open to the public.

In addition to the election of officers and directors of the Association, Rev. John W. Corcoran, president, will report on activities of the Association; and Dr. William E. Stone, medical director, will report on the growth and expansion of services and facilities of the Newton Mental Health Center.

David Sullivan, president of the Area Board, will explain how Newton fits into the total mental health picture under the State Comprehensive Mental Health Program.

Of added interest to the meeting will be a description and explanation of a special summer day camp for handicapped and normal children, to be given by Ellen Wilson, Ph.D., psychologist, and Mrs. Virginia Odell and Mrs. Jeanne Williams, both teachers at the school.

Jack Cassidy has been added to the cast of "Bunny and Billy" starring Betty Davis and Ernest Borgnine

Community Council Will Meet At Church Nov. 24

The Newton Community Council's Fall Delegate Meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 24, 7:45 p.m., Second Church, West Newton.

Mr. Robert P. Freeto, President, reports that the Council has called together many community leaders for a discussion of the drug problem in Newton, under the general topic: "Pills and Potions - Problems in Newton."

Mr. Freeto states, "this forum is the Council's way of providing a mechanism for people in the Newton community to discuss this common problem." If you do not know how your city is dealing with drugs and the conditions causing their use, you are urged to attend this open meeting and participate in this group seminar approach.

Directing the Council's planning for this meeting is the Reverend David Parachini, assistant rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Newton. Other participants include: Thad Rosenblum, student; Bruce Sharf, Chairman, Community Relations Commission; Dr. William E. Waterman, Director, Newton-Wellesley Hospital Psychiatric Clinic; coordinator for the Newton, William T. Wright, Director of Wellesley, Weston State area mental health district.

The Reverend David Parachini will act as moderator for the discussion with the following leaders: Aaron Fink, Superintendent, Newton Public Schools; Dr. William E. Stone, Director, Newton Mental Health Center; William T. Wright, Director of Beginnings, William Carmen, Chairman of Aldermanic Drug Committee, Lt. Thomas M. Dargan, Newton Police Department, and Kathy Monahan, student.

Community Council Governing Board members will participate in planned seminar sessions, as well as Carol Carter, student; Daniel Cohen, student; Father Charles G. Coyle, S.J., Guidance Counselor, Newton South High; Susan Feldman, student; William D. Geer, Jr., Principal, Newton South High; Robert Hill, Director, Family Counseling Service; Irwin L. Camp Fire Candy Sale Starts Here Tomorrow

Mrs. Gordon Vawter has accepted the chairmanship of the Annual Camp Fire Girls Candy Sale which begins tomorrow in Newton. She will direct the efforts of girls from 6 to 17 who will suddenly become super salesladies as they help to balance the budget of the Greater Boston Council in this all out, one-a-year drive.

This year every girl in the council will be eligible to win Campership tuition credits to be used so that she may attend a session at the Camp Fire Girls day or resident camp of her choice.

This will be a greatly sought after prize and each girl will do her best to cover her neighborhood with the same fine candies that she has sold in past years.

Attention is called to the your house.

fact that this year the Camp Fire Girls will bring you three varieties of candy — assorted chocolates, almond delights, and chocolate mint patties. Many families stockpile these handy boxes for gift giving and holiday treats. This solves many shopping problems while helping a worthwhile cause.

Camp Fire Girls provides some 10,000 girls throughout the Greater Boston Council with a program that combines fun and learning in an organization where neither race, creed, nor economic status stands in the way of an experience designed to promote individual talent as it teaches group cooperation.

Look for the girls in the red, white and blue service costume, and welcome the Camp Fire Girl when she calls at your house.

AMERICANS PUT FINISHING TOUCHES ON THANKSGIVING PLANS

AMERICANS spent Wednesday putting the finishing touches on Thanksgiving Day plans that in almost every case included some form of giving. President and Mrs. Nixon set the tone for this year's activities by sharing their Thanksgiving dinner with 100 servicemen and women from nearby military hospitals. Churches, synagogues, mosques and houses of prayer planned special services that included the distribution of food, money and clothing to the needy.

CONSUMER GROUPS SUE FOR ALLEGED UNSAFE ITEMS

AS THE CHRISTMAS buying spree picks up steam, the federal government and two private consumer groups took action Wednesday against alleged deceptive advertising and unsafe features in children's toys. In a proposed complaint against two of the nation's largest toy manufacturers, the Federal Trade Commission said television advertising for miniature racing cars is misleading and "unfairly exploits" children. In a separate move, Consumers Union and the Children's Foundation filed suit in U.S. District Court to force the government to enforce its Toy Safety against eight toys the group considers dangerous.

NIXON FIRES INTERIOR SECRETARY WALTER HICKEL

PRESIDENT NIXON fired Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel Wednesday night because of a lack of "mutual confidence" and announced he would nominate Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton as his successor. Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Hickel was summoned to the White House where Nixon "requested the resignation and accepted it" immediately during a 25-minute meeting. Ziegler gave no specific presidential complaints about Hickel, but the plain-spoken, self-made millionaire from Alaska has been in hot water with the White House since he sided publicly with protesting college students following the intervention in Cambodia last May. Hickel has said previously that the only way he would leave the cabinet would be for Nixon to fire him.

ROGERS DENIES RAID OR BOMBINGS DAMAGE PARIS TALKS

SECRETARY OF STATE William P. Rogers denied Wednesday that U.S. bombings or the prisoner rescue raid would damage prospects for success in the deadlocked Paris peace talks, no matter what the Communists say or do. "The other side will attempt to make it look that way, and will boycott the peace talks," Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee. "I don't believe that for a moment. The fact is, no progress has been made in Paris. It's as simple as that. If the other side is interested in a settlement, the prospects for progress are good. But I can't tell you what the other side has in mind." Rogers said progress was likely in Paris only when Hanoi decided that negotiated settlement was in its interests and any U.S. military successes would contribute to that decision. The important factor in negotiations is not "public relations" gestures but "where you stand in the war," he said. Rogers testified in behalf of an administration request for an additional $555 million in spending authority for Foreign Aid. He was followed by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, who gave essentially the same briefing he made Tuesday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Meanwhile, on the Senate floor, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., blocked action on a resolution introduced by Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., that would have commended the "extraordinary courage, dedication and selflessness" of the commando team which attempted to free American prisoners of war in North Vietnam. Fulbright said it might be interpreted as Senate endorsement of Nixon's war policies.

COMMUNIST TROOPS ROUT 2 CAMBODIAN BATTALIONS

COMMUNIST TROOPS routed two Cambodian battalions Tuesday and Wednesday at the Kirirom Dam 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. They also fought a five hour engagement with government spokesmen reported. The Communist advance at Kirirom brought to five the number of battalions known to have been overrun in the mountains between Phnom Penh and the seaport of Kampong Som since fighting broke out at Kirirom Pass last Saturday. Elsewhere in Indochina, the greatest sustained B-52 air assault of the war entered its 50th day over the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos. The planes have dropped more than 40,000 tons of bombs on the Communist supply trail—roughly equal to the combined power of the atom bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. In Saigon, the downtown area was rocked by a bomb detonated outside the railroad terminal adjacent to the central market. Three civilians were wounded and a U.S. military policeman was injured.

POTENTIAL SCANDAL IN MCCORMACK OFFICE UNDER PROBE

A POTENTIALLY SCANDALOUS situation in the Washington office of retiring 78-year-old House Speaker John W. McCormack will be investigated by a federal grand jury on the basis of information supplied by admitted influence peddler Nathan Voloshen, it was learned Wednesday. Witnesses and evidence are being gathered for the jury by Richard Ben-Veniste, an Assistant U.S. Attorney who was involved in the successful prosecution of Dr. Martin Schweig, Voloshen's co-defendant in a conspiracy trial and former chief administrative assistant to McCormack. D. Mass. Voloshen, 72, and ailing, was given a suspended sentence Tuesday on a guilty plea and was fined $10,000. Then, in a surprise move, his attorney read a statement to the court in which Voloshen challenged McCormack's denial at the Schweig trial that he knew Voloshen and Schweig used the prestige of his office for their own profit. Not only did McCormack know of Voloshen's dealings with a dozen government agencies on behalf of paying clients, the statement said, "there were other representatives or public relations men, who, with the apparent permission of Speaker McCormack and Dr. Schweig, met clients in the speaker's office and were permitted to receive telephone messages there and have messages taken for them by the office staff." Voloshen said that was eye-witness information. "Additionally, I believe the speaker recommended various clients to his nephew Edward McCormack's law practice," the statement said, referring to former Massachusetts Attorney Edward McCormack who ran for governor against John A. Volpe in 1966 and lost. U.S. Attorney Whitney North refused to comment on the grand jury investigation but informed sources said politicians, lobbyists, and corporation executives named by Voloshen will be called to testify.

Young Newton Star Among Champs

Miss Ellen Roy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Roy, 36 Fairmount Ave., Newton, will be featured at an "Evening of Champions" starring national and international figure skating luminaries, on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 4 and 5 at 8:00 p.m. at Harvard's Watson Rink, North Harvard St., Cambridge. Proceeds will go to the Jimmy Fund. Little Miss Roy is 11 years old and a sixth grade student at the Belmont School. She was featured in the Boston Skating Club's Annual Ice Chips of 1970.

Hearing Dec. 2 On Vote Systems Here

A public hearing will be held by the Newton Election Commission in the Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall next Wednesday night (Dec. 2) to gather "hard factual information" for the Board of Aldermen on what system of voting should be used in future elections in Newton.

Alan W. Licarie, executive secretary of the election department, will conduct the meeting which will start at 7:30 p.m.

Persons attending the session will be allowed to question Mr. Licarie and the four election commissioners who are Donald S. Bishop, chairman; Charles J. Doherty, Eugene M. Hirshberg and James P. D. Waters.

Three methods of voting have been used in Newton in recent years. They were on voting machines, paper ballots and the punchcard method of voting with electronic devices.

Lincoln-Eliot Parents Push School Demands

About 75 parents of pupils in the Lincoln-Eliot School at Newton Corner appeared at the meeting of the Newton School Committee on Monday night to restate their requests for improvements in the school building and to hear the School Committee's response.

Chief complaints of the parents, who wrote numerous letters to School Committee members and school officials during the past two weeks, are a need for more adequate classroom space, adequate toilet facilities for pupils and faculty, an enclosure for a courtyard through which pupils must travel during class changes, a health room and room for specialists such as those in music and art.

Committee members and school officials appeared in agreement with the nature of the problem, but the question of a solution brought forth a number of suggestions.

School Committee Chairman

Manuel Beckwith pointed out that the results of a study and accompanying recommendations from a special Buildings Commission are due by January. "The School Com-

8 Candidates For Alderman Answer Women Voters' Quiz

Eight contestants campaigning for election as Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5 are all expected to appear at a Candidates' Night to be held by the Newton chapter of the League of Women Voters at the Hyde School in Newton Highlands next Wednesday night (Dec. 2).

A special city-wide election to fill the vacancy on the Board of Aldermen created when former Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner was appointed judge of the Newton district court will be held a week from next Tuesday (Dec. 8).

The eight candidates, in alphabetical order, are Michael J. Antonellis, Harold M. Band, Richard J. Butler, Michael A. Malec, Jerome A. Packer, Burton M. Pike, Robert L. Sandman and Charles M. Schiff.

The League of Women Voters submitted three questions to each of the eight candidates. The questions were:

"A. What factors would you consider in making zoning decisions?"

"B. Do you believe there is a need for subsidized housing for low-moderate income families in Newton? If so, what measures would you support to achieve such housing?"

"C. What ways would you propose to provide financial relief for Newton?"

Following is a thumbnail sketch on each candidate and his answers to the three questions put to him:

Gov. Sargent Takes Risk in Backing Hatch for GOP Post

There will be only 62 Republicans in the 240-member Massachusetts House of Representatives which convenes on the first Wednesday in January.

And Governor Sargent is taking a chance on antagonizing some of them by mixing into the fight for the position as Republican leader of that body.

An unusual aspect to Mr. Sargent's action is that he is supporting the man who almost blocked his nomination for Lieutenant Governor in 1966.

Governor Sargent is asking the Republican House members to oust veteran Representative Sidney Q. Curtiss of Sheffield from his position as GOP leader and replace him with Representative Francis W. Hatch, Jr., of Beverly.

Housing, Taxes, Poor Get Priority at Local Meeting

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish social action chairmen, as well as other representatives from many Newton churches and temples met together recently at Sacred Heart Parish Center.

Hosting the meeting were the Christian Service Commission Chairmen, or their equivalents, from all eight Catholic Parishes within the City:

Thomas P. Fitzgibbon from Saint Philip Neri; Henry R. Beaudet from Saint Bernard's; Dr. Francis W. Drinan from Sacred Heart; Miss Katherine E. Murphy of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes; Alan McCormack of St. John the Evangelist; Dr. Stuart B. Martin of Our Lady Help of Christians; Mrs. Nora Howley of Corpus Christi; and Guerard H. Howkins of Saint Ignatius Parish.

In his welcoming address to the gathering, Msgr. William A. Granville, Pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, reiterated the need for what John Gardner has called "critical lovers": too many good programs of the past, asserted Msgr. Granville, have been defeated either by "lovers who were uninformed" or by "well informed critics who had no love in their hearts."

He related his remarks particularly to the NCDF proposal to provide homes in the Newtons for families with low and moderate incomes.

He wondered aloud about the select group to which he was speaking, which might well be described as a "meeting of critical lovers"; if it had

Zsigmondy Is Soloist With Newton Symphony

By Susan Cooper Markell

"To make music is not only a matter of technique but love of music." So spoke Denes Zsigmondy in praise of the members of the Newton Symphony and its talented conductor Michel Sasson. Mr. Zsigmondy, the renowned Hungarian violinist, was soloist November 15 with this group. He played two Beethoven Romances and the Ravel Tzigane.

"His performances of the Romances (in F and G) were most accomplished of course, although at times he seemed more involved with virtuosity than with expression of the composer's intent."

"Largely, however, Beethoven and Sasson carried Zsigmondy nollens wollens into the meaning of the works and all beautifully communicated the tender lyrical qualities therein."

"As to the Ravel Tzigane, again we heard a liberal translation on the part of the soloist. Adriana Anca, harpist, was excellent and, all things considered, it was a pleasant and interesting performance."

"In my view, the highlight of the concert came with the playing of Beethoven's Seventh Symphony. Michel Sasson does not fall into the traps common to the playing of an often heard work. So good to have a fresh reading. His treatment of the dynamics were barely short of amazing in a Bernstein sort of way; this in spite of the severe acoustical limitations of the hall.

"In the first movement, adagio: allegro vivace, flautist June Fine displayed a fine understanding of the tonal and especially of the rhythmic qualities of the Seventh. The entrances in the second movement, allegretto, were beautifully executed and the feeling of ensemble achieved by the strings was unusually sonorous."

"The scherzo was played artistically-done in the current German style with the Bs played as written, that is, observing Beethoven's metronomic markings set at half of the A tempo. The finale allegro, in which the woodwinds (especially Frank Charney principal oboist) really shone, brought this work to a magnificent close."

"Beethoven's Wellington Symphony was the opening selection. Surely Beethoven viewed this as a lark and it was in this spirit that the imaginative M. Sasson chose to start the season with it. There it was, replete with brass and drum choruses at the sides of the hall in the first movement and later a delicate quartet, reminiscent of the OPUS Eighteen, all lumped together in Beethoven's Musical Joke. Great fun! Good concert!"

Women's Council Aids Fund For Scholarship

The Women's Council of the Newton Junior College recently presented a check in the amount of $600 to Charles W. Dudley, President of the College, for the Scholarship Fund of the College.

The Women's Council of Newton Junior College, founded in 1964, by Mrs. George Brookhiser of Waban, had as its original purpose the enrichment of the cultural programs of the College.

Since that time it has annually sponsored at least one fund-raising event to support the Annual Visiting Scholar Program and other cultural events for the enrichment of the students and the Newton community as well as other projects for the general welfare of the institution and its students.

Last year the Women's Council voted a revised definition of purpose, while still contributing to the general welfare of the institution and its students, it is now directing its major efforts toward support of scholarships, and secondly toward supplementing the cultural programs of the College.

In accepting this gift to the College, President Dudley said: "The Newton Junior College community continues to be grateful to the Women's Council for its dedication and its involvement. The variety and scope of your service and your continued benefactions are most meaningful to all of us, and we are deeply appreciative of your support." In 1968, the Council was presented The President's Citation for "Distinguished Service."

The members of the Women's Council are: Mrs. Alfred W. Weaver, Chairman; Mrs. Harry Abells, Mrs. Victor Baer, Mrs. George Brewer, Mrs. George Brookhiser, Mrs. William Bruce, Miss Ruth Burns, Mrs. Morgan S. Campbell, Mrs. Spencer Deming, Mrs. Anton Fried, Mrs. Malcolm N. Jackson, Mrs. Norman Krim, Mrs. Alan Miller, Mrs. John B. G. Palen, Mrs. J. Leslie Sweetnam, and Mrs. Whalen Vinnicombe.

Educators Attend Workshop On Class Behavior

Several Newton educators attended an informal workshop on Behavior Modification techniques sponsored by the New England School Development Council, and held at the Marriott Motel last Friday.

Techniques based on reinforcement theory to solve behavior and motivation problems in the classroom and at home were presented through results of actual cases, movies and a videotape of children "turned around," lectures and intensive small group discussions.

Representing Newton South High School were Robert Wicks, House Master, and Guidance Counselors Caroline Sessler and Ronna Flesher.

Holiday Tea Tues. For Congregational Women

The annual Christmas Tea (harpsichord and recorder) by the Women's Benevolent Society of the First Church in Newton, Congregational, will be held on Tuesday (Dec. 1) in the Parish Hall at Homer and Centre streets, Newton Centre.

The worship service will begin at 1:30 p.m. to be followed by the Holiday Tea to be served by Cotton and Hobart Circles who are hostesses for the day.

There will be a table of gifts and one of home baked food for sale as well as UNICEF cards available. Christmas music will provide a background for the festivities and members will welcome back an old friend, Mrs. Gladys Minear, who will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Minear, wife of Dr. Paul Minear, former professor of New Testament at Andover Newton and now a member of the faculty of the Yale Divinity School, has accompanied her husband to many parts of the world accumulating a wealth of information and experiences to share with her friends at First Church.

Because of Dr. Minear's duties with the Faith and Order Commission of the World Council of Churches they have lived in Holland, Switzerland and Turkey. Now they are looking forward to a few years in Jerusalem where Dr. Minear will be vice rector in charge of program of the Ecumenical Institute for Advanced Theological Research being built and organized under Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant auspices.

Gladys Minear, herself, has a full quota of interests over and above those of her husband. For many years she has been a member of the Board of Directors, United Church of Christ Board for World Ministries (formerly American Board), working with all aspects of the overseas work of the church.

She is a member of the Executive Committee, Division of Overseas Ministries, National Council of Churches. Also she is a director of the Japan International University Foundation. Her special personal interests are her music

Housing-

Elizabeth Ruiz, speaking for the Newton Committee For Fair Housing and Equal Rights, maintained that opponents to the proposed zoning changes are actually against the concept of building housing in Newton for persons of low and moderate income.

State Senator-elect Irving Fishman and Sylvia Applebaum, appearing for the League of Women Voters, both supported the application for the zoning changes.

City Planner E. Michael Ferris explained to the gatherings that the waivers from the zoning code are being sought to overcome zoning obstacles to low and moderate income housing.

Kasman, a parent, represented the Ward School in Chestnut Hill.

Meadowbrook Scout Troop Holds Fall Court of Honor

Troop No. 272, sponsored by the Meadowbrook Junior High School PTA recently held its Court of Honor for the fall season when all Scouts who earned awards and recognitions during the summer were honored. The parents of the boys were present at the ceremony.

The Tenderfoot ceremony opened the program and Scoutmaster Stan Wald presented awards to John Amicangoli Jr., Brian Bufington, Tad Baum, David Gordenstein, James Levin, Michael Maleson, Jack Springer and David Winer.

Second class awards of patches, cards and mothers' pins went to David Alexander and Donald Dickinson, and the same awards were presented to first class scouts Steven Alexander and John Pershe.

Scoutmaster Wald presented Andy Sisson with a special award — that of Life Scout — which is next to the top rank in scouting.

The following boys received merit badges: Life Saving, Steven Alexander and Andy Sisson; Astronomy, John Pershe and Andy Sisson; Canoeing, Rowing, Swimming, Pioneering, John Pershe; Nature and Safety, Andy Sisson.

The officers of the troop for the coming year were given certificates and patches:

Richard Levin, Jr. Assistant Scoutmaster; Andy Sisson, Senior Patrol Leader; Steven Alexander, Asst. Jr. Patrol Leader; Donald Dickinson, Troop Scribe; Steven Alexander, Patrol Leader-Eagle; Geoffrey Baum, Patrol Leader-Cobra; Michael Penzo, Patrol Leader-Ram; Mitchell Riese, Patrol Leader-Raven Patrol; David Alexander, Den Chief.

Plans for attending Scout Camp at Hidden Valley next year were discussed by Dr. Andrew Spielman, assistant Scoutmaster. Troop 272 will be at Hidden Valley the last week in July and the first week in August next summer.

All Veterans Must File For Tax Abatement

Newton veterans eligible for real estate tax abatements must file their tax abatement form with the Board of Assessors before December 15 or lose their cash benefit, Carleton P. Merrill, Newton's Director of Veterans' Services advised this week.

Following an agreement with all boards of assessors throughout the state, the Veterans Administration was relieved of the expense of mailing the certificates of war service disabilities to the same veterans each year. Now, the VA simply notifies the local assessors when a veteran becomes disqualified by reduction of his disability below 10 percent.

Apparently, Merrill stated, in past years these certification cards served as reminders to veterans to apply to their assessors for their real estate tax abatements. Many veterans apparently feel the tax abatement is automatic but such is not the case as new requests for abatements must be filed each year. Only those veterans who did not obtain a certification from the VA last year need to apply to the VA before filing with their assessors.

Under Massachusetts law, World War I, World War II and Korean veterans plus those who served in the Armed Forces since Feb. 1, 1955 and who have a disability rated at 10 percent or more, may be entitled to a $2,000.00 real estate tax exemption. Widows whose husbands died in the service or died of service connected injuries are also entitled.

Conservation Films Dec. 3 At Pine Manor

The New England Farm and Garden Association will present a film symposium on conservation and environment at Ellsworth Hall, Pine Manor Junior College on Thursday, Dec. 3 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Films will include "The Green City," "So Little Time," "Bare Grass Creek" and "Cry of the Marsh" and speakers will include Martin Prochlik, deputy scientific advisor to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior; Allan Morgan of the Mass. Audubon Society, and a representative of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

Pre-Schoolers Take Part In Nursery Program At Mt. Ida

Pre-schoolers at Longfellow Nursery School, of Mt. Ida Junior College, have had the unique experience of sharing in the establishment of a new Child Study program on the campus at 777 Dedham St., Newton Centre.

Children were still building equipment when the nursery school started. The children were involved in visiting the carpenter's shop and watching their cubbies and sandbox being built.

Now they are using tools and wood for their own creative efforts. "Cars," "bridges" and "things" have been made.

Plans are underway now to involve the children in making curtains in the play rooms. Each child will have the opportunity to design a panel of material to be used. Part of the planning involves a discussion and demonstration of measuring.

The children have enjoyed watching the horseback riding classes at the college and visiting the stables. The physical education department has also invited the children to a demonstration of modern and ethnic dances.

The program will include experiences in story listening and telling, use of various arts and crafts media, play opportunities to develop large and small motor co-ordination, as well as imagination. Possibilities for science discoveries abound in the wooded areas of the campus.

Another feature of this program is the composition of the group of children who participate. The group includes children from the Boston area, as well as the suburbs.

Inner city children meet at the Roxbury Comprehensive Community Health Center for transportation. Transportation is also available for suburban children. The nursery school meets Monday through Friday from 9:11:45 a.m. for children 3½ to 5 years of age and is a part of a Child Study program started this fall at Mt. Ida Junior College.

Some of the students from the program are observing and assisting in the nursery along with taking courses. Other students are having their practicum at nursery, kindergarten and elementary schools in the Newton and Weston area.

Mrs. Elaine Reisman of West Newton, is the head teacher. Mrs. Reisman has a B.A. in Early Childhood Education from Antioch College, and M.Ed. in Special Education from Lesley College. In addition, she has had

Trick or Treat Raises $3443 For UNICEF

School Halloween Collection for UNICEF totals to date $3,433.90 announced Mrs. John Webber, Trick or Treat School Chairman of the Newton Community Peace Center.

Final round-up collections are being made this week and they look forward to surpassing last year's total of $3,461 from the elementary schools.

Junior high and high school returns may come in later in the year as students plan their own programs and ways of raising funds to help the children of the world to better health with medicines and vaccines, more education with books and teacher training, better nutrition with better dairying and farming practices, good food and pure water.

With world catastrophes and a $54.5 million allocation for 1970, UNICEF indeed needs help from every source. Contributions may be sent through the Newton Community Peace Center, 474 Centre, 474 Centre street, Newton 02158. Checks should be made payable to the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

"In shaping the world of the future, we have no more precious resource than our children" points out U. Thant, United Nations Secretary-General. Won't you share in the coming holidays of your substance with the children of the world.

Newtonite Is Re-elected To Mission Board

Atty. Loomis Patrick of 33 Crestwood road, West Newton, has been re-elected chairman of the board of directors of the overseas mission Board of the United Church of Christ.

The election took place at the 161st annual meeting of the United Church Board for World Ministries held in Seattle, Wash.

The Board is the overseas missionary and relief agency of the two-million member denomination, a union of Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches.

Mr. Patrick has been active with the mission board for 18 years. He also has served as chairman of the board of trustees of the denomination's Massachusetts Conference as conference moderator.

He has been a delegate to five biennial meetings of the United Church General Synod, the representative delegate body of the denomination.

He is a native of Newton and was educated at Amherst College and Harvard Law School. Emerson College awarded him an honorary doctorate in 1964.

Candidates Nite Wednesday Eve

All residents of the community are invited to attend Candidates' Night to be held Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 7:45 p.m. at the Hyde School gymnasium in Newton Highlands, for candidates seeking to fill the vacancy as alderman-at-large in Ward 5.

Candidates seeking to fill the post will speak. The affair is sponsored by the League of Women Voters, and will follow the usual format. Each candidate will be given an opportunity to speak, and then answer questions from the audience. Admission is free.

Those desiring additional information may call the Newton League president, Mrs. F. Dow Smith, at 332-0590.

Grounded

An ordinance prohibiting the flying of kites, balloons and model planes in the vicinity of Mactan International Airport, an alternate landing site for international flights to Manila, has been approved.

Voting Machines Best!

Newton has used paper ballots, electronic equipment and voting machines to record the votes of its citizens in various elections.

Of the three systems tried, the voting machine unquestionably has proved the most satisfactory.

A suggestion has been made that Newton return to the use of paper ballots. That would be an unwarranted step backward.

It was only a relatively few years ago that the tabulation of the Newton vote was not completed until the afternoon following the election. Newton was the laughing stock of the rest of the state.

Whatever the merits may be of the punchcard method of voting and the use of electronic devices, that system did not work out well in Newton.

The use of voting machines has proved successful in Newton and has made possible an accurate and speedy count of the returns.

A slowdown did occur in the voting in the Nov. 3 election, but that was due to the number and complexity of the referendum questions and to the write-in vote in the congressional contest, not to any failure on the part of the voting machines.

The sensible thing for the Aldermen to do would be to apply the $25,000 rental fee toward the purchase of the 208 voting machines and buy them. It would be unrealistic to turn the clock back and return either to paper ballots or punchcard voting.

The Raid Near Hanoi

We hope and pray that the war in Vietnam comes to a speedy conclusion, but it is somewhat difficult for us to accept the arguments of those Senate doves who are crying out angrily against the action of the Defense Department in authorizing a commando-type raid on a recently vacated prisoner-of-war camp outside Hanoi.

For our part we salute the brave men who volunteered for this mission in an endeavor to free Americans held captive in North Vietnam. It is unfortunate that the camp had been recently vacated and the prisoners moved.

One weakness in the outcries of the Senate doves is that the North Vietnamese are nothing more than savages in their treatment of the men they have taken prisoner. They do not follow the Geneva Agreement. They have no respect for the Articles of War.

Their argument that they are not engaged in a war with the United States in no way justifies their inhuman treatment of their captives or their refusal to let the International Red Cross know what prisoners they have.

Defense Secretary Laird's statement that he had received information that our men are dying in North Vietnam prisoner-of-war camps would seem to be reasonable justification for attempting to rescue them if brave men are willing to volunteer for such an undertaking. Indeed, one might ask if we don't owe that to the men spending a living death in those prison camps. They were captured while fighting for the United States.

After Seven Years

A world was shocked seven years ago this week.

From a hospital in Dallas, Texas, came word that John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, had died — victim of an assassin's bullet.

Years hence, historians will evaluate his place in the story of the amazing 20th Century.

He was the first man born in that century to become President of the United States. At 43 he was the youngest of our Presidents. He brought to the office not alone the ideals of youth but a depth of understanding of domestic and foreign issues as well.

Above all else he knew an unsurpassed faith and unwavering confidence in the future of the land of his birth.

His days in office were few — from Jan. 20, 1961, to Nov. 22, 1963. Most of those days were pre-occupied with crises both foreign and domestic. He recognized the sprouting of the seeds of inflation when he publicly denounced certain steel companies for raising the price of their products after he had induced labor to scale down its demands. He was the first President to confront another nuclear power when the Soviet Union sought to establish missile sites in Cuba.

It is not presumptuous to assume that if he lived to fill out a normal life expectancy he would have exerted powerful influence not only on this country but the world as well not alone in the White House but even as private citizen.

That realization, whether expressed or not in the days which followed the tragedy in Dallas, seven years ago, serves to underscore the enormity of that crime.

Not For Single Day

"Let us earnestly join in the observance of Thanksgiving."

"But let the spirit of Thanksgiving not be a scheduled sentiment which we turn on once a year."

"Rather, let it be an abiding testimony, a recognizable symbol of our daily faith — our faith in ourselves, our faith in our country, and our faith in God."

The above quotation was written by neither a clergyman nor a philosopher. Its author is a man who for nearly half a century has known the abrasive qualities which a nation dedicated to democracy can develop and still know true greatness.

The author, now in his 70s, is J. Edgar Hoover. As well as any churchman, as well as any philosopher, he knows that troubles and setbacks serve to underscore man's real achievements.

LETTERS

Reply To Alderman

Editor of the Newton Graphic:

In a letter to the editor published November 19, a Newton alderman, an elected official of the city's government, chose to impugn my integrity because he did not agree with a criticism of the Ward Five Caucus by my husband.

Mr. Peter Harrington, in attempting to discredit my husband's analysis of the caucus, declares that the speakers on behalf of the candidacy of Mr. Robert Sandman were a, b, c, and "the wife of the author of the letter in question."

This is absolutely not true. I never spoke at the caucus, on behalf of Mr. Robert Sandman or anyone else. I was not involved on any partisan level. (As a matter of fact, I was a duly appointed member of "the committee" that was to interview all the candidates; but, curiously, "the committee" met, interviewed, and decided, without my knowledge.)

Further on in his letter, Alderman Harrington, commenting on my husband's letter and quoting from it, declares:

"He also says, 'The ominous aspect of this caucus was the fact that intelligent and effective individuals were cowed into submission of the choice of the caucus.' I ask, in whose opinion? Yours? Mrs. Joost's (because of her support for Sandman)?"

So far, I am not supporting any candidate, although I am much more impressed by Mr. Sandman than by Alderman Harrington. Mr. Harrington, furthermore, is so uninformed that he does not even seem to know that both my husband and I signed Mr. Malec's nomination papers. More importantly, however, I am not responsible for my husband's opinions on caucuses or on any other subject. My husband is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of the Harvard Law School, former Editor of the Harvard Law Review; he is quite capable of making up his own mind and quite independent in his views, and our political affiliations are not even the same.

Why is democratic control of Neton's Board of Aldermen so important to Alderman Harrington? Why, if, as he himself admits in his letter, he is not a member of NCNP, ADA or FH, was he even present at their "caucus"?

Mr. Harrington, as a trained lawyer and as an elected official of the City of Newton, should be ashamed of himself. Even the most extreme advocates of women's liberation do not play political games like this; nor do they claim that women should be made responsible for the opinions of their husbands!

Very truly yours,
Prof. Christine L. Joost

Extends Apology

Editor of The Graphic:

I understand Mrs. Joost says that she did not speak in behalf of Mr. Sandman at the November 5 caucus. Then I must be mistaken and for that I apologize.

Sincerely,
Ald. Peter F. Harrington,
Newtonville.

On Bonfire Ban

The Editor,
Newton Graphic:

I have another candidate for T.V.'s Laugh-In "Flying Pickle Finger of Fate Award" as yet another seasonal pleasure goes down the modern drain.

Once again I can be grateful that I grew up when I did. In those days there were fireworks on the Fourth of July, there were Christmas Pageants and Easter Stories in school, and, best of all, we would burn our leaves every spring and fall in few glowing happy bonfires. Apples, chestnuts and potatoes were roasted in the embers and we all went home in the early darkness with the smell of "that great outdoors" around us.

Who could ever have believed that such a harmless pastime (compared to so many others!) would be banned for reasons of pollution?

It is hard to console oneself that such a cheerfully uncomplicated task has had to become yet another memory. This year we are being told to stuff every golden, brown or wet and soggy leaf in clearly antiseptic PLASTIC bags, to be taken to Newton City Incinerator. A place which, in itself, has a dubious record of performance and quality.

And all this in the Cause of Cleaner Air. Incredible. Especially when, each clean and frosty morning eleven great factory chimneys in both Cambridge and Boston are belching forth great clouds of noxious fumes. I've counted them. And yet no City Edict has stopped them from polluting the atmosphere. Jet planes may trail black plumes across the sky all day, and all we hear are promises. No one changes anything.

Instead, officialdom, in all its pathetic pettiness, cracks down upon the homely bonfire with dreadful threats of fines. Were it not so sad in all its myopic bigotry, 'twould be worthy of Thurber in its humour.

Our involvement with "environment" has vanquished one more harmless seasonal pleasure (for how long does leaf-burning last? A month at most, in Spring and Fall). Whilst throughout the year our factories may gas us all unchecked, to emphysema and carbon-poisoned futures.

Do we really, have to accept all this?

THANKS FOR OUR BLESSINGS!

Parents Disgusted With Local School

Editor of The Graphic:

We are angry, disgusted and frustrated. The myth of Newton's wonderful schools should be exposed - at least in the case of the Lincoln-Eliot School in Newton Corner. For the past several years Lincoln-Eliot School has operated in cramped quarters under conditions far from that level which the Newton Department of Education alleges to meet.

The 430 children at this school are forced into preposterous substandard and overcrowded learning environments whereby:

reading classes, consultations, and music lessons are held in lavatories; the lack of toilet facilities calls for a ludicrous shuffling of children as well as teachers; sixty boys stand in line to use an inadequate smelly toilet facility; teachers run from one lavatory to another in hopes of finding one not being used for some educational program.

125 children are exposed several times a day to cold or rain (and soon snow) because they have to travel through an open courtyard for a team teaching program;

a sick child sits drooping on a chair within the atmosphere of a busy office because we haven't a health room nor space for a cot;

two teachers (thank God their compatible) have to share the open area of a former auditorium.

We charge that the Newton School Committee and the Department of Education are derelict in their duty by their attitude of unresponsiveness and procrastination and by their policy of non-planning.

For the past few years they have repeatedly refused to act and have ignored the pleas of the Lincoln-Eliot community. When parents have to improvise solutions in crisis after crisis then we question if we really need a School Committee and a Department of Education.

Yours truly,
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roderick
120 Jewett St., Newton

Political Highlights

Hatch opposed Sargent for the Republican endorsement for Lieutenant Governor at the GOP State Convention in 1966.

It appeared for a time that Hatch might emerge the winner from that contest. But then the lieutenants of former Governor John A. Volpe and former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, both present members of President Nixon's Cabinet, moved into action and saved the day for Francis Sargent.

Our recollection is that Curtiss, who wields substantial influence out in the Berkshires, supported Sargent against Hatch.

But in the fight over cutting the size of the House from 240 to 160 members, Curtiss refused to follow the leadership of Governor Sargent and voted against placing that issue on the ballot.

That apparently is the reason the Governor desires to give Curtiss the axe. Mr. Sargent asserts that Curtiss "in many ways has been an effective leader, but there is a need for a person prepared to accept the challenges of change."

Governor Sargent has been elected to head the State government for the next four years. He indicates that he intends to do exactly that, asserting that he is not a candidate for a post in President Nixon's Cabinet and would decline one if it were offered to him.

This makes it unlikely that a majority of the 62 Republicans who will be sitting in the House in January will disregard Governor Sargent's counsel and vote to reelect Representative Curtiss as their party leader.

There are some independent-minded Republican House members, who will resent the attempt by the Governor to dictate the election of a House leader and will vote for Curtiss. But it is highly improbable that there are 32 of them.

Governor Sargent wants more aggressive Republican leadership in the House than that provided by Curtiss who was not one to indulge in dramatics.

But in fairness to Curtiss, a politician who combined the best qualities of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy would be at a disadvantage in leading 62 Republican House members into battle against 178 Democrats.

Curtiss' big weakness has been that the voters don't elect enough Republicans to the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Kevin B. Harrington Next Senate Head Giant of Man

Senator Kevin B. Harrington of Salem will succeed Maurice A. Donahue as president of the Massachusetts Senate at the start of 1971, and it probably will take the people a little while to become accustomed to this highly intelligent and capable young man.

First is his imposing appearance. He is six feet, 9 inches tall. When he is entering a room, he often is obliged to bend over to avoid hitting his head on the doorway.

He looks like and was an outstanding basketball player. He played at the University of St. Louis, where he also was an honor student. Colleges in all parts of the United States, including Notre Dame, sought to attract him because of his basketball ability.

Harrington attended St. Mary's School in Lynn before matriculating at the University of St. Louis, where he graduated in June, 1954. He began teaching government and history at Merrimack College the following September, a position he held for four years.

He is now completing his 12th year in the State Senate and has been the Democratic floor leader for the past six years. He served two years in the Salem City Council and first won election as State Senator in 1958.

A pleasant-mannered, soft-spoken giant of a man, Kevin Harrington demands discipline when he is presiding over the State Senate and runs it with a tighter hand than did his predecessor, Maurice A. Donahue.

Harrington probably will be a less partisan Senate president than was Donahue, but he will be a dominant figure who will stand out in the Legislature. He is an intellectual type of law-maker. Many observers expect he and Speaker David M. Bartley will be successful in improving the image of the Legislature.

Harrington is probably best known for heading the Legislative commission that produced the so-called Willis-Harrington report which is credited with raising educational standards in Massachusetts.

One of Harrington's first actions as the new Senate president will be to name Senator James A. Kelly, Jr., of Oxford as chairman of the important Senate Ways and Means Committee which passes on all appropriations of State funds.

Kelly, a scholarly certified public accountant in professional life, is a graduate of Clark University and the father of seven children. He is serving his sixth year in the State Senate and served six years in the House of Representatives before his election to the Senate.

He has sponsored some constructive bills which have been enacted into law and is highly regarded by State House observers.

Law-Maker Advises Good Old Bill Baird To "Get Lost"

Our old friend, birth control advocate Bill Baird, has a low opinion of most members of the Massachusetts Legislature. The feeling, we can report, is mutual.

Approximately 150 legislators attended the football game at Amherst between Boston College and the University of Massachusetts as guests of UMass officials.

While the law-makers were eating in the Hamden dining hall, Mr. Baird and about 15 of his supporters stationed themselves outside the dining hall and sought the signatures of the legislators on petitions advocating the legalization of birth control and certain sexual practices now outlawed.

Not one of the 150 legislators approached put his signature on Mr. Baird's petition, a situation which Mr. Baird described as "a disgrace and a perversion of democracy."

Some of the legislators demonstrated a most unsympathetic attitude toward Mr. Baird and his cause. Representative Michael Lombardi of Cambridge advised Mr. Baird to "get lost."

Another lawmaker told Mr. Baird he "should have been aborted."

Mr. Baird, in response to questions, said he is not discouraged by the lack of success he is encountering in his efforts to change certain Massachusetts laws but that he is angry. He indicated he will "fight on," notwithstanding the legislative rebuffs given him at Amherst.

Proposal to Cut House Size Unwise But Likely to Pass

A proposal for reducing the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 240 to 160 members probably will appear on the ballot in 1974, undoubtedly will be approved by a majority of the voters and eventually is likely to prove an unwise move.

House Speaker David M. Bartley made an all-out fight last February against putting the issue on the ballot this year and finally prevailed by a margin of one vote.

But several House members who stood with Bartley were defeated on that issue, and several others narrowly escaped defeat in the Nov. 3 election.

State House observers estimate that 90 members of the incoming State Senate and House of Representatives either have voted for the House cut in the past or campaigned on the promise that they would vote for it in the future.

Except for the battle waged by Speaker Bartley, this issue would have been on the ballot in the recent election.

Bartley makes it plain that he is as much opposed as ever to reducing the size of the House, but he concedes that the makeup of the incoming Legislature will be such that another fight similar to the one he waged last winter would be futile.

In most sections the law-makers, who were ousted from office on the House cut issue, were not defeated as much on the issue of reducing the House membership as on the fact that they voted against allowing the people to decide on the matter.

Officials of the League of Women Voters have declared that they will conduct another drive to obtain signatures on an initiative petition to place this question on the ballot.

If they do, more than 70 legislators will vote for it. There is no possibility, of course, that a majority of the 280 law-makers in two different Legislatures would support this as a simple change in the State Constitution.

One complicating aspect to this situation is that prior to the 1974 state election the existing House dis-

Ward 7 Democratic Meeting Meets Alderman Candidates

The Ward 7 Democratic Committee met recently for their monthly meeting. The first item on the agenda was a report by Ward 7 Alderman Harry Crosby. Mr. Crosby mentioned the suit being brought against the Board of Aldermen by the Stigmatine Fathers because of the board's refusal to grant permission for rezoning for a house on Fairmount St. for use by the Order.

Another suit is being brought against the Board, according to Mr. Crosby, by the abutters opposed to Freeport, Inc., who claim that they were not informed by the City of all information pertaining to Freeport. Mr. Crosby also informed the Committee that the City would like to adopt a law now used in the City of Quincy.

This law states that an apartment must be inspected within 48 hours after being vacated in order to insure that the apartment meets the Sanitary Health Code. This was sent to Rules and Regulations Committee as some members of the Board want it to apply only to rental property and not to homes that are sold, which had been suggested.

Due to a vacancy, another new member was elected to the Committee. Mrs. Joseph (Adrienne) Silverstein of 82 Stuart Rd., Newton Center, the newly elected member, has been active with many civic projects in the city. Mrs. Silverstein was formerly an associate member. The Committee voted to amend the by-laws so that associate members will now be nominated to run for 4 year terms upon payment of dues, as are regular members.

Guest speakers for the evening were six of the candidates who are running in the special election to fill the vacancy in Ward 5. The speakers were: Charles Schiff, a business executive; Richard Butler, an administrator with Raytheon in Waltham; Jerry Packer, a C.P.A. and a practicing lawyer; Burton Pike, a lawyer; Michael Malec, a sociologist and a teacher at Boston College; and Robert Sandman, an engineer. Mr. Antonellis, who could not attend, sent in a written reply. The candidates spoke about housing, Freeport, and land use and zoning, after which there were questions from the audience.

The evening was prepared by Gene Blumenreich, program chairman for the Ward 7 Committee.

An abutter to the Freeport House, Atty. Lewis Aronson of Nobscot road, said he would ask counsel for the opponents to file an appeal to the Mass. Supreme Court from Judge Campbell's ruling.

Mr. Aronson said there are at least 200 persons who live in the neighborhood of the 10-room, $50,000 dwelling who have given financial and legal support against establishment of the Foundation.

Viet Cong Prisoner Talks By Tape To Newton Mother

A Newton mother this week again this year please accept these greetings as my expression and gift of love. "Thank you very much, Mom, for the 5 packages that I have already received from you this year. Your many thoughtful choices and handsome items from Carol Sue really made me happy. It was like Christmas for me in January, April, June, August and October.

The taped message was directed to Mrs. Thomas G. Brown of 248 Tremont Street, Newton, by her son, Marine Lt. Paul G. Brown, 27.

It had been taped Sept. 17, was broadcast by Hanoi Radio, and it said:

"Dear Mom and Loved Ones: "Merry Christmas and season's greetings to you all. As Christmas lights, decorations and good cheer are beginning to fill your eyes and raise your spirits, I pray that this voice message will help you all feel that I am a part of your happiness and holidays, that I am with you all in thought and heart.

"Christmas is a very sentimental time of the year, a time when a man wants to be home with his family and bride-to-be. You must know how much I want to come home and this desire is even more intense at Christmas. I wish that I could surprise you all with me and wonderful gifts, colorfully wrapped, but "I am in good health and have much to be thankful for. I have acquired a good tan from being outside all day playing volleyball and basketball with my roommates.

"Again this year we will have a Christmas tree with lights and decorations, a Holy Communion church service, Christmas carols and music and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

"Please send these greetings to our family and relatives, to Carol Sue and her family and to Mary. God bless you all. Be happy and truly have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

"With love to all, Paul."

Candidates For Alderman Take Part In Meeting

All candidates for Newton's vacant Ward Five Aldermanic seat took part in the program sponsored last week by the Republican Ward Three Committee. They discussed their positions and views with those present at what is believed to be the first such program in this campaign.

Held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tennant the program was presented as a public service to inform voters in preparation for the forthcoming special city election Dec. 8.

Chaired by Marshall D. Glen, the event was arranged by a committee made up of Max Brauner, Lester Denault, Robert Freeto, Grodon Garrow, Mrs. Albert M. Kreider, Julius L. Masow, Ernest Seifert, Charlotte Thornbury, Nelson T. Silk, Jr., Matthew Stern, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tennant, Henry Wilson.

Samples of public sentiment indicate that the voting machines generally are considered the most satisfactory.

The machines were put to an extraordinary test in the Nov. 3 election because of the number of referenda questions on the ballot and the write-in vote in the congressional contest which is rather awkward on a voting machine.

Newton is paying $25,000 for the rental of the voting machines and can apply that amount toward the purchase of the machines if it is decided to buy them.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

Everyone is invited to the church services this Sunday beginning at 10:45 a.m. at the First Church of Christ Scientist at 391 Walnut street, Newtonville.

Divine help is always at hand, according to the Lesson-Sermon to be read Sunday.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon. The Golden Text is from Isaiah:

"Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness."

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, this passage will be read:

"At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you."

Ex-local Woman Featured in TV Documentary

Of local interest will be the WNACTV (Ch. 7) hour long color documentary "The Greenblatts of Jerusalem" on Sunday, Nov. 29 at 3 p.m. It depicts the life of an American family, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Greenblatt and their four daughters, who settled in Israel two years ago.

Mrs. Greenblatt is the former Joan Abrams of Newton, and is a graduate of local schools and Boston University. Her mother was the late Mrs. Bella Abrams of Brookline. Dr. Greenblatt is associated with the Hadassah hospital at Ein Karem.

Beauty Care Today

By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

THE SQUARE JAW

Do you have a "square jaw?" Is your jaw line about as wide as the cheeks with a squared-off forehead? Your hairstyle should place emphasis on top! This will soften the square lines and detract from the too-broad jaw.

Curvy bangs, diagonal parts or soft full waves help achieve this effect. You can also help round out the shape of your face with soft fullness at the sides.

Avoid severe hairstyles. Don't pull hair back at temples or have it too wide at the lower sides. Avoid regular details, curls or waves.

Remember, square jaws can be very lovely. Just look at Audrey Hepburn. Miss Hepburn's hair styles are a perfect example of the well-accentuated square jaw. WATCH NEXT WEEK FOR OBLONG FACE One sure way to look your loveliest for him is to have our experts style your hair. RONALD'S COIFFEURS is famous for our expert stylists. We take great pride in our work... and you benefit! Make an appointment today. RONALD'S COIFFEURS, 901 Walnut St. at the Four Corners, phone 527-8391. Open Mon.-Wed. 9-5, Thursday 8:30-5, Friday 8:30-8:30, Sat. 8:30-5.

WHAT'S A MOTHER TO DO?

- Does your profession need you?
- Do you need extra income?
- More education?
- Time for shopping or an important interest outside your home?

If the answers to these questions are yes but you are prevented from doing any of these things because you have a pre-school youngster at home you can't leave, then let LIVING and LEARNING SCHOOL® show you how to make the most of your time by combining your activity with a happy, healthy and most enjoyable living and learning experience for your child.

LIVING and LEARNING SCHOOL® provides a wholesome, educational group experience for your child together with other children of the same age in a concept that offers full, half day, or hourly programs for children 2½ to 6 years old... and the rates are so very, very reasonable.

SPECIAL ENROLLMENTS NOW BEING ACCEPTED!

Let LIVING and LEARNING SCHOOL® show you how you can take that job, earn that extra income, or just have some extra time for yourself, and at the same time give your youngster a living and learning experience you would want your child to have.

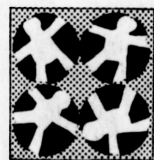

And your youngster will be with an eminently qualified teacher who really care what kind of a day he has.

Call LIVING and LEARNING SCHOOL® today for complete information. Find out about their schedule that offers hours to meet your needs, and above all learn how reasonable it is to partake in this program both for your youngster and you.

A free school visit can be arranged. Transportation is available.

Among the close to 60 guests at the party were former Governor and Mrs. Foster Furcolo. Included among the guests were many of Dr. Lepera's friends from the post World War II era.

The setting for the party was the Leperas' spacious home, with music provided by the James Stella Trio of Waban. Helping hostesses were Kathleen Morrison and Kate Russell, both seniors at the College of the Sacred Heart, Newton, who aided in the preparation of a buffet. Guests from Newton included Editor Watertown Free Press and Mrs. Robert Ford and Marian F. Poverman.

Bookworm Ball at Library To Help Mark 100th Anniversary

"Celebrate the 100th birthday of the Newton Free Library at the dance of the century!" This is the invitation extended by Friends of the Newton Free Library in announcing the first Bookworm Ball.

The dance will take place in the Main Library building, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, on Saturday evening, December 5, from 8:30 until the last note of music fades at 12:30.

The live music provided by an orchestra of young professional musicians will keep bookworms dancing throughout the evening, except for intermission.

Between sets, versatile Miss Mimi Kravitz of Newton will sing folk songs and accompany herself on the guitar. Miss Kravitz, a Murray Road School student, is also known for her work in filmmaking at the Yellow Ball Workshop, Lexington.

During a late-evening intermission, light refreshments will be served, in addition to the punch available at all times for the guests.

The Library will be transformed into a ballroom atmosphere with decorations arranged by Mr. Jim Bottomley of Spaceforms, Inc., in Auburndale.

Mr. Bottomley has won national recognition for his lotus spheres, three-dimensional paper sculptures. These lovely spheres will remain in view after the dance to add cheer to the Library during the holiday season.

Mrs. Tetsuo Takayanagi, membership chairman of the Friends of the Newton Free Library, has mailed out invitations for the Bookworm Ball, but stresses that anyone may make a reservation simply by sending a check for ten dollars, payable to Friends of the Newton Free Library, to Box Four, Auburndale, Massachusetts 02166. The Friends welcome all Newtonites, not merely members of the organization, to join the fun.

The fee of ten dollars per couple will allow contributions to be made to either the Doris Getter or the Loretta Ryan special book funds.

These two funds were established to honor the memories of two Newton women who made great contributions to the life of the community through several organizations, including the League of Women Voters and the Friends of the Library.

Those attending the Bookworm Ball may choose which fund they prefer.

Several members of the Board of Trustees of the Newton Free Library plus a number of Board members of the Friends are planning dinner parties before the Bookworm Ball begins.

In addition to Mrs. Takayanagi, other committee members working to make the first dance ever held at the Library a successful one are George Michaels, president of the Friends, and Mrs. Michaels, Mr. and Mrs. George Brewer, Mrs. C. Martin Kamaar, Mrs. Melvin Gordon, Mrs. Alan Barkin, Mrs. Mary Lewis Hansen, the Rev. Scott Paradise, Mr. Arnold Tovell, and Mr. Fred Wilcon.

Dress for the occasion is black tie optional.

JOHN B. O'CONNOR

O'Connor Made Aub'dale Bank Office Manager

John Brian O'Connor is the new manager of the Auburndale Office of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company, Giles E. Mosher, Jr., president, has announced.

Mr. O'Connor, who is an assistant treasurer of the bank, was formerly at the bank's West End office in Waltham and assumed his new duties on October 26th.

He replaced Warren H. Raynor, assistant treasurer, who has been named manager of Newton-Waltham's new Lincoln office.

A graduate of Sacred Heart High School, Newton, and Newton Junior College, Mr. O'Connor served in the United States Army. He also attended the School of Banking at Williams College.

He joined the Bank in 1962, was named manager in 1968 and elected an assistant treasurer in 1969.

Mr. O'Connor and his wife have two children and live on Marshall Road in Natick.

Holiday Caravan Will Visit Service Centers on Dec. 2

With the joyous winter holidays approaching, the Newton Community Services Centers, Incorporated, announces that once again, the Jordan Marsh Holiday Caravan will pay a visit to the Center.

The annual Caravan visit which began at the Community Center facility five years ago, moves to the more spacious ballroom of the Rebecca Pomroy House at 84 Eldredge Street in Newton.

Scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 2, the program will include a visit from Santa and candy for all. Reservations are limited and therefore, only those received prior to Nov. 30 may be accepted.

In addition to the happy tidings of this visit, a gala luncheon and open house is scheduled at the Newton Community Center building on Monday, Dec. 14 to mark the membership of two members of the Senior Citizens Club.

Mrs. Christine Moore of 309 River Street in West Newton, has been a member of the Center since its inception in 1907, and Mrs. Theresa McNeil of 582 Watertown street in Newtonville, will celebrate her 50th year as a member.

Additional information on the "Open House" will be made known at a later date by the members of the Senior Citizens Club headed by Mrs. Helen Foster, chairman.

An exciting undertaking by the staff and board of directors of the Centers is the initiation of a study-committee to investigate the possibilities of establishing a western trip program for teenagers during the summer months. As a means of establishing a need and or interest, questionnaires have been distributed among a number of Junior High School age students.

gram, Mr. Anthony J. Bibbo, Exec. Dir. of the Centers, stated that the program would generally include 40 co-ed teenagers, ages 13-15, who would leave on a six week camping tour by bus from Newton to the western part of the United States. Participants would visit various State and National Parks along the way such as Yellowstone, Grand Canyon, and Rocky Mount National Parks.

Members of the Study Committee include: Mrs. David B. Cooper, chairman; Mrs. Frank C. Wheelock, Jr.; Mrs. Manuel Taylor; Mrs. David Malia; Paul Corcoran; and students Martin Smith, Thadeus Cline, Marylee Bouzan, and Mrs. William Wright and G. Michael Gardner of the staff. Students interested in serving on the committee or individuals desiring additional information should contact the Center at 969-5906 and ask for Mrs. Wright or Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Carpenter gave his daughter away. She wore a traditional white satin and lace gown. The empire bodice had puff sleeves. Her matching mantilla swept into a train. She carried a cascade of gladioli.

Miss Marion Elizabeth Carpenter of Newton Centre, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Elaine Soar of Taylor, Pa., Miss Wilma McMann of Belmont and Miss Laurinda Anders of East Falmouth were bridesmaids.

Daniel Anders of East Falmouth served as best man for his brother, James Lincoln of Dorchester, Richard Anders of East Falmouth and Albert Carpenter of Newton Centre were ushers.

Following a honeymoon in Nantucket, Mr. Anders and his bride will make their home in Falmouth.

Atty. M. Davis Lectures At NYU Institute

Atty. Michael M. Davis of 47 Chatham road, Newton Highlands, lectured on "Current Thoughts on Installment Method Reporting" at the recent 29th annual meeting of New York University's Institute on Federal Taxation.

Davis, associated with the Boston firm of Sullivan & Worcester, is a graduate of Brown University, Yale Law School and Boston University.

The NYU Institute is the oldest and foremost institute of its kind in the country. It is designed to keep the practitioner abreast of current and proposed developments in Federal taxation, whether court decisions, Treasury rulings or Congressional legislation.

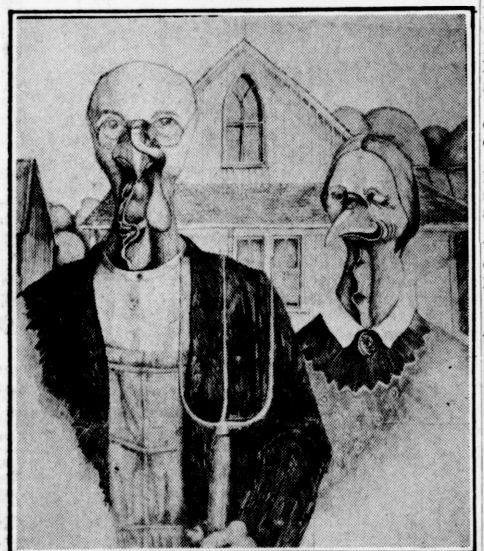

This year the theme of the Institute was "positive effects of new legislation." The Institute is offered through the NYU School of Continuing Education.

MRS. DARRYL F. LEITSINGER

Rev. Robert McCabe, Newton, Officiates at Cousin's Bridal

Miss Patricia Ann Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Scott Sr., of 604 Poplar street, Roslindale, and Darryl Frederick Leitsinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Leitsinger of 22 Grew road, Roslindale, were married recently at the Sacred Heart Church, Roslindale.

Officiating at the 12 o'clock noon concelebrated mass were the Rev. Robert McCabe of Morrisville, Pa., brother-in-law of the bride.

In the offertory procession were godparents of the bride, Mrs. Barbara S. Feeley, and Mr. Thomas E. Sheehan Jr., as well as the bride's godson, Master T. Edward MacKinnon, all of West Roxbury.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown made of white silk peau de soie marked with re-embroidered lace. Beads misted the high collar and cuffs of her long sleeves.

A matching jeweled Camelot cap held in place her silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of purple and white poms.

Mrs. Kathleen Murray of Morrisville, Pa., was her sister's matron of honor. Her dark brown full length lace gown had a sand colored shirtdress and was trimmed with matching brown velvet. She wore a dark brown pill box cap and carried a bouquet of brown and gold poms.

Similarly attired, the other attendants were Miss Virginia M. Scott of Roslindale, sister of the bride, Miss Patricia B. Keane of Brookline, Miss Kathleen J. Desmarais of Concord, N.H., and Mrs. Lesley Boffetti of Sagamore, sister of the groom.

The best man was John Robert Boffetti of Sagamore, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushering were Edward C. Scott Jr., of Roslindale, brother of the bride, Jens Ortendahl of Roslindale.

Second Try Works . . .

Two Point Conversion Beats Our Lady's 8-6

Our Lady's High grid team finished the season with a 5 and 3 record Sunday afternoon after they were edged 8 to 6 by St. Patrick's. High of Watertown on a soggy Mgr. Daly Field in Newton on Sunday afternoon.

A penalty against the Lancers late in the game allowed St. Pat's a second try for conversion after the touchdown, and the two points they scored were the deciding factor.

George Woods scored for St. Pat's to climax a 52-yard drive and then Dan Walsh's went over from the one and a half for the extra two points. After Wood's TD, St. Pat's elected to try kicking the extra point. Mark Rimsa's kick went wide but the holder, Paul Langione, was roughed, and St. Pat's had a second opportunity.

Face mask penalties aided Our Lady's in its drive for the first touchdown of the game. The calls came at Our Lady's 45 and St. Pat's 33, the latter placing the ball on the visitor's 19. There Steve Farina passed to Kevin McCabe in the left flat at the 10, and McCabe ambled into the end zone untouched.

The conversion try failed when Farina tried to carry the ball off right guard, and was stopped.

Our Lady's six point lead held until late in the fourth period when St. Pat's rolled for their TD and conversion.

Penalties assessed against each club proved costly. Our Lady's was penalized 51½ yards and St. Pat's was assessed 70 yards for various infractions. The muddy condition of the field was another obstacle to the players on both clubs.

Our Lady's six point lead awaited the outcome of Thursday's game before determining how they finished in the Catholic Suburban League race. On Thursday St. Pat's (5-2) plays St. Col.

umbkill's of Brighton (7-1). Pope John (6-1-1) ended any hope that either St. Pat's or Our Lady's had for a share of the title when they defeated Immaculate 30-8. St. Col. umbkill's needs a victory over St. Pat's to clinch the league title on the holiday.

For further information on YMCA Physical and Aquatic Classes, call the Newton Y.M.C.A., at 244-6050.

Special Education For Handicapped A Bargain

By LOUIS CASSELS

UPI Senior Editor

"I'm biased on this subject," admitted Dr. Edwin

W. Martin Jr. "I don't claim to be an impartial source."

The subject on which Martin acknowledges bias is handicapped children. He thinks they deserve a first-rate education. This is not an inappropriate prejudice for the man who heads the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped in the U.S. Office of Education.

He said in an interview the present situation is either very depressing or very hopeful, depending on which set of statistics you choose to emphasize.

The depressing facts are these:

America has 7 million children whose ability to learn in ordinary classrooms is handicapped by blindness, deafness, speech defects, mental retardation, physical abnormalities, emotional disturbances, minor brain injuries or a combination of these things.

Nearly all of them could be helped through special education programs. But only 2.2 million are being helped at present. The other 4.8 million do not have access to the kind of classes and teachers that would enable them to surmount their handicaps and realize their potential as human beings.

Hopeful Facts

The hopeful facts are these:

The nation's conscience is belatedly awakening to the needs of handicapped children. Ten years ago, the federal government was spending less than $1 million a year to promote special education services. This year, it's spending $170 million for that purpose.

And Congress has displayed a willingness to vote more if the White House and Budget Bureau will allow the extra money to be spent.

State and local school boards also are displaying a greater willingness to invest in special education. Martin estimates state and local outlays will approach $3 billion this year.

To provide adequate programs for all of the 7 million handicapped children would cost, Martin figures, in the neighborhood of $10 billion a year.

"But this should not be regarded as a spending program," he said. "It's an investment that will save the taxpayers a lot of money in the long run."

A handicapped child who does not receive special education is likely to wind up in an institution or on the welfare rolls, he said. The cost to the public of maintaining him in that dependent status may total, in a normal lifetime, around $300,000.

The same child could grow up to be a responsible, self-supporting adult if he had the benefit of 15 years of special education at an average cost of $2,000 per year, or $30,000 in all.

Education Cheaper

In other words, educating a handicapped child costs only one-tenth as much as neglecting him.

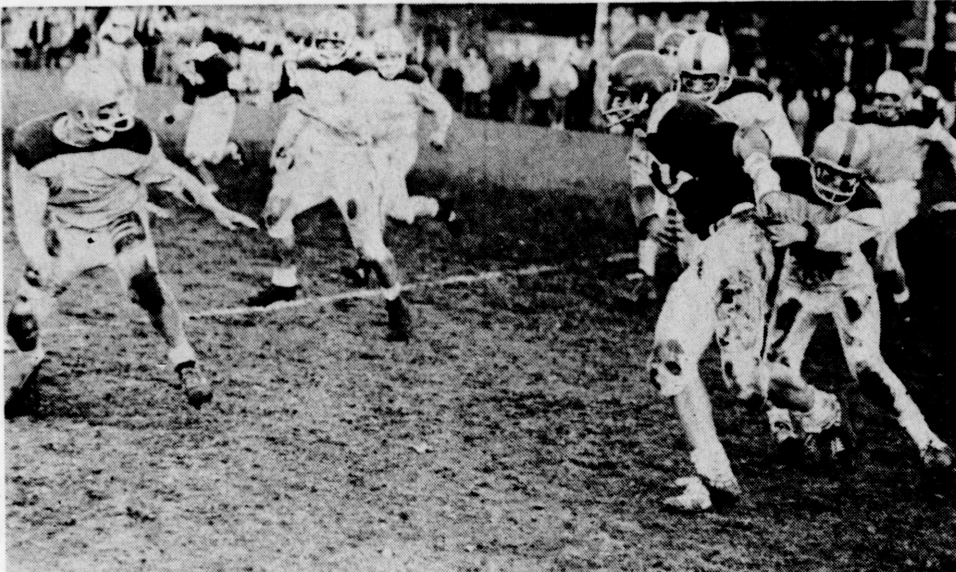

There are, of course, better reasons for educating handicapped children than saving money. The best reason of all, in Martin's opinion, is the simple fact that "it can be done."

"We've made tremendous progress in recent years in developing new techniques and special kinds of equipment that enable trained teachers to accomplish near-miracles in educating even severely handicapped children," he said.

One of the first needs is to help parents of handicapped children locate schools or training centers where the right kind of special education is available.

Martin's bureau has moved to meet this need by establishing a computerized national information center. Any parent who suspects that his child may have a learning disability is invited to write to this center. He will receive without charge a list of all appropriate facilities in his area, plus helpful guidance on how to tell when a child needs special help.

The address is Box 1492, Washington, D.C., 20013.

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

The first night of sports action by the women's Volleyball League in Newton will be on Monday (Nov. 30) with nine teams participating this year. Only six teams competed last year for the City Championship.

The first pairings on Monday night are as follows with the team winning a match of 2 games out of 3 receiving a point in the league standings:

7:30 p.m. Burr Volleys (manager, Jean Cole) vs. Independents (manager, Beverly Shieberg) at Burr School.

7:30 p.m. Carr Blues (manager, Elaine Calabro) vs. Burr Rockets (manager, Jean Cole) at Carr School.

8 p.m. Volley Dolls (manager, Sandra Murphy) vs. Bell Telephone (manager, Beth Devlin) at Burr School.

8 p.m. Burr Whizzers (manager, Jean Cole) vs. Sacred Heart (manager, Jean Cole) at Carr School.

Question Marks (Manager Joan Licarie) vs. Bye.

Recreation Dept Basketball Team Registrations

The Newton Recreation Department announced today that teams interested in their basketball program for the 1971 season must register and submit team rosters not later than Friday, Dec. 11. Roster forms may be obtained at the Recreation Department Office, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, Mondays through Fridays, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The league will be formed into three divisions. Pony Division will serve all boys in Grades 7-8-9. National Division for boys who are registered students in High School grades 10-11-12 and the American Division for young men out of high school. Age bracket 18 yrs. of age and older.

Teams will not be allowed to include on their roster sheets names of those who are members of High School Varsity Squads - (public, private, parochial) - Junior College Varsity or freshman squads or college varsity teams.

Membership in the league will be limited. Teams will be accepted on a first come basis, and no teams will be accepted after deadline of December 11. Only bonafide legal residents of Newton can participate.

American A and B divisions will be limited to nine teams in A division and five teams in B division.

Returning teams from last year will receive preference this year.

third man throughout the season getting down to a best time of 14:47.

Howie Frutkoff, another junior, who started the season on the JV, showed tremendous improvement throughout the year and finally recorded a 15:00 clocking.

was another runner who started the season well down on the list and then really came on. He made it down to 15:01.

John Mason, a sophomore, was impressive during the whole season, scoring in the top five in every meet and notching a best time of 15:12.

Jim Throne, 16:18, Dave Ress, 16:19, and Pete Harvey are other underclassmen who will be back and will be running varsity next year.

The Lions have the nucleus of a respectable squad. To be strong next year they could use Pottey and LeBlanc back.

With those two and the same squad with a year's experience the Lions would be roaring.

Pottey and LeBlanc will be gone, though. But a good sophomore crop could be the saving factor.

LeBlanc was consistently second for the Lions, with his best finish in a dual meet being second, which he accomplished twice. His fastest time was 14:28.

cross-country at Mt. Ida this year was the fastest it has ever been, as the Class D school showed that its individual standouts are at least as good as the Class A schools' performers.

Lloyd Keyes of Wayland established the new course record of 13:08 and Howie Scribner of Acton-Boxboro broke the old record of 13:11 set a year ago with a 13:10.

Here are the fastest times run on the 2.6 mile route. Six of the eleven fastest races were run this year.

1. 13:08 Lloyd Keyes Wayland 70

2. 13:10 Howie Scribner Acton-Boxboro 70

3. 13:11 Mike O'Brien Newton 69

4. 13:16 Jay Sidman Newton 69

5. 13:19 Chuck Pottey Newton South 70

6. 13:22 Moe Bordenca Waltham 67

7. 13:24 Dave Whitney Newton South 67

8. 13:24 Pottey South 70

9. 13:24 Bob Bruen Malden 64

Army Reservists Studying At Civilian Hospital

Dr. Michael A. Greenwald of Newton, has been named supervisor of a group of U.S. Army Reserve hospital technicians who are receiving laboratory training at Brookline Hospital. This is the first time a teaching program for Reserve technicians has been established at a civilian hospital.

Dr. Greenwald, a member of the Brookline Hospital medical staff and a captain in the Army Reserve, and the regular hospital personnel are training the technicians.

The 10 enlisted men who participate are based at the 373rd Army Reserve Hospital in Boston under the command of Col. Jonathan I. Morrison of Newton. They received their basic classroom instruction at the Ft. Sam Houston Laboratory School.

CO-PRODUCTION DEAL

James Garner will star in "Skin Game" in co-production deal between his Cherokee Productions and Warner Bros. which also will feature the actor in a 1971-72 television series.

Clean Air Week End Of October

Dirty air, like war, is not healthy for children and other living things. And Cleaner Air Week comes the last week in October.

Thousands of people - spurred on by their tuberculosis and respiratory disease associations as well as other groups - will put the pollution plague centerstage that week. They will organize meetings, see their Congressmen, fly balloons, have dirty pictures (polluted air) contests, and create some ingenious spectacles.

Researchers have clearly established the relationship between air pollution and increased death rates, particularly among men aged 50 to 69 who have a lung disease. But new evidence shows that pollution also has damaging effects on the very young.

One of the few long-term studies of the effects of pollution on children's health is being conducted in conjunction with the State

An even more striking increase was found for eczema among young boys when pollution levels rise. In fact, both these conditions often developed in the same child.

At Connecticut On Sunday . . .

NAA Lions Take Norwood 12-6 For Tenth Victory

The Newton Athletic Association Lions secured their tenth victory of the year over a rejuvenated Norwood Raider team 12-6 in preparation for their trip to Stratford, Connecticut to compete in the Peanut Bowl.

The Norwood Raiders just missed handing Dedham their first defeat in tying them 20-20 in the last game of the regular season.

The game opened with Norwood picking up a first down on its first series. The Raiders punted on the next series to the Newton 20.

Newton fumbled on the first play and Norwood had a first down. Newton got caught on a blitz with a third down six situation and Raider fullback John Coughlin raced to the two. Four plays later he vaulted into the end zone for the visitors only score and a 6-0 lead.

It wasn't until the second period that the Lions tied it. Moving the ball to the fifteen the Lions had a second four. Here, Kevin Hoban turned an almost disastrous play into a six pointer.

Kevin had to retreat for a bad lateral pass in his own backfield, turned on the speed laterally, outran the defender, turned the corner and dove into the end zone. The points failed. Newton had another bid at the half when time ran out.

The second half was all Newton as they controlled the ball. Quarterback, Bob Kinsella, hit Hoban in the flat and Kevin with excellent moves turned the gain into a 63 yard scoring play only to have it nullified by a motion penalty. Hoban scored his second T.D. in the beginning of the fourth period behind the blocks of Kinsella, Jim Vizakis, Greg Moan, Jack Ryan and Rick Paglia.

Kevin scampered 55 yards to put Newton out front for keeps 12-6. The points failed. Later in the period Halfback Rick Paglia went 55 yards for a score only to have it nullified by a holding penalty.

The Lions defense was tough all day. Spearheading the defensive charge was Tackle Ron Collins and Cornerback Rick Paglia.

Next week the Lions travel to Stratford, Conn. to meet the Holy Name Cardinals. The Cardinals finished second in what is considered a strong Pop Warner Conference. The Cards finished 7-2 in their league amassing 175 points and yielding 36. The Lions finished third in the South Shore Conference with a 6-2 mark, but have four victories in non-league contests.

The Lions will be leaving Newton Highlands Playground at 9:00 a.m. Saturday morning and arrive in Stratford about noon.

Parents, staff and friends will be staying at the Stratford Motor Inn.

The game will be played at Longbrook Park starting at 1:00 p.m. on Sunday. A small buffet will follow the game.

A large contingent of Newton followers will leave Sunday morning to root the Lions on in the "Peanut Bowl."

Local Athletes Make Headlines In College

Newtonites have been making headlines on the college sports scene this fall.

Colin Clapton, the man who directed Newton High to the state Class A championship two years ago is back at his familiar post of quarterback for Holy Cross this fall.

Clapton, a sophomore, has stepped into a starting role after beginning the season on the bench and has had some big games for the Crusaders.

Against Boston University he fired two touchdown passes - one a 99-yard bomb, setting the school record. Versus the University of Massachusetts Clapton had a sterling day, completing 11 of 19 passes for 198 yards. He is a 1969 graduate of Newton High.

Other former Tiger students participating in sports at the collegiate level are Barry Harsip, class of 1969, Warren Houston, 1967, and Danny Penzer, 1970.

Harsip, a former soccer and indoor track captain is playing in his second season of soccer for Brandeis.

Houston is playing in the defensive backfield for the University of Rhode Island, and, in addition, has a 27-yard field goal to his credit.

Penzer is a freshman at Boston University and was the number one runner for the Terrier frosh cross-country squad this season, covering his home 3.2 mile Franklin Park course in a good 16:57. At Newton High Penzer competed in cross-country and indoor and outdoor track, recording a 10:33 2-mile.

Some competitors have also moved into the collegiate ranks from the other side of the city.

Former football and baseball captain Tom Rezzutti, Newton South, 1969, is playing in the defensive backfield for Northeastern.

Rezzutti was an all-scholastic in baseball, while in high school, and his senior year quarterbacked the Lion football team, was its leading scorer, punted, kicked off, ran back punts, and kicks, played in the defensive secondary and even received a few passes. He was also All-Dual County in hockey.

Bruce Kopelman, 1969, captained cross-country and outdoor track teams at South and anchored the squads league meet medal winning relay team. He also claimed a 4th place Suburban League medal in the quarter, while recording a best of 51.3. He is participating in track all three seasons at Northeastern.

Coach Ronayne Recipient Of Official Award

Newton High football coach Jim Ronayne was recently named the 12th recipient of the New England Football Officials Association Memorial Award.

The veteran Tiger mentor was honored at the association's annual banquet on Monday the 23rd of November at Amaru's in Dedham.

The Memorial Award is presented each year to a High School football coach with a minimum of ten years experience, who exemplifies the high ethical standards in the coaching profession helping boys to become men exemplifying the finest traits of American Sportsmanship.

Ronayne also coaches J.V. Hockey in the winter months and during the spring heads the Varsity Golf team. He is a fine teacher on the subject of golf and during the summer he resides as the Pocasset Club Pro.

Ronayne has been at Newton since 1962 and in the past three seasons his squad has suffered only three defeats and shared the Class A title with Brookline in 68.

Stan Bondevitch of Swampscott and Ed Burns of Arlington were the winners of the coveted award the past two seasons.

Morrison Wins Ithaca Freshman Numerals

Halfback Charlie Morrison of Newton has been awarded freshman numerals for his outstanding performance with the 1970 Ithaca College Frosh soccer team.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Morrison of 1801 Beacon street, Newton; is a 1970 graduate of Brown-Nichols High School and a Liberal Arts major at Ithaca.

Recreation Dept. Basketball Pony League Meets

A meeting of managers or a representative of teams wishing to participate in the Newton City Basketball League, Pony Division for the 1970 season, will be held on Thursday evening, December 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Recreation Department office, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale.

Since the rules and regulations governing the operation of the League for the coming season will be discussed, it is most important that all attend.

Roster sheets may be picked up at this meeting.

Pony Division is for Junior High students and will play most of their games of Friday nights.

League play will start the first week of January, and most games will be played at Warren Junior High School.

Further information may be obtained by calling Bob Doherty at the Recreation Office 969-3171.

mittee will take action after that report is completed, and hopefully, will come up with some specific recommendations by the end of January," Beckwith emphasized.

The Buildings Commission, chaired by School Committee member Mrs. Eleanor Rosenblum, is studying conditions in all of Newton's schools with an eye to establishing priorities of need.

In response to the requests made by the Lincoln-Eliot PTA at the last meeting of the School Committee, John Gilleland, assistant superintendent for business services, prepared a report for Lincoln-Eliot Principal Robert Jackson.

In the report Gilleland stated that as of Monday, bids have gone out to contractors for construction of a covered walkway between the buildings. Hopefully, it will be installed before the end of the term, Gilleland said. However, he noted that state fire regulations prevent it from being completely enclosed.

Gilleland also reported that a ventilation problem in one of the lavatories has been corrected and that a State Department of Public Safety inspection indicated that the school meets state regulations for lavatory facilities.

Committee member Francis Frazier said the problem is similar to that of a "person with a fairly large foot and a small shoe. Eventually the person will have to have a new pair of shoes."

Frazier referred to the basic problem of overcrowding at the Lincoln-Eliot School and suggested as a short term solution the use of the first floor of the Stearns School to house 200 children in Lincoln-Eliot's kindergarten, and grades one and two.

However, when questioned about the availability of such space, Gilleland said that he didn't know where the administration offices currently occupying the school could be relocated.

Mrs. Rosenblum also pointed out that a new heating system in the Stearns School would be needed before children could be placed there. She said she would be reluctant to see that expense for short term relief and felt the money should be saved towards an addition to the Lincoln-Eliot School.

Committee member Alvin Mandell pointed to what he considered to be four options: moving some children to excess space at the Bigelow Junior High School; moving some children to the Carr School; an addition to the present school, or improvements in the present school.

Superintendent Aaron Fink said he could think of only two options to solve the immediate problem, but stressed the fact that nothing would be done without meeting and agreement on an acceptable solution with parents in the school.

The options which he mentioned were taking a small group and temporarily putting them in the Carr School and second, trying to accommodate the children right in the Lincoln-Eliot.

Fink said he was open to other suggestions from parents. Solutions to the long range problem are a different matter and will take time, he pointed out.

Mrs. Rosenblum said that the problem with the older school buildings in the city has reached the point where "maybe this is the year to say to the city that we must catch up and ask for enough of an expenditure to upgrade the buildings to what we feel are responsible standards even though these may exceed state standards."

Mrs. Rosenblum also favored acceptance of the Charter Commission's recommendations that school maintenance and repair be under the control of the School Committee so that one group could be held accountable.

Committee member Richard Douglas noted that there are problems in all the city's elementary schools built before 1925. These problems are coupled with a scarcity of money, he added. The Buildings Commission is trying to weigh these problems, he said.

One parent who spoke commented that the present addition to Lincoln-Eliot was poorly designed resulting in a poor flow of children in the school. Because of this more toilet facilities are needed, he said.

The general consensus of the PTA was that a preferable short term solution to the overcrowding is placement of four classes in the gymnasium so that children could remain in the school.

Rep. Paul Malloy said that a visit by an inspector from the State Dept. of Public Safety resulted in the recommendation that there should be more toilet facilities in the school. Even though the number of facilities meets state regulations, the placement of the facilities is such that there is a need is for more, Malloy pointed out.

He said this could be done for about $15,000 and asked that the School Committee submit this recommendation to the Board of Aldermen.

Robert Smith, an architect and member of the Lincoln-Eliot School PTA, submitted a proposal to improve conditions at the school.

His plans called for what appeared to be relatively simple solutions to some of the school's problems. For example, he said the health room could be improved considerably by providing a new access to the principal's office by cutting a new door in from the secretarial room, permanently closing the previous access door to the principal's office, and relocating the door from the secretarial room to the health room.

Another parent said that for President-

Mr. Carmen in accepting the Presidency said, "There are three major challenges facing us in the year ahead. The first is to make the Newton Community fully aware of the service of our clinic for those who need our help, especially for children of school age. We can accomplish this best through an expanded membership program on which we shall embark on Sunday, December 13, with a Membership Telethon throughout the Community."

Alderman Carmen, who is also Chairman of the Newton Board of Aldermen Drug Committee, continued, "The use of drugs has become one of the most serious problems in Newton among people of junior and senior high school age and it seems that the Newton Mental Health Association has an excellent facility to assist with finding a solution to the problem of proper help for these young people."

"It seems that the Newton Mental Health Association should offer its unlimited assistance to help a drug treatment center to deal with the immediate recreational, physical and psychological problems of those who are on drugs and are seeking a way out."

Mr. Carmen said that his final objective as the new President, would be to establish the Newton Mental Health clinic in a larger physical facility, in view of the newer wider horizons of the Newton Mental Health Association and the fact that the clinic has already run out of space for its present operation.

the past few years "we have heard sympathy" and an agreement that there are problems at the school. But we have received no action, she said.

She called for a promise from the School Committee that they would go to the aldermen and fight for the school. "Then we'll be willing to suffer and put up with the hardships," she declared. Chairman Beckwith reiterated the fact that the Building Commission's report is due in January and recommendations for action should come soon thereafter.

London Has Theater For Youngsters

By GREGORY JENSEN

It took 115 years for Britain's National Theater to be born. Now, at the age of only seven, the National seems to be taking over the town.

There is the National Theater at the Old Vic, the famous Shakespearean theater which has been the National's home since its first production in 1963.

There is the National Theater at the Cambridge, a downtown theater far larger than the Vic, which the company now occupies full time with productions which play both buildings.

There is the vast hole in the ground at the foot of Waterloo Bridge, proudly bearing "The National Theater" signs. The thrusting foundations of this multi-million dollar building will bear the National's permanent home.

And now comes the latest offshoot - the Young Vic, an ultra-sophisticated theater for children.

The Young Vic was dedicated formally by a cast headed by Dame Sybil Thorndike, the Grandest Old Lady of the British stage.

The idea of a national theatrical company for the nation of Shakespeare was first mooted in 1848. Charles Dickens wrote in support of it. Winston Churchill spoke in support of it in 1906. Three sites were bought, then sold. Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, laid a foundation stone in 1951. It was later moved.

The first Not until 1962, after a final government go-ahead, was the National Theater board founded. Its first chairman, Lord Chandos, presided at opening ceremonies for the Young Vic.

Frank Dunlop, the National's administrative director and the guiding spirit behind the Young Vic, spoke of it as "a place where we can stage a sort of fireworks display of the arts in order to provoke younger people."

The bare-bones building, set up at a cost of only 60,000 ($144,000), seats 450 spectators on three sides of a jutting acting arena. The acting area is infinitely variable, but any or all of the seats can be removed to make the whole theater the stage.

There are a coffee bar with jukebox, a vast rehearsal room and all the paraphernalia of a much more elaborate theater structure.

In it, the casts from the Old Vic down the street have planned an ambitious

Malec Announces Candidacy For Alderman-at-Large Post

Michael A. Malec, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Boston College, has announced his candidacy for Alderman-at-Large to be chosen in a special city-wide election on Tuesday, December 8.

Stressing his background as a professional sociologist and educator, Mr. Malec stated that he wishes to bring "a unique perspective to the Board of Aldermen, one that will contribute to effecting creative responses to the social and human problems of concern to outlined as being of particular us all." Areas that Mr. Malec interest were education, youth, housing, and recreation.

In addition to his teaching responsibilities, Mr. Malec also serves as Assistant Chairman of the Boston College Sociology Department. His professional activities include membership in the American Sociological Association, and the Eastern Sociological Society.

A former settlement house worker, Mr. Malec has been a Research Consultant to the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. He has acted as Project Director of a recently completed fourteen-month federally funded study of high school dropouts. Mr. Malec has published articles concerning high school dropouts and campus unrest as a corollary to these activities.

program of classics and new plays.

Visiting companies also will use the Young Vic, beginning with an import from Texas as a "multi-media rock musical" called "Stomp."

At the opening under the bare bulbs and exposed lighting scaffolding, Lord Olivier - who as Sir Laurence Olivier has been the National Theater's first and only director - contributed an ode, a bit of doggerel by Lord Byron out of Ode on Nash.

Dame Sybil lectured one and all on how to use an open stage. Lord Eccles, the Paymaster General, Lord Chandos and Dunlop spoke their good wishes for the new project, and the National Theater's spreading tree officially grew another branch.

The coronet coiffure

Hair braids including the coronet which wraps peasant-fashion around the head make the style scene in the new fall and winter coiffures.

MICHAEL A. MALEC

Mr. Malec was selected as a candidate for the Alderman-at-Large post at the Concerned Citizens' Caucus held November 5. He has received organizational endorsements from Americans for Democratic Action - Newton Chapter, Newton Coalition for New Politics, and the Newton Committee for Fairhousing and Equal Rights. In addition, Mr. Malec has received the endorsements of Congressman-Elect Robert F. Drinan, State Senator - Elect Irving Fishman, State representative-Elect David Mofenson, and Newton Aldermen Richard Bullwinkel, William Carmen, Thomas Cannon, Harry Crosby, Peter Harrington, Matthew Jefferson, Joseph McDonnell, and Arthur Sullivan.

Mr. Malec is married to the former Myrna King who taught for two years at the Hamilton School. They have one child, Timothy, 3. The Malecs live at 53 Margaret Road, Newton Highlands.

Newtonites Give Assist To Help "Holly Kitchen"
Members of the Newton community help the Cambridge Center for Adult Education plan a successful Holly Fair scheduled for December 4th and 5th. Mrs. Barbara Lahti of 28 Davis Avenue heads up the women's "Holly Kitchen". She and her committee have been busy baking casseroles and preparing for supper on Friday evening. Robert Stegeman of 302 Highland Avenue in West Newton will be on hand serving lunch and snacks.
Mr. Stegeman teaches social studies at Newton South High School and also serves as assistant chairman of the Center's Advisory Board.
Working on the publicity, Larry Collins of 216 Highland Street in West Newton, designed the poster which invites you to "Come to Christmas at our house". Offering you a sample taste from the large cheese wheel will be Doris Sigourney of 57 Elmhurst Road.
Around her specialties and hand-made goodies will abound. Craftsmen will join her in selling batiks, jewelry, silk screened gifts, weaving, tie-dyed children's clothing and leather goods - marvelous patchwork quilts and stuffed animals from the Poor People's Co-operative.
The shopper can choose from countless baubles which will include Audubon bird feeders, Yankee canned goods, potted herbs, wild-berry jams, jellies and relishes, candles, soaps and kitchen gadgets, trinkets for stocking stuffers and an old-fashioned Food Fair including international specialties.
And for health - organic foods, cosmetics, and ecology games will be available.

The children will not be forgotten. Upstairs, toys from around the world and books from the ends of the earth. Mr. Wizard's science toys will add, toys, books and puzzles covering every scientific subject.
People who have been to the Holly Fair in the past won't forget the bargains they got in the "White Elephant" and "Treasures" rooms. Mrs. Peter Floyd of 6 Billings Park in Newton will help shoppers make a selection in the overflowing rooms.
The Cambridge Center at 42 Brattle Street in Cambridge invites visitors to come trim their tree at the Fair from 1 to 8:30 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

School Library Consultant At N.E. Institute
Mrs. Margaret White, library consultant for Beethoven, Bowen and Countryside elementary schools in Newton, recently attended a session in Amherst in connection with an Institute for School Librarians.
Mrs. White was one of 25 school librarians selected from the six New England states to participate in the Institute, which is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.
As part of her long-range plan, Mrs. White is working closely with Mrs. Carolyn Fabien and Mrs. Roxanne Yagian, sixth and fourth grade teachers at Bowen School, Newton Centre.

LFC Alumni In Boston Area To Greet President
Alumni, parents and friends in the Boston area will be introduced to the new Lake Forest College president Dr. Eugene Hotchkiss III and Mrs. Hotchkiss on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at a dinner meeting in Auburndale-Newton.
Dr. Hotchkiss was installed as the 11th president of the liberal arts college this fall. According to Wigmor A. Pierson of 101 Walker Avenue, Newtonville, a member of the Class of 1963 and a trustee of the college:
"One of the president's top priorities since beginning his duties has been to meet with alumni, parents and friends of Lake Forest and talk with them about the direction the college will take in the future."
Pierson is assistant to the president of Pierson Industries, Inc. in Boston.
Dr. Hotchkiss is a 1950 graduate of Dartmouth College and he received his PhD from Cornell in 1960. He taught at Harvey Mudd College in Claremont, Calif., was dean of the college from 1962-68 and executive dean of Chatham College in Pittsburgh before he came to Lake Forest.
He will discuss his hopes

The consulting scientist designation is given in special recognition of continually outstanding research or engineering achievements over a long period of time.
With Raytheon since 1956, Mr. Shrader has served in project, staff, and principal engineering positions on a number of radar programs including air route surveillance radar systems for the company's Federal Aviation Administration work.
He joined the company as a project engineer on the ARSR-1, an early air route surveillance radar program. He has also served as a technical consultant on the

When Christ Knocks at Our Door
Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.
Rev. 3:20
Before me as I write is a reproduction of Hofmann's painting, Christ Knocking at the Door, an inspired work in its evangelical challenge and spiritual appeal. It graphically symbolizes those recurrent moments in the lives of all of us when we are called upon to make a choice between active response to the appeal of Divine Love or surrender to lethargy. Christ is depicted standing at our door — the door of our heart — knocking for admittance. Lacking a latch, it cannot be opened from without. It can be opened only from within. When we hear His fateful knocking at our door, what will be our decision?
His coming will be in many ways and under many guises. If we do not recognize His knock and answer its summons to open, He will go away. With divine patience He will come again and again though repeatedly rebuffed. If, however, we remain obdurate in our failure to admit Him, inevitably there will come a time when our occupancy of our house will have ended.
Will we deny any man the full measure of justice for which he appeals and to which he is entitled? Will we turn indifferently away from those who are weary with life's endless labors and heavy laden with life's intolerable burdens of frustrations and failures? Will we remain unmoved and aloof in the presence of sorrow and suffering, and pass by on the other side? Will we reject the admonition to love our enemies, bless them who curse us, do good unto those who hate us, and pray for them who despitefully use us and persecute us? In all these situations Christ comes to our door with His saving grace and knocks. Will we let Him go away an unheeded caller?
He will come also to plead for justice and compassion toward God's lesser creatures. Will we forget that they as well as we have been endowed by a common Father with the divine gift of life and will we think of them only as soulless creatures who as such possess no rights which we are bound to respect? If so, the unwelcome Christ will turn away from our unopened door.
Do we find and seek in the remorseless hunting down of the wild creatures of field and wood and the wanton killing of the fowls of the air a sport to be cultivated and enjoyed? If this is true, we let Christ knock unheeded at our door.
Are we numbered among that rapidly increasing number of both men and women who without scruples or pity experiment on pathetically helpless and innocent animals in their vivisection laboratories, or are we among that host of people — even including those whose lives have been dedicated to preaching the gospel of love and compassion — who either encourage and support the evil practice or indifferently remain aloof? If this can be said of us, we have turned a deaf ear to the knocking and Christ will depart in sorrow from our door.
Returning to a scrutiny of the picture, it seems apparent that the artist has shown Christ knocking at a door which has remained closed for a long time. The creeping and encroaching ivy tells the sad story. Alas, how true this is of the inhospitality toward Christ of so many of us! How few of us have listened intently for that knocking which gives us a fate-laden option between heaven and earth and in responding have chosen the better part! To put the same thought, differently expressed in the words of St. Paul, how few of us in spirit and in truth have let that mind be in us which was also in Christ Jesus.
Those of us, however, who come to realize, albeit belatedly, the imperishable treasures which have been brought to our door by Him who seeks admittance will quickly respond to His knocking and receive Him with joy and reverence. Such of us will then know what it means in abiding peace and happiness when "God shines in our hearts in the face of Jesus Christ."

Newtonites Give Assist To Help "Holly Kitchen"

Members of the Newton community help the Cambridge Center for Adult Education plan a successful Holly Fair scheduled for December 4th and 5th. Mrs. Barbara Lahti of 28 Davis Avenue heads up the women's "Holly Kitchen". She and her committee have been busy baking casseroles and preparing for supper on Friday evening. Robert Stegeman of 302 Highland Avenue in West Newton will be on hand serving lunch and snacks.
Mr. Stegeman teaches social studies at Newton South High School and also serves as assistant chairman of the Center's Advisory Board.
Working on the publicity, Larry Collins of 216 Highland Street in West Newton, designed the poster which invites you to "Come to Christmas at our house". Offering you a sample taste from the large cheese wheel will be Doris Sigourney of 57 Elmhurst Road.
Around her specialties and hand-made goodies will abound. Craftsmen will join her in selling batiks, jewelry, silk screened gifts, weaving, tie-dyed children's clothing and leather goods - marvelous patchwork quilts and stuffed animals from the Poor People's Co-operative.
The shopper can choose from countless baubles which will include Audubon bird feeders, Yankee canned goods, potted herbs, wild-berry jams, jellies and relishes, candles, soaps and kitchen gadgets, trinkets for stocking stuffers and an old-fashioned Food Fair including international specialties.
And for health - organic

foods, cosmetics, and ecology games will be available.
The children will not be forgotten. Upstairs, toys from around the world and books from the ends of the earth. Mr. Wizard's science toys will add, toys, books and puzzles covering every scientific subject.
People who have been to the Holly Fair in the past won't forget the bargains they got in the "White Elephant" and "Treasures" rooms. Mrs. Peter Floyd of 6 Billings Park in Newton will help shoppers make a selection in the overflowing rooms.
The Cambridge Center at 42 Brattle Street in Cambridge invites visitors to come trim their tree at the Fair from 1 to 8:30 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

School Library Consultant At N.E. Institute
Mrs. Margaret White, library consultant for Beethoven, Bowen and Countryside elementary schools in Newton, recently attended a session in Amherst in connection with an Institute for School Librarians.
Mrs. White was one of 25 school librarians selected from the six New England states to participate in the Institute, which is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.
As part of her long-range plan, Mrs. White is working closely with Mrs. Carolyn Fabien and Mrs. Roxanne Yagian, sixth and fourth grade teachers at Bowen School, Newton Centre.

LFC Alumni In Boston Area To Greet President
Alumni, parents and friends in the Boston area will be introduced to the new Lake Forest College president Dr. Eugene Hotchkiss III and Mrs. Hotchkiss on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at a dinner meeting in Auburndale-Newton.
Dr. Hotchkiss was installed as the 11th president of the liberal arts college this fall. According to Wigmor A. Pierson of 101 Walker Avenue, Newtonville, a member of the Class of 1963 and a trustee of the college:
"One of the president's top priorities since beginning his duties has been to meet with alumni, parents and friends of Lake Forest and talk with them about the direction the college will take in the future."
Pierson is assistant to the president of Pierson Industries, Inc. in Boston.
Dr. Hotchkiss is a 1950 graduate of Dartmouth College and he received his PhD from Cornell in 1960. He taught at Harvey Mudd College in Claremont, Calif., was dean of the college from 1962-68 and executive dean of Chatham College in Pittsburgh before he came to Lake Forest.

Meadowbr'k Hears Drinan

Meadowbrook Junior High School pupils and teachers had an opportunity to hear and meet Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., who is Newton's Congressman-elect on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

Fr. Drinan, who was the Boston College Law School dean from 1956 until he took a leave of absence to campaign for election to the 3rd Congressional district seat, spoke and answered questions on a wide variety of topics. In his opening statement Fr. Drinan said: "I always like to talk to those under 21 because they can't vote against you if you say something radical." He went on to say "We have to stop the Vietnam war, that the present administration has tended to submerge this war, and every day you see that somehow a few more soldiers are coming home. But what is missing in all of the news is this simple naked fact: in the 22 months of the Nixon administration 13,000 more American boys have been killed. So I think that the war issue is still alive, and I think that my election points that out."

In the question period, a student asked: "You were recently quoted as saying that the question of abortion was by no means a Federal question and that it should be left to the individual wisdom of the State Legislature. My question to you is: if a bill did come to Congress to legalize abortion, how would you vote?"

The priest-Congressman replied: "Something has to happen on the change of the law. I think that the present law that exists in some 35 States is unenforced and unenforceable. The question is: should you have a restrictive law stating reasons why abortion is permitted in some cases; reasons dealing with physical and mental health of the mother or the predictable deformity of the child. I am against having reasons. I don't

Aid To Speech Therapy To Hold Member Lunch Dec. 2

The kickoff meeting for the fall season will be a Membership Petite Luncheon for Aid to Speech Therapy of Emerson College. On December 2, at 12 noon, Mrs. Louis Goldman will open her home to all paid members and prospective new members of the group for a petite luncheon at 102 Wallis Road, Chestnut Hill.

Featured speaker for the afternoon will be Dr. Donald M. Billig, Associate Professor of Surgery, Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. Billig is Chief of Thoracic and Cardiovascular Surgery, Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children, and Boston Veterans' Administration Hospital. His topic will be "Heart Surgery: Past Accomplishments-Future Hopes."

Mrs. Peter Goldstone, of Newton, Program Chairman, will introduce the speaker, and Mrs. Kermit Greene, president, will preside.

This group of women is dedicated to helping support the Robbins Speech and Hearing Clinic and the Thayer Nursery School for pre-school Deaf Children and is also responsible for the Joy E. McKinley Scholarship Fund of $500.

The Center diagnoses and treats over two hundred speech and hearing handicapped children and adults each week, all clients paying only if they can afford to do so.

The Center opened in 1953

want the States in the business of saying who will live and who will die. I think that the best solution would be the repeal of criminal sanctions and the provision of counseling for the mother before, during and after abortion. The father should have the right at least to be heard.

Fr. Drinan was next asked if he felt one should work within the system or abolish it. He replied "I have never had a dialogue with those people who say 'let's just change the system and bomb it and start all over again'. That would not be a dialogue. Those people have no system; they feel despair and alienation. If they want to change the Constitution and have a different type of government, all right. I'll do it by peaceful means if they persuade me it should be done."

Now you can make a case that revolutions always bring more evil than they cure, he added. "Just as the French Revolution did. I sympathize with the purposes of some revolutionaries but they will get nowhere. Frankly, I think that the mere fact that they are threatening revolution, radicalizes and divides the country, so that you strengthen the right. The Spiro Agnews take comfort, and the Department of Justice and John Mitchell will suppress more people, if young people talk revolution."

Dr. Drinan went on to answer other questions about legalization of marijuana and capital punishment. He was against both. He also discussed pollution and related issues. As he left he flashed the peace sign.

MICHAEL J. ANTONELIS, 49 Lawmarissa Rd., Waban. 244-4072. Age 43. Occupation: Lawyer, Education: Newton Public Schools, B.U. School of Law (Juris Doctor). Public Service: Former Trial Attorney, Criminal Division United States Department of Justice; Former Special Assistant U.S. Attorney, District of Columbia; Asst. City Solicitor.

A. Appropriate land use, interests of people in geographically-affected areas, and interests of citizens of entire city. Preservation of recreation areas, open space, character of Newton, land and building values, and consideration of traffic, safety, health factors. Consideration of pertinent information from Planning Board and others.

B. Yes, some. I would support measures that first benefit Newton citizens under programs supported by a substantially united populace. An impartial committee should ascertain present and future housing needs and proposals by NHA, NRA, and others. Expense to the city, impact on tax rate, increased school requirements must be considered.

C. Expenditures should be scrutinized with regard to impact on tax rate. Aldermanic power to provide fiscal relief is limited. Substantial relief lies within the jurisdiction of the State Legislature.

HAROLD M. BAND, 167 Woodward St., Newton Highlands. 244-8679. Age 44. Occupation: Investment banking. Education: Boston Latin; Harvard College A.B. (cum laude). Public Service: 10 years president Newton Highlands Improvement Assoc.; 6 years vice-chairman Newton Democratic City Committee; officer United Fund; YMCA Century Drive; Newton Wellesley Hospital Fund.

A. Keeping in full mind the social needs of a mature suburb, I would attempt to keep intact the integrity of our zoning ordinance and keep Newton "The Garden City."

B. The Commonwealth and the city have emphasized the actual need for low-moderate income housing. The solution is a careful application of competently planned units with adequate safeguards for open space and set-back guarantees — as suggested in the new public housing zone proposals.

C. More intensive use of business zoned land, planned air right proposal over city-owned parking areas, revenue sharing with state and federal government and a strong drive for a state graduated income tax to relieve the burden on the homeowner.

RICHARD J. BUTLER, 95 Longfellow Rd., Newton Lower Falls. 969-9486. Age 37. Occupation: Manager of Manufacturing Administration, Raytheon Co., Waltham. Education:

Graduate of Northeastern University. B.S. Public Service; Committee member on the United Fund (Raytheon); coordinated with fellow employees for the Fernald School Fund; managed team within the Little League Organization (Waban); Veteran.

A. Citizens have moved to, or grown up in Newton as I have, with the knowledge that the area they have purchased is committed to certain zoning restrictions. I would be extremely hesitant to change these zoning requirements.

B. Yes, but not the plan presented by the N.C.D.F. Organization which demands that one third the occupants derive from outside of Newton. I would endorse the present program for the elderly, and a renewal program for Newton Citizens.

C. A plan to reduce the tax burden must start where the costs are excessive. ($14 rise in 1970; $6 Cherry Sheet; $6 Education; $2 Miscellaneous).

a) Middlesex County Assessments must be reduced by legal action. b) Education: Properly curtail the spending, but maintain the high standard of education.

MICHAEL A. MALEC, 53 Margaret Rd., Newton. 527-2567. Age 30. Occupation: Assistant Professor, Dept. of Sociology, B.C. Education: B.S. Loyola University (Chicago); M.S., Ph.D. and Purdue University. Public Service: past chairman Newton Moratorium Committee.

A. Newton needs a set of goals for growth and a Master Zoning Plan to achieve these goals. I accept the principle of zoning which provides for continuity and controlled growth, but our city must respond to contemporary social needs. People must be allowed a voice in decisions that influence their lives.

B. Although Newton Families alone could fill several hundred such units, this need goes beyond our city. I support equitable programs to meet this need, as proposed by the NHA, NRA, NCDF, and others.

C. Increased state/federal aid. Locally, I support full and fair property evaluation. Many recommendations in the Booz Allen-Hamilton report should be applied to city departments to achieve better organization, leadership, work incentives, time bonuses, and a humane concern for people.

JEROME A. PACKER, 31 Puritan Rd., Newton Highlands. 527-4291. Age 35. Occupation: Attorney (certified public accountant). Education: Harvard Law School, LL.B.; Boston University, LL.M.; Newton High, 1954. Public Service: United Fund, Waban chairman.

A. Purpose of existing law: new social needs justifying change; abutters' reliance, in equities, hardships; alternative solutions not requiring zoning change.

B. Yes, I would support the fullest cooperation by the city with NCDF. I would be in favor of rezoning on sites which make sense, and I would rely heavily upon the analysis and recommendations of the Planning Department. We pay for this expertise, we ought to use it.

C. I would work for greater rationality in the decision-making process. Each decision entailing additional expenditures must be weighed in light of all the other competing needs, and the probability that the proposed outlay will in fact solve the problem under consideration.

BURTON M. PIKE, 70 Winslow road, Waban. 332-8610. Age 41. Occupation: Senior partner — 5-man Boston law firm, 18 years Education: Northeastern University; University of Bridgeport; Northeastern University Law School. Public Service: No previous attempts at elected office. Active in numerous fund raising undertakings. My clients have included public and municipal authorities.

A. By Mass. state law, zoning ordinances must be the bylaws for the welfare of the entire community. Our open spaces must be preserved for school, park, recreational areas, and surplus land must be acquired for future needs and expansion.

B. Yes. The 1968 low-income housing study requested 200 units, 57 units for the elderly in Auburndale and the Rent Subsidy Program have helped. 60-70 proposed Urban Renewal units will also help. We must avoid ghettos and great impact upon the schools, traffic and recreational land in any one section. Newton has over through FHA low cost mortgages for such families offers a good solution. There are perhaps state aids and other federal programs which I would investigate.

C. Sounder use of our present moneys. Further attraction of tax paying units such as air rights, Marriott type building, Industrial Parks such as the Needham Industrial Park plus more No. 128 type development.

Bentley Stages Straight Version Of Play Dracula

Two members of the faculty of Bentley College in Waltham are co-directing production of "Dracula" which will be brought to the stage by the Bentley Experimental Theatre Group in five performances, starting Dec. 4.

They are Dr. Paul C. Deane of Newtonville, associate professor of English, and John S. Nicholson of Newton Highlands, instructor of English.

"They pay is straightforward dramatic," Dr. Deane explained. "No effort has been made to make it 'camp' or to imitate previous conceptions of the works. In fact the production seeks to avoid preconceived ideas its audience may have."

Recent Deaths

Col. Arthur Soule
Col. Arthur Turner Soule of Shelter Island Heights, N.Y., and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., died Friday, Nov. 20 in his 85th year after a long illness.

Col. Soule served in both World War I and II, receiving the Legion of Merit in the latter. He was affiliated with the United Drug Co. in Boston for over 30 years prior to his retirement.

He was a former resident of Waban and Scituate. In his later years he received some renown for his artistic reproductions of country farm houses and pastoral scenes which he created in colorful petit point needlework. The most famous of these was the Gettysburg home of the late Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Col. Soule graduate from Dartmouth College with the Class of 1908, served as class president, was a former member of the Dartmouth Alumni Council.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Juliet Kalley Soule; two sons, Arthur Turner Soule Jr., of Sands Point, L. I., and Frederick Kalley Soule of Auburndale; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas H. Mahoney Jr., of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. John P. Hansel of Riverside, Conn., and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian Church in Shelter Point at 2 o'clock on Sunday, followed by interment Monday at Mount Vernon Cemetery, North Abington.

Mildred (Manter) Flynn
The death of Mrs. Mildred (Manter) Flynn was recorded at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital on Thursday (Nov. 19) where she died at the age of 77. Mrs. Flynn had been a resident at 22 Roundwood road, Newton Upper Falls for the past 25 years.

The widow of Joseph P. Flynn, she was born in Taunton, graduated from Taunton High School and Bridgewater Normal School and attended Boston University. She taught school for several years in Taunton and was for many years associated with New England Confectioner's Company of Boston in the treasurer's office. She was a member of Field and Forest Club of Boston and the Senior Citizen's Group of the Old South Church.

The Rev. Harold D. Chase Jr. of Christ Church Episcopal of Needham conducted funeral services Monday afternoon at the Eaton Funeral Home, 1351 Highland avenue, Needham, and committal was in the Mayflower Cemetery in Taunton.

Frank Testa
Frank Testa of 19 Willard street, Dedham, formerly of Newton, died at the Norwood Hospital on Thursday (Nov. 19) at the age of 82.

A retired employee of the Rugo Construction Company of Boston, he was born in Italy. He has lived in Dedham for the past seven years having lived for many years in Newton prior to that.

Surviving him are his wife Concetta (Taglieri); eight children, Mrs. Millie Fiore, Mrs. Phyllis Keane and Mrs. Jennie Esdale all of Dedham, Pat Testa of Newtonville, Dom Testa of West Newton, Anthony Testa of Westwood, Mrs. Rose Sisto of Sharon and Mrs. Maria Ceraso of Mattapan, 20 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were by the Wilson and Doherty Funeral Home, 456 High street, Dedham, with a Requiem Mass at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The Rev. Francis J. Daly was celebrant at the Mass and burial followed in St. Francis Cemetery in Pawtucket, R.I.

Walter F. Parker
Retired banker Walter F. Parker of 89 Erie avenue, Newton Highlands, died on Friday (Nov. 20) at the Cushing Hospital in Framingham at the age of 76.

Born in Somerville and a resident in the Newton area for 38 years, he was husband of the late Olivia A. (Wright) Parker. He belonged to the Retired Men's Club of Newton Highlands and to the Bank Officers Association. He was associated for many years with the Home Savings Bank of Boston.

He leaves his daughter Mrs. Rex W. Vermilyea of Newton. The Rev. Duane M. Breeze of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church conducted funeral services at the Newton Cemetery Chapel Monday afternoon prior to interment there. Funeral arrangements were by the Eaton Funeral Home of Needham.

Technology Can Solve Pollution Problems

By JOAN HANAUER

Blame technology if you will for the pollution and destruction of our environment. But also look to technology to provide the cures and solutions. You can't go back. You must go forward.

That is the message from Major Alexander P. de Seversky, a pioneer of aviation design. He is convinced that the pollution technology has created must be cleaned up by even more technology.

"I believe that just as science and technology created the danger of pollution, science and technology will resolve its own impasse," Seversky said in an interview.

"It's a question of using the old-fashioned stick and carrot system - strict enforcement of anti-pollution measures and a framework financially rewarding to those who cooperate. That will solve the problem very quickly."

The major, as the 76-year-old Seversky is known to those not intimate enough to call him "Sasha," has been interested in ridding the air of pollutants for the last 18 years.

He began his research into the removal of radioactive particles from the atmosphere and wound up incidentally, he said, with a device to almost totally clean incinerator exhausts - with some of the resultant waste produce usable for cinder blocks and fertilizer.

"You can't just make laws," the major said. "Some industries have a severe pollution problem, and the pollution they create can be deadly, say, for farmers or cattle breeders. But the industries involved may be producing strategic material important for the defense of the country, or satisfying an important demand for consumer goods."

"In spite of pollution, we have to go ahead. In going ahead, we will make the breakthroughs and develop the technology we need to solve the problems."

Seversky, who walks with a slight limp - he lost his right leg on his first mission as a Russian pilot in World War I - has a long career of coming up with the technology needed in aviation problem-solving.

Work, after settling in the United States in 1918, included pioneer designs in bombsights and in-flight refueling systems as well as many innovations in aircraft design. His biggest battle came prior to World War II, at a time when American bombers had a combat ceiling of 30,000 feet and were capable of long-range operations. But fighter aircraft were designed as short-range interceptors with a combat ceiling of only 10,000 feet.

As head of Seversky Aircraft Corp. later Republic Aircraft he designed, built and test flew an all-metal fighter aircraft - the first to break the 300 MPH mark - which used the wing as a fuel tank. His "thunderbolt" fighter played a crucial role in World War II.

Today Seversky heads both Seversky Aviation Corp. and Seversky Electronatom Corp., the latter the firm developing anti-air pollution devices, and also acts as a special consultant to the chiefs of the state of the U.S. Air Force, and the Boeing in the development of the SST Supersonic Airliner.

Josephine Leary
A requiem Mass for Miss Josephine Leary of 55 Williston road, Auburndale, was offered Saturday morning at funeral services held in Corpus Christi Church. She died Thursday, Nov. 19 at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

She was born in Newton, was a life-long resident of Auburndale and prior to her retirement headed the Duplicating Department at Boston University.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Paul Hettinger of Auburndale. Burial was in Newton Cemetery.

John Zammito
John Zammito of 77 Harding street, West Newton, a retired mechanic for Raytheon, died Friday Nov. 20 at Waltham Hospital. He was 77, a native of Italy and was a resident of West Newton for the past 16 years. Before that he resided in Waltham for 20 years.

Mr. Zammito was a member of Waltham Lodge, Sons of Italy, No. 648.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Benedetta (Attardo) Zammito; four daughters, Mrs. Josephine Galvango and Miss Pauline F. Zammito, both of West Newton; Mrs. Frances O'Brien of Burlington and Mrs. Mary Bergantino of Waltham.

Also, two sons, John Zammito of Laredo, Texas, and Frank Zammito, West Newton; two brothers, Vincenzo Zammito of Waltham and Stephen Zammito of South Boston, and 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday with a Mass of the Resurrection in Sacred Heart Church, followed by burial in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Witnesses Plan 3-Day Assembly At Plymouth

Memorial Auditorium in Plymouth will be the setting for the Circuit Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses December 11-13 it was announced last night by the local presiding minister, Theodore Campsano. He stated the theme will be "The Word of God Is Alive" and will stress the fact that the Bible is a practical guide for man.

Sessions opening Friday evening and concluding on Sunday afternoon will all feature how the Bible's message is a living one and when understood and applied to daily problems, can be a reliable guideline.

Memorial Auditorium will serve as a giant Kingdom Hall for the seventeen congregations attending this gathering. The sessions will be enlarged programs of Bible training that are usually held weekly in the local congregation. Talks, discussions, short skits and sermons will be presented to instruct the audience in more effective use of the Bible.

Highlight of the three-day seminar will be the public Bible lecture on Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. The subject will be: "Who Will Conquer the World in the 1970's?" This is to be given by Harry A. Fetizik, district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses in the New England area.

In addition, the seminar will present an opportunity for many who have completed a prescribed study course to receive ordination as new ministers. A baptismal service for such is scheduled for Saturday morning. At that time, Mr. Fetizik will speak to these candidates on "Dedication and Baptism."

Members of the local congregation will be busy now in making preparations for this event.

Librarian Is Speaker At PTA Meeting At Memorial

Memorial School, Oak Hill Park, held an important P.T.A. meeting on Thursday, November 19. A short business meeting conducted by Arnold Lezberg, P.T.A. president, preceded the evening's program. A resume of the successful activities up to date was presented and committee chairmen were recognized for the many hours of preparation and work benefiting the school and its community.

Highlight of the evening was a talk entitled "Children's Literature" by Mrs. Virginia A. Tashjian, City Librarian of Newton. Mrs. Tashjian was introduced by the Program Chairman, Eugene Black. Mrs. Tashjian is a noted author, storyteller and instructor in Children's Literature at Bridgewater State Teachers College.

Her topic enabled listeners to benefit directly from her rich background and experiences in this field spanning several different areas. Book selection, presentation in the home and school, early experiences with reading, use of imaginative literature and criteria for buying books were some of the stimulating subjects discussed.

Using the wealth of materials and resources available to "enrich the literary horizon" and "to make reading fun" was the message so strongly felt by the parents and teachers present.

In conjunction with Book Week, the Memorial School's Book Fair was available to the parents both before and after the meeting. Chairman Diane Wilcon and Co-Chairman

Elaine Hite offered an all-paperback selection this year which was met with great enthusiasm from the parents, teachers and students. Many facets of this program received able assistance from Mrs. Barbara Feldstein, Executive Secretary of the P.T.A.

The Hospitality Committee led by Goldie Ungar, Ann Goldstein and Mimi Cerier completed the evening by serving refreshments to all.

Young Peoples Program Goal For Opera Co.

The Guild of the Opera Company of Boston is initiating a program of Opera for Young People in conjunction with Piano Previews by the Opera Company of Boston of the three productions included in their 1971 season: Louise Aida, and Norma.

A Piano Preview is a complete run-through of the opera, with scenery, lighting and costumes, but without a full orchestra. The Guild program supplements the Piano Previews.

It is designed to introduce children in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades to the wonderful world of opera and to prepare them for all of the Piano Previews. Some of the children will learn more about the many facets of opera as a performing art by participation in special field trips and workshops.

This program is being presented by ten suburban towns near Boston. Letters explaining the program have already been distributed to the children in Newton.

There are extra applications available for the Piano Previews program which begins in February. However, there are only a few openings left in the field trips program being sponsored by the Guild. The list for these field trips will be closed by December 1.

If any child did not receive a letter describing the Guild program and is interested in it, please call the town coordinator, Mrs. Arnold B. Wilson of Newton or Mrs. Paul Beatty, Chairman of the Opera for Young People Program in Sudbury.

Meeting- (Continued from page 1) come into being a year ago, might it not have provided the very worthy and much needed project?

In the subsequent series of discussion, the Day's participants turned their attention to four interrelated problems: Are increasing welfare rolls to be a part of American life? Is there any solution to the housing shortage? Is the future of our Nation to be black and white or black and white? How can tax burdens be more fairly equalized?

decent life in decent conditions, asserted Dr. Perlman. He held that the relatively stable working class today in many ways feels as threatened and abused as the poor. To remove the insecurity of the working people, and to break the cycle of poverty, he continued, "there must be a willingness in our Nation to redistribute its wealth."

In discussing how this could be accomplished, Dr. Perlman asserted that one of the major obstacles to progress is our traditional attitude toward work. Moreover, even apart from devising suitable methods, Dr. Perlman contended, we as a people must overcome the fact that we are basically unwilling to redistribute the present lop-sided ownership of the wealth of our Country.

The experts participating in the panel on housing were Robert E. McKay, Executive Director of the Citizens Housing and Planning Association of Metropolitan Boston; and James A. Miller, Assistant Director of the Metropolitan Area Planning Commission as well as the former head of Newton City Planning.

Mr. McKay related that the State is facing a serious housing crisis: at least 200,000 families are inadequately housed, and the situation is getting worse. The poor and lower middle income families are bearing the brunt of this deprivation. Unfortunately, there is no such thing as low cost housing. All housing is expensive, and the cost is going up.

Housing for the poor, and even the middle class family is possible only through subsidies. In a sense we all get subsidies as, for instance, through FHA and our mortgage deductions. The most effective subsidy, concluded Mr. McKay, given the cost distribution of housing, would be a reduction in the cost of financing.

Mr. Miller discussed the 1968 Newton City Planning Report which gave impetus to the NCDF project. It is obvious, maintained Mr. Miller, that what is needed in Newton to provide adequate housing is primarily commitment. A year ago Newton was the Community to which everyone looked to see how we would make it happen.

"Today the citizens of Newton know a great deal more about themselves," continued Mr. Miller, "and are not at all happy about what they have learned." The panel experts on racism were the Reverend Harold Pulley, pastor of the Myrtle Baptist Church of Newton; and Dr. Richard W. Rowland, Social Worker and Past President of the Boston Catholic Interracial Council.

The Reverend Pulley discussed the nature of racism and its political, economic and social implications. Dr. Rowland pointed out that the racist character of our society, both in its internal structures and in our dealings with peoples throughout the world, is becoming inescapably obvious: "What is coming out of the Black experience is that we are becoming aware of our racist makeup and hence can begin to do something about it." In this area, what we especially need are "results."

We have got to turn our priorities around from contact and communication to results; otherwise our churches and our communities will have no credibility. Reverend Pulley called for sweeping changes in white American attitudes and practices, changes which would provide decent wages, housing and jobs for the poor. He emphasized that not only our individual attitudes but also our economic and political and social structures.

In facing these interrelated issues, both at home and abroad, we will each have to pay something: it will cost us time and effort, money and status. As we start to change society, asserted the Reverend Pulley, society will push back: "But Blacks have had to bear this for years."

In the panel discussion of taxation both Robert T. Capeless, former State Tax Commissioner, and Frank Zeo, Executive Vice President of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, spoke in favor of the upcoming tax reform proposal of the Governor's Commission on the Master Tax Plan. Stressing that the two main effects of the new tax proposal area shift away from the present overwhelming reliance on the property tax and a fairer distribution of tax burdens and revenues, Mr. Zeo made quite clear the inequalities in the present method of City and State taxation.

Miniature Sculptor . . . Starts Work on Plymouth Village Model for Hub Museum of Science

A 15-foot-long scale model of the Pilgrim village at Plymouth during the period 1625-1630 will be erected at the Museum of Science in Boston, and commissioned to prepare the exhibit is Robert D. Wild, noted miniature sculptor and modelmaker of 17 Calvin road, Newtonville.

Among his dioramas now on view at the Museum of Science are Paul Revere's silversmith shop, and the Ether Dome, a scene at Massachusetts General Hospital when ether was first used in an operation.

Dr. Robert M. Putnam, governor of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants, said the gift to the museum will be a detailed historical reproduction of the village. This was chosen by the organization's 350th anniversary committee as an ideal means of maintaining interest in the Pilgrim

Heritage and increasing knowledge about the early colonial period in New England. Planned for exhibition in a year's time, when the Museum's west wing is expected to be finished, the model will be based on the most recent archaeological and historical findings. It will be a detailed rendition of topography, dwellings, farm, garden and fishing areas, as well as defensive arrangements. The people of the colony will be shown in typical daily activities.

Plymouth Plantation has offered its services as a research source, and already has been helpful in planning the exhibit.

Records show that about 270 persons inhabiting 22 houses, lived in Plymouth during the period 1625-30. To provide a comprehensive view, the model will be scaled at one-eighth inch to the foot and have a total area of 12 by 15 feet.

The Museum envisages the model's becoming a nucleus of a Heritage Area in the new wing, if sufficient funds are forthcoming. The surrounding walls would be used to display changing material, such as of the latest local archeological discoveries.

The Plymouth Plantation model will be displayed near the Museum's popular exhibits on the history of New England industry, representing the earliest beginnings of this area. As such, it will be a useful research tool for students of the period.

In commenting on the Anniversary Committee's decision, Dr. Putnam said the model is expected to receive wide attention and interest from the community at large, especially the young, because almost 600,000 visitors come to the Museum annually, many of them school children.

Dr. Putnam said the Museum and the Committee, of which Robert F. Shepard is chairman, will work closely together on the project.

Dr. Joel Bloom of 88 Annawan road, Waban, director of Camp Powhatton For Boys in Oxford, Me., was one of four camp directors in the country invited to the recent meeting of the President's Council on Youth in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Bloom is a second generation camp director. He has been a member of the National Board of the American Camping Association, serving as chairman of research and studies.

He is the immediate past president of the New England Camping Association, and at present is vice president of the American Camping Association.

Ad Copy Wrong
 Editor of The Graphic:
 "With friends like mine..." The issue of The Newton Graphic, November 12, carried on the front page a small ad urging Newton citizens to vote for Michael Malec in the special election to fill the alderman-at-large vacancy. The ad was signed by me.
 The copy in the ad was supposed to read: "Vote Dec. 8 for Michael Malec..." Somehow, somewhere, someone changed (or couldn't read) the handwritten copy and the ad was printed: "Vote Democratic" instead of "Vote Dec. 8."
 I have no idea how this happened. But I was most embarrassed to see the ad in this form. So just to set the record straight: It was an error. I only hope those who did see the ad would realize that somebody goofed.
 Cordially,
 Edward V. Hickey,

Political Highlights
 tricts across Massachusetts must be revamped into 240 districts, with the present double or triple districts represented by two or three House members broken up into smaller sectors.
 If the people should vote in 1974 to reduce the House to 160 members, it would then be necessary to convert the 240 districts into 160 larger sectors.
 Even though the League of Women Voters is advocating this change, it should be remembered that a reduction in the number of House members would move government away from the people.
 The saving, if any, would be small since the League is proposing that the 160 House members have more aides than at present.

Civil Liberties Union Was Wrong in Hitting at Judge
 Criticism of Superior Court Justice Frank W. Tomasello by the Civil Liberties Union for suggesting that an 18-year-old Arlington girl carry an American Flag on a three-mile walk through Cambridge seems unwarranted and silly.
 A spokesman for the Civil Liberties Union said that Judge Tomasello had exceeded his authority and that the act of penance he prescribed for pretty Martha Meyers, who had been convicted of flag-burning, was medieval.
 From where we sit Judge Tomasello was kind and fatherly to Martha Meyers who had been sentenced to six months in jail and fined $50 in East Cambridge district court for burning the Stars and Stripes.
 Martha obviously did not relish the privilege of carrying the Flag, she had previously dishonored, on a three-mile hike through Cambridge or the front-page publicity given her and the unusual punishment meted out to her by Judge Tomasello.
 But it is equally obvious that she preferred it to spending six months in jail. The guessing also is that she found the kindness of Judge Tomasello much preferable to the attitude of District Court Judge Edward M. Viola who told her that if she ever got to a college campus she would be a leader with a Viet Cong flag.
 Judge Viola took a very dim view of her action in burning the Stars and Stripes as he sentenced her to spend six months in jail. What probably saved her from going to jail was that she was penitent when she appeared before Judge Tomasello, who acted with judicial wisdom, the Civil Liberties Union notwithstanding.

Group Control
 Editor of The Graphic:
 Would you please publish this letter sent to Mayor Basbas concerning a letter in your newspaper?
 Mayor Monte Basbas
 Newton City Hall
 Newton, Mass.
 Dear Sir:
 I am writing to you regarding a letter submitted by Mr. R. H. Joost to the Newton Graphic of November 12, 1970. It disturbs me very much to read of various groups, whether pro or con a subject, who try to force their ideas upon others.
 One continually hears of "Community Control" i.e. letting the affected constituency "call the shots." Let's decide this NCDF situation once and for all. Have submitted a question pertaining to this subject at the same time that the vacancy for the Board of Alderman is decided. The results shall be binding on all parties concerned.
 Sincerely,
 A. Landsman

Explains Caucus
 Editor of The Graphic:
 As Chairman of Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights I would like to reply to the recent misunderstandings concerning the Citizens' Caucus held November 5, 1970 at the Hyde School. Newton Committee for Fair Housing was one of the sponsors of that caucus.
 1. Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights is a non-partisan organization with broad, city-wide support. The entire membership was notified and urged to attend the caucus. All three candidates were named in the letter and the organization took no partisan role whatsoever on behalf of any particular candidate.
 2. Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights by participating in the caucus planning does not thereby automatically endorse any candidate. Such decisions are made by the entire executive board and steering committee at regular meetings every third Tuesday of the month to which the entire Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights membership is welcome.
 3. Finally, Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights is an organization concerned with housing and equal opportunity for all people regardless of race, religion or ethnic background. I would add, political party as well.
 Sincerely,
 Elizabeth Ruiz
 Chairman

Rep. Kearney Seeks Freeze Of Tax Rates Across State

Representative Joseph M. Kearney of Hyde Park has some sound arguments to support his bill calling for a freeze on the 1970 tax rate in the 351 cities and towns throughout Massachusetts.
 Kearney declares that his measure, if enacted into law, would be a shot in the arm to the economy throughout the Commonwealth, would encourage new industry to come into the State and would result in additional home construction.
 There is no question that something must be done to stop industry from leaving Massachusetts and to reverse the trend which has seen a decline in job opportunities in the Bay State.
 Representative Kearney may have one answer to the problem. Complications always arise when a proposal such as this is advanced. But Kearney expresses confidence that he can overcome them.

Winter Is Time To Visit Moscow

By JAMES O. JACKSON
 For anyone planning to come to Moscow next summer here is a word of advice: Don't.
 Come next winter.
 Every year tens of thousands of westerners make the mistake of visiting Russia when the weather is warm, the birds are singing and nothing is happening. They would have been wiser to wait, because Russia should be seen in winter when it is at its miserable, freezing best.
 Everything about Russia is geared to winter, from its high-axled Volga cars to its fat, round babies. Russians, their Slavic faces ruddy from the cold, look more handsome in winter. They smile more, they are kinder to one another. They are happier.
 Unlike residents of some other cold lands, the Russians come alive only in the depths of the winter, butterflies in reverse who leave their cocoons at the first snowfall.
 The cold, bitter weather that froze tears on the cheeks of Napoleon's retreating armies is tonic to a Russian.
 In Czarist times the onset of temperatures that hovered around zero Fahrenheit was when Boyar princes tossed glittering balls in their palaces near the Kremlin. It was when Leo Tolstoy as a young man, paid calls on the homes of genteel families who put candles in their windows to tell those on the frozen street they were "at home" to visitors.
 Today there are no more princes, but winter still is the time when the Communist city is at its best. Its citizens forsake the countryside for warm apartments, and go for their entertainment to overheated restaurants and crowded theaters.

Youth Center Activity Continue at Fast Clip

Mrs. William T. Wright, Youth Coordinator, said yesterday that activities at the Newton Youth Centers continue at a rapid pace.

Specifically, she said the year's first student-adult Advisory Committee meeting, chaired by Miss Barbara Zeles of 267 Melrose street, Auburndale, got off to a spirited beginning.

Each of the local Centers reported on their activity to date and future plans, and Mrs. Wright recounted the happenings of the Youth Center during the summer months.

She told of back-packing trips into Baxter State Park, camping trips to Sever Hale Reservation in Westwood-Camping area for the Newton Community Service Centers, and a variety of other activity.

At a recent meeting of the Student Executive Committee, elections were held to fill the vacancies of secretary and program chairman. Elected were Nancy Sifton and Richard Stomberg, secretary and program chairman, respectively.

According to Marty Cohen, student chairman, the Youth Center programs now are functioning in Nonantum, Newton Highlands, Upper Falls, West Newton, Newton Centre and Newton Corner.

He added that two projects with which Youth Center are involved are the Newton Day Care Center Program for which the members of Youth Center hope to assist in a variety of ways, and a standing committee investigating the possibility of establishing a Western trip program for teenagers next summer.

Children's TV Programming Is Scrutinized

The Williams School PTA will present a special program on the quality of television programming for children at its meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 1 at 8 o'clock. It will be held in the school gym, 141 Grove street, Auburndale.

Mrs. Judith Chalfen of the Newton-based citizens' organization, Action for Children's Television (ACT), will be the featured speaker. ACT has been active locally and nationally to improve the quality of tv fare for children.

The program will consist of a review of ACT activities and a discussion of the findings of a special tv attitude survey taken among students at the Williams School. In addition Mrs. Chalfen will discuss current attitudes on the purchase of children's toys, especially those heavily advertised on tv. The public is invited to attend. For information contact Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, PTA presidents at 527-7044, or Mr. and Mrs. Richard Underwood, program chairman, 969-2638.

Comm. Service Centers Plan Member Drive

David B. Cooper, president of the Board of Directors of the Newton Community Services Centers, Inc., West Newton, announced yesterday the appointment of two Waban residents as co-chairmen for the year's annual sustaining membership drive for the agency.

They are Mrs. Edward C. Uehlein of 217 Varick road and Mrs. Augustus P. Castoldi of 38E Quinobeguin road. Last year over 270 Newton residents participated in the drive. Mr. Cooper said it is imperative that an even greater number of persons contribute in the coming year, so that vital work of the centers may be continued an expanded.

He received his bachelor's degree from UMass, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Daniels of 71 Bow road, Newton.

Rabbi Rudin To Be Speaker At Sidney Hill Club

William Fagell, President of the New Century Club announces that Rabbi A. James Rudin will address the Century Club Dinner Meeting on December 10, 1970 at 6 p.m. at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Rabbi Rudin who is assistant director of the inter-religious Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee, will speak on "Anti-Semitism and Anti-Zionism, Are They the Same?" Rabbi Rudin works with religious leaders of all denominations to secure greater understanding of Jews and Judaism and to promote good human relations among people of all races and creeds. He was also national coordinator of the American Jewish Emergency Effort for Biafran Relief.

Rabbi Rudin has been a frequent guest on many radio and TV programs, including appearance on the NBC and CBS networks, and has also lectured in all parts of the United States.

According to Dr. Alexander A. Levy, program chairman, a large attendance of members and guests is expected to turn out to hear this gifted speaker.

Newton Firm Is Low Bidder On Courthouse

The Franchi Construction Co. of Newton was the low bidder for work on the Mid-dex County Courthouse in Cambridge, a source of controversy for the past two years.

Their bid was $4,387,000 the same as submitted on Oct. 30 when three bids were rejected on a technicality. The other bidder, Jefferson Construction Co. of Cambridge, submitted a bid of $4,629,000.

The contract includes enclosing the 21-story building, including the roof, so that the structure would be protected during the winter months.

An original appropriation of $16 million was approved in 1963 and since that time the Legislature has approved an additional $9 million.

Opera Night At Weeks Jr. High Dec. 7

The Weeks Jr. High is busy preparing its annual operatic happening. This year, it has chosen to put on "Amahl and the Night Visitors" by Gian-Carlo Menotti, on December 7th. As usual, the entire student body is involved in this production.

The 7th graders are eagerly looking forward to taking part for the first time in this event, and various parts are being rehearsed and perfected under the direction of Clifford Crowther.

The part of the mother will be sung by Leslie Holmes; the part of Amahl by Billy Wright, a 7th grader attending Weeks. The parts of the three kings Caspar, Balthazar, and Melchior, will be sung by Raymond Smith, Mr. Crowther, and the 7th and 8th grade glee clubs respectively.

The Newton North High School orchestra and the Weeks orchestra, under the direction of Jerry Garden Gardner, will provide the musical background. The Weeks Madrigal group and the 7th and 8th grade choruses will be under the direction of Frank D'Addario and Daniel Mazeika respectively.

The performance is scheduled for Monday, December 7, at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium of the Newton North High School, 453 Walnut Street. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

The special shopper's express between Riverside station and downtown Boston will be cancelled as a result of the reduced service on the MBTA caused by the refusal of members of the Carmen's Union to work overtime.

United Fund Drive To Continue To Dec. 19

The Mass Bay United Fund Drive has been extended for another month and is scheduled to close on December 19th in order to help Newton reach its goal of $136,700.

The extension will enable those who still wish to contribute to do so, thereby helping the 225 health, educational and social agencies which are assisted by the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

The United Fund has the lowest administrative cost of any other charitable organization, with 92 cents out of every dollar going directly to the various agencies.

If you have not as yet been solicited, or if you have been unable to contribute but would now like to do so, please contact the Massachusetts Bay United Fund Office, 40 Silvan Avenue, Newton or telephone 969-9290.

Dr. Menk Is Chairman For New Campaign

Rev. Dr. Sidney Menk of 156 Kirk Stoll Rd., Newtonville, is chairman of the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease. He was elected at the recent meeting of the Mass. Chapter of the Committee held at Boston University Medical Center which is sponsoring the group.

The Committee's purpose is to educate both the public and physicians about Huntington's Disease, to encourage and eventually raise funds for more research into the disease, and to bring together families stricken by the illness to share knowledge and experience.

A membership drive is now underway and anyone interested in joining the group is asked to contact the Rev. Dr. Sidney Menk at his Newtonville address or phone 527-6813.

Modern Dance Class For Boys Has Openings

A modern dance class for teenage boys is being taught at the All Newton Music School (ANMS). The class meets Monday afternoons from 4 to 5 o'clock and focuses on dance techniques and exploration of movement ideas. It should be especially useful to boys interested in theatre.

Teaching the class is Louise Bruyn, who has taught at ANMS for the past three years. She also has taught at Boston College, the Boston Adult Education Center, the Cambridge Adult Education Center and at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

Mrs. Bruyn is a performing member of the New England Dance Theatre, and has choreographed several musicals. Last year she worked with an all-boy group in Boston writing, directing and choreographing a piece called "The Palm Wine Drinkers."

This is the only class at the ANMS in modern dance for boys only and there is room for more students. Those interested may call 527-4553.

First UM Church To Mark Advent

The First Sunday in Advent will be observed at the First United Methodist Church in Newton Upper Falls this week with the 10:45 a.m. worship service conducted by Rev. David S. Hill.

The sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated and Pastor Hill's sermon topic will be "Christ and our Expectations." The lay reader will be Harry Brookins.

Church school classes for all ages will begin at 9:30. Part of the service will include lighting the candle in the Advent Wreath.

The Junior High Youth Fellowship will meet Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.
